MIGHTY R.A.F. POUNDINGS SNUB 2ND ROMMEL PUSH

CAIRO, July 4—(AP)—A determined British counter-attack, launched under an umbrella of "unprecedented" air force co-operation, has checked, at least temporarily, Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's thrust toward Alexandria and the Nile Valley, a British headquarters communique said today.

Some of the fiercest fighting of the campaign took place as the reinforced forces moved in to halt a new drive eastward by Rommel's forces, the communique said. Earlier Rommel had been reported "digging in" west of El Alamein, which is 65 miles west of Alexandria.

(A London military commentator described the British counter attack as "successful" and added, "things could be very much worse.")

Apparently the full weight of the R.A.F. and the United States and South African air forces were thrown into the action and the communique indicated that a tremendous air battle ensued, with 24 Axis planes shot out of the sky.

A commentator's summary of the last three days of fighting showed that the German onslaughts were steadily diminishing in numerical strength, if not in vigor.

Axis Attack Fails

Describing the German attack of Thursday afternoon, one observer said Rommel's infantry supported by artillery, filtered across the battlefield to attack British anti-tank and field guns which had been successfully holding up the Axis armored units.

The enemy tanks were massed behind the infantry—an innovation in German tactics—but as they were about to enter the battle, British forces counter-attacked from the north on the German left flank. This diverted the German armored formation from support of the infantry and the entire attack failed.

It was emphasized here there was no indication the Germans were permanently halted as a result of yesterday's counter attack.

It was felt, however, that the British 8th Army, heavily reinforced had recovered from a series of defeats in Libya and now is fighting with confidence in its weapons and its leaders.

Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces attempted to drive eastward yesterday, but were hammered all day by the British defenders, the announcement said. A number of enemy tanks were put out of commission, it added.

R.A.F. planes, which have been ranging behind Rommel's spearhead at El Alamein, raided landing grounds, camps and roads at Sidi Barrani and destroyed four Messerschmitt fighters on the ground the communique said.

The Axis planes shot down in air battles were 16 Junkers dive-bombers, seven Messerschmitts and one Italian fighter.

Guns Captured

Reports from the battle front last night told of attempts by the Axis troops to dig into positions on the northern end of the El Alamein line. Some of their guns were reported captured along with numerous prisoners.

Reds Crush Hun Kursk Drive

Nazis Badly Mauled; Russians Quit Ruins of Sevastopol

MOSCOW, July 4. — (AP).—Russian front-line dispatches said today a Russian counter attack in the Kursk sector, has thrown the Germans back across a strategically - important stream.

Colliding with greatly strengthened Red army troops, the Germans were badly battered in this encounter while east of Kursk the pressure of their tank assaults was slackened.

To the south, however, the Nazis battered with mounting fury at Soviet positions in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors.

The Germans apparently were throwing massive forces into the Kurk-Belgorod-Volchansk sectors in an effort to push to Voronezh and cut the rail line running south from Moscow to the Caucasus gateway at Rostov.

This drive could be expected to reach more violent proportions now that Sevastopol, the last Soviet stronghold in the Crimea had fallen.

Russia announced the Crimean peninsular forces had wound up their epic delaying action that cost Germany almost 300,000 men by withdrawing from the ruins of Sevastopol yesterday.

Hun Lose 300 Tanks A Day

The Russian said the Germans were losing 300 tanks a day along the 100-mile line from Kursk to Blegorod, with these losses divided about evenly at the three main battle centres.

One of the mightiest tank clashes of the war raged on the west bank of a river in the Urks sector where the Germans had established a bridgehead but were thrown back to the east bank by counter-attacking Russians.

Vicious combat flamed on the Kursk front, where German mechanized detachments—supported by aerial squadrons newly-transferred from Crete—were reported repulsed again in fierce attempts to slash eastward across Russia's Black Earth region, 280 miles south of Moscow.

German attacks were frustrated also in the Belgorod and Volchansk sectors between Kursk and Kharkov, it said.

Several thousand troops of the Hungarian 2nd Corps, fighting alongside the Germans, were said to have been killed in three days in a sector of the Kursk front.

"Our air force brought down five planes," it was announced.

In the Volchansk sector, where the Germans were said to be attacking incessantly, the crew of a Soviet tank immobilized by shelling after it had destroyed four Nazi tanks, "machine-gunned and wiped out over 200 German officers and men."

Not less than 60,000 of Hitler's troops were killed and up to 90,000 wounded since June 7 by Soviet soldiers, sailors, marines and guerillas who made the last-ditch stand at

Yank Fliers Join R.A.F. On First Raid

Two of Six Missing After Smash At 3 Holland Dromes

LONDON, July 4 (CP)—The Royal Air Force and the United States Air Corps made a joint raid this morning on three air fields in Holland, the air ministry announced.

A communique said the attacks "were pressed home from low level in the face of intense flak (anti-aircraft fire)."

The airfields raided were at Hamstede and Alkmaar, where bombs hit hangars, administration buildings and dispersal points, and at Valkenburg which was heavily machine-gunned.

The United States Army airmen borrowed six American-made light bombers from the R.A.F. today and participated with British airmen in a low-level daylight attack on German-held territory.

Two of the American-operated planes failed to return from this Independence-Day inaugural of Amerian air assaults on German positions in western Europe.

Results and the places or place attacked were not announced in communique No. 1 of the U.S. Army headquarters in the European theatre of operations, issued through the British ministry of information.

It said:

"In joint operation with R.A.F. light bombers, six American air crews attacked targets in German-occupied territory today.

"Two American planes are missing.

"The American crews flew A-20-A

Send U.K. Flier To Trial In Girl's Death

BLACK'S HARBOR, N.B., July 4. —(CP)—Sgt. Tom Roland Hutchings Friday was committed to stand trial on a charge of murdering Bernice Connors, 19.

The 21-year-old Royal Air Force sergeant from Peterborough, England, was sent up for trial by Magistrate E. A. Nason after a two-day preliminary hearing.

Thirty-six crown witnesses described events starting with the night of June 5, when Miss Connors disappeared after attending a dance here at the community hall—later the scene of the preliminary hearing.

Her cut, battered and practically unclothed body was found two nights later under a mound of moss in a field 40 feet from Deadman's Harbor road. The girl was a member of a well known family, her grandfather having founded the sardine canning industry here.

Witnesses at the hearing stated that they had seen Hutchings and Miss Connors together on Deadman's Harbor road. When he returned to the dance hall, they said, one side of his face was covered with blood.

Dr. John M. Russell, pathologist for the province of Quebec, testified that marks on an airforce uniform he had been given to examine were made by blood.

Took His Uniform.

Detective Staff Sergeant F. W. Davis, of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said he had questioned the accused at the R.A.F. station at Pennfield on the morning of June 8.

"I asked him for the uniform he wore on Friday night, June 5. He was wearing it at the time and took it off and gave it to me." Davis also took away socks, handkerchiefs, collars, a tie, underwear and a pair of shoes.

Hutchings had scratches and lacerations on his left hand, continued the witness. Later, he found a blood-stained rock on the road near the spot where the body was discovered. This, with other exhibits and samples of blood from the accused and Miss Connors were handed to Dr. Roussel. The latter said he had yet to complete examination of these.

Asked if he wished to say anything, Hutchings replied: "I have no statement to make until I am represented by counsel."

He called no witnesses in his own behalf and refrained from questioning any of the Crown witnesses.

His trial will be held sometime in September.

10,000 R.A.F. Raids On Germany

Too Much to Cover Up Berlin Lets Press Talk a Bit

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS,
Associated Press Staff Writer

BERNE, July 4—(AP).—Germany after a strict press censorship, finally is beginning to tell her people of the damage caused by repeated R.A.F. raids on the Rhineland and Ruhr districts in three years of war, especially the mass raids of 1942.

Hitherto, German accounts were confined chiefly to newspapers in the areas concerned, but since the R.A.F.—R.C.A.F. bombing of Cologne, papers throughout the country have taken up the discussion.

Foreign correspondents in Berlin were requested not to report one article which appeared in Berlin under the heading, "Crime Against Cologne."

The articles, by stressing the necessity for preparedness, implied that Germany expected continued heavier raids in a British effort, as the Munich Nachrichten said, "To destroy the economy of the industrial heart of the Reich."

An Essen newspaper urged workers to persevere, "if weapons are to roll towards the front, now as before, from the Rhine and Ruhr district, arms centre and traffic division point of the Reich."

10,000 Bombings Admitted

This paper said there had been 10,000 raids on Germany, that some towns had had more than 300 alarms, and that some had experienced alarms on 36 successive nights.

The National Zeitung of Essen claimed "considerable" damage to dwellings and other civilian property but asserted that damage to military objectives by comparison was relatively much less.

A Munich newspaper drew attention to a high command appeal, which it said was generally adhered to, asking the public not draw conclusions as to the extent of military damage.

Other newspaper articles told the people they must avoid mass flights from bombed towns, asserting—as did the Munich Nachrichten—that this was one of the R.A.F. objectives.

"Churchill will not succeed," the paper said.

One correspondent described how passengers on his train along the Rhine told of nights of terror under raids, but added that "the resistance and will of the population is not broken."

Another Honor

London, July 4 (CP Cable)

LT.-GEN. A. G. L. McNaughton, commander of the Canadian Army in Britain, and Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to Britain, received honorary degrees of Doctor of Laws from Birmingham University today.

The Public Orator conferring the degree said of the Canadian soldier: "Gen. McNaughton for 20 years has been receiving degrees. We offer him this one not as an honor but as an expression in this dark hour of our affectionate admiration for him and for the officers and men of the magnificent army he leads and indeed the whole people of the great Dominion which puts its trust in him."

Two Passengers Allowed In Loaded Truck

OTTAWA, July 4.—(CP)—James Stewart, Services Administrator for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, announced today that trucks used to haul "any products or materials" may carry as many as two passengers in the cab, in addition to the driver.

The new ruling has been formulated, Mr. Stewart said in a statement, following a barrage of enquiries about the exact significance of a board order issued in April which prohibited operation of trucks for transportation of "persons other than the driver and any assistant or assistants" necessary to load or unload goods.

The April order was not intended to prevent trucks transporting goods from carrying passengers if there was room in the cab—for example, a farmer's wife going to town on a shopping trip.

"In fact," Mr. Stewart said, "it is expected that whenever shopping can be done on trips that are necessary for the hauling of produce, grain, etc., this practice will be followed."

No special permit was required for passengers on trucks making necessary hauling trips. Operators of such trucks, however, were subject to provincial laws or regulations affecting transportation of passengers by truck.

Permits By Price Board

Individual permits would be freely granted to farmers and other rural residents to use their trucks to carry themselves, their families, employees or neighbors on trips for essential purposes when other means of transportation were no available. Applications would be received and handled promptly by the regional and sub-regional offices of the Prices Board.

Under individual permits of this type, Mr. Stewart explained, trips

ALLIED bombers, beating off 12 Japanese fighter planes which attempted to intercept them, successfully attacked the airdrome at Lae in New Guinea yesterday, plastering the runway with heavy bombs, it was announced today.

U.S. Celebrates But War Plants Whir On

NEW YORK, July 4—(AP). — The United States observed its 166th Independence Day today and voices from friendly lands chimed in as the country's youth fought to ensure more Independence Days.

Celebrations were held in England, China, Australia, Ireland, Mexico, Ecuador, Cuba and other distant places.

But in all the United Nations, as in the United States, the wheels of war plants whirred on.

Australians, with a 24-hour head start on the United States because of the time difference, pitched in with the "Yanks" in sporting events, dances, contests and oratory. At Canberra, Nelson Johnson, United States Minister, laid the cornerstone of a $300,000 American Legation building.

President Arroya Del Rio of Ecuador decreed a July 4 celebration as a friendly gesture toward the United States' "heroic struggle for the defence of democracy"....Havana, Cuba, scheduled a parade with more than 50 American and Cuban groups participating....The Mexican Congress held a special meeting in its first such celegration.

The Governments of Norway and Poland sent greetings....In London, Ambassador John Winant officially opened the American Red Cross Washington club, formerly a swank hotel for use of United States servicemen.

U.S. 'Fuehrer' Nabbed In Mexico

Wanted on Charges Of Plotting Aid To Both Nazis, Japs

NEW HAVEN, Conn., July 4 (AP) —The all, dark, acting "Fuehrer" of the German-American Bund, Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, whom a Federal Grand Jury in Hartford charges plotted to aid Germany and Japan by furnishing them with United States military information, today was being held in a Mexican jail.

The arrest of Kunze, a self-described "Third-generation American aiming for the establishment of a white man's United States," was announced here and in Washington by Federal Bureau of Investigation heads who declared it could be safely assumed that steps would be taken to return the National Bund leader to the United States.

(In Mexico city, Police Chief Gen. Miguel Z. Martinez said a man believed to be Kunze was arrested in a small coastal town near the Gulf Port of Vera Cruz, where two Mexican tankers were torpedoed last week. Police agents, shown a clear picture of Kunze, declared: "That's the man" but Martinez would not officially commit himself.

(The Mexican police were reserved about the case because, it was learned, they had evidence the man they seized has been in contact with a number of German agents operating in Mexico).

Had Military Information

Kunze, Anatstase Vonsiatsky, head of the all-Russian Fascist party, and three others were indicted in Hartford by a Federal grand jury, June 10 on a charge of conspiracy to violate the 1917 Espionage Act by furnishing military and defence information to chief Axis members.

Indicted with these two were Dr. Otto Willumeit, head of the Chicago division of the German-American Bund; Dr. Wolfgang Ebell, El Paso, Texas, physician and Rev. Kurt Mohlzahn, Philadelphia clergyman and former German army officer.

Vonsiatsky and Dr. Willumeit pleaded guilty. The former was sentenced to five years in prison, while sentence of the Chicago prisoner has been deferred until after the trial of the others, slated July 15, in Hartford.

Meanwhile, Thomas Dodd, Jr., special assistant to the United States Attorney-General said in Hartford he is ready to go to Mexico. He said that Kunze, who became national leader of the Bund in December, 1939, after the conviction of Fritz Kuhn in New York on theft and forgery charges, is an American citizen which will facilitate returning him to the Connecticut capital.

Japs Ready if Russ or Egypt Lines Crack

Prepared To Hit Either Russia Or India Whichever Front Axis Break

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Hitlerian challenge to Egypt and the Middle East has created a diversity of grave threats to the Allied cause and among these we shouldn't overlook the possibility that Axis successes would inspire the Japanese to attack Russia or India, or perhaps both at the same time.

You can gamble that the little men of Nippon are hanging on every move in the western theatre of war. They are opportunists, and the fact that they have a non-aggression pact with Moscow wouldn't restrain them. Certainly India would be meat for the Mikado's captains if its defences looked weak.

So far as Russia is concerned, there are ample indications the Nipponese are rushing preparations to get set for a lightning assault on the Soviet in Siberia if and when the right moment comes. It probably still remains true that Japan would prefer not to tangle with the Reds before consolidating her gains in Indonesia, but she would strike if it seemed that this was essential for a defeat of the Allies.

The menace to India would be multiplied if Nazi Marshal Rommel's invasion of Egypt should be successful, or if Hitler should crack the Russian front in a big way. The Japs might take quick advantage of the situation, and especially in view of the continued insistence of Mohandas Gandhi and his host of Nationalist followers that they will refuse all co-operation with Britain in the war effort until India has complete independence.

It will be recalled that the All India Congress (Nationalists) rejected Britain's recent offer of Dominion status because they claimed it didn't provide for complete sovereignty and a united nation. Both the Congress and the Moslem League, representing the big Moslem minority of the country, felt that the plan didn't bridge the sharp differences existing between them. Also, the Congress wanted the native states, which are ruled by the Princes, brought into the unified nation.

Gandhi then counselled his followers not to co-operate but to continue his famous program of passive resistance.

One of the major problems is the split between the Moslems and the All India Congress Party. The Moslems claim that past experience in provincial government has shown that they couldn't expect to get fair representation in a Central Federal government. Some observers close to the situation, however, believe that this difficulty might be overcome if the Congress Party would guarantee the Moslems proportional

Brooklin Ace Dishes It Out

Pastes Nazi Plane, Then Photographs It, 5 Mins.

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, July 4. — (CP).—A Nazi plane was shooting at a drifting balloon when Flt Sgts. S. A. Taylor of Richmond, Que., and Jack Mowbray of Brooklin, Ont., pounced with their Spitfires. So thorough a pasting did they dish out that after pouring all their ammunition into the enemy craft they circled it for five minutes taking photographs without a shot being fired at them.

The Nazi was seen flying on one engine and losing altitude at a height of 150 feet over the channel.

"The German gunner's shooting was pretty good before we silenced him," said Mowbray. "He punched a couple of holes in my propellor and knocked a chunk out of my fuselage."

Sqdn. Ldr Bob Morrow of Toronto and his group of 10 Spitfires was at 17,000 feet and dived 5,000 feet to engage the Nazis as they broke cloud cover.

"I think we really caught them by surprise," salad Morrow. "I opened fire on the leader and blacked out when I broke off to avoid a collision. When I came to I was at 5,000 feet and saw a Nazi fighter going down in flames. He crashed with a flash."

Losses In All But Smugness

U.S. General Lashes Out Over Bottleneck in Steel

LANSING, Mich., July 4 (AP)—"A grim and brutal task lies ahead" in fighting an enemy from whom "we've taken a terrific shellacking all around the globe," Lt.-Gen. Brehon Somervell., Chief of the United States Army's Service of Supply says.

There is "entirely too much optimism about the ease with which we'll win this war," Gen. Somervell told a group of Michigan industrialists last night.

After visiting a gun plant in which, he said, production had been slowed down because of lack of steel Gen. Somervell said—

"Steel is one of the bottlenecks, but we've a whole cellar-full of bottles. However, the ingenious application of American industry and intelligence will get rid of these bottle-necks, but we've got to work to do it.

"So far, we've lost a lot of nearly everything but our sense of smugness and smugness never won a war or neither did wishful thinking. We can't win this one with boastful headlines or with slogans or alibis or threats or promises."

Asked at a press conference if the United States had a weapon comparable to the 88-millimetre cannon used by Germany, Gen. Somervell said in language that amounted to: "We have that weapon."

GOVERNMENT TO COMPENSATE FISHERMEN OF LOSS DUE TO WAR

Cash Amends For Canuck Fishing Fleets

$2,000 Boat, $400 Nets If Loss Due To Enemy or War Act

By JAMES McCOOK,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, July 4 — (CP). — The House of Commons was informed yesterday that the Government was prepared to compensate the fishermen on compassionate grounds if they suffer losses due to the war, but for 1½ hours members argued that fishermen should be provided with further protection.

The House was discussing the Government Bill providing for insurance of property against war risks and the payment of compensation for war damage. Earlier it had discussed divorce bills and two other private bills.

Finance Minister Ilsley said it had been decided to amend the War Risk Bill by removing all ships from the war risk insurance provisions. Previously, ships operating in inland waters were provided for in the free insurance plan.

Fisheries Minister Michaud described an Order-in-Council providing for "compassionate relief" for the loss of fishing boats up to $2,000 for the boat and $400 for nets if loss was due to enemy action or the stress of war.

The House, sitting in committee of the whole, reported progress on the War Risk Bill.

On Monday, the Commons will resume consideration of the contentious conscription-enabling Bill. Resources Minister Crerar expressed the hope debate on this Bill would be completed on Tuesday.

In his statement on the war risk measure, Mr. Ilsley said that in previous discussion he had opposed extension of the insurance provision so that fishermen going out to sea would be covered by it. The bill was designed to cover property within the country.

Held Discrimination

Members had protested that provision for inland ships under the insurance scheme appeared to be discrimination against other vessels. It had been decided to remove all ships from coverage, but property in ships in inland water would continue to be covered.

Mr. Michaud said compensation for fishermen was provided because it was realized they could not pay the high insurance rates against war damage and most of their boats were not of an insurable class. The limit of compensation was $2,000 a boat. The sum of $400 might be paid on nets, but no compensation would be paid on any claim of less than $25.

PORT HOPE, July 4—At the meeting of the Red Cross executive held in the Red Cross rooms on Friday night, July 3, with Mrs. Wotherspoon in the chair, letters were read on nutrition, Polish relief and blood donors.

Mrs. Foote moved a motion of appreciation to the teachers and students of the Port Hope High School for the splendid work which they had accomplished in the last ten months. This was seconded by Mrs. Diamond and it was arranged to have a letter of appreciation sent to each of the teachers.

The following is a report of the work done by the teachers and students of the P.H.H.S. from September 1941 to June 1942:

During the school year just ended the High School has made a creditable showing in war work. The knitting and sewing done by the girls under the supervision of members of the staff has been of a very high standard. The following articles were made and donated to the Red Cross, the I.O.D.E. and the Salvation Army: 119 wool sweaters, varying in size from 4 to 18; 107 all wool skirts in sizes to match the sweaters; 67 pairs of bloomers; 36 pairs of woollen sockees; 50 pairs of mittens; 59 handkerchiefs; 6 children's dresses; 2 children's knitted suits; 8 afghans; 16 complete layettes with powder, soap, pins, etc.; 16 baby quilts to go with the layettes; 5 large quilts made by a group of women under Mrs. Ryan's direction.

The money used to buy these materials was raised by the boys and girls in the following ways: weekly contributions of their pin money; the proceeds from an operetta from the cadet dance from paper salvage; from various form projects and from display teas; "The Fighting Twelve" made a generous donation of $10 which they had saved from their club fees and which was much appreciated by the school. The sum of $12 was donated to the school war work by interested citizens. "The Blue and White" year book had a balance of $80 which was added to the War Fund.

After paying for all materials used in the knitting and sewing, the High School has been able to make the following donations. $18.50 to the Junior Red Cross; $55.00 to the local Lion's Club for British children; $50.00 to the B.W.V.F.; $10.50 to the Navy League; $15.00 to the I.O.D.E.; $97.21 to the local Red Cross Society; $85.00 to the Red Cross Refugee Fund.

In addition to this the school filled three ditty bags worth $22.00, and sent cigarettes to the value of $14.00 to Mike Lewis, an ex-student who is a prisoner of war in Germany. Grade XII made and filled two comfort bags worth $2 each; 24 scarves were knitted for the minesweeper.

The girls of the French club have knitted 24 pairs of socks and five long seaman's scarves from wool obtained from the Free French committee in Toronto. They have also donated the sum of $14.68 to the Free French committee.

Foremen Keep Pot Lines Going

BEAUHARNOIS Que., July 4 — (CP). — Striking workers at the Alloys and Metals Limited plant here failed to return to work today although Government officials had termed the two-day-old strike "illegal." The men left work on Thursday, demanding wage increases.

Meanwhile, 12 foremen from the plant strove to keep the metal in the pot-lines hot by firing the huge furnaces. Company officials said if the men remained out later than noon to-day the situation at the plant would become serious.

Officials of the union of which the 600 striking workers are members, and Government officials will meet with the workers at 10 o'clock this morning in an attempt to persuade the men to return to their work. Raoul Trepanier, Quebec representative of the Dominion Department of Labor, will be present.

Friends in this city will be sorry to learn of the death of Mr. John Johnston, Rochester, formerly of Peterborough, who was an uncle of F. H. Johnston, 156 McDonnel street. The death occurred last week after a heart attack.

Born in Peterborough, the late Mr. Johnston resided here for 32 years and worked in the Peterborough Lock Company. Since moving to Rochester, he has been sales manager of the Armour Packing Company for 25 years. He was a veteran of the last war, being a member of the Photographic Division, attached to the Air Corps.

Surviving him are his wife, two sisters, Lilian and Louisa, and two brothers, Herbert and Thomas, all of Rochester.

Interment was made in Rochester.

For One Typewriter

CHICAGO, July 4—(AP). — The two bandits who invaded a northside laundry didn't have much success. After slugging the night watchman, they worked for more than an hour trying to open a safe but they had no luck. Then they loaded typewriters, adding machines and other office equipment onto a push cart. But the cart was too big to be moved through a doorway. They finally settled for one typewriter.

Steel Car Head R. J. Magor Dies

MONTREAL, July 4 — (CP). — Robert J. Magor, president of the National Steel Car Company, died in the Royal Victoria Hospital here today following an operation on Thursday.

His first position that turned up was with the Salada Tea Company. From doing odd jobs entrusted only to the newly-initiated, young Magor was promoted to selling tea, and with a bicycle he toured Griffintown peddling the fragrant leaves. Later, he rose to the dignity of selling his product with a horse and rig.

In 1899, Mr. Magor's father died and he retired from the tea business to take over the managership of his father's firm, John Magor and Son, which handled grain, flour and general merchandise. That same year his brother, Victor, died, leaving on his shoulders the task of administering the family estate.

Four years later, he wound up the firm and turned mechanic. To use his own phrase, he was "keen on machinery," so he obtained a job in 1906 with the Canadian Car and Foundry. He worked on the first Grand Trunk Railway cars and then became timekeeper, clerk, official in charge of piece work prices, member of the purchasing department and finally assistant to the superintendent.

For Sunday, July 5

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of more than lively enterprise and initiative, with much stirring activity dominant in both the social, domestic and workaday affairs of prime importance. New propositions and projects are to the fore, for pushing eagerly and forcefully, but maintain harmony with superiors and elders and be alert to secret antipathies.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of high pressure, with many new and fresh adventures moving at great tension into conspicuous grooves of achievement. Practical and constructive attack and bold initiative are under unusual stimuli for production. Happy reactions are noted in the social, domestic and affectional life, but in all be amiable and complacent with superiors.

A child born on this day should have much practical creative ability, initiative and determination to put over major programs of military or engineering importance. It may have keen preceptions, ready wit and social graces.

For Monday, July 6

New President Assumes Gavel

COBOURG, July 4 —(ENS)— R. N. McKenzie, president-elect of Cobourg Rotary Club took over the gavel of office yesterday at the regular luncheon meeting of the club. In handing over the gavel, the retiring president, Joe Patterson, thanked the members of the club for the cooperation which had been afforded him during his term in office. The new president in a brief inaugural address expressed his pleasure with the honour which had been tendered him in electing him president. The club had a heavy year's activities ahead of it but he was sure that with every member of the organization doing his job that the club would have a successful term. The war savings stamps yesterday were won by Ken Pritchard, Joe Goldring of Cobourg and Ken Hodgert of Port Hope.

The Douglas A-20A is a light attack bomber, the United States Army's version of the DB-7A which is supplied to Britain and which the R.A.F. calls the "Boston."

It is a three-seat mid-wing monoplane powered by two Wright double row "Cyclone" engines. Its weight, loaded, is 19,050 pounds. No data on performance are available.

Its speed has been estimated at about 350 miles an hour, however, making it one of the fastest warplanes of its size in existence.

The attack on German-held territory across the channel was believed to be the inauguration of raids which will gradually increase to considerable force in keeping with the long-promised heavy pounding of German positions.

British air sources applauded the raid as "a daring event which, occuring on July 4, symbolized the American ability once more to strike hard for freedom."

S.S. Picnic Is Held Crowe River Bridge

CAMPBELLFORD, July 4 (ENS)—Between 80 and 100 young members of St. Andrew's Sunday School enjoyed their annual picnic at Crowe River Bridge on Friday afternoon, and according to statistics on the affair they consumed five gallons of ice cream, eight gallons of orangeade and four cases of soft drinks, the latter being donated by Dr. E. C. West and Mr. Ken Hazell. Races for both boys and girls were run according to the various age groups, while a candy scramble for the beginners and members of the primary classes entertained the younger children. Many went for a swim and all enjoyed watching the teachers' race which was won by Mrs. Radley. The party left town in the forenoon with teachers, friends and parents providing the means of transportation.

Splendid Talk Given Junior WI

LAKEFIELD, July 4 — (ENS). — Miss Hazel Northey gave a very interesting talk on the subject, "Duties to Our Country in War Times," at the Junior Institute meeting, held at the home of Mrs. Howard Bullock on Thursday afternoon.

In her address, Miss Northey stressed that in comparison with European countries we have not suffered enemy invasions, or enemy bombings, so for this reason we should do all we can to keep the enemy away. One way to help in the war effort is to buy carefully, making sure you get the best as cheaply as possible, and to use what you buy as carefully as you buy it. A good slogan is "Eat it up. Wear it out. Make it do."

Miss Northey also emphasized how much the women in the Maritimes and the Western provinces are doing to help in the war effort.

The roll call for the meeting was answered with "Short cuts for the War Effort."

Miss Jean Scott, county supervisor of Home Economics, was a guest at the meeting.

The Senior Women's Institute held its meeting at Mrs. Bullock's along with the Juniors on Thursday. They spent the afternoon planning the program for the season. Tea was served both groups by the hostess.

A. G. Allan Dawe and his wife, Anne, have returned from a two weeks' vacation spent at Lake of Bays. Mrs. Dawe will accompany her husband to Toronto on Saturday, where he leaves on Monday for the eastern coast.

Strawberry Festival Held At Plainville

PLAINVILLE, July 4—(ENS). — The annual strawberry festival at the Plainville United Church on July 1, as always, attracted a large crowd of people. Approximately five hundred people were fed at tables set in the long church shed. Until a week previous it had been decided not to have this annual affair. With such a short time to make plans and advertise, the officials and members of the church are most grateful for the splendid response of friends in attending. The amount of $164 was received at the door, and the booth also took in a pleasing amount.

Friends were noticed from Peterborough, Port Hope, Cobourg, Stirling, Baltimore, Bensfort, Garden Hill, and other points, as well as from neighboring villages and the community.

The program was left to the Young People's Society, who put on a mixed entertainment consisting of two numbers by a sextet composed of Mrs. Stewart Herriott, Miss Evelyn Brisbin, William Cameron, MacLaren Herriott, Wallace Buttar and Ronald McKinley. Humorous readings were given by Miss Dorothy Harris and William Cameron. Miss Emily Pratt sang solos accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Meggs. The Manley quartette, Clifford, Ronald, Murray and Garth Manley, sang a number; Miss Doreen McKinley played a piano solo, also accompanied the sextet. Mrs. Stuart Herriott and Miss Mary Herriott played a piano duet. A very comic one-act play was presented, with Misses Mary Herriott, Audrey McKinlay, Evelyn Carruthers, MacLean Herriott, Edgar Buttar and Ross McKinlay, the actors. Rev. M. C. Fisher acted as chairman throughout.

Cobourg Briefs

Cobourg's town clock, whose four faces sometimes tell individual times, are in agreement now and in fact all four are telling the correct time. For the past week the hands of the clock have been showing a wide variety of incorrect time on the four sides. It used to be that when the hands were wrong, that citizens could depend on the clock striking the correct hours but the old clock let them down in that respect also. Clock-expert Harold Winter of Cobourg, who used to be in the jewelry business, was called in and today the clock is off on a new start with hands and strikers working in correct unison The hammer of the clock, which somehow managed to register a dull thud after every stroke of the gong, has also been repaired.

Fred Fallis of Cavan Township was found guilty of drunk driving when he appeared before the magistrate at Cobourg yesterday and was sentenced to seven days in jail. His license was suspended for six months and his car impounded for three months. The charges was laid by Constable W. White of Millbrook.

A recruiting depot for taking girls and women into war industries was opened at Cobourg yesterday and will be open until this evening. Officials of the Bata Shoe Company were on hand to interview the applicants.

Joe Patterson of Cobourg, who turned over the gavel to the new president of Cobourg Rotary Club, R. N. McKenzie, at yesterday's meeting of the Club, gave a report on the International Rotary Convention at which Mr. Patterson was a delegate. He gave a very comprehensive report on the convention.

Canadian Army Lauded At Port Hope

PORT HOPE July 4 (ENS)—On Friday night a parade of over three hundred took place to pay tribute to Canada's Army. This parade was headed by the Citizens' Band followed by C Co., Midland Regiment, Ex Service Men's Club, General Ralston Legend Scouts, Guides, Cubs and Brownies, Port Hope Council members and firemen, while the fire truck and ladders brought up the rear.

The parade marched north on Mill street, down Ontario to Walton, down Walton to Queen street and along Queen street to the Town Hall, where the salute was taken by Major J. A. V. Fraser at the Cenotaph.

The Citizens' Band took its place on the grandstand at Rotary Park while the army units were dismissed and gathered round the stand for the program.

Town Clerk Arthur Mark acted as chairman for the program and explained he was acting for Mayor Sherman Gifford. Mr. Mark introduced the speaker, Rev. N. S. McKechnie, B.A., B.D. who gave a most stirring address to some six or seven hundred citizens. He stated that so far in this war the Army has seemed to be suffering an eclipse in the popular eye and perhaps in the popular favor by the Air Force and the Navy. No doubt Col. the Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Defence, arranged Army Week to give the Army the place it merits in popular attention. Dr. McKechnie went on to state that nevertheless the Canadian Army is a great and mighty body with all its equipment and armament, and the young man who today goes into the army faces opportunity as well as danger. Almost every man is required to become a specialist in some line of work and these skills will stand them in good stead when they return to the post ar life.

Nevertheless up to the present the Canadian Army has been called upon to do the difficult thing of preparing itself and waiting. However the Army's day will come, for neither the airforce or the navy can conquer Germany. The day is coming when the British, the Canadian and the American Armies will march into the heart of Germany to conquer and disarm and hold her until she learns to live at peace. Meanwhile the units of our Army and Reserve Army must learn a hard lesson that they also serve who only stand and wait.

Power of Personality Is Revealed in Christ

By REV. E. R. JAMES

John, Looking Upon Jesus, as He walked, said: "Behold the Lamb of God. And the two disciples heard him speaking and they followed Jesus.—St. John 11, 35.

These words take us behind the scene. St. John, the Apostle, tells us of his first meeting with the Lord Jesus. One whom he could trust said: "Behold the Lamb of God." He followed Him. We also have followed the Christ because our parents told us of Him. Have you passed on your experience to others?

The desert Prophet, John the Baptist, created a great sensation. More than four centuries had passed since the voice of a prophet had been heard in the land. Naturally he attracted disciples of the best Jews; devout men who looked for higher things. At the Baptism of the Carpenter from Nazareth, John saw the dove descending upon Him—the sign of the Christ.

In those quiet days in the Carpenter's shop the Lord Jesus had pondered deeply upon many passages of Holy Scripture, which He had read in the village synagogue. At His baptism He heard the Fathers Voice saying: "Thou are My beloved Son, in Whom I am well pleased." The Voice brings conviction of His office and work as the Messiah, the Christ. Do you wonder when you read: "The Spirit driveth Him into the wilderness." He must be quiet; He must ponder and decide upon the principles of His minstry. Then He returns to seek for the choicest men "that they might be with Him" and that they might discover His secret.

John the Baptist with prophetic insight exclaims: "Behold the Lamb of God." Two of his choicest disciples left him—John and Andrew—and followed Jesus. They looked upon the face of the perfect son of God. The beauty of that face attract them. They are drawn to Him; their hearts go out to Him. His Soul is knit into their souls. They spend the evening and the night with Him. It is an unforgettable experience. What He said to them is not recorded. His heart went out to them. "My sheep hear My voice and I know them and they follow Me."

The Carpenter of Nazareth attracted the choicest Jews through His personality. He went up and down the land preaching. Men of various types listened. A few had an affinity for the things of God. They joined the little band of disciples. They were learning at the feet of a Living Teacher, such as men never had before. He uttered many hard saying in order to sift them. "From that time many of His disciples went back and walked no more with Him." His teaching was too hard for them to bear.

The Lord made it very clear that to follow Him they must give up everything for love of Him. The leaders of Commandos call for volunteers. They are put thrugh hard training—many fall by the way. But the choice spirits are filled with gladness that they are found worthy of the privilege of dying for their country. How the Master's claim comes home for us today. "If any man will come after Me let him take up his cross and follow Me." His followers must be prepared to pay the price for entry into the Kingdom of God.

We must not forget that the Apostles were Jews. The best Jews of that age were very devout men to whom religion made a great appeal. They had a genius for religion as the Romans had for law and order. So when the Lord looked upon this man and that and their eyes met, soul called to soul, and they followed Him. They learned to love Him and His personality attracted them.

In every generation men and women have been touched with the live coal from off the altar of God. Consequently they have been consumed with the desire to follow the Lord Christ. If you follow Him His Spirit will enter into you and slowly, gradually Christ will be formed in you. Men will see Him in you and will be drawn to Him through you.

True religion brings real happiness and peace of mind and fact to men and women. An artist after many years of absence returned home. Next morning he remarked to his sisters: "Mother's face is becoming very beautiful." "Yes," was the reply, "Mother spends much time in prayer." Is your religion attractive? True religion is catching—men "take knowledge of you that you have been with Jesus.'

Moses wist not that the skin of his face shone while God talked with him.

Creation of Earth Was Work Of An Intelligent Being

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 5 is Genesis 1:1-5; 24-31; 2-1, the Golden Text being Genesis 1:1, "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.")

"IN THE beginning God created the heaven and the earth." This is the very first verse in our Bible, as is fitting. The lesson is about the creation of this, our earth, as told in the first chapter of Genesis, and the first verse of the second chapter.

No one knows when the earth was created, although there have been many guesses. That it was the work of an intelligent being, no one can doubt. Man may have an occasional idea that he could have made some certain things better than they were made in the first place, but this boast is usually heard from young students in college years. Later, when the universe is further and extensively studied, the only feeling one can possibly have about its marvelous structure and working is one of awe and worship. The arguments of the callow college youth sound foolish and sacreligious.

"And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters."

Everyone should learn these verses by heart for their rich literary and poetic value as well as because they are the beginning of the Bible. Can you picture this beginning of things, all darkness, without form, but upon the face of the deep "the Spirit of God moved."

Then God said, "Let there be light." And there was light. God divided this light from the darkness and called the light day and the darkness night, and the evening and the morning were the first day.

24-Hour Day or Period?

We do not know whether this was a day as we know it, or a period of time. There have been many arguments pro and con, but neither theory can be proved. We should recall that days of 12 hours and 24 hours were not in existence until the appearance of the sun on the fourth day, so it would seem to indicate that they were longer than the days as we know them.

Now our references jump to the creation of animals on the sixth day. "And God said let the earth bring forth the living creature after his kind, cattle, and creeping things, and beast of the earth after his kind; and it was so." After this was done God found it to be good.

"And God said, Let us make man in our image, after our likeness: and let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, and over the fowl of the air, and over the cattle, and over all the earth, and over every creeping thing that creepeth upon the earth."

So God created man in His own image, "in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them.

"And God blessed them, and God said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over the fish of the sea and over the fowl of the air, and over every living thing that moveth upon the earth.

Gives Food for Man

"And God said, Behold I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in the which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat.

"And to every beast of the earth, to every fowl of the air, and to every thing that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is life, I have given every green herb for meat: and it was so.

"And God saw everything that He had made, and, behold, it was good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

"Thus the heavens and the earth were finished, and all the host of them."

It is wonderful that man was made "in the image" of his Maker. Man is the only creature who can take the substances of the earth and make beautiful and useful things from them. He must have the materials which have been put in the earth; he cannot create them. But he can combine them to make marvelous machines, and objects of art. His intelligence enables him to rule the beasts and use them for his own purposes.

But how far below what we should be are we human beings! How many inventions we use, not for beneficent purposes, but to injure our fellow men, even to kill them. How far we have to travel before we can lift up our heads and say, we are true Sons of God, made in His image. We won't despair, but have faith that some day man may achieve this, with God's help.

LONDON, July 4—(CP).—Wartime shortage of steel has partly solved the peace-time puzzle of what happens to old razor blades. The answer—at the moment—is simple. They become "new" blades. Firms are buying thousands, at 25 to 50 cents a pound, from hotels and railways They are re-conditioned and re-sold. But, there's another problem now. What happens to the twice-used blades?

Religion and Life As Found By Study Made in Britain

By CLIFFORD P. MOREHOUSE.

LONDON, July 4—For six weeks I have had the unique privilege of studying British civilian life in wartime. I came over in the middle of April to see what I could, especially of religious life and social conditions in wartime England. And I am most favorably impressed and greatly heartened by what I have seen.

We have sometimes been inclined to be rather sorry for our cousins in the British Isles. I do not think we need to be sorry for them; rather we should be proud of the splendid example that they have set and are setting for the whole world; proud, too, to be allied with them in the greatest struggle that the world has ever seen.

During the month and a half that I have been here I have travelled to many parts of the British Isles. I have walked through the devastated areas of London, and talked with the people there who went through the terrible night-after-night air raids of last year. I have climbed over the rubble of towns blitzed in Hitler's recent tour of the Cathedral centres, while the fires from incendiary bombs were still burning. I have gone through busy factories and steel works in the Midlands where work goes on day and night even when sirens may be sounding their warnings. I have stood on the cliffs at Dover, where men and women still work and children play within range of the Nazi guns on the French coast. Everywhere the story is the same. The people carry on courageously, cheerfully, confidently. They have no doubt of the final outcome. The road may be long and difficult, but at the end lies victory.

Civilian morale in Britain is probably at a higher level to-day than it has ever been since the war began. The people are not self-pitying, and thy do not want us to pity them. They have learned to live under war conditions, and they are justifiably proud of the way they have held their island fortress through the days when they stood almost alone against the enemy until now, when they have half the world as their allies.

I think too, that religion means more in England than it did in the pre-war days. I do not mean that there is more church-going though services are remarkably well attended. But certainly there is more of a consciousness on the part of men and women in all walks of life that beneath the changing fortunes of war there is an eternal purpose of God, working itself out in history. And there seems to be a growing feeling that the only way to build the better world that is so ardently desired, after the war, men must find out what that purpose is and direct their own efforts in harmony with it.

One direct evidence of this is the remarkable growth of the movement known as Religion and Life. This is an almost spontaneous effort that cuts across all lines of class and denomination. It is not an organization, with a president, secretary, and executive board. It is rather a channel through which the religious and moral life of the nation that has long taken its Christianity for granted, learning anew to express its life in Christian terms and to apply the teachings of Christ in its national life.

Take for example Religion and Life week in Manchester. It opened with a great procession led by the Lord Mayor, in which civic and religious organizations of all kinds participated, bearing witness to the dependence of democracy on the Christian tradition. In his opening address Dr. Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury, set the keynote for the week. He raised the question of the practical application of Christian principles to such batters as housing, employment, social security and international relations; he looked beyond the war to the days in which Great Britain with America and Russia, must assume the leadership in the rebuilding of the world.

All communions participated in at least a part of the Religion and Life observances. Anglicans and Free Churchmen combined in most of the meetings and services. The Roman Catholics held a teaching mission during the period, and joined in the great youth demonstration. On this ocasion—a powerful contrast to the meetings of Hitler Youth in Germany—a Presbyterian minister and a Roman Catholic priest shared the leadership, the priest directing 6,000 young men and women in the recitation of the Creed, the Lord's Prayer, and the Litany. At a dinner given by the Lord Mayor of Manchester Christian and Jewish leaders joined with civic officials in bearing witness to the importance of religion in solving the problems of the twentieth century.

I have had the privilege of talking with many of the leaders of both Church and State during my visit to England and with many of the proverbial men in the street as well. All were agreed that Christianity itself is at stake to-day, and that it is above all a time for Christians of every name to stand together. Perhaps Cardinal Hinsley, that passionate exponent of militant Christianity, expressed it most clearly. He said, after the great service of intercession in Westminster Cathedral for Malta and its brave defenders:

"Christianity itself is under attack to-day. It is not this or that doctrine that is in question, but the fundamental principles of the Faith—belief in God and belief that man is created in the image of God Christians of every name must work together to secure the moral principles that are the justification for democracy. Chief among these are the dignity of the individual and the sanctity of the family. If we allow these to be undermined society will be destroyed."

Alongside that statement let me place the remark of a taxi driver, who pointed his thumb at a ruined church as we drove by it. "Until Jerry begun doing that," he said, "we sort of took the Church for granted and didn't pay much attention to it. Now we begin to see that religion is what we all need more of, and if Jerry's against it, we're for it." In his way, I think the taxi driver had much the same thought on the subject as the Cardinal Archbishop of Westminster.

The Government is helping in every way possible to enable these youngsters to grow into strong boys and girls. They have plenty of fresh vegetables from their own gardens and are allowed a double milk ration. Beginning in July candy is to be rationed, and every child in England will have double sweets rations. In every way possible they are given the preference over adults. For they are the citizens of to-morrow, and Britain and the world will need strong, healthy citizens to try to build a better world on the ruins of the old one.

On Sunday morning the little ones at Barton Place had their Sunday School. They sat on little chairs in a circle and, after an opening hymn, they were told a story of our Lord and His love for little children. Then, after more singing—which they did with all the lustiness and lack of self-consciousness of the very young—each in turn said a little "thank-you" prayer, to thank God for something special. Most of the thank-you's were for their favorite toys, or for their good times. Quite a few remembered to be thankful for their fathers and mothers. One little four-year-old miss, with a sidelong glance at me said: "Thank you, dear God, for America." I felt most unworthy, as the only representative of America present—but also very happy.

For these children do know that America is helping them, and in that there is great hope for the future. Perhaps we ought to tell our own children how much Britain is helping America; how indeed she held the front line alone at that time, after the fall of France, when that front line seemed so thin. We know, now, that it was our front line as well as hers.

I am no prophet. I cannot tell you whether this war will be a long one or a short one. But this I do know—we shall win this war. And we shall win it completely and decisively.

Will we also win the peace? That is going to be the vital question of the future. These youngsters in Britain and the children of all the world have the right to ask us that question.

In our religion we have the answer. The Prince of Peace pointed the way for us. In His teachings are to be found the way that leads to a genuine and enduring peace for the whole world. Will we have the good sense to apply those teachings, not only to our own lives but to the life of nations? In that, it seems to me, lies the answer to the question whether we shall win the peace. And it is up to Britain and America, standing together in peace as in war, to set forth that answer before the whole world.

Missionary from China To Preach In City

Rev. Duncan McRae of South China will speak at the morning service in St. James' Church, Peterborough, and at the evening service at 7 o'clock in Trinity Church. Mr. McRae has been home from South China for a year and has been busy telling the story of that war-torn land throughout Canada. The southern section of China is occupied by the Japanese at present, and most of the missionaries from the area have left. Two evangelists hold the post however and are doing good work. The mission compounds in China have proved to be havens of refuge for women, children and the missionaries have been able to protect many from the brutality of the cruel invaders.

The Japanese soldiers are about the most vicious men in any army in the world. When they enter a town or city they plunder and ravage without any limitation of restraint or mercy.

There will be much work of reconstruction and rehabilitation to be done after the war is over. Mr. McRae is looking forward with eager interest to the day when he will be able to return to the people to whom he has consecrated his life.

God the Creator — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Genesis 1:1-5; 24-31; 2:1.

"And God made the beast of the earth after his kind, and cattle after their kind, and everything that creepeth upon the earth after his kind: and God saw that it was good."

Then God said let us make man in our own image, so He created man "in His own image, in the image of God created He him; male and female created He them."

God blessed the man and woman and said unto them, Be fruitful and multiply, and replenish the earth, and subdue it: and have dominion over every living thing that moveth on the earth.

And God saw everything that He had made, and, behold, it was very good. And the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

Our Idle Resources

We are accustomed to hear Canada praised as a land of great natural resources, but if we do nothing to develop those resources we might as well be without them. Precious metals, base metals and minerals which we are content to leave in the ground provide us with nothing save material for chauvinistic boasting. Certainly after the war we should evolve some national plan of exploiting, as advantageously as possible, our resources.

This matter was stressed on Thursday by Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University, who is Chairman of the Committee on Conservation and Development, which is in turn a subsidiary of the Interdepartmental Advisory Committee on Postwar Reconstruction. Canada, he said, should make better use of her scientists. Russia has set out upon a thorough exploitation of Northern Siberia and has engaged her metallurgists, her scientists and her chemists to undertake this work. Canada, on the contrary, has no new properties coming into production and the development of her mines has ceased entirely. After the war Dr. Wallace believes that Canadian scientists should be engaged to direct the exploitation of our northland, and that men discharged from the armed forces and from industry should be absorbed, as far as possible, into this new work. He particularly recommended a large-scale development of the base-metal industry.

Implicit in Dr. Wallace's address was criticism of the way in which Canada's development has been retarded by lack of adequate encouragement and wise control; his analogy with Russia was well-timed. We could learn much from that country in the matter of exploiting our natural resources, and the fact that we are opposed to Russian political theory is no reason for refusing to copy Russian common sense. The world which will emerge from this war will be one in which no country will be able to neglect any of its assets, and Canadian science and Canadian resources may not be left idle when they can be developed for the advantage of the Canadian people.

Post-War Wheat Pool

Great Britain, the United States, Australia, Argentina and Canada have entered into a post-war wheat pooling agreement which is undoubtedly a far-sighted and ingenious plan; it should do much to keep world economy on a stable basis during the period of re-building and re-adjustment which must follow this war. Under this agreement Canada is given forty per cent. of world wheat exports, so long as it does not exceed 500,000,000 bushels; Argentina is the next largest sharer with twenty-five per cent., while Australia has nineteen per cent. and the U.S. sixteen per cent. Britain comes into the agreement as an important customer and not as a producer.

The terms of the agreement also stipulate that the producing countries shall not produce wheat in excess of domestic needs, basic export quotas and maximum reserve stocks as these shall be determined. This is going to force the Government to adopt a system of wheat acreage limitation, and by so doing it may solve a problem which has long been vexing the Canadian West.

The Glorious Fourth

We celebrated our national day on Wednesday, and our great neighbour celebrates hers today. This is a happy chance, for it means that we still have some of our enthusiasm left over, and he is a poor Canadian who does not spare a thought for the great republic on her day of days. None of us is less a Canadian, or less loyal to our Mother Country, because he loves the United States. We in Canada are happily placed so that we may avail ourselves of two great strains of tradition, deriving from Britain and the U.S.; the Canadian who attempts to limit himself to only one of these strains is as foolish as a man who attempts to walk with one leg. Nor is the word tradition one to be feared by a young country; tradition does not mean that the living are dead — it means on the contrary that the dead are alive, and we who make ourselves free of two great traditions invite not merely Alfred the Great and Oliver Cromwell, but also Washington and Lincoln to take a hand in shaping our destiny.

The people of the United States are now, like ourselves, engaged in a great war in which all our traditions and indeed everything which we hold dear must be defended against an enemy which is strong and cunning physically, though base and contemptible morally. We did not begin the quarrel, and we were late to take it up; as a result we have had some grievous reverses. But there are other battles to come, and the day is not far distant when we shall be the ones to pick the ground, strike the first blow, and give the coup de grace. It was Josh Billings, an American, who formulated a precept of war which the United Nations must follow—

Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
And four times he who gets his fist in just.

Hearty congratulations and good wishes to our friends over the border, and may the spirit which inspired them when they 'fit the redcoats' be with them now that they fight with the redcoats and the Reds.

Jealousy In Germany

An old German proverb says: "Jealousy does more harm than witchcraft." Dr. Goebbels, who is a professional fancier of all things which are German and which spring from the heat of Nordic blood, probably wishes that there were less truth in this scrap of folk-wisdom. Having labored for years to raise the birthrate in Germany by casting a glamor over sexual promiscuity, he now finds that German soldiers are worried because their wives are unfaithful to them in their absence. This is understandable enough; German women are assured that their highest duty is to produce soldiers for the Fuehrer, and they are determined to fulfil their destiny by hook or crook. Those who have read Gregor Ziemer's interesting book, Education For Death, know how this state of things has been brought about.

Now the ugly little doctor is lecturing German wives through the press on the subject of marital fidelity. "He who is fighting for German culture, customs and education must be sure of his wife's fidelity, otherwise he has no cause to fight," says a Dresden paper, and the same moral sentiment is expressed in many others. It looks as though the Munich Mickey Mouse found himself in the position of a Sorcerer's Apprentice who has started something which he cannot finish.

Hope And Warning

There was so much news of greater importance in the papers yesterday that we fear our readers may have missed three minor items which, nevertheless, we consider significant. The first of these concerns a girl employed in a department store in Cincinnati who sprained her wrist while tugging a 'non-open' latex girdle on a customer. The second comes from Toronto, where a lady fell off a merry-go-round and broke her leg. And the third, from Michigan, tells us that the animal husbandry department of the State University has discovered that a non-scented lotion made of lime water and raw linseed oil will protect white pigs from sunburn.

In these three apparently unconnected and diverse items we find both a hope and a warning. While nations are locked in a mighty struggle not all the casualties are on the field of glory. An attempt to squeeze a too-large lady into a too-small girdle may result in serious injury, although on the surface it seems to be a peaceful, if unduly optimistic, employment. And the pursuit of pleasure may take its toll; a diet of hot-dogs, Eskimo pies and pop, followed by a brisk spin on a merry-go-round, may result in a broken leg. At no time are we ever completely safe. On the other hand we have such strongly developed humanitarianism that not even a hog is allowed to be sunburned if we can help it, and a special hog-lotion has been evolved to protect these susceptible beasts. In order not to hurt the hog's feelings, the lotion is unscented, which we consider the height of tact.

Obviously we are moving toward a better life. True, there are many risks to be encountered in even the most peaceful task, but no one can say that we are not taking every precaution.

Further Notes On Holiday Reading

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

STILL working on the assumption that there may be some readers of this column who may wish to hear about the new books which might be suitable for vacation reading I shall discuss four new books and one reprint of a classic today. The new books are published by Macmillans; indeed, most of the books which I receive for review are the property of that company, and if you assume therefrom that Macmillans are the only important publishers of fiction in this country you will not be far wrong.

I cannot speak in high terms of Granville Hicks' novel, "Only One Storm." The title is a part of a New England proverb—"There's only been one storm that never cleared up — and that's this one." The storm to which the author refers is the present world situation, which he discusses at length through the mouths of a great number of characters whom he places in a New England village. Canby Kittredge is an advertising executive who gives up his work to return to the town of his boyhood, there to run a job-printing press. He and his wife join in the community life, but there are plenty of visitors from the outside world to keep them from becoming parochial in view. And there in their village of Pendleton they talk and fret and fret and talk about the world situation until the reader is almost distracted.

THE blurb on the cover of the book assures me that this is "wonderful talk." I deny it flatly. Most of it is nonsense. To make a fictitious character speak of the late Neville Chamberlain as a 'bastard' and a 'son of a bitch' is not wonderful talk; it is just rude foolishness. And most of the concern with which Mr. Hicks endows his puppets when they discuss world affairs is no more than what Mr. Churchill has labelled 'fretfulness'; they fret about Spain, and Czechoslovakia and Munich for pages on end. The advertisements have compared this book to Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street"; it is not within fifty miles of that work. When will writers learn that a novel is something more than a fictionalized version of one's personal fussing?

Far less pretentious and far more of a novel is "Drivin' Woman," by Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier. It is one of the numerous spawn of "Gone With The Wind," but it sets out to entertain the reader and it succeeds splendidly in doing so. It begins in the American South after the Civil War, when America Collier Moncure is faced with the problem of somehow making life bearable for herself and her sisters. Her adventures lead her to marry a river-boat gambler and to fall in with an industrial pioneer, who operated in the days when industry still afforded plenty of scope for a not very admirable sort of cleverness. The book also has a background of tobacco dealing which has an authentic ring and which is certainly very interesting. "Drivin' Woman" does not pretend to be anything more than entertainment, but it gives good measure in that respect. Its author has worked for many years in Hollywood, and her book shows some of the sureness, the slick technique and the clarity of good film writing. It is not impossible that Mrs. Chevalier had her eye on the film market when she wrote it.

IF YOU are not in the mood for novels, and want to read something about the war, I can strongly recommend two books by Quentin Reynolds; the first, which is an informal biography, is called "Convoy" and the second, which is about his more recent experiences in Russia and in Britain, is called "Only The Stars Are Neutral." Both are excellent reporting, of the jovial and somewhat exuberant type for which this foreign correspondent is well known. Reynolds' strictures on British censorship are entertaining, and his intimate glimpses of important figures in London and Moscow are interesting without being especially significant. Though they are about the war these two books are frankly intended to be entertainment.

Already this column has sung the praises of Count Leo Tolstoy's great novel "War And Peace" as reading for the present moment in history. This story of Napoleon's invasion of Russia and his defeat there has no equal in literature. It is a monumental work, touching upon every aspect of humanity with sureness and simplicity. If I were asked to give a name to its most remarkable characteristic I should be forced to choose its inclusiveness. Like Shakespeare (whom, by the way, he did not admire) Tolstoy saw everything and wrote about everything. Hitherto this novel has been available only in reprint libraries not distinguished for the excellence of their typography, and to read "War And Peace" in small type is trying to the eyes. Now it has been published in a handsome new edition with large type, a number of maps, and a helpful pamphlet which explains some of the intricacies of the Russian name system and the chronology of the book. There is also an introduction by Clifton Fadiman, which reads better now than it will in a few years. To be asked to contribute an introduction to a novel such as this one is a dangerous compliment; what can one say which will add anything to the work itself? I recommend this new edition to you heartily; it is easy to read and handsome as a piece of book-making.

Unconsidered Trifles

Two Scotsmen had ventured into the wilds. On their first night the dismal howling of a wolf disturbed their rest. Macpherson rose to his feet, seized his rifle, and said: "Ah'll bet ye an ounce o' tobacco I kill that wolf!"

He went out into the darkness. Three hours later he returned, dragging a dead wolf. MacTavish parted with an ounce of tobacco.

Just before dawn another howl rent the air and MacTavish said:

"Give me that tobacco back. Ye've killed the wrang!"

First Skirmish to British

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

BRITISH success in stemming the Axis drive in Egypt, momentarily at least, and throwing Rommel's legions back for the first time since they lurched across the Libyan-Egyptian border aroused a surge of hope in London and Washington that the backbone of the attack had been broken.

If that proved true, the corridor between the Mediterranean and the Quattara depression could become an Axis death trap instead of a field of victory. There was no indication, however, that the decisive moment in the struggle had been reached. Rommel is too well proven a warrior, too dangerous a foeman to justify any belief that he has spent his force and now must run for it.

General Auchinleck has every reason to respect Rommel's capacity for swift decisions and commander, now in personal direction at the prompt execution of surprise moves. The British front, has been schooled by bitter experience.

HIGHLY ENCOURAGING

Nevertheless, British success in halting and outflanking the attack on El Alamein to compel even a slight withdrawal by the foe is highly encouraging. It probably means that British reinforcements have arrived; and that to some extent British tank losses in that tragic battle in Libya of June 13 have now been replaced.

However, if Rommel fell back under the British flanking threat only to reorganize, refuel and strike again, it means only that the first skirmish of the battle of Alexandria terminated in British favor. If he fell back, too exhausted or short of ammunition and supplies to strike again immediately, and Auchinleck saw and seized his opportunity to take the offensive, quite a different situation would be presented and one filled with glittering possibilities for the British command.

Hours should serve to reveal the true pattern of the battle in the Egyptian Corridor. With British and American planes battering at his supply lines, it is obvious that Rommel has boldly attempted to break through to Alexandria virtually carrying his supplies on his own back. He can have no assurance of prompt deliveries from the rear. His force of tanks, trucks and men must be very largely self-contained for fuel, food, water and ammunition. Some supplies could reach him by air, but hardly enough for so large a force.

ROMMEL'S DANGER

That is the great British hope of turning a gruelling and still all but unexplained defeat by inferior forces into a smashing victory, perhaps wrenching all North Africa from the Axis grip in due course. It is the very grave danger in which Rommel stands in the Egyptian corridor which offers him little or no opportunity to exercise his genius for surprise turning thrusts.

In Libya, however, he seemed in almost as great peril prior to June 13. He had broken through the British mine field defenses on a narrow front. It is logical to assume that the British commander and his 8th army staff thought they saw an opportunity to crush him finally when they threw their 300 heavy tanks into an annihilation attempt that ended in British disaster.

The British forces lost 230 tank units in that action, according to Prime Minister Churchill's accounting. That sealed the fate of the 8th army and of Tobruk as it proved. It came within an ace of sealing the doom of Alexandria as well, and that threat is still grim and ominous.

Pensions Minister Mackenzie is the cabinet's expert on House rules....He's usually the one who raises the points of order when the opposition—to the government's mind, anyway—gets out of bounds.

Incidentally, Deputy Speaker Thomas Vien (Lib. Montreal-Outremont) got into a bit of a tangle with the rules when he called New Democracy Leader John Blackmore to order for exceeding the 40-minute limit on speeches....Mr. Blackmore was speaking to his motion of want of confidence in the government—subsequently ruled out of order—and there's no time limit on that sort of address.

When Charles Parent (Lib. Quebec West and South) objected to delay in availability of copies of the budget in French there were probably groans in the translation bureau....A staff of 20 worked on the translation job budget night to get copies ready for the press—but they didn't finish the job until away after midnight because it was given to them too late.

The budget provision for compulsory savings repayable after the war got Finace Minister Ilsley compared with King Henry VII (1485-1509) ....Charles E. Ferland (Lib. Joliette-L'Assomption-Montcalm) recalled that the King, "impoverished at the end of the war of the roses, filled the empty coffers in his treasury through compulsory loans levied from the nobility"....but, said Mr. Ferland, Mr. Ilsley was kinder than King Henry because the King "never saw fit to repay his subjects."

Lapointe (Matapedia-Matane), LAC. Ree Jutras (Provencher), and Lieut. W. A. Tucker (Rosthern)....That makes eight...."Well," said Mr. Cruickshank, puzzled, "I forgot one before."

Some of the oddest letters sent to Ottawa these days land in the office of Elliott M. Little, director of national selective service....One lad in a basket factory complained his boss constantly threatened to fire him and he thought selective service prevented that...."I want something from you to show him that I got him by the hair," he said....But the regulations don't go that far....The relative of a former leading citizen keeps writing to Mr. Little trying to get backing for an insurance company he wants to start....And there's the unmarried mother who keeps wanting to know how to apply for a job without disclosing she has a baby.

Letter To Editor

PETERBOROUGH GO AND DO LIKEWISE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The citizens of this district should be interested in the following account of the Cookstown and District "Warship Week."

It is well-known that the people of Northern Ireland are not wealthy—indicative of this is the fact that the telephone directory for the whole country, including Belfast, is little larger than the one we use in Peterborough. Yet in this savings campaign, much like our Victory Bond efforts, the results were remarkable. "Cookstown and District" means the town of Cookstown, less than one-quarter the size of Peterborough, and three very small villages—almost hamlets—Coagh, Pomeroy and Stewartstown, with the not-too-good countryside surrounding these places.

I now quote from the Mid-Ulster Mail of Saturday, May 23rd:

"In no part of the country has there been such keen competition as in Cookstown and district, for which a target of £25,000 had been fixed. This was passed on Tuesday, and a new target fixed at £50,000 was exceeded by a considerable margin on Thursday. A new target of £75,000 was then set up, and there is every confidence that this too will be reached, if not passed, before Saturday night's final figure is announced."

What an achievement for a district of fifteen square miles, and not more wealthy or populous than a similar district in Peterborough county. Seventy-five thousand pounds means about $300,000. And taxation in Ulster is higher than it is here. As a native of Cookstown district, I am proud of it. As a citizen of Peterborough, I say, go and do likewise.

In the same paper there was an account of a parade held in Cookstown on the Wednesday of their "Warship Week." Again I quote: "The feature of this parade was undoubtedly the unexpected appearance of an American Army band which headed the parade....and an impressive contingent of American troops."

JOHN ALLEN.

WHERE IS THE PIPE BAND?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Standing as an admiring spectator on Wednesday, watching the march of the Training Camp boys and our own Prince of Wales Rangers, the thought arose: where is our pipe band?

That this was a question in the minds of others is proved by comments overheard in the crowds who thronged the sidewalks.

It is conceded by soldiers generally that pipe music is second to none for marching, and that the Highland dress supplies a touch of life and color sadly lacking in our present day mechanized parades.

The names of Bill Petrie, Jack Smith, Bob Hendry, Alex Milne, Bob French and Stroyan Leith come to mind when thinking of days gone past when no parade was complete without our pipe band; surely they have not forgotten the days of 1914-18 when they swung along behind the skirling pipes to play their parts in the First Great War. Among the many Scotsmen here in Peterborough cannot enough be found willing to come forward to give us back our Pipe Band: it would be an asset to the community.

"BONNIE DUNDEE."

PAPER ORDERS

With a prospect that the sales of newsprint paper by Canadian mills this year may be 400,000 tons less than in 1941, the question of an equitable distribution of available orders to Canadian mills becomes again one of primary importance.

It is one which is important to the Sault and to other paper manufacturing communities throughout the country.

Unless the mills and the workmen are to be taken over for war production, a proper distribution of the work at hand seems just.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

Our Idle Resources

We are accustomed to hear Canada praised as a land of great natural resources, but if we do nothing to develop those resources we might as well be without them. Precious metals, base metals and minerals which we are content to leave in the ground provide us with nothing save material for chauvinistic boasting. Certainly after the war we should evolve some national plan of exploiting, as advantageously as possible, our resources.

This matter was stressed on Thursday by Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University, who is Chairman of the Committee on Conservation and Development, which is in turn a subsidiary of the Interdepartmental Advisory Committee on Postwar Reconstruction. Canada, he said, should make better use of her scientists. Russia has set out upon a thorough exploitation of Northern Siberia and has engaged her metallurgists, her scientists and her chemists to undertake this work. Canada, on the contrary, has no new properties coming into production and the development of her mines has ceased entirely. After the war Dr. Wallace believes that Canadian scientists should be engaged to direct the exploitation of our northland, and that men discharged from the armed forces and from industry should be absorbed, as far as possible, into this new work. He particularly recommended a large-scale development of the base-metal industry.

Implicit in Dr. Wallace's address was criticism of the way in which Canada's development has been retarded by lack of adequate encouragement and wise control; his analogy with Russia was well-timed. We could learn much from that country in the matter of exploiting our natural resources, and the fact that we are opposed to Russian political theory is no reason for refusing to copy Russian common sense. The world which will emerge from this war will be one in which no country will be able to neglect any of its assets, and Canadian science and Canadian resources may not be left idle when they can be developed for the advantage of the Canadian people.

Post-War Wheat Pool

Great Britain, the United States, Australia, Argentina and Canada have entered into a post-war wheat pooling agreement which is undoubtedly a far-sighted and ingenious plan; it should do much to keep world economy on a stable basis during the period of re-building and re-adjustment which must follow this war. Under this agreement Canada is given forty per cent. of world wheat exports, so long as it does not exceed 500,000,000 bushels; Argentina is the next largest sharer with twenty-five per cent., while Australia has nineteen per cent. and the U.S. sixteen per cent. Britain comes into the agreement as an important customer and not as a producer.

The terms of the agreement also stipulate that the producing countries shall not produce wheat in excess of domestic needs, basic export quotas and maximum reserve stocks as these shall be determined. This is going to force the Government to adopt a system of wheat acreage limitation, and by so doing it may solve a problem which has long been vexing the Canadian West.

The Glorious Fourth

We celebrated our national day on Wednesday, and our great neighbour celebrates hers today. This is a happy chance, for it means that we still have some of our enthusiasm left over, and he is a poor Canadian who does not spare a thought for the great republic on her day of days. None of us is less a Canadian, or less loyal to our Mother Country, because he loves the United States. We in Canada are happily placed so that we may avail ourselves of two great strains of tradition, deriving from Britain and the U.S.; the Canadian who attempts to limit himself to only one of these strains is as foolish as a man who attempts to walk with one leg. Nor is the word tradition one to be feared by a young country; tradition does not mean that the living are dead — it means on the contrary that the dead are alive, and we who make ourselves free of two great traditions invite not merely Alfred the Great and Oliver Cromwell, but also Washington and Lincoln to take a hand in shaping our destiny.

The people of the United States are now, like ourselves, engaged in a great war in which all our traditions and indeed everything which we hold dear must be defended against an enemy which is strong and cunning physically, though base and contemptible morally. We did not begin the quarrel, and we were late to take it up; as a result we have had some grievous reverses. But there are other battles to come, and the day is not far distant when we shall be the ones to pick the ground, strike the first blow, and give the coup de grace. It was Josh Billings, an American, who formulated a precept of war which the United Nations must follow—

Thrice is he armed that hath his quarrel just;
And four times he who gets his fist in fust.

Hearty congratulations and good wishes to our friends over the border, and may the spirit which inspired them when they 'fit the redcoats' be with them now that they fight with the redcoats and the Reds.

Jealousy In Germany

An old German proverb says: "Jealousy does more harm than witchcraft." Dr. Goebbels, who is a professional fancier of all things which are German and which spring from the heat of Nordic blood, probably wishes that there were less truth in this scrap of folk-wisdom. Having labored for years to raise the birthrate in Germany by casting a glamor over sexual promiscuity, he now finds that German soldiers are worried because their wives are unfaithful to them in their absence. This is understandable enough; German women are assured that their highest duty is to produce soldiers for the Fuehrer, and they are determined to fulfil their destiny by hook or crook. Those who have read Gregor Ziemer's interesting book, Education For Death, know how this state of things has been brought about.

Now the ugly little doctor is lecturing German wives through the press on the subject of marital fidelity. "He who is fighting for German culture, customs and education must be sure of his wife's fidelity, otherwise he has no cause to fight," says a Dresden paper, and the same moral sentiment is expressed in many others. It looks as though the Munich Mickey Mouse found himself in the position of a Sorcerer's Apprentice who has started something which he cannot finish.

Hope And Warning

There was so much news of greater importance in the papers yesterday that we fear our readers may have missed three minor items which, nevertheless, we consider significant. The first of these concerns a girl employed in a department store in Cincinnati who sprained her wrist while tugging a 'non-open' latex girdle on a customer. The second comes from Toronto, where a lady fell off a merry-go-round and broke her leg. And the third, from Michigan, tells us that the animal husbandry department of the State University has discovered that a non-scented lotion made of lime water and raw linseed oil will protect white pigs from sunburn.

In these three apparently unconnected and diverse items we find both a hope and a warning. While nations are locked in a mighty struggle not all the casualties are on the field of glory. An attempt to squeeze a too-large lady into a too-small girdle may result in serious injury, although on the surface it seems to be a peaceful, if unduly optimistic, employment. And the pursuit of pleasure may take its toll; a diet of hot-dogs, Eskimo pies and pop, followed by a brisk spin on a merry-go-round, may result in a broken leg. At no time are we ever completely safe. On the other hand we have such strongly developed humanitarianism that not even a hog is allowed to be sunburned if we can help it, and a special hog-lotion has been evolved to protect these susceptible beasts. In order not to hurt the hog's feelings, the lotion is unscented, which we consider the height of tact.

Obviously we are moving toward a better life. True, there are many risks to be encountered in even the most peaceful task, but no one can say that we are not taking every precaution.

Further Notes On Holiday Reading

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

STILL working on the assumption that there may be some readers of this column who may wish to hear about the new books which might be suitable for vacation reading I shall discuss four new books and one reprint of a classic today. The new books are published by Macmillans; indeed, most of the books which I receive for review are the property of that company, and if you assume therefrom that Macmillans are the only important publishers of fiction in this country you will not be far wrong.

I cannot speak in high terms of Granville Hicks' novel, "Only One Storm." The title is a part of a New England proverb—"There's only been one storm that never cleared up — and that's this one." The storm to which the author refers is the present world situation, which he discusses at length through the mouths of a great number of characters whom he places in a New England village. Canby Kittredge is an advertising executive who gives up his work to return to the town of his boyhood, there to run a job-printing press. He and his wife join in the community life, but there are plenty of visitors from the outside world to keep them from becoming parochial in view. And there in their village of Pendleton they talk and fret and fret and talk about the world situation until the reader is almost distracted.

THE blurb on the cover of the book assures me that this is "wonderful talk." I deny it flatly. Most of it is nonsense. To make a fictitious character speak of the late Neville Chamberlain as a 'bastard' and a 'son of a bitch' is not wonderful talk; it is just rude foolishness. And most of the concern with which Mr. Hicks endows his puppets when they discuss world affairs is no more than what Mr. Churchill has labelled 'fretfulness'; they fret about Spain, and Czechoslovakia and Munich for pages on end. The advertisements have compared this book to Sinclair Lewis' "Main Street"; it is not within fifty miles of that work. When will writers learn that a novel is something more than a fictionalized version of one's personal fussing?

Far less pretentious and far more of a novel is "Drivin' Woman," by Elizabeth Pickett Chevalier. It is one of the numerous spawn of "Gone With The Wind," but it sets out to entertain the reader and it succeeds splendidly in doing so. It begins in the American South after the Civil War, when America Collier Moncure is faced with the problem of somehow making life bearable for herself and her sisters. Her adventures lead her to marry a river-boat gambler and to fall in with an industrial pioneer, who operated in the days when industry still afforded plenty of scope for a not very admirable sort of cleverness. The book also has a background of tobacco dealing which has an authentic ring and which is certainly very interesting. "Drivin' Woman" does not pretend to be anything more than entertainment, but it gives good measure in that respect. Its author has worked for many years in Hollywood, and her book shows some of the sureness, the slick technique and the clarity of good film writing. It is not impossible that Mrs. Chevalier had her eye on the film market when she wrote it.

IF YOU are not in the mood for novels, and want to read something about the war, I can strongly recommend two books by Quentin Reynolds; the first, which is an informal biography, is called "Convoy" and the second, which is about his more recent experiences in Russia and in Britain, is called "Only The Stars Are Neutral." Both are excellent reporting, of the jovial and somewhat exuberant type for which this foreign correspondent is well known. Reynolds' strictures on British censorship are entertaining, and his intimate glimpses of important figures in London and Moscow are interesting without being especially significant. Though they are about the war these two books are frankly intended to be entertainment.

Already this column has sung the praises of Count Leo Tolstoy's great novel "War And Peace" as reading for the present moment in history. This story of Napoleon's invasion of Russia and his defeat there has no equal in literature. It is a monumental work, touching upon every aspect of humanity with sureness and simplicity. If I were asked to give a name to its most remarkable characteristic I should be forced to choose its inclusiveness. Like Shakespeare (whom, by the way, he did not admire) Tolstoy saw everything and wrote about everything. Hitherto this novel has been available only in reprint libraries not distinguished for the excellence of their typography, and to read "War And Peace" in small type is trying to the eyes. Now it has been published in a handsome new edition with large type, a number of maps, and a helpful pamphlet which explains some of the intricacies of the Russian name system and the chronology of the book. There is also an introduction by Clifton Fadiman, which reads better now than it will in a few years. To be asked to contribute an introduction to a novel such as this one is a dangerous compliment; what can one say which will add anything to the work itself? I recommend this new edition to you heartily; it is easy to read and handsome as a piece of book-making.

Letter To Editor

PETERBOROUGH GO AND DO LIKEWISE

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—The citizens of this district should be interested in the following account of the Cookstown and District "Warship Week."

It is well-known that the people of Northern Ireland are not wealthy—indicative of this is the fact that the telephone directory for the whole country, including Belfast, is little larger than the one we use in Peterborough. Yet in this savings campaign, much like our Victory Bond efforts, the results were remarkable. "Cookstown and District" means the town of Cookstown, less than one-quarter the size of Peterborough, and three very small villages—almost hamlets—Coagh, Pomeroy and Stewartstown, with the not-too-good countryside surrounding these places.

I now quote from the Mid-Ulster Mail of Saturday, May 23rd:

"In no part of the country has there been such keen competition as in Cookstown and district, for which a target of £25,000 had been fixed. This was passed on Tuesday, and a new target fixed at £50,000 was exceeded by a considerable margin on Thursday. A new target of £75,000 was then set up, and there is every confidence that this too will be reached, if not passed, before Saturday night's final figure is announced."

What an achievement for a district of fifteen square miles, and not more wealthy or populous than a similar district in Peterborough county. Seventy-five thousand pounds means about $300,000. And taxation in Ulster is higher than it is here. As a native of Cookstown district, I am proud of it. As a citizen of Peterborough, I say, go and do likewise.

In the same paper there was an account of a parade held in Cookstown on the Wednesday of their "Warship Week." Again I quote: "The feature of the parade was undoubtedly the unexpected appearance of an American Army band which headed the parade....and an impressive contingent of American troops."

JOHN ALLEN.

WHERE IS THE PIPE BAND?

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—Standing as an admiring spectator on Wednesday, watching the march of the Training Camp boys and our own Prince of Wales Rangers, the thought arose: where is our pipe band?

That this was a question in the minds of others is proved by comments overheard in the crowds who thronged the sidewalks.

It is conceded by soldiers generally that pipe music is second to none for marching, and that the Highland dress supplies a touch of life and color sadly lacking in our present day mechanized parades.

The names of Bill Petrie, Jack Smith, Bob Hendry, Alex Milne, Bob French and Stroyan Leith come to mind when thinking of days gone past when no parade was complete without our pipe band; surely they have not forgotten the days of 1914-18 when they swung along behind the skirling pipes to play their parts in the First Great War. Among the many Scotsmen here in Peterborough cannot enough be found willing to come forward to give us back our Pipe Band: it would be an asset to the community.

"BONNIE DUNDEE."

PAPER ORDERS

With a prospect that the sales of newsprint paper by Canadian mills this year may be 400,000 tons less than in 1941, the question of an equitable distribution of available orders to Canadian mills becomes again one of primary importance.

It is one which is important to the Sault and to other paper manufacturing communities throughout the country.

Unless the mills and the workmen are to be taken over for war production, a proper distribution of the work at hand seems just.—Sault Ste. Marie Star.

CANADA'S ARMY TODAY IS DOMINION'S GREATEST INVESTMENT

Electric Spud-Peelers Take Sting Out Of K. P. Duty

Full-time potato peeling jobs are a thing of the past for Private Jack Canuck. Today's army kitchen is equipped with a bright, shiny electric potato peeler that can slice the skin of a spud in the time it took a kitchen fatigue man to do three. Using electric potato peelers to save valuable man hours is only one innovation of Canada's top-notch Ordnance Corps. Every weapon and article of clothing with which a soldier is issued comes from the Ordnance Corps. And the speed with which the modernization of weapons and clothing has taken place is due in great part to the work of the men of that Corps.

Rations Help Make Soldiers Like New Men

This war's soldier is a very special kind of fighter. More than ever before, initiative, energy, speed and alertness are required of him. To do a real job of work when he goes into action against the enemy he will need to have these qualities developed to the full. Training alone will not do it. Proper eating and living are just as important.

It naturally follows that army leaders have insisted that appropriate attention be paid to sound dietary principles in the preparation of military menus. Constant attention is given to improving, wherever possible, the present issue of rations. Better ways of preparing and serving food are constantly sought. Care is taken to see that as much as possible of the original food value is retained in the meals the soldier gets.

Quality the Best

Meats and vegetables of the best grade go into the army. And rations are supplied aplenty. There is enough for everybody and generally, everybody takes pleasure in eating his fill.

For a time there was a slight difficulty. Some men reported inability to eat their meals. Army catering and messing officers were puzzled to know why. Rations were of the best and much care was being taken in their preparation. It was found that the men complaining were prefacing their meals with snacks from the canteens—buying soft drinks, hot dogs and candies. These, taken within an hour of a meal, reduced appetites. Occasionally they would cause nausea at the sight of a meal.

The habit of "snacking" so soon before a meal can seriously impair health and bring about ulcerated stomachs, to which the loss of appetite is trivial. The habit was counteracted by inducing officers to forbid the purchase of such snacks, except glasses of milk, within an hour of mealtime.

Cooks Highly Trained

Army cooking is done under varying conditions. The military cook must be able to prepare meals for his men on the march, under the handicaps of action in the field as well as under the ideal conditions of the modernly equipped camp kitchen. Field cookery is an art that requires skill and practice.

"You can't have too many cooks in a division," a Canadian Major General said recently. He placed emphasis on having men, preferably those who had never had previous culinary experience, go through military cookery schools and learn how to prepare an appetizing meal for themselves as for their mates in the field. By getting men who had never cooked professionally before to attend the school that general multiplied the number of capable cooks in his force by several times. These men now work wonders with rations under conditions which would stagger the chefs of first rate hotels.

Variety the Rule

The men realize what has been done for them in the way of meals in the new army and are appreciative. There is much provision for "changes" so that the week's diet does not settle into any unvarying routine. Getting away from the business of serving the same old meals cooked in the same old way week in and week out has paid dividends. The balanced attractive diet has done much to maintain energy speed and alertness in the new soldier. It has also aided in sickness prevention.

Proper hygiene and carefully supervised sanitation keep sickness out of kitchens, out of the preparation and serving of meals.

George Cross Established By King George Ranks Next To Victoria Cross For Valor

"Many and glorious are the deeds of gallantry done during these perilous but famous days.

"In order that they should be worthily and promptly recognized I have decided to create at once a new mark of honour for men and women in allwalks of life."

The cross is, therefore, suitable for recognizing heroic acts performed by civilians. There is, however, a military division permitting its award to members of the fighting forces. The Empire Gallantry Medal, which formerly ranked second to the V.C., will be absorbed and present holders will receive the George Cross in its place.

The George Medal created at the same time as the George Cross, is given for acts of civilian bravery. It will be awarded more freely than the Cross.

The Canadian infantryman is a vigorous, determined soldier and this drawing by Grant Macdonald, Toronto artist, captures the spirit of action which is typical of the men. The bayonet, highly effective weapon of World War I, is still an important part of the soldier's equipment.

Close Check Is Kept On Finances By Complex Machinery In Army

OTTAWA, June 27.—Purse strings of the Canadian Army are controlled by an eagle-eyed band of civilians who try to see to it that not a cent of unnecessary expense is entailed in the operation of the nation's fighting forces.

This organization is the treasury branch of the Department of Finance with offices located in Ottawa and district treasury offices located at each military district headquarters throughout Canada.

The treasury branch issues and accounts for all the funds spent for activities of the Department of National Defence.

How Money Is Handled

The general financial procedure in connection with the release of funds is that estimates are first approved by Parliament or a portion of the supply voted. Treasury branch at the beginning of the fiscal year requests the different directorates at Ottawa to state the amounts which are to be allotted to the several district officers commanding, and the amounts which it is desired to retain for payments at headquarters.

These amounts are submitted in a detailed breakdown covering the various major activities or classifications of expenditure such as salaries and wages, pay and allowances, travelling, transportation and freight, stores and equipment, food supplies, medical and dental stores and services, etc.

When the amounts have been decided upon all district officers commanding and each local district treasury officer is advised. The latter sets up his financial records according to the various classified allotments and then in a position to certify as to the availability of funds for commitment purposes.

Under the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act of Canada no commitments can be entered into until funds have been certified as available by a treasury representative. At the end of each month a report is submitted by each district treasury officer to the chief treasury officer at Ottawa showing for each of the district allotments how much is left for further financial demands.

Meanwhile, all issues of funds are reported from all military districts daily. In this way the financial disbursements the commitments and the unexpended balance are under control and ascertainable shortly after the last monthly statement from all military district has been received at Ottawa.

The outside treasury offices make disbursements for pay and allowances for all the military forces in the districts, and maintain a ledger sheet for each man on which is recorded all his payments. The district treasury officers also make payments of general accounts and local claims such as food supplies, operating expenses of properties, light, heat, fuel, etc.

Army Payroll

In connection with recent public discussions on saluting, it is recalled that during the last war there was a common sentiment generally accepted by all other ranks. It was that they were always happy to salute two individuals, the paymaster and the sergeant cook.

The procedure in connection with the issue of pay and allowances is as follows:

The unit paymaster requisitions on his field cashier or district paymaster for the amount of cash he requires for the pay day parade. This requisition is passed to the district treasury officer who issues a cheque for the full amount, charging the unit concerned. The cheque is passed to the unit paymaster who procures the cash and obtains the signatures on an acquittance roll of each of the men to whom pay is issued.

These acquaintance rolls are passed through the same channel to the district treasury officer who enters the amount on a man's individual ledger sheet.

This ledger sheet follows the man wherever he goes, whether from one district to another or overseas and return. At the end of each month the unit paymaster submits the paylists which contain a full statement of the credits due to the soldier, the amounts paid, the regimental charges and deductions for other purposes such as assigned pay, war savings certificates and victory bonds, etc.

Money for Munitions

Most of the payments for the large quantities of munitions of war and supplies of various kinds are made direct from headquarters, Ottawa.

As a further safeguard of the public interest, the auditor general of Canada has located one of the chief examiners of his department, F. L. Price, and his staff of auditors next to the treasury offices at national defence headquarters, whose duties are not only the test checking of accounts but also to see that proper principles of accounting are followed and an adequate system of accounting procedure and records maintained at all times by the treasury staffs.

This is a war innovation and the close liaison between the two departments has proved of immense value. To this is due in large measure the smooth an efficient working of the treasury organization which from a peace time basis of 165 employees has expanded to a total of 824 employees at Ottawa and in the various military districts of Canada.

Central Office

In the treasury office at Ottawa are centralized all financial accounting and arrangements for a large number of other services of various kinds such as arranging for monies to be deposited at outside points where the Canadian forces are stationed.

Here also is centralized the payment of transportation accounts from the railway companies for travelling of all military personnel, for the movement of freight from one point to another, for charter of vessels and ocean transportation of troops sent overseas.

The tremendous number of vouchers in connection with all these payments made at the various disbursing centres throughout Canada flow to Ottawa where they are dealt with under the most modern machine accounting system.

Cards are punched in accordance with the classifications coded upon each voucher and machine statements run off for all the various classifications of expenditure. There are 900 objects of expenditure in this classification.

The most convenient breakdown, however, is by primary classifications under certain headings such as construction and repairs, armament stores, ammunition and the categorious previously referred to.

These classifications have changed with changing conditions of warfare. At present many millions of dollars are spent on tanks and universal carriers, items which did not appear in the expenditures of the last war. On the other hand, during 1914-18 many hundreds of dollars were spent on the purchase of remounts, army parlance for cavalry horses. From the beginning of the present war to date the amount spent on purchase of horses totals $2,480 only and this amount was expended in 1939.

Machine Accounting

The adoption of the modern machine accounting methods was initiated in April, 1939, prior to the outbreak of war. For a period of over 12 months prior to this, Watson Sellar, who is now auditor general but was then comptroller of the treasury, with B. G. McIntyre, assistant comptroller, had organized several committees which met every week to consider the financial arrangements that might be necessary to adopt in case of mobilization.

Due to this foresight on the part of the then comptroller of the treasury, when mobilziation took place the most modern accounting system had been installed in the department of national defence.

Larger Operations

Comparison of the expenditure on war appropriation for army services during the progress of the 1914-18 war with the financial picture during the present conflict shows how much larger the scale of operations is. The fiscal years 1914-15 to 1919-20 represent the main spending years. During this period the total expenditure for war amounted to $1,529,051,970.

In the fiscal years 1920-21 war appropriation dropped to $12,980,207. In 1921-22 the vote changed to "adjustment of war claims."

1922-23	$4,454,182

Thereafter the amounts decreased yearly to thousands only on a gradually diminishing scale. The overall expenditure from 1914-15 to 1938-39 on Great War appropriation and adjustment of war claims, army services, was $1,599,160,548. In the first half of the 1939-40 fiscal year the war appropriation expenditure on army services, exclusive of navy and air, was $68,192,594. This compares with $53,000,000 for the first half of the 1914-15 fiscal year.

For the fiscal year 1940-41, however, army expenditures had jumped to $383,234,590 and in 1941-42 they had soared to about $500,000,000.

In the first two years and seven months the army expenditures were, accordingly, 85 per cent higher than in the like period of the last war.

Joined Rafters Origin Of The Soldiers' Stripes

When the young private takes his first step up the military ladder he proudly displays a chevron or stripe. Since 1803 this device has been used to mark the non-commissioned officer, but its origin belongs to heraldy and a much more distant past.

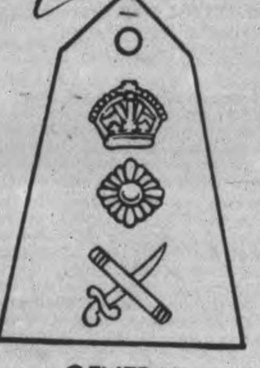
In its ancient heraldic form, with point upward, the chevron represented the joined rafters of a roof. It was used as a badge of honor to signify the main supporters of the head of the clan, who was the "top of the house." It came to be employed in various forms as an emblem of rank for the knights and men-at-arms in feudal days and in the reign of George IV was included in army insignia.

SERGEANT'S STRIPES

The chevron has been used in many different ways in various armies and navies, but to denote non-commissioned rank in British armies it now is always worn with point down.

General's Baton Dates From Caesar's Time

When the mighty Caesar was carrying fire and sword through Western Europe he took with him as a symbol of authority a rod or staff which today is still used in the rank insignia of a general. Its modern name of baton was apparently given to it when it was first used in France by Henri of Navarre.



GENERAL

On the shoulder straps of a full general, shown above, it appears crossed with a sword. In the case of a field-marshal, highest army rank, two batons are crossed over a wreath.

The general's insignia also contain the crown and a star, the latter usually the star of the Order of the Bath.

The crown appears in many rank badges. Alone, it indicates a major. Combined with one star it signifies a lieut.-colonel; with two stars, a colonel, and with three stars, a brigadier.

The crown does not appear in the insignia of a major-general, but is again found in all the higer ranks including the field marshal.

RETURNING VET - - By Jack Sords

Royals Weaken As Winners Score 5 Runs

Luckies took sole possession of second place in the City Softball League race Friday night when they defeated the Royals 8 to 4 in an interesting tilt at Riverside Park.

Over most of the route it was a tight pitcher's battle beween Bill Lewis for the winners and Bill Fraser for the Royals but the latter weakened in the later stages and was not helped by several errors of omission and commission by his teammates.

Luckies took the lead by scoring a run in the first frame and they carried that slender marging until the fifth when Royals scored twice to go in front. Luckies came back with two in the sixth to move into the van again but the Parnell outfit got one back in the first of the seventh and evened it all up again. However the winners kicked in with three in their half and made it sure with another pair in the eighth.

Lewis pitched effectively for the winners and with the exception of a couple of frames kept the Royal hits well scattered. Fraser went along nicely until he ran into trouble in the seventh and eighth.

Frank McCormick was the batting hero for the winners, driving in five run with a homer, double and a fly that sent in a runner. Lewis and Stewart each had two hits. Hawks, Pryde and Fraser had two safe blows each for the Royals.

There were some nice fielding plays on both sides. Phil Pryde made a fine running grab of a drive to right centre for Royals and George Hawks handled a flock of chances at third base. For the winners Bill Moorhead ran far into foul territory to pull off a smart catch of a long foul.

Luckies started the scoring in the first. A. Caccavella beat out an infield tap Lewis single on the ground into right and Stewart got a scratch hit when Fraser slipped in fielding his tap. That filled the bases. Moorhead hit to Hawks who threw Caccavella out at the plate. McCormick's fly to short right was taken by Giardino who ran out to make the play. Lewis scored after the catch. Jameson walked but M. Caccavella rolled out.

That was all the scoring until the fifth when Royals went in front. Fraser drew a pass to open the inning and after Parnell had popped to Jameson, advanced on a wild pitch. Hawks singled to left, scoring Fraser. Smith bunted and was safe when Lewis fielded the ball and then hit the runner. Pryde's solid single to centre scored Hawks. Giardino was safe on a single to short to fill the bases but two forceouts ended the frame without any more scoring.

Luckies took the lead again in the sixth. Moorhead was safe on D. Holmes' error and McCormick homered to right centre to score two runs. The batter pulled up at third but was waved home for interference at second by Giardino. Pryde made a fine catch of Jameson's good bid for a hit. M. Caccavella singled to left but was forced by Mowry and Lloyst rolled out.

The winners retaliated with three. A. Caccavella walked but was forced by Lewis. Stewart doubled to left sending Lewis to third. Moorhead walked, filling the bases. McCormick doubled to right to score Lewis and Stewart. On Jameson's infield tap, McCormick ran Moorhead off third but Royals balled up the rundown play and eventually McCormick scrambled back to second and Moorhead scored. The next two rolled out.

In the eighth the Luckies came back with a pair. Lloyst started with a single to centre. A Caccavella walked for the third time. Lewis forced Lloyst at third. Stewart rolled to Hawks, forcing Caccavella at third but the throw to second for a double was high and Lewis scored on the play. Moorhead's double to left supplied transportation home for Stewart after which McCormick struck out.

Royals had a chance in the ninth but the big innings petered out. Fraser singled to centre and Parnell to right. Hawks walked, filling the bases. Smith popped to M. Caccavella. Pryde forced Parnell at third, Fraser scoring and Giardino rolled out to end the game.

No 9 o'Clock Gun

VANCOUVER, July 4.—(CP). — Vancouver's famous nine o'clock gun, which has been fired as a time signal at 9 P.M., P.D.T. almost every night since being set up in Stanley Park in 1894, will be silent for the duration. Its nightly blast has been eliminated to save explosives.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

With the City League swiftly verging around to the last lap before the playoffs the other clubs in the loop have arrived at the conclusion that it is time something was done about stopping the Plazas who have won five out of their last six starts and are leading the parade. Royals have a chance to start the stop-the-Plazas campaign when they clash with the hockey squad at Riverside Park in a decidedly important league battle on Monday night. Royals defeated the Plazas in the opening game of the season but were in turn beaten the next time out and this will be the rubber fixture. It should be a tough, close contest between two well-matched clubs and furnish plenty of excitement for the fans. Both outfits are anxious to win and they will parade their strongest battle array for this occasion. Either Dave Wilson or Tom Parsons will be the gunner for Plaza and Ronnie Akers or Bill Fraser will get the call in the Royals' camp. The game will start at 7 o'clock and should be a hummer.

Brintons and Electrics will battle in the Girls' Softball League at the Ashburnham Bowl Monday night and it should be an even-stephen sort of a contest between two evenly-matched outfits. Both these clubs have been depending upon girls new to the loop and naturally there has been some bad ball at times. The youngsters, however, are improving. They are anxious to learn the game as is shown by the fact that after Elcetrics had absorbed a bad beating at the hands of the Westclox, the other night the whole team remained after the game and held a fielding practice. With that kind of spirit the Electrics are bound to improve and the same thing is true of Brintons who have plenty of enthusiasm. Two clubs, now occupying slots in the lower bracket of the league race, should put on a real battle Monday night. The pitching choices look like Leila Hughes for Brintons and Mary Larmer for Electrics.

Luckies grabbed off an important game Friday night when they doubled the score on the Royals to win 8 to 4 and take sole possession of second place, only a game behind the leading Plazas. Manager Griffin's team are playing good ball. They have effective pitching from Bill Lewis and a lot of power, especially since Frank McCormick has started to come through with plenty of hits. The outfielder had four blows in his second last game and last night drove in five of his club's eight runs. The battle with Royals was decidedly close for seven innings until Luckies built up a three-run splurge that took them too far out in front for the Parnell gang to overhaul them. Royals couldn't produce the punch when it was needed. They had the bases full in one innings but failed to score and in the ninth when the first three batters got on the runways they could only chase one marker across. Earl McNabb and Eddie Murphy were Royal absentees. The former is on holidays while Eddie has enlisted with the Royal Canadian Air Force and leaves shortly to take a course at Galt.

First Blood For Yanks

The New York Yanks have at least made sure that they will be leading the American League parade on July 4, something that was doubtful when they opened an all-important three game series with Boston Red Sox yesterday, only three games in front. A clean sweep by Joe Cronin's hired help would have left the two clubs tied at the half way mark but the Yanks cleared the first hurdle by knocking off the challengers 5 to 3. They jumped to the attack in the first inning by chasing three runs across but Red Sox came back with a pair in their half then sewed up the game by scoring a single counter in the third. However the Yanks went into the van again with a run in the fourth and added another marker in the sixth. It was a win for Spurgeon Chandler who held the losers to eight hits. The loss was marked against Charlie Wagner, Boston starting pitcher, who was relieved by Brown in the seventh. The victory increased the Yanks' lead to four games. The two clubs are billed to play a double-header today.

Brooklyn Dodgers lengthened their margin over the Cards to 8½ games by shellacking the Phillies 8 to 1 yesterday while the St. Louis gang were losing a tight game to the Pittsburg Pirates 5 to 4. Whit Wyatt pitched for the Bums and had little trouble in grabbing off his eighth victory of the year. He held the Phils to five hits while the Dodgers were combing half a dozen Philadelphia pitchers to the tune of 13 solid blows. The loss went to Hoerst and it was his ninth of the year. The opposing pitchers in the Pittsburg-Cards' battle when the game opened were Lanning for the Pirates and Lon Warneke for St. Louis but neither of them was there at the finish. However they stayed in long enough for Lanning to get credit for a win and for Warneke to be charged up with a loss. Elbie Fletcher and Vince DiMaggio poled out homers for the winners, in the first and second innings respectively.

Sergt. R. J. MacLaren of Renfrew turned the track and field events on the sports program at the Military Training Centre yesterday into a one-man show. There were seven events on the card altogether and the Renfrew sergeant garnered five first prizes and finished second in two other contests, a pretty good showing for a whole track and field team. MacLaren who has covered the 100 yards dash in the even 10, cleaned up the three sprints, finishing first in the 100, 220 and quarter mile events. Then to show his all-round proficiency he grabbed off the running broad jump and the hop, step and jump. MacLaren's performance was the highlight of the afternoon. In the softball series for the camp championship Headquarters came through in big league style with Irish Kilfoyle pulling the iron man stunt by pitching nad winning two games for the camp title-holders. All the companies had teams in the competition and the series should have afforded an opportunity to get a line on possible reinforcements for the Military Training Centre club in the City Softball League. Soldiers are now tied with Royals for third place in the loop race, two games behind the leaders and a little more punch for the drive down the stretch wouldn't do the team from the camp any harm.

One member of Peterborough's gift to the Hamilton Tigers did quite well by himself last night when the Hamilton outfit who appear to be picking up momentum as they go along walloped the Mann Cup champions, the St. Catharines Athletics 16 to 12. Mick Magee who started at wing on the first line was evidently going good for he helped himself to two goals and had assists on a couple of other Hamilton counters. Rowan Chute who is playing defence for the Tigers got into the score column too but in the penalty division. The Peterborough lad was marked down with a major and a minor penalty to get his name in the box score.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Dewey Williams, new Toronto catcher, broke in with a bang last night....He came through with a three-run homer to help defeat Rochester Red Wings 7 to 5....Ted Williams came up with two doubles against the New York Yanks last evening and DiMaggio went hitless....And yet the latter has been placed in the cleanup position on the All-Star lineup....Somebody must have been looking at an old calendar....Toronto's Dick Fowler, pitching for the A's picked up another loss last night as Washington Senators blanked the Athletics 4 to 0 behind five-hit pitching by Walter Masterson....Johnny Mize, Mel Ott and Mickey Witek all hit homers for the Giants last night as the New Yorkers walloped the Boston Braves 10 to 6....There is a strong suspicion that this Mister Phil Farley is getting to be quite a golfer....Mort Cooper of the Cards looks like a sure-fire starter on the hill top for the National League All-Stars....Last night's win for the Yanks evens the count on the season between the champs and Red Sox....Each club has won two games....And now a spell of holidays looms up so the type-writer goes into cold storage for a couple of weeks.

Pastor Ignores $150,000 Cash "Just For Golf"

NEW YORK, July 4— (AP). — Jimmy Johnston was just about speechless yesterday. As a matter of face, the entire fight industry was struck more or less incoherent.

For the guys in the business had just learned that Rapid Robert Pastor is turning his back on a little matter of $150,000, give or take a few thousand, that he could pick up in a few fights this summer.

Only "Live Guy."

"Just think," moaned Jimmy, as he pushed back the derby hat and placed his head gently in his hands, "here I am with the one real 'live' heavyweight around now that Louis and Conn are in the Army. I'm getting offers for him every day—just look, Cleveland, Los Angeles, Toledo, Pittsburg, Detroit. And what does he say? He doesn't want to fight until the middle of August because he wants some time to play golf.

"All that dough around, and I have to have a guy who would rather knock a ball around a pasture."

This was unheard of in the business of busting beaks. Even if you count it fast $150,000 makes quite a bundle of folding money.

The offers Johnston has received so far make a pile big enough to fill his derby. He can get $25,000 for Rapid Robert to take on Harry Bobo in Pittsburg or Cleveland or both. There's $20,000 waiting for a return go with Jimmy Bivins in Cleveland, and $25,000 more if he will maul with Melio Bettina in Chicago, and $15,000 to fight Lou Nova in Chicago, and $10,000 for Lee Savold in Detroit or Toledo, and either $7,500 or $5,000 to appear against a couple of lesser known lights in Toledo.

As Jimmy was bemoaning matters a telegraph messenger delivered wires which guaranteed Pastor $10,000 to fight either Pat Valentino or Turkey Thompson in Los Angeles.

"So I called Bob up," Johnston related, "and what do you think he told me: 'Boy I fell swell....I just shot an 88. I'm gonna keep playing this game until the middle of August. Then maybe I'll be ready to fight."

"I wonder if that guy thinks they keep that kind of dough on ice just so it'll be fresh whenever he wants it. Golf."

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, July 4 — (AP). — They almost had a "rookie" on the service all-star ball club, and would Mickey Cochrane have been surprised?......Down at the Norfolk Naval Training Station Vincent Ambrose Smith, Jr., who has been doing the catching for Bobby Feller, didn't get any orders to go to Chicago but another Vincent A. Smith did....The wrong Vince was willing and ready to make the jaunt but they finally got the papers fixed....Jack and Cordy Milen, Lammy Lamoreaux and Ed Kretz, who used to pack 'em in at London's Wembley Stadium, shifted their motorcycle racing activities to Hollywood this season....The Empire City hoss track has discontinued its special buses from the railroad station, which probably means more fans will walk to the track and fewer will walk home.

To-day's guest star.

Jack Senn, Toledo Times: "Doc Spears, the University of Toledo's athletic director, head coach and man-about-town, celebrates a birthday July 4 which may or may not account for some of the fireworks produced by his rocket elevens."

Sportpourri:

After that going-over by Manager Joe Cronin, Ted Williams announced: "I'm going fishing."....Wasn't it Diz Dean who used to threaten to go fishin' in "nofus scofus" when he got peeved? And he almost got there....Incidentally that $250 fine was the first ever plastered on Ted and only the second Cronin had handed out in eight years as Sox manager.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

Just why more of our bowlers do not avail themselves of the opportunity to bowl in these Friday night local tournaments is a mystery. It can't be that we are too late getting through; for we were all finished and well down town by 10.45 o'clock. It can't be that there are too many games played in one evening—two 10-end games is not too much bowling for one evening. It can't be that there are any packed rinks; the names are all drawn from the hat. Then, what is the trouble?

These nights have been set aside by the committee with the idea that the bowlers might come out and get acquainted one with another; meet the fellows from the other groups; see how the other fellow does it.

It appears to us that unless the rank and file give more support to these week-end tournaments that the committee might be compelled to alter their schedule.

We suggest to the skips: This coming week explain to the individual members of your rink what it is all about and let's show our appreciation to the boys who are doing the work.

Next Wednesday afternoon and evening the ladies are holding their annual open tournament

And, if the weather fairs up, remember the mixed tourney this evening: 7.30 p.m. is the hour.

East City Cubs Whip Knights

East City Cubs played smart ball on Thursday night to hand the Knights of Columbus club a 10 to 0 trouncing in a Catholic League game.

Hayes, pitching for the winners, held the Knights to five hits and his team mates played snappily behind this effective hurling.

The Cubs took a liking to the offerings of Mongraw on the hilltop for Knights and they combed him for 14 safe hits. They opened out with a four-run barrage in the first inning and simply breezed home after that.

R. Garvey led the Cubs at bat with a double and three singles and Hayes helped his own cause along with double and two singles. Mongraw was the only member of the losing club to get more than one hit. C. O'Donoghue carried off the fielding honors with several shoestring catches in right field.

The teams:

FARLEY CAPTURES ONTARIO OPEN WITH 2-ROUND SCORE OF 139

Has Four-Stroke Edge Upon Burns

TORONTO, July 4. — "No fooling," declared crinkly haired Phil Farley as he tucked the piece of silverware into his club-bag, "it's the big moment in golf for me. I've been dreaming of an important championship victory over this course ever since I was toting clubs around here as a caddy."

The silverware he was tucking away, representing his prize as the 1942 winner of the Ontario Open at Cedar Brae Golf Club, on Friday afternoon with a two-round score of 139.

Wins by Four Strokes.

Over a course he knew first as a caddy back in 1924, Farley Friday added a three-over-par tally to his sub-par 66 of Thursday to out-distance a formidable challenging field by four strokes.

Farley became the second amateur in history to capture the Ontario Open, matching Edmonton's Henry Matell, who was the 1939 winner. The new champion, who represented Cedar Brae in the days when it was known as Cedarbrook, now plays as a Scarboro amateur competitor.

Bob Burns, Weston's defending champion, picked up $100 first prize for the professionals and finished closest to the new titleholder with 143. Dick Borthwick, Oakdale and Bill Lamb, Lambton, former champions, tied for the third spot with 144, Bill Kerr, Cedar Brae pro, was next with 145. Then came Jim Twiss, the lanky Mississauga amateur with 146.

Old Man Par looked down on the Ontario Open field on Friday afternoon, and laughed and laughed. He was still chuckling when it was all over, for closest approach to his standard figures in the second round were Bill Kerr, Bob Gray and Gord Brydson with 71's. The Old Man's count is 70.

Old Man Par Chuckles.

Cedar Brae's first nine par of 36 remained undisturbed on Friday afternoon. The 34-par of the second nine was jolted by only one player, Gord Brydson, who produced a 33.

Farley had 38-35 for 73 on the second round. He experienced trouble at the par five seventh, where he had a six. He had a chanc to repair the damage at the par-four eighth, but three-putted. On the back nine he saved his best chip of the tournament for the eighteenth green, dropping his second dead to the pin for an easy three.

Bill Lamb only two strokes off Farley's opening day pace, ran into putter trouble yesterday, wound up with a 76. Bill missed two from a foot away.

Most of the field found the competition much stiffer than opening day. Gray, Brydson, Kerr and Hugh Borthwick were the exceptions.

Don Sinclair, of Uplands, topped the assistant pros with 154 and picked up $25 prize money for the work.

Lloyd Tucker, the methodical Kitchener professional who rode in third place Thursday with a par 70, dropped off 10 strokes in the second round. His 80 gave him a count of 150 and a tie with Joe Noble, ex-Kitchener shotmaker, now of The Elms.

Farley's Ontario Open victory ads another championship scalp to one of the most imposing records of any Canadian amateur campaigner. He has been five times top amateur in the Canadian Open; runner-up for the Canadian amateur; winner of the Ontario amateur several times; winner of the Quebec amateur twice in a row; winner of the Ontario junior.

The 36-Hole Scores.

For the 36-hole competition Farley collected 27 pars, five birdies, and four bogeys. He missed par four times on Friday, one stroke above the standard count at the seventh, eighth, fifteenth, and the seventeenth.

Cedar Brae par and Farley's second round card:

Par out	.....443 444 544—36
Farley	.......443 444 654—38
Par in	......544 344 433—34—70
Farley	.......444 345 443—35—73

Yanks Turn Upon Boston Red Sox, Lace Them 5-3

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the Fourth of July and New York Yankees are perched safely, at least for a couple of days, atop the American League standings after demonstrating conclusively there was nothing wrong with them that a few base hits couldn't cure.

Tradition has it that the major league leaders on July 4 will be the leaders at the finish, and this American Independence Day finds last year's world series opponents still ruling their respective roosts.

As the teams squared off today for holiday doubleheaders all around both loops, the Yankees boasted a four-game margin in the American League and Brooklyn Dodgers possessed a National League lead of 8½ lengths.

The Yankees puffed into Boston yesterday, a little groggy from their western trip on which they lost 11 or 17 games, and proceeded to show the public in general and the second-place Red Sox in particular that they were only fooling the last three weeks. They swung from their heels and landed a 5-3 haymaker on the same Boston club that had beaten them five times in eight attempts and had won 20 of its last 24 games.

Frankie Crosetti was the standout performer for the Yanks, who made all their eight hits and five runs off Broadway Charlie Wagner in the seven innings he worked. After the Red Sox had come from behind to tie the score at 3-3 in the third, Crosetti singled in the winning marker in the fourth and added a clincher in the form of a sixth-inning home run. Spud Chandler kept eight Boston hits fairly well scattered and hurled shutout ball after the third.

Phils Fall 8-1

The Dodgers also tacked a full game on to their lead, banging Philadelphia Phils around 8-1 while Pittsburgh Pirates were taking care of the second-place St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4.

Whitlow Wyatt tossed a five-hitter at the Phils, who paraded half-a-dozen pitchers to the mound in a vain attempt to halt Brooklyn's 13-hit barrage. Johnny Rizzo, with two hits, drove in three Dodger runs, while Dolph Camilli collected three hits and batted in two runs.

Home runs by Elbie Fletcher and Vince DiMaggio started the Pirates on their way to a four-run lead off Lon Warneke, but Lloyd Dietz had to rescue Johnny Lanning when the Cardinals rallied for three runs in the last two frames. It was Pittsburgh's only triumph in the four-game series.

In the only other game in the National League, the New York Giants took a free-hitting "twinight" decision from Boston Braves, 10-6. Johnny Mize hit his 13th home run and Mel Ott his 12th, with a mate on base. Mickey Witek also poled a two-run homer for the Giants, while Tommy Hughes and Clyde Kluttz homered for the Braves, the latter with two on base.

Two night tilts completed the American League program. Hal Newhouser pitched three-hit ball as Detroit Tigers stopped Cleveland Indians, 5-1, and closed the gap between themselves and the third-place Tribe to a single game and Walt Masterson blanked Philadelphia Athletics on five hits to give Washington Senators a 4-0 decision.

The Tigers drove Mel Harder to cover in the first inning, when they batted around and turned six hits into four runs, and coasted to victory as Newhouser fanned 10 men.

Jake Early drove in two of Washington's runs, all of which were scored off Starter Dick Fowler.

Bowman Leads Leafs To 7-5 Win Over The Wings

By The Associated Press

To those who think that Manager Al Vincent of Buffalo Bisons, and also boss of the northern team in the International League's All-Star game, was prejudiced in picking his first baseman, Mike Rocca, as an added member, just take a look at the latest averages.

Vincent also picked Pitcher Max Surkont of Rochester Red Wings, to complete his squad.

With the exception of Norman Jaeger, Jersey City first baseman, Rocco has the highest percentage among the loop's regular first basemen, .301, and Mike has been at the plate approximately 100 times more than Jaeger.

Fifty-seven mates have ridden home on his 84 hits which included 16 homers, one triple, and seven doubles.

His 16th home run last night came with Johnny Welaj on base in the eighth inning and enabled the Bisons to defeat Montreal Royals 6-5. Welaj gave the fans a thrill in the sixth inning when he beat out an infield hit, stole second, third and home to break a 3-3 tie and put his team one to the good.

Jersey City Giants scored seven times in the first inning to trounce the league-leading Newark Bears, 9-2, in a game halted at the end of the eighth by dimout regulations. The victory placed the Jerseys half a game out of second, and 2½ games out of first as Rube Fischer turned in his eighth triumph.

Behind the six-hit pitching of Nate Andrews, Syracuse Chiefs defeated Baltimore Orioles, 6-2. The Chiefs scored twice in each of the fourth, fifth and sixth innings with Al Lakeman's circuit smash the big wallop in the latter frame. Sherry Robertson hit a home run for the Orioles in the seventh, with the bases empty.

Bow Bowman allowed his former teammates one hit in 2 1-3 innings to gain credit for a 7-5 Toronto victory over Rochester Red Wings. The Leafs had a 5-1 lead, but the Wings scored four times in the seventh for a tie. Bowman made his appearance in this round and stopped the rally. Toronto then scored twice in the eighth.

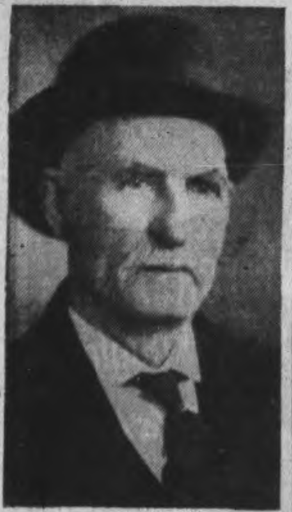
Hastings Man Observes 86th Birthday

HASTINGS, July 4 — (ENS). — Still hale and hearty after four-score years of farming, election campaigning dangerous river "logging," and shopkeeping William Lynch celebrated his 86th birthday at his home here on Wednesday.

Proud to have been born on a day which saw the birth of the Dominion, this alert and patriotic Canadian recalled bygone Confederation celebrations and expressed the belief that despite a lot of talk to th contrary, the principles of Confederation are stronger than ever before.

Working in Lumber Camps.

Bill Lynch was only 15 when he began working in a lumber camp north of Apsley. "We used to cut thousands of logs and guide them down the lakes through the Trent Waterway to Lake Ontario," he explained to the Examiner.



WILLIAM LYNCH.

"The large booms would often become caught on shoals and we would have to travel over the slippery logs to untangle them." Although he admitted that the work was dangerous, Mr. Lunch said that only one man was drowned during the years he was a riverman.

"I think the conditions at the lumber camps in those days would surprise the younger generation," laughed Mr. Lynch. "There were no tables and only rough bunks in which to sleep. Each man supplied his own butcher knife and we whittled a sharp stick to be used as a fork. There was a great demand for lumber and trainloads of men from the Province of Quebec were brought in to operate the camps near Burleigh, Buckhorn, and Apsley."

The octogenarian recalled that Pady ONeil and Jim Bird both of Paddy O'Neil and Jim Bird, both of Peterborough, were foreman and cook respectively at one of the larger camps.

Born in Asphodel Township, Mr. Lynch, who is a devout Roman Catholic, moved to Hastings 15 years ago and excepting for a two-year sojourn in the West, he operated a successful harness shop in the village until fairly recently. He was also a member of the local Council for five years.

Military Centre's Hospital Is Complete In Every Detail

Sparkling cleanliness and swift modern efficiency marks the Military Hospital at the Training Centre in Peterborough. While small in size, it is an exact replica of a metropolitan hospital and is completely staffed and stocked with everything essential to the smooth working of such an establishment. Hundreds passing through this hospital, Friday afternoon, as the Centre held "Open House" marvelled at its completeness.

At the present time it is a 15-bed hospital, although they can take care of 20 or more when it is necessary. When the new wing, now completed, is equipped and opened it will be a 35-bed hospital capable of handling about fifty people and if an emergency should arise, they could probably handle about 65 patients.

There are three regular wards, and also isolation rooms and officers' wards Friday, there were 20 patients in occupancy, but not all were bed patients. Until they are discharged, however, they are under the complete control of the authorities of the hospital. A completely stocked dispensary with everything from aspirin up, is in the charge of Sgt. L. Benn, Phm.B., a graduate of the University of Toronto, who is a fully trained and capable man for the job. He is the senior N.C.O. of the hospital.

Decoration

The color scheme of the whole building is cream and green and white, and everything shines to an unusual degree. All the beds are neatly kept in the wards, and even the linoleum floors are polished to the highest extent. In the kitchen everything is spotless and the dishes go through a process of sterilization and scalding that prevents any possible spread of disease.

Cpl. A. A. Acreman, who is in charge of the Q.M.S, controls practically all the equipment All beds are made complete with two blankets, two sheets, a bedspread, a pillow and a pillow case. When the patient leaves everything is checked in very carefully, then sent to the laundry and when it comes back it is packed away to be passed out when it is necessary. When a patient is admitted, his clothes are put away in the "pack stores" and he is issued what are known as "hospital blues." As long as he is a bed patient, he has need only of a blue flannel dressing gown. But when he is an "up patient" he is issued a suit of blue clothes with a white shirt and a red tie that he is obliged to wear until his discharge by the authorities. This is done to set the patients apart and to keep them within bounds, not because they are a menace to the other soldiers.

Any communicable diseases cases are sent to the Isolation Hospital, and any real serious cases that cannot be handled here are sent to the Kingston Military Hospital. The staff at present consists of three Medical Officers, Capt. R. J. Hitseman, Capt. W. H. Perry, and Capt. W. K. Moir; Cpl. A. A. Acreman in charge of the Q.M.S.; Sgt. L. Benn in charge of dispensary; two orderlies, Ray Parker and Ross Taylor, and Gordon Lacey, who is the cook; also J. Rickeby Orderly Room clerk.

Women's Work

Two of the wards are equipped with radios generously donated by the C.G.E. and the Westclox Company, but it is understood that one more would be very acceptable for the staff. Among other things that the public could do is to collect and send magazines to the hospital for the use of the patients, who certainly appreciate them. The officers in charge also said that there is a great field here for women's organizations if they would care to take advantage of it. It would be very much appreciated if one of these organizations would arrange to have some of their members visit the patients and bring them little remembrances such as they do in other military hospitals. It would mean a great deal to the boys and also it is a task that is worth doing.

Another problem that the staff has on its hands is that of mending and repairing. Cpl. Acreman said that there are many pairs of pyjamas and other things there, that are perfectly good, too good to be thrown away, but they lack buttons and such like and if some of the women would volunteer to do a little mending it would be a big help. The hospital phone number is 9974, and visiting hours for the wards are from 2 to 4 in the afternoon and from 7 to 8.30 in the evening. There would be no difficulty about getting in if arrangements were made with the hospital authorities.

Three Nursing Sisters

Capt. Hitesman also told of an innovation that will be introduced when the new wing goes into operation. Three nursing sisters will be established in the camp hospital, and it is hoped that this will make things a good deal easier for the staff.

The rest of the camp is run on a par with that of the hospital. The boys' huts were immaculate and in perfect order with all their equipment rolled into a neat pile at one end. Their huts varied little from those of the officers, with the exception of the numbers and the beds. The ordinary soldier has a double decker bed, but the officers have a narrow single bed with two or three men to a room. Too, the decorations in the officers' quarters are a little more elaborate.

The kitchen facilities in the camp are very similar in their layout in every building. Everything is sterile and systematically laid out. Their refrigerators would delight any woman's heart. Long tables stretch out in the dining halls in orderly array, taking up the full length of the rooms.

Officers' Mess

The officers' mess is a joy to the eye. The beautifully appointed living room decorated in harmonizing shades and filled with comfortable furniture and the inevitable radio and piano, was most attractive. The dining room was tastefully arranged and at present is used by about 22 officers. But in a tight sqeeze 40 could be accommodated.

Most Popular Place

The Red Shield Hut is one of the most popular places in the camp. Here the men can play games, read, or write their letters in the privacy of two separate rooms. The Salvation Army is doing a really swell job, and so are the other churches of the city who help keep them supplied with funds. High tribute was paid too, to the C.W.V.S. for the help they are giving, and Miss B. Latimer, of the Normal School staff, is devoting most of her summer to secretarial work there.

The hut belonging to the C.W.A.C. girls is as neat as a pin and very comfortable. There is one large room with a radio and piano and several chairs, and two chesterfields "are on the way." They have also a compact kitchen, office, bath and the pride of the girls is a newly fixed shower.

Modern Dental Hut

Soldiers don't need to worry about their dental work in the army. The dental officers have one of the most modern huts in the country and all the equipment that would be found in a civilian dentist's office, in a much more compact form. The office is equipped with an X-ray machine, non-electric drill and a most compact "trunk" with all the necessary utensils that is a portable part of every dentist's equipment in the army. There is nothing in the dental line that the men in charge are not prepared to handle.

One of the most interesting places is the Q.M.S. building. It is here that most of the girls of the C.W.A.C. work, and from all account do a very efficient job. Everything in the building is handled systematically and there is obsolutely nothing out of place. All the articles are laid out in even piles and rows along shelves that showed no sign of accumulating dust. The indoor rifle range in a room off the drill hall is worthy of attention also. It is a 30-yard range, and the men in charge say it is surprising the way the men they least expect to make marksmen of respond to the training.

This Training Centre has the reputation of being one of the finest in Canada, from both a point of view of organization and training, and anyone who has availed himself of the opportunity of looking through the Centre will readily concur in that opinion.

Hunt For Jab Sub Delayed By Bomber Crash

OTTAWA, July 4. —Unsuitable flying conditions at the air bases nearest Estevan Point prevented an immediate air search of the Pacific Ocean for the Japanese craft which shelled the Government radio station there a fortnight ago, but aircraft were out the next morning and could not locate the enemy ship, Defense Minister Ralston told Parliament to-day

A bomber from a more distant point had crashed in taking off.

Angus MacInnis (C.C.F., Vancouver) had asked about the length of time "it took the military command to send planes to Estevan Point" and suggested residents of Vancouver Island's west coast were disturbed about it. He requested a statement "which would allay any existing doubts or fears as to the adequacy to meet such a situation as the one mentioned."

"In the absence of my colleague, the Minister of Defense for Air (Air Minister Power), I had inquiries made with regard to the messages which were sent on the night in question," said Colonel Ralston, "and I have satisfied myself they were sent promptly.

"I would not care to give the House details of all that took place because the information is secret and would be useful to the enemy. But I can say that the messages were sent and received and that the matter was considered on the spot.

"The flying conditions were unsuitable at the air bases nearest Estevan Point at the time of the attack, but the aircraft were out at dawn the next morning and searched the ocean areas off the west coast of Vancouver Island without detecting the enemy ship.

"A bomber was despatched from an air base more distant from the point to which it was being sent, but crashed during the takeoff The officers advise me that it is doubtful if it could have arrived in time to have located the raider."

Doctor Reviews To Kiwanians Work In Army

Doctors of the R.C.A.M.C. are the unsung heroes of the Canadian Army, who do duty on a twenty-four hour basis and keep the men of the fighting forces in A-1 shape, Capt. Robert J. Hitesman, told Kiwanians as they celebrated Army Week with their guests from the Training Centre, Friday.

The R.C.A.M.C. is a very special corps designed to check on the soldiers thoroughly when they come in, while they are there, and when and if they should be discharged. Everything possible for the benefit of the men has been done he said. This section of the army is on active service in England, Egypt, Hong Kong or at home and they render invaluable service wherever they may be. All the men are trained men. They must be graduate doctors and it takes from seven to eight years to obtain a commission. In this war there are 23 per cent of the doctors on active service and 13 per cent in reserve units. This compares very favorably with the record of the Medical Service in the last war where they had 30 per cent on active service.

Capt. Hitesman said that he had travelled all over Canada since joining the medical unit, and that from Victoria to Halifax there was no Training Centre that was any more efficient, and very few that were as efficient, as those in this military district. If a soldier feels sick he appears at the medical inspection room where he is given a thorough going over. If the man in charge there feels that further treatment is necessary, the soldier is then sent to the Peterborough Military Hospital, and after that if it should be necessary, the officer in charge consults the Department of Pensions and National Defence.

Check Everything

"The men of the Medical Service look after the health of the men, the water supplies, the shoes, socks and swimming facilities connected with the camp. The M.O. is advisor to the O.C. of a unit in matters pertaining to health. They also check on the food that is prepared, the way that it is served and the source of the milk supply. In more active fields, the M.O. is responsible for First Aid and A.R.P. work."

He said that with the new addition to the camp hospital, which hospital incidentally is entirely separate from the control of the rest of the Training Centre, and which is for members of the active forces on leave also, it will be able to accommodate 50 persons, and if necessary, 65. The hospital is equipped with good utensils for doing dressings, splints and minor surgery. They can fill their own prescriptions and have access to any drugs which would be found in a civilian set-up.

"In the Medical Service here, the personnel have to look after the girls in the C.W.A.C. The girls have been treated with the highest respect by all ranks of the army, and the boys have been perfect gentlemen. I consider that we have a very high calibre of men in the camp here, and with surgeons, psychiatrists and every other type of specialist that is needed, they receive the best possible care to keep them fit. Not only do we handle their physical problems, but they often come to us for advice about their families and home problems. No single man is neglected, and that is proved by the fine specimens you see before you."

The speaker was introduced by Milf Hardill and the vote of thanks was extended on behalf of the Kiwanians by Gordon Miller, president.

Guest artist for the day was Pte. Beatrice Curtis, C.W.A.C., from the camp and she sang "Johnny Doughboy Found a Rose in Ireland" and "Your Eyes Have Told Me So," in a very delightful manner. The audience had their chance to perform when a lively sing-song took place under the direction of Adjutant Norman Buckley.

BANQUET TIME CHANGED

In a story on Thursday evening, it was reported that the banquet for the Examiner carrier girls and boys to be held at the Empress Hotel on Monday evening, would be held at 7:45. This was incorrect and the banquet will start sharp at 6:45.

THE LARGEST YET.

Frank Kolar, of Warren, Ohio, moved out in front in the muskie fishing this week, when he staged a one man blitz against 23 pounds of fighting maskinonge and won the battle. He is a guest at Beechwood and was fishing in Deer Bay, when the fish took a liking for a double Buffalo spoon troll.

RETURN FROM COAST.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, who has just returned from the Pacific Coast, reports seeing Alex Elliott, M.P.P., Lorne Bateman, Bob Ingram, Allan Heideman and other officers of the Peterborough Rangers who are taking a course at Gordon Head, near Victoria, and says they are all fit and well. Dr. Yelland, with his daughter, Miss Mary Yelland, attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Medical Assocviataion at Jasper and then visited British Columbia afterward.

DIG THEM OUT.

There are hundreds of milk bottles stored away in cellars, sheds, garages, pantries and even in summer cottages that are badly needed right now. A scarcity of white glass is curtailing production of these bottles, and every person who has any, stamped with the owner's name is legally bound to turn them in. This is a little patriotic act which anyone can make, and which will help materially in solving the bottle shortage.

AN UNUSUAL ARTIST.

Rotarians will have an unusual treat at their weekly luncheon on Monday when Ernest Nickel of Los Angeles, who is spending a holiday at Buckhorn, will entertain the club. Mr. Nickel, known as the American concert whistler, is connected with the Walt Disney studios and has been featured in some 38 Disney productions, including the whistling effects in "Whistle While You Work" and other musical numbers in "Snow White."

AIR FORCE GRADUATE.

Among the large group of airwomen who graduated from Rockcliffe Royal Canadian Air Force (Women's Division) Manning Depot on Friday was Miss L. L. Mitchell of Cobourg.

PETERBOROUGH FLIER.

A front page picture in a Toronto paper on Friday was captioned as being the last picture taken by Major-Gen. A. G. L. MacNaughton's son, now posted as missing after enemy operations. There were four fliers show and one of them is Flt.-Lieut. Bunt Waddell of Peterborough.

SOLDIERS TO BROADCAST.

Sgt. D. D. Kelly of Peterborough and Gnr. Douglas Fraser of Caesarea are the only two soldiers from this district who are scheduled to broadcast on Sunday at 12:30 p.m. over CBL from the Beaver Club in London.

GOOD RESPONSE.

The people of this district have responded wonderfully to the call for farm help, according to G. A. Gillespie, who is in charge of operations. The quota set for this week has been met. But next week it is expected that the work will be much heavier and every available person will be needed.

REDUCED IN NUMBER.

July 4, American Independence Day, and the day in which the greatest number of American cars are to be seen on Peterborough streets showed a change this year. There were only a few autos with American markers parked along the main street.

STRICTLY ENFORCED.

People who have the idea that army trucks can be used indiscriminately know nothing about the true facts of army routine. Since gas rationing came in not a single army truck can leave an army camp without a duty sign in the windshield. This sign is given when the man presents an order telling what the truck is to be used for, where it is going, how long it will be gone, and names of those riding in it. It is checked in and out of the stores and there is no leeway given.

Seven Fish Are Morning's Catch

YOUNG'S POINT, July 4 — (ENS). — Dominion Day brought back all the fishermen to their favorite spots around Young's Point. The dam had its usual crowd and a number of pickerel were caught. Scotty Hunter of Toronto, a regular week-end guest at the Lakeview Hotel, had Lady Luck right with him on Wednesday morning, his catch being four pickerel, two bass, and a 'lunge. Immediately after lunch he left for the bright lights, well satisfied with his morning's catch. Charlie Lake of Lakefield was right on the job as he caught two muskies and only out a short while. Archie Campbell and party of Peterborough had a few beauties to take home also.

Personals.

Mr. England, Miss B. Richardson, and Mrs. Edmond of Toronto are holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Tedford.

Mrs. Herbert Bell received a cablegram from her husband, Pte. H. Bell, that he had arrived safely in Britain.

Miss Aileen Young is spending a few days with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Young of Sarnia are spending their summer vacation at their cottage in the village.

Many Citizens Visit Training Centre

Tea was served to more than 600 civilians at Military Training Centre No. 32 Exhibition Park, on Friday afternoon as the camp held open house, and the officers and men were hosts to the civilians, as part of the Army Week program.

Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., E.D. officer commanding the centre was on hand to extend a welcome to all, and officers and men alike gave amply of their time, to guide the guests throughout the large training centre, explaining the routine of camp life, and pointing out the various features of the centre.

Citizens thronged the grounds and watched an interesting program of sports, and a demonstration of fire fighting with modern chemicals, a fire-fighting unit at the camp, particularly suited to extinguishing gasoline and oil fires.

Under the direction of Staff Sgt. C. A. Lawrence, R.C.E., a wooden shed was built, and this was saturated with inflammable fluid and ignited. Sgt. Lawrence and Sgt. Hector Bousefield supervised the fire-fighting, and the exhibition was decidedly interesting.

Softball games, volley-ball games, and horse-shoe pitching was run off with teams from each Company, and prizes were cash for first and second places. In the track and field events there were cash prizes for the first three in each event.

In a gruelling afternoon of hard-fought softball, Headquarters company swept through to take top laurels, defeating No. 2 Company 23 to 18 in the finals. Lieut. W. A. Bowerman, Messing Officer and Sports Officer did a first class job of organizing the sports program and he was assisted by Capt. Tom Atkinson, who was sports announcer.

Sgt. R. J. MacLaren dominated the track and field events with five firsts and two seconds. A former 10 second man for the century, this athlete made a remarkable showing, winning the track events with ease. His home is at Renfrew. Pte. J. Maybin, of Toronto placed third in four events, and Pte. D. C. Smith, of Trenton took first in the high jump, and third in the standing broad jump.

The following were in charge of the various events, softball—Sgt. Jack Gray and Cpl. Connelly; volleyball—Cpl. Nutt; horseshoes—Sgt. Mountjoy and Cpl. Kitchen; track and field—Sgt. Darcy Carter and Sgt. Holmes.

The prize winners were as follows:

Constable Surprises Drinking Party

Constable John Morrow happened along King street patrolling his beat at an early hour this morning just at the wrong time for three men in a truck.

When the constable arrived in the neighborhood he saw a beer bottle smash on the pavement and a little investigation located several other bottles with the caps off.

The result was that three men faced charges of illegal consumption in police court this morning and on pleas of guilty were each fined $10 and $250 costs by Magistrate Langley.

Sweden's first flying air chief, General B. G. Nordenskiold is 51 years old and learned to fly at the age of 42.

Sgt. Bob Tivy, Not Eighteen Until November, Believed Youngest In Canada's Active Army

A former Examiner carrier boy, Sgt. Bob Tivy, now serving with the A. and T. staff at Ottawa Training Centre is believed to be the youngest Canadian sergeant on active service. This boy has been wearing the uniform of Canada's Active Army for several months now, and after enlisting graduated from the Long Branch training school in small arms work.

He will not be 18 years of age until next November, yet he is a fully qualified sergeant. Sgt. Tivy was a member of the Prince of Wales Rangers (Reserve) for almost three years, and reached the rank of sergeant in the Reserve Army, then regained it when he went active.

His father is Pte. C. Tivy, former caretaker of the Barrie building, now serving with the Veteran's Guard of Canada at Halifax. This man has had an unusual career in His Majesty's Forces. He served in the Somaliland campaign at the turn of the century, when the Mad Mullah met his end, then again during World War 1, and is now on his third campaign. He served first with the Imperial Navy, then with the Royal Australian Navy, and was aboard the Sydney, when this Australian ship blasted the German ship, Emden into oblivion back in 1914. Because of his service with the Navy, he is familiarly known as Cap, and today back in uniform, he undoubtedly glories in the fact that he is still young enough to serve his country once more.

Hastings Reeve Tries Pitching Hay

HASTINGS, July 4—(ENS)—In one of the shortest sessions on record the village fathers quickly disposed of a limited amount of municipal business Friday night. Reeve L. E. Kelley, who spent the afternoon in the hayfields, smilingly urged other members of council to follow his example. "I think it would not only be a patriotic act but would tend to create a spirit of cooperation and understanding — something which has been lacking for years—between the former and the townspeople", the reeve pointed out. It is hoped that a meeting will be held in the near future to decide on some definite and constructive course of action in this vitally urgent matter.

J. W. Buck, tax collector reported that 93.4 per cent of this year's eligible tax roll amounting to $12,374 had been collected. This left a remainder of $820 still to be obtained. The collector's time was extended to the next regular meeting and all taxes not paid at that time will be charged against the defaulter's property. The reeve cautioned that this method was only hindering the sale of such properties and should be avoided if at all possible.

The following accounts were ordered paid: Wm. Wellman, salary, constable and town hall, $28.83; George Lynch, fire dept., $7.00; Bell Telephone, $4.05; Public School, $275; Samuel Hatherly, labor, $3; John Quinlivan, labor, $4.80; Earl Clarke, labor, $4.00; T. Tottrie, labor, $6.90; non-skid pavement, $20.60; J. C. Wilson, printing, 50c; Daniel Noonan, labor, $10.40; Dr. W. N. Campbell, M.O.H., $14; Dept. of Health, insulin, $9.15; Wm. West, labour, $9.60; John McMillan, labor, $15.00; H. M. Fowlds, material, $32.00; Wm. Sherwin, labor, $2.40.

Decoration Day Nets $50 To Victims

In all probability, the significance of Decoration Day was never more fully realized than it was on Sunday last, when the annual observance of this lovely day of remembrance was held under the auspices of the two Peterborough lodges of I.O.O.F. to Little Lake Cemetery.

Going back in the memory of the oldest residents of the city, the Oddfellows have always taken the lead in this particular ceremony which they initiated at the outset, and it has been fostered and carried on by them until now it has become an annual event, which really might be called an institution. The committee from these two lodges responsible for the carrying out of this year's observance consisted of H. Frost (chairman), A. Sage (secretary), and Messrs. W. Constable, C. Gardner, J. Lancashire, R. Ford, G. Boreham, J. Price, E. Murduff, S. P. McFadden and G. Harris, and to them goes the credit for one of the most successful events of its kind.

Rev. H. J. Mahoney delivered a most inspiring address, and former Mayor G. A. Macdonald made a stirring appeal to the large number in attendance to observe this occasion in remembering those who had passed on by giving aid through a collection to help the victims of air raids in Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund. In supporting this they could find no better way to pay honor and tribute those who had passed on. This collection was taken by Gordon Stark and Ray Juby from Otonabee Lodge No. 13, and Fred Dummitt and Earl Wood from Peterborough Lodge No 111, and just how well the response was is evidenced by the sum of $50.00 which appears in today's list of receipts for the fund under the sponsorship of these two lodges.

The Peterborough St. David's Welsh Society, headed by Mrs. G. Pakenham, have been very good supporters of the fund. For quite some months past they have been working and raising funds to send in a monthly contribution of $10.00 to help the people of Britain, which for such a small group is quite commendable, and their latest donation appears in today's list. This group for the past two years have given up their annual picnic in order to use the funds thus saved for assisting in the war effort. One of the fund's most regular personal contributors known as "E.M.F." is also listed today with the usual donation.

Car Impounded For 3 Months

Victor Stewart, resident of North York, was sentenced to seven days in jail by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. in police court this morning after he had entered a plea of guilty to a charge of drunken driving.

His Worship issued an order to the police that accused's car should be impounded for a period of three months.

Stewart was arrested Friday night by Constable Gordon Trennum after a minor accident on Charlotte street, just west of George.

Frank L. Elliott, Kirkland Lake, called to give evidence in the case, said that he had been driving his car west on Charlotte street and was two-thirds past Stewart's automobile when the latter machine pulled out from the curb and collided with the rear of his car. Elliott said that Stewart had been drinking.

Stewart told the court that he had a number of drinks of beer earlier in the evening and that at the time of the accident he was merely moving his car from the street to the parking lot of the Hotel Champlain. He had been at that hotel for a week, he said.

"It's not as if I had been driving on the street," the North York man said. "I had no intention of doing anything but put the car on the parking lot for the night."

DICK WAS SURPRISED

Dick Raine, local merchant was sort of set back on his heels a few days ago. Two fine looking, respectable married women of this city walked into his uptown store, and quietly enquired if Mr. Raine had a bottle. The storekeeper hemmed and hawed, and suddenly it dawned on the women that there was a misunderstanding. "Oh, we mean a milk bottle used by the Kinsmen to collect money for Milk for Britain." All three did a little blushing, and Mr. Raine pointed to the corner of the counter, where a "Milk For Britain" bottle stood half full of coins. It seems the Kinsmen have a new system now of sending members of the fair sex out to collect the money from the bottles.—McG.

Ceremony Marks Mounting Guard

The age-old ceremony of "mounting the guard" made famous by the Imperial Army units, on duty at Buckingham Palace in England, has been enacted every day this week, by soldiers at the Military Training Centre, Exhibition Park.

On Friday afternoon as hundreds of Peterborough city and district people visited the camp, on a public invitation by Lt. Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C. V.D. the ceremony was staged once again. Due to the fact that the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Band had returned to Kingston, a fanfare was provided by a trumpeter. Captain A. R. Harrington, adjutant inspected the guard following the ceremonial.

One sentry with fixed bayonet patrolled back and forth in front of the main gates, on one hour shifts, throughout the day, and at night after camp closing challenged all who sought to enter. This was in addition to the usual military police supervision.

A sergeant, corporal and 14 men comprised the guard, and they marched with flashing bayonets fixed on rifles. Lining up in two columns, the old guard and the new guard faced each other, and the sergeant of the old guard gave first commands, the relieving sergeant following along immediately after. At the "present arms," the bugle sounded. Next in rapid succession came the orders, slope arms, order arms, and stand at ease. Then the two sergeants marched off, the sergeant of the new guard taking inventory of the guard's quarters before officially taking over. The final act in this ceremonial consisted of the corporals from the new and old guard escorting the new sentry to his post, and they waited a few moments, then escorted the sentry of the old guard back to his position in the ranks. As the old guard marched off, the new guard stood at present arms.

YoungCounty Homemakers Display Achievements

An interesting event on Friday was the annual Achievement Day held in the Board Room of the Department of Agriculture by the Peterborough County Home Making club.

Miss F. P. Eadie, director of Girls' Worw in the Provincial Department of Agriculture, assisted by Miss Dorothy White Home Economics Coach in Eastern Ontario counties, presided at the meeting and looked over the exhibits and watched the skits and demonstrations, giving helpful words of praise and encouragement, and pointing out ways in which improvements could be made. Clubs were present from Young's Point, Keene, Belmont, Warsaw Trent River and Lakefield.

These clubs are directly sponsored by the Ontario Department of Agriculture for the purpose of training girls in household economics. Each fall the leaders from the different centres come into the office to receive full information regarding the course to be studied during the year, and return home to line up the girls in their particular localities and organizes a club, which studies along the lines laid down. Club members are given Records of Achievement, Certificates of Achievement, County and Provincial Honors, according to the work completed. At the end of the year an Achievement Day is held at which the girls gather together to demonstrate what they have learned and to submit records of what they have studied during the year.

This year's program included a study of menu planning with especial regard to suppers, for all seasons of the year. The proper making of tea biscuits also received much attention, and appetizing examples of the members achievements in this direction were on display. There were also delicious-looking exhibits, by chart and food, of supper menus. Supper menus, chosen with relation to the rest of the day's menus were submitted, and club members, having been given a breakfast and dinner menu, were required to supply the menu.

"Table-setting for the farm family" and "The making of tea-biscuits," was demonstrated by several of the Clubs, in clever skits and demonstrations arranged by the girls themselves. These were rather well done, and the girls gave evidence of having learned their lessons well. Some artistic and interesting record books of the year's work were on display.

Among the girls present at the Achievement Day were: Frayne Johns, Minnie Charlton, Leah Little, Lenore McIlvena, Marion Davis, Norma Payne, Joan Jackson, Jean Lonsberry, Edna Clysdale, Mary Watts, Barbara Little, Joyce Digweed, Marjorie Clements, Mary Hendren, Violet Darling, Barbara Payne, all of Warsaw; Eleanor Lean, Clula Lewis, Laurena Wight, Phyllis Brunton, Shirley Hutchinson, all of Trent River; Vera Dunford, Loretta Dunford, Dorothy McIlmoyle, Margaret McNaughton, Ethel McIlmoyle, Addie McNaughton, Mary Scollard, Bernice Brown, Gertrude Dunford, all of Young's Point; Marie Dafoe, Lois Fraser, Vawna Bannon, Murrell Fraser, Wilma Ashby, Dorothy Salten.

The leaders of the clubs are as follows: Warsaw, Mrs. H. G. Digweed and Mrs. George Weller; Havelock, Mrs. Earl Greenly and Miss Iva Smith; Trent River, Mrs. H. Mann; Keene, Miss L. Drummond; Young's Point, Miss M. Martin, Mrs. E. Johnston; Lakefield, Miss Hazel Northey and Miss M. Sanderson; Douro, Miss Grigid Sheehan.

Members of th club have decided that next year they will study "Being Well-dressed and Well-groomed," and will cover the choice, making and care of their clothes, with especial regard to war-time restrictions.

In Trying to Run the Household Husband May Realize She Wasn't Useless

Dear Miss Dix: My husband does nothing but find fault with me. Everything I do is wrong. He lectures and belittles me by the hour. He insults my friends when they come to see me. He makes good money, but all he doles out to me is the grocery money. I get out and work every Summer and buy my own clothes, else I would have none.

Why am I staying on? Because I have very poor health and two children. The poor health is the only bright spot in my life because

Violet Davidson Marries Clifford Boate in Toronto

College Street United Church, Toronto, decorated with roses, delphinium and Boston ferns, was the scene of a quiet wedding this afternoon at five o'clock, when Violet Edythe, daughter of Mr. Robert W. Davidson of Peterborough and the late Mrs. Davidson, became the bride of William Clifford Boate of Peterborough, son of Mr. R. H. Boate of Toronto and the late Mrs. Boate. Rev. C. A. Gowans, M.A., B.D., of Toronto performed the ceremony.

Due to the illness of her father, the bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. James Guy Whyte of Toronto. The bride wore a gown of dove-white silk jersey on classically simple lines, with full skirt and short train. Shoulder fittings of heavy venise lace were the only note of trimming. Her fingertip veil of white embroidered net fell from a pleated Dutch coronet. She carried a nosegay of roses, sweet peas and forget-me-nots. Mrs. James G. Whyte, sister of the bride, who acted as bridesmaid, was frocked in white jersey with full skirt of many colored flowers. In her hair she wore a cluster of flowers and carried a nosegay similar to the bride. Little Barbara Jane Whyte and Elizabeth Anne Whyte, nieces of the bride, were flower girls dressed in Miami pink and pale blue taffeta trimmed with lace, each carrying miniature nosegays. Mr. Lance Greenwood of Peterborough attended the groom as best man.

Following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Whyte of Mount Dennis, Toronto. Later the wedding breakfast was served at the Old Mill and followed by dancing.

Hon. Dr. Earl James Receives Call To Become President Of Great Research University

By REV. HUGH BAMFORD
Of His Majesty's Forces.

The people of Peterborough have never been aware that they have had in their midst a son of two famous families who has accomplished more than many lifetimes would permit. One glance into the National Reference Book of Canada, sixth edition, at the Peterborough Public Library, would convince anyone that a scholar and celebrity is often seen in downtown Peterborough, enjoying the shops, cafes, and theatres of this beautiful city. On more than one occasion, the writer has seen him relaxing in the Famous Players theatre here. This remarkable savant is the Hon. Dr. Earl A. James of Memphis, Tennessee, scion of Lord and Lady Lawrence - Townsley and America's famous James family of the Southern United States.

Dr. James holds at the present time about every professional degree that is known to man. Universities, academies, conservatories, colleges and all sorts of institutions have honored him. Indeed, Dr. Robert Ripley of "Believe It or Not" fame, has told the world in his May 4, 1941, features that Dr. James possessed more degrees and academic awards than any other person in the universe. His record to date consists of one hundred and twenty honors, comprising twenty Doctorates, four Master degrees, three Bachelor degrees, several Diplomas of Honor and Meritorious awards.

At the present time the race for the largest number of academic awards stands as follows: Dr. Frank Pierrepont Graves, who is 73, retired New York State Commissioner of Education, possesses forty-two Academic awards. It is interesting to note that Dr. Graves at the age of 73, has passed his freshman law examination in his preparation of his 43rd award at Albany Law School. Judging from this fact, apparently the race is still on. Dr. Graves still has ambition of becoming a lawyer-never too late to learn. Columbia's University president, Nickolas Murray Butler, is said to possess three-score and ten of them. The former President of the United States Herbert Hoover, possessed about eighty awards. Dr. James is well ahead in this academic race of notables.

Born in Tennessee.

A short biographical sketch of the life of Dr. Earl A. James is worthy of note, owing to his accomplishments and career. He was born in the city of Memphis, Tennessee on April 34, 1904. At the age of three his father, Elmer James, the famous sportsman of the turf, took him to England, France and Germany. While abroad he had the pleasure of knowing that his father had accomplished the Duke of York Stakes and the laurel'sm of the Queen's Plate. After a varied life on the Continent, Dr. James, still a youth, returned to America. Having studied under Michael Hamborg, the famous pianist composer and teacher, he devoted his time to the aid of wounded soldiers, orphanages, hospitals and other needy institutions. Numerous recitals were given by him so that the soldiers of the last war might be made happy. During his university life, he had written many plays and had produced them before large audiences of students and professors. On leaving University, the "King of Academic Diplomates," as his biographer, Brigadier-General Blech of the United States Army refers to him attended post-graduate studies with numerous seats of learning. We find that he had been a professor in a London, England conservatory of music, president of a government incorporated college, assistant secretary of a Canadian musical organization, professor on the faculty of an Illinois university as an advisory personnel officer, proessor in Toronto musical conservatory, director-general of Ontario for the metaphysical alliance of Canada, associate editor of the Winnipeg Herald, editor in chief of Who's Who, and honorary president to numerous important organizations. Dr. James has been appointed honorary president to the National Education Society of Canada and also of an alliance of Canadian churches. After an interesting life of many activities, he studied for the ministry and was ordained a minister of the church.

In the year 1939 Dr. James was notified by the French Academie International of Toulouse, France, that he had received the title of Academician, a title that is the most coveted honor in the academic realm. In 1941, the National University of Mexico granted him the honor of Professor Honorario de la Universidad. In 1942, recently, the State of Tennessee, the birthplace of Dr. James, was the setting for his most prized award—the Tennessee Academy of Arts and Sciences graduated him as a medical doctor.

Within the scope of his many degrees there are those of doctor of music, philosophy, psychology, divinity oratory, medicine, science, laws, chiropractics and physiotherapy. Thirty-seven states in the United States, several provinces in Canada, the country of Mexico, the land of France, and several nations of Europe have honored him. The greatest Hobby Show on earth, held in the J. L. Hudson Co. department store of Detroit, Michigan, lately held its eighth annual Hobby Show and acclaimed Dr. James as first place in the list of the fifty most famous Americans and their hobbies. If the degrees, designating his professional standing were to be used after his name, they would employ the use of the alphabet several times over. His many parchments, hanging under glass, would require many large walls in order to complete the task of displaying them.

The usual trend of Dr. James during the summer months when he visits us in Peterborough is to enjoy the cool comfort of summer slacks, and in this regalia he often is seen on the streets of Peterborouhg. His habits are those of humbleness, simplicity, and the enjoyment of the company of honest rural folk. In his family life, his one brother died while he was in France and his one sister Alma, who had become an actress of note, died a few years ago. Both his parents are alive to-day. Not so very long ago, Darryl Zanuck, the great moving picture producer of Hollywood, California, gave to the moving picture screen at a cost of two million dollars the life of "Jesse James," and later this producer announced another James picture known as "The Return of Frank James," and both pictures used as stars Tyronne Power and Henry Fonda. The James pictures proved to be favorites of the King and Queen for Their Majesties insisted on the presentation of them, while on their trip over the Atlantic. These James brothers, Jesse James and Frank James, who are uncle and grandfather to Dr. James, are looked upon as national heroes in the Southern United States owing to their protection for the poor and their "Robin-Hoodline" of seeing to it that the railways of those days would not torture and enslave the humble landowners. The southern country today enhances the James brothers' memories by having had large white lifesize marble statues erected to their memories. The greatest turfsportsman who ever lived was Elmer James, his father, who had to his credit the Duke of York Stakes at Epsom Downs, England and the Queen's Plate of England at Derby. To-day Basil James, a cousin, holds the honor of being America's best jockey. Another cousin, Jesse Woodson James, is the famous Kansas City lawyer.

Lately, Dr. James has received a call from the State of Illinois asking him to become the president of a large Research University being founded there. His contributions to science, philosophy and psychology, notable among them being Psychological Aspects of Home, Marriage and Family Life and the work known as Basic Physiological Characteristics, Functions, and Fundamentals of the Human Mind, are benefits for the world at large. The Research University undoubtedly would benefit much by being under the leadership of such a distinguished gentleman.

However Dr. James is entering the United States Army as an officer chaplain in the medical unit.

Lately, our visiting genius has perfected his invention known to the War Department as Instantaneous Mental Tabulation which has attributed to it the fact that thousands of facts may be recorded almost instantaneously. The mind functions so that objects and their relationships to one another are thoroughly recorded, and later these recordings are transferred to a photographic plate.

Peterborough and district and its many citizens are much honored in having the learned doctor within their realm for the summer months.

ESCAPE
CHAPTER IX

FOR the next few minutes they alternated their conversations between whispers and loud talk.

"If I only had a gun," he whispered despairingly, "I might do something."

Her eyes lighted with a smile. Without making a comment she put her hand into her purse and drew out the small automatic. He was astonished, but his fingers closed over it and her hand too. Forgetting to be watchful he exclaimed:

"Did I ever tell you, Judith Kingsly, that you are the most wonderful creature on earth and the loveliest."

He snatched a kiss from the upturned face. She drew back quickly, her heart racing and her eyes soft. "Tom," she murmured.

A door suddenly opened and Karl came in, followed by some men.

Judith realized the men had been waiting for some sign that she was not a stranger to Tom, and now his words had given them their cue. They knew now he would be willing to sell the plane's secrets to save her. In the end they probably would kill them both. She stared in mounting terror at them.

"Are you ready to talk, Mr. Burke?" Karl repeated. His voice was a bit high as if he were exasperated at having to ask his question again.

"I have nothing to say now, or at any other time."

"No? Perhaps in a little while, all I want to know." There was a savageness in Karl's eyes and his hands drew into tight fists at his side. "We have ways of making men talk."

Karl glanced at his watch. Heavy, his eyes narrowed and watchful, focused a gun on Judith and Tom.

A swift urge came over Judith to throw off her fear and break the awful silence in the room. Once again, her fighting spirit soared to her rescue.

"I haven't had anything to eat, yet," she said suddenly. The men were startled by the calmness of her tone. "You did promise me food." She tried her winsome smile, but it had no effect on Karl. Heavy's mouth twisted at the corner with the beginning of a grin, but only for a moment. Then his face became the hard mask of a moment before.

She turned slowly and saw the man who had kidnapped her in the taxi.

Karl said curtly: "Bring in the tray of food," and the man back of her moved away to carry out the order.

NOT once did Heavy relax his vigil with the gun. Burke kept his gaze fastened on Karl though Judith knew he was watching the other man from the corner of his keen eyes. Tom had her gun and she knew he was waiting an opportunity to use it. It would be suicide to try anything now. Her thoughts made her shiver. The blond spy with his close-cropped hair gave her a curious glance.

"Cod?"

Judith looked at him but did not offer to answer his question. Instead, she turned her blue eyes on Tom. He moved his steady gaze to her face for an instant. Tom still loved her, she realized, though no word passed between them.

"Your nose is shiny," Tom said critically.

Judith's mouth fell open and for a moment she had the mad desire to slap him. Burning with anger, she turned her back on him and opened her purse, drawing out a vanity case. She applied the puff to her nose with more vigor than was necessary.

"Better " she asked acidly while the captors looked on slightly puzzled at the act going on before them.

When the food was before her, the men stood guard like so many buzzards. Judith grew more self-conscious with every bite she took. But she was hungry, even if this might be her last meal on earth. The thought occurred that the food might be poisoned, but she cast it aside. It was not their time to die yet.

Just as she finished her meal another man came into the room and whispered to Karl, excitedly. They spoke in a foreign language, but Judith guessed from their manner that the matter was serious.

Sharp commands were given at once, and she and Tom were pushed roughly through a door and down a dark hall. Muffled sounds and shouts came from behind them, but they moved on until all was silent around them. Before a closed door, a blindfold was tied over their eyes. Then they were ushered out and into a car.

JUDITH sat between Tom and Karl as they sped away through the night. Two other men sat on the litte seats in front of them and Judith could guess they held guns on them. Tom's hand found hers and the pressure of his warm fingers was reassuring. Her own fingers clung tightly to his. Danger had brought her close to Tom again. He bent his head to touch hers.

Judith opened her mouth to speak but closed it again.

"If you persist in talking, you will be gagged," Karl threatened.

At the threat, Tom's body had grown rigid and the grip of his fingers had almost paralyzed her hand. She waited for him to relax and then she turned to face her enemy.

"Couldn't you take this thing off my eyes?" she asked softly.

Without answering, he reached up and pulled the fold from around her head. She rubbed her eyes and then took in the gunmen watching her closely, guns in sight. She drew a deep breath.

After that, there was silence except for the purring of the engine as they slipped through the night. Judith wondered where her detective body-guards could be but surmised they were responsible for their sudden exit from the house. She dared not try to look out the back of the car, and all the other windows were shaded.

Tom's fingers moved along her wrist, back and forth, searching for something. She realized in a moment what it was. Her watch. She wanted to tell him what she had done with it, but couldn't. She lay her other hand over his.

Finally, the car turned toward the shore where Judith could hear the roar of the breakers, and stopped at a deserted dock. The men got out and motioned Judith and Tom from the car. Karl and one of the guards walked in front and Heavy came behind them.

Again Tom's hand found hers and their fingers twined tightly as they walked down the boards over the water. She wanted desperately to whisper that she loved him and that all the things she had said when they parted ways were lies. But then. . . . The pressure on her hand gripped harder.

Suddenly Tom plunged into the water, dragging her with him. They went under with a mighty splash and the cold Pacific was breath-taking, but only for a second. She was an excellent swimmer and with Tom's hand to guide her, they dived for the protection of the wharf.

Torrid 2-Week Trial Ends With Divorce

OAKLAND, Cal., July 4—(AP).—Damon Beard, 26, University of California astronomy instructor, had a divorce decree yesterday at the end of two weeks of torrid court testimony, but neither he nor his wife has the custody of their children.

"Neither has developed the sense of responsibility which would enable them to care for the children," Municipal Judge James Quinn ruled Wednesday. He placed the two infants in temporary control of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Beard of Berkeley, the paternal grandparents.

Judge Quinn observed that 21-year-old Virginia Beard is "bright, intelligent and still youthful," and might have the custody of Ronald, 1, and Rosalyn, 2, whenever "she can show to this court both by her conduct and her financial standing that she is ready."

Beard was awarded the decree on grounds of cruelty. Beard's witnesses had pictured Virginia as the leading lady in a number of bizaare romances. Others said Beard's night interests included other than star gazing.

But never will the one we loved
From memory pass away.
—Lovingly remembered by Wife and Family.

PRESTON.—In loving memory of our dear daughter and sister, Elva, who passed away July 4, 1938.

The evening stars shine on the grave
Of one we loved but could not save.
The call was sudden, the shock severe,
To lose the one we love so dear.
'Tis sweet to know we'll meet again
Where troubles are no more,
And that the one we loved so well
Has just gone on before.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, and Sisters, and brother Hugh.

HUGGINS.—In fondest memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Thompson R. Huggins (nee Mary Ann Murray), who fell asleep in Jesus, July 4, 1923.

Our thoughts wander as daylight fades,
To happy days in the Land of Long Ago,
And memories paint the scenes of old,
In the gold of twilight glow.
We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we loved the best,
And we think of her when the sun's last rays
Sinks slowly in the west.
None knew her but to love her,
None named her but in praise.
Some day, some time, our eyes shall see
That face we loved so well.
Some day we'll clasp her loving hand
And never say farewell.
—Lovingly remembered by Husband and Family.

I think I will die soon, but I would like to have a little peace before I go. Do you think I would ever be forgiven if I just walked off and left the kids? The oldest is almost old enough to shift for himself. The other is 9. Their father would take good care of them. He loves them. It is just I that seems to be in the way.

I have thought of committing suicide, but that would always be a reflection that would fall back on the children. What can I do?

ANSWER: Poor, dear lady, Fate has indeed given you a hard deal. To be unloved and sick and badgered by a bully seems too much for one poor little helpless woman to have to bear, and it is no wonder you long for the peace of the grave.

There is no use in appealing to your husband's heart or his sympathies because he must be as hard as a stone, but perhaps his vulnerable spot is his self-interest. Evidently he no longer cares for you and in some way you have gotten on his nerves, as that is the reason he picks on you all the time and finds fault with everything you do.

Told To Regain Health

So why not tell him you realize that he is tired of you and ask him to give you money to go to some sanatorium, stay for a year and try to regain your health? Go to some place where there are good specialists who will find out what is the matter with you and try to cure you. The change, the peace, the relief from being nagged about everything will do wonders for you, and you will come back better fitted to endure your husband's persecutions, or to strike out for yourself and make your own living.

He may find out when he tries to take care of the children and run the house that you were not such a poor, incompetent, useless creature after all. He may even discover, to his surprise that he misses you and loves you in his queer selfish, egotistical way.

Don't just walk out on your children and leave them flat. That will give them a hurt from which they will never recover. Leave them, if you must, but do it with dignity and in a way that will leave you no room for self-reproach.

She Hates Women

Dear Miss Dix: I am 33 years old. Married to a very fine man. Have a nice home and all that should make me happy, but I am not. I am sad and blue all the time and it makes me feel so weak I can hardly do my little bit of housework. The worst thing is that I am filled with hate. It is women whom I hate. All women with whom I come in contact. I have not always been this way. I don't want to be this way, but I am. What is the matter with me. And what can I do about it? MRS. B. B.

ANSWER: I would say it is your liver that is the matter with you. You are filled with bile and that's what makes you look at every woman with jaundiced eyes. Put yourself in the hands of some good specialist and you will soon be filled with optimism and love of your sex.

It was a wise man who said that whether life is worth living depends on our livers.

Smooth Lines Away by Right Massage

Learn Modern Beauty Methods

Those tell-tale lines around the eyes and mouth! They are signs of age which, fortunately you can put off a long, long time if you learn scientific beauty methods.

A trained beauty operator would provide special massage to tighten the drooping temple muscles that cause crow's-feet And you can give yourself the same professional treatments.

After cleansing the face thoroughly, work cream into the skin, kneading and stroking upwards on the forehead from just in front of the ears to the hairline and from the eyebrows to the hairline, as the diagram shows

How to correct drooping mouth corner, a double chin? Expert facial treatments are explained in our 32-page booklet. Tells how to apply make-up. care fo hair and hands Advises on correcting dry and oily skins, coarse pores and blackheads, removing superfluous hair.

For your copy of "How To Give Beauty Treatments" send 15c in coins or stamps - the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

GET OUT OF THE WAY

WHEN YOU see a situation approaching which is likely to throw you into the lead when you don't want it, your job is to get out of the way if you can and help your partner to have the lead instead. In many a case you can do this by means of throwing off a sure winner in the hope that your partner has the card immediately beneath it. By doing this, you may enable him to take the crucial trick and thus avoid a lead of the very thing which the declarer desires. Plenty of times you are able to know, to a certainty, or almost so, that your partner will have the particular winning card you hope he has.

Some of the bidding by that hand-hog in the South, who refused to let his partner play the deal at spades, could be attributed to the fact that it was a commuters' game and the train was nearing the station. But the play! Oh, yes, the play!

West led the diamond 10, the K falling to the A. The spade Q was covered and the A won. Clubs should have been finessed next but instead the heart 6 was led, the Q winning. The heart A was scored, also the diamond Q and spade J, then the spades in dummy run. For two discards, South following East, saw the latter toss the heart 9, and then the diamond 4, so he put out the diamond 2 and club 4, leaving himself a diamond and the club A-Q-J He then finessed the club J and made a lead-throwing end-play, by putting forth the diamond 7 East had to win with the J, so could only lead a club to the tenace. If East had discarded his diamond J, West would have won any diamond lead and scored the setting trick with another diamond.

No compensation would be paid in respect to loss caused by war on any vessel or gear on which the owner was indemnified against war damage otherwise than under the order. If a fisherman could afford to insure his boat, then he collected from the insurance company and not from the government.

"Why should this be called compassionate relief?" asked Howard Green (Con. Vancouver South). "The homeowner can get free insurance up to $3,000 and then he can insure at his own cost for a higher amount. Apparently the fisherman cannot do that. Anything he gets from the insurance company cuts down the free insurance that may be provided."

Mr. Michaud said the plan was not free insurance and fishermen were not asked to contribute to a fund. Under the insurance scheme the public generally was being asked to contribute.

No person could collect the compensation on more than one boat, because he could carry on his business with one boat.

Mr. Ilsley said that if a situation arose where marine insurance generally was too expensive the government might consider the setting up of a different scheme.

R. W. Mayhew (Lib. Victoria) said the fisherman should have free insurance up to $3,000 as men would not continue to risk their boats without insurance and "pay practically 100 per cent of their earnings to the government."

Paul Martin (Lib. Essex East) said the danger of discrimination as between inland and coast boats should not be a reason for removing Great Lakes ships from the provisions of the act. Mr. Ilsley replied: "I do not think we would ever hear the last of it if we provided a government scheme at what would be represented as bargain rates for marine insurance on the Great Lakes, and did not make the same provision on the coast."

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D. MacLeod) made strong protest against the manner in which parliament had to deal with divorce bills, 73 of which were before the House during the afternoon. Third reading was given to 49 and second reading to 24.

This came after seven months of less violent action in which 150,000 fell.

The Information Bureau declared the garrison of the Black Sea naval base—executing "with unexampled courage and steadiness" a calculated plan to divert and bleed the invasion army—exacted casualties at a ratio of almost four to one and quit their scarred pill-boxes and entrenchments yesterday only upon order of the Red Army's supreme command.

"Soviet troops," it said, "lost from June 7 to July 3, 11,385 men killed, 21,900 wounded, and 8,300 missing, 30 tanks, 300 guns and 77 planes.

Troops, commanders and wounded were evacuated from Sevastopol."

(The implication was that the survivors were headed by transport for the Caucasus, where the Soviet trans-Caucasian army of Lt.-Gen. D. T. Kozlov stands guard. The German high command claimed Wednesday that Sevastopol had fallen and remnants of the garrison faced annihilation of the Kheuruones peninsula, a spit of land to the southwest.)

"The iron steadfastness of the Sevastopol defenders," it was said, "has been one of the most important reasons holding up the so-called spring offensive of the Germans."

Vice-Admiral E. S. Oktsarbrsch, commander of the Black Sea fleet, was identified as the main organizer of the defence, termed one of the "most brilliant pages" in Soviet war history.

Sevastopol had been beseiged since Nov. 7. The Germans entered the mountains before the fortified city soon after breaking Red Army lines across the Perekop Isthmus, which links the Crimea and the Nazi-occupied Urkraine.

The Information Bureau estimated that German Gen. Fritz von Mannstein had assembled 300,000 troops, 400 tanks and 900 planes for the June offensive which yielded only ruins."

He was declared to have lost more than 250 tanks, up to 250 guns and 300 planes in addition to about half his men. The Bureau listed seven German divisions, three Rumanian divisions and a number of smaller units as smashed.

Mighty R.A.F.

There seems little likelihood, however, that the front, which has moved eastward over 350 miles of Libyan and Egyptian desert, will long remain static and a new eruption of fury is expected momentarily. Already the rumble of heavy guns could be heard in Alexandria, 65 miles east of El Alamein.

Mustapha Nahas Pasha, Premier and Military Governor of Egypt, announced that a complete blackout would be introduced in Cairo soon after he summoned his ministers to a meeting to-night.

Nowhere was the threat to Egypt minimized, but hope for a favorable turn in the battle grew from the dogged British defence on the El Alamein line, from the slashing Allied air attacks on the Axis supply lines and from the long columns of reinforcements moving through the desert.

Americans Filtering In.

(A vague Italian dispatch, relayed through Stockholm to London, said "several thousand excellently-equipped American troops" were fighting at El Alamein, but there was no confirmation from any other source).

In the night's moonlight, the fighting came to close quarters, with bayonets and hand grenades the chief weapons. Most of the big guns were silent during the night and the tanks were at repair stations. But British infantrymen, with Tommyguns and grenades, stole through the sand to attack Axis gun crews and, when possible, destroy the vaunted 88-millimetre anti-tank cannon which Rommel has used so effectively.

Bombers of the R.A.F., United States Army Air Corps and South African Air Force roared over the battle lines to harass Rommel's rear lines and supply ports. Enemy planes were also in action, but Allied air power apparently still was supreme over the desert.

Most of the fighting in recent hours has been on the northern end of the 35-mile line stretching from the Mediterranean to the Qattara depression and it is here the fate of Egypt aparently rests, on the coast road to Alexandria.

Centre's Officers Entertained By City Council

As a fitting tribute to Canada's army Mayor Hamilton and members of the city council were on Friday night the hosts of Col. E. O. Keeler, M.C., and officers of the Training Centre at a dinner given at the Kawartha Club.

Alderman Adam Sands, chairman of the reception committee presided and the main address was given by Col. M. Isbister, M.C., assistant adjutant and quartermaster general of M.D. No. 3.

Mayor Hamilton in welcoming Col. Keeler and officers said it had been the sincere desire of the council for a long time to show the appreciation of the citizens of Peterborough to the officers for what the Training Centre means to this city. Not so much on account of its monetary value but for the efficient way the camp is conducted. "I have travelled around considerably among military men of this district and heard on all side that the Peterborough camp is one of the most efficient and best conducted in the Dominion". His worship said the men who have trained here were of a fine type and had conducted themselves as gentlemen. "The citizen of Peterborough take off their hats to Col. Keeler and his officers for the credit and name which they have given this Centre and the city is proud to have them."

In closing his worship paid tribute to the men who had laid down their every day jobs to join the army in order to defend the principles which all Canadians hold dear and nothing could be more fitting than to do honor to them during Army Week.

In a short address Col. Keeler thanked the mayor and council for the dinner and for the remarks of his worship.

No Inferiority Complex

Col. Isbister deputizing for Brigadier Logie Armstrong O.C. of M.D. No. 3 who was unable to be present spoke of the glory which the Navy and the Air Force had rightly been given in this war up to the present time. But reminded his audience that the man who is going to decide who has won the war is the soldier who will be able to go in and hold the enemy territory. Through the publicity and praise given the other arms of the service the army has through its inactivity developed an inferiority complex in the minds of Canadians, but Col. Isbister declared that there as no inferiority complex among the men in the army for they were ready to do their jobs when the time came. "There is no place in the army for an inferiority complex for it is the service which wins the battles," he said.

He lauded the work which is being done at the training centres across Canada for it was developing in the men that co-operation which is necessary in any well trained force. "You have a good centre here, I think there is a good spirit shown, the men have good accommodation and are well kept and I would ask the citizens of Peterborough to give this centre every support possible," he concluded.

Short addresses were also given by Col. Douglas Laurie of the 4th Battery and Major Vincent Eastwood deputizing for Lt. Col. Maurice Park of the Prince of Wales Rangers. Jack Smith and Tom Hendrie the two veteran entertainers who have so often delighted Peterborough audiences rendered several numbers accompanied by Martin Chenhall A.R.C.O. and the evening concluded with a showing of the picture "The Call of the Kawarthas" by Fred Roy.

Cupid Is Sleeping

HASTINGS, July 3—(ENS)—Only one marriage was recorded at the village clerk's office during the supposedly romantic month of June. This figure compared with two nuptial ceremonies in the corresponding period last year. Births were equal at one for June of both years and there were no deaths recorded in either period.

Millbrook Farm Half Day Fails To Go Over

MILLBROOK, July 4—(ENS).—A full discussion of the question of closing local stores on Tuesday, as well as Thursday, afternoons during July and August, in order to free men who might help with the harvesting of the season's crop, featured the public meeting held in the council chamber on Monday at 8 p.m., Reeve W. E. Ball presiding.

The meeting was called in order to deal with a request from a government official in town the previous week, who asked that some action be taken as farmers are so short of help, and giving them assistance would be an emergency war measure of the highest importance.

The reeve and J. J. Clarke were appointed a committee to approach each business man with a petition, the following day asking: "Would you be willing to close the stores of the community on Tuesday, as well as Thursday, afternoons of each week for July and August, to free men who would then go out and help with the harvest? And would you, if possible, be willing to go out yourself and give such help when it is so badly needed at this time?"

One or more of the men approached could not see their way clear to answering "Yes" to the petition and as unanimous assent was necessary to put the matter over successfully, it was left in abeyance, with the understanding that as many as can will give help with the harvest as they find it possible to do so.

It was pointed out at the meeting that practically every able-bodied young man of the village is now enlisted for active service in the war, only younger boys and men of rather mature years being left to carry on with the business life of the community. Thursday afternoon is the regular half-holiday for the summer months.

4th Jap Destroyer Is Left Blazing Fiercely

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP). — The Navy Department announced to-day that United States submarines had sunk three Japanese destroyers in the Aleutian Islands July 4 and had left a fourth destroyer "burning fiercely."

Two of the destroyers were sunk at Kiska Island and the other went down at Agattu where, the navy reported, army bombers attacked enemy transports and escorting vessels.

Today's navy report raised Japan's losses in her efforts to establish occupation forces on the Western Aleutians to five ships sunk—three destroyers, one cruiser and one transport—and nine damaged, including an aircraft carrier.

All the attacks prior to the July 4 submarine offensive had been made by army and navy aircraft which have been limited in their operations by the infrequency of favorable weather.

All Whites Moved

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP). — All the natives and the few white residents have been evacuated from the Western Aleutian Islands, where army airmen have been playing cat and mouse with the Japanese whenever weather permits, and from the Pribilog Islands in the Bering Sea north of Dutch Marbor.

William Zimmerman, Jr., Assistant Indian Commissioner, reported today that the evacuees, numbering somewhat less than 1,000, had been taken by the navy to Juneau, Alaska, where the Indian Bureau has provided housing.

The Japanese landing at Attu, however, was said by delegate Antony Dimond of Alaska to have prevented the evacuation of the few residents of that island. There were no natives of Kiska, where the Japanese also have landed.

Six Break Out Five Come Back

SHELBURNE, N.S., July 6—(CP) —Six prisoners broke out of Shelburne jail last night, but five of them voluntarily walked back in again a few hours later. Police are seeking the man who failed to return, Robert Sebean, a soldier from Port Lorne, Annapolis County, N.S.

Sabean was awaiting trial on a theft charge arising from a robbery of an army canteen recently. The other fire, three sailors and two civilians, were being held for minor offences.

The group made their escape by bending iron bars in a window in the jail corridor to reach the jail yard and then climbing over a 12-foot fence with the aid of a rope. The break was discovered when Mrs. Roy Locke, jailer's wife, saw the five returning to the prison by the same route in which they escaped.

All Alike To Hun

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP) — A Stockholm broadcast heard by CBS said today that a Swedish fishing vessel was bombed and machine-gunned for half an hour on Saturday by a clearly-marked German plane off the west coast of Sweden.

The captain of the ship was quoted as saying he was outside the German-blockaded zone. One of the crew was wounded seriously.

Yanks In China Force Japs To Night Raids

CHUNGKING, July 6.—(AP)—Steadying Chinese ground resistance and the rising might of the United States Air Force slowed down the Japanese and confronted them with new problems today at the end of the fifth year of the Chinese-Japanese conflict.

In the air, the Japanese struck a new note of caution with night bombardment of Hengyang, Hunan communications center, after two daylight raiding forces had been scattered by the American Volunteer Group in a windup of its career.

When the American fliers set their fighters down again, those of the Flying Tigers who elected to remain in China joined the new 23rd United States Air Force pursuit group.

One of the A.V.G. fighters' last action was to escort a United States bombing squadron which attacked Japanase air bases at Nanchang, Hankow and Canton in a three-day assault launched July 1.

A communique said hangar,s runways and parked aircraft were damaged. All of the bombers returned safely to their bases.

On the ground, the Chinese struck back against the Japanese captors of Ihwang, in Kiangsi province 80 miles south of Nanchang, and retook the town after the enemy had held it but 24 hours, the Central News agency reported.

Foil Nipponese Trap

The fierce counter attack was said to have undermined Japanese efforts to trap large Chinese forces in Central Kiangsi south of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railroad where the enemy appeared unable to bridge a last 25-mile-wide gap between their columns.

A Chinese army spokesman said yesterday that Chinese force still controlled the gap despite Japanese claims to have completed conquest of the rail line on July 1.

The enemy night raids, a new development in the war in China except for several terror attacks on Chungking, occurred in the hours before dawn Saturday after the A.V.G. shot down six planes in daylight attacks.

In connection with the anniversary of the beginning of the war with Japan, the government issued a bulletin describing the growth of the Chinese Air Force and the construction of airfields it said would one day be used to attack Japan.

"Advanced fields with underground fuel and bomb depots now dot all the Chinese provinces," the bulletin said. It told of the con-

Ottawa Bans Opening New Mines

Conserving Machinery; Labor Shortage Also Large Factor

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP). — Opening of new mines and extension of existing mines has been prohibited except under permit from Metals Controller George C. Bateman it was announced to-day by Munitions Minister Howe.

He said the step was taken to conserve machinery, and other mine supplies, and to "assure the production of war metals." His statement said the labor shortage has become acute in some fields of mining and that "essential mines must be provided with adequate manpower."

To-day's announcement did not mention gold mines specifically but its emphasis was on the need for production of war metals. It was reported unofficially last week that the trend would be toward increased output of war metals and the holding down of gold production to not more than the level of the first four months of this year.

The new order, issued by the Metals Controller, and approved by R. C. Berkinshaw, chairman of the Wartime Industries Control Board, provides that, except by permit, "no person may remove extract, dig or dredge from any mine in his control a greater tonnage of ore than the average monthly tonnage removed during the four months ending April 30, 1942."

Nothing Past June 30

The order also provides that, except by permit, "no person shall operate any metal mine or carry on any development work in the mine, unless the mine was in production and ores or metals were being marketed commercially on June 30."

It also prohibits any development work such as shaft-sinking, drifting, cross-cutting, raising or winzing at a rate in excess of the normal rate for the tonnage permitted to be removed from the mine.

"The new regulations will not interfere in any way with plans for increasing, wherever possible, the output of copper, zinc, lead and other metals and minerals needed in the war program," said Mr. Howe. "It should be made clear, however, that permission will not be granted to open up mines which have small chance of producing within a reasonable time."

The Minister said mines which have undertaken to increase their tonnage under arrangement with the Minister of Finance will not be "embarrassed" by the new order.

Settle For $30,000

CHICAGO, July 6—(AP)—Al Capone, former Chicago gang leader, and seven others have settled a government suit for collection of $119,367 in beer taxes for $30,000, it was announced today by Austin Hall, assistant United States attorney in charge of civil litigation.

Hall said the Government agreed to accept the settlement because of the difficulty of proving its claims on illicit beer seized as far back as 1921 and because most of the defendants were unable to pay the taxes and penalties of more than $200,000.

Mexicans Using Rental Tires As Tourist Bait

WEXICO CITY, July 6.—(AP).—A plan whereby motoring tourists can cross the border on their own tires and then rent Mexican tires to use on vacation trips here was announced by a new company formed by hotel men.

Hotel proprietors, faced with a 50 per cent. decrease in the number of tourists since the war, decided that tires for Mexican trips should be assured and therefore formed the company.

The government gave it permission to buy tires to rent to tourists on condition it plant enough rubber trees to supply all the company's needs by 1946.

A tourist, after renting tires from the company, also may have his own retreaded while he is on his trip and pick them up when returning to the United States, it was said.

WASHINGTON, July 6 — (AP). —Less than one of every 200 convoyed British ships has been lost in the war Lt.-Gen. Gordon Nevil Macready, head of the British Army staff in Washington, declared today.

'In addition, the Royal Navy has inflicted severe punishment on the enemys forces and has sunk 5,250,000 tons of enemy merchant ships," he said in an address prepared for the opening of an exhibition of British war weapons at the Smithsonian Institution.

LONDON, July 6 — (CP).—The Germans have thrown more than 1,000,000 troops into the Kursk offensive in a massive wheeling operation in an attempt to over-run the approaches to the Caucasus, a military informant, not quoteable by name, declared today.

Gen. Heinz Guderian's second tank group was said to be leading the drive eastward, and the Germans were reported as having 1,500 first-line aircraft deployed to exploit any major German success.

The present battle is being fought on a 120-mile front from east of Orel to east of Kharkov. Military experts predicted the Germans would create a major diversion on the northeast shore of the Black Sea, employing Nazi troops from the Kerch Peninsula. This drive probably would be aimed directly at Rostov, gateway to the oil regions.

Tanks and 4 Regiments.

In New York the Moscow radio said today that in the past five days of "repelling the main Fascist onslaught" in the Kursk sector Russian tanks alone had destroyed four regiments of infantry, one artillery regiment and from 50 to 60 tanks.

"Prisoners taken call the German losses gigantic," said the broadcast, recorded here by CBS.

The tactical objective of the ukraine offensive is to sever the Moscow-Voronezh - Rostov railway, the last remaining lateral communication from Moscow to Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's army group in the south. The Vichy radio, frequently an avenue for German propaganda said to-day the line has been cut.

Guderian's headlong assault — spearheaded by the relatively small force of three armored, two motorized, and five veteran infantry divisions—has forced the Russians back in the Voronezh region.

Two German columns were said to be approaching the city from the north-west and south-west, intending to unite west of the Don and move on the city.

Key to Hitler's Hopes.

Marshal Fedor von Bock, in charge of the German offensive in the south, then is expected to try to shove a great mass of infantry and artillery on across the Don and drive southward on Stalingrad. The success of this manoeuvre would determine whether the Germans could reach the oil of the Caucasus before winter.

Timoshenko's prospects of pushing up from the south to attack the German flank were lessened by a secondary drive launched by Von Bock from Belgorod. Military experts said this drive was believed to be engaging Soviet forces gathered there for a northern push.

The task of halting the German drives has been handed over to Soviet dive bombers and field artillery

BERNE, Switzerland, July 6—(A.P.).—A Berlin dispatch to the Basel newspaper National Zeitung quoted German military circles today as admitting that the British Army has succeeded in bringing up enough reserves to take the offensive in the Battle of Egypt.

Reports from Rome to the Geneva Tribune said that, following the Axis break-through near El Alamein the Italians had not expected such resistance as the British troops were offering.

Il Gironale d'Italia said the British army is hurling into the battle all available armored equipment — machines repaired at Cairo and Alexandria as well as United States General Grant. Tanks just arrived from South African ports.

Maoris Lead Night Assault.

CAIRO, July 6 — (AP). — New Zealand's gallant Maori troops part of the British Army of the Nile, struck German infantrymen in a bayonet attack by the light of the desert moon last night to clinch gains won for the second consecutive day in the epic struggle for the El Alamein approach to Alexandria.

At the end of a full day of fierce fighting under a scorching sun, the Maoris — descendants of warlike Polynesian tribes—charged into the battle, their bayonets flashing.

The British Middle East Command reported that in the day and night operations a strong point was wrested from the Axis troops of Field-Marshal Erwin Rommel, a bare 70 miles short of the British naval base of Alexandria at the Delta of the Nile.

Heavy casualties were inflicted on the enemy in this night engagement, the bulletin declared. British casualties were described officially as "slight."

Allied planes were continuing their active part in the operations in Egypt, blasing at Axis troop concentrations and supply lines.

Especially heavy attacks were made yesterday on the enemy airfield at Ela Daba, 35 miles west of El Alamein, where at least 14 planes were damaged on the ground, the communiquet said.

Six German planes were destroyed in air combats yesterday and many others were said to have been damaged.

The loss of six British planes was announced.

Over Open Sights

Dispatches from the front said British forces were wheeling up their artillery to blast away over open sights at Rommel's tanks.

Although military circles said a severe check had been delivered to Rommel's ambitions, they hesitated to suggest yet that he might turn back to the Libyan frontier.

That he could do so successfully if such a manoeuvre seemed best they did not doubt however for the British forces apparently were not in position to attempt to cut him off or carry out a pursuit in strength.

Military quarters said the new Axis withdrawal was purely local in character, but it was hoped there that by maintaining the initiative British forces might keep Rommel off balance and thwart his attempts to regroup his forces for a fresh assault.

It is the general feeling the outlook in Egypt has improved greatly from the British point of view during the past few days.

Lack Of Supplies Telling

Partly responsible for this mounting optimism are dispatches from the front indicating that the Axis forces, weary from their swift 350-mile push across the desert, are be-

The BBC said the handful of Frenchmen had been gathered by the Germans for slave labor after numerous and widespread showings of a film painting a "rosy picture" of life in Germany. Dr. Robert Ley, German labor leader, added a few strokes of his own to the picture of a German land of milk and honey.

Four Reporters Quizzed In Chaloult Case

MONTREAL, July 6 (CP)—Newspapermen held the stage today as Rene Chaloult, Liberal member of the Quebec Legislature for Lotbiniere, appeared before Judge Edouard Archambault in the Court of Sessions on a charge laid under the Defence of Canada Regulations after a public address delivered here May 19.

The complaint charges Mr. Chaloult with making declarations and affirmations before several thousand persons which would cause disaffection to the King; prejudice the success of His Majesty's Armies and the armies of the Allied Nation and their associates; prejudice recruiting and training and discipline of His Majesty's armies; prejudice the security of the State and the successful prosecution of the war.

Four Montreal reporters testified during the morning session. Myer N. Negru of the Gazette said he covered the meeting at which Mr. Chaloult spoke and thought he had written a fair report of the address. He said he checked his notes with Mr. Chaloult after the meeting so as to avoid any possibility of misrepresentation, and that Mr. Chaloult, after making some corrections, had congratulated him on the "excellency" of his notes.

Checked Word "Hoped"

Answering a question by Crown Prosecutor Gerald Fateux, Negru said he had checked with Mr. Chaloult on the word "Hoped," used in a statement by the accused that "he hoped that Canada would sever its Imperial ties after the war and join a Pan-American Union."

Paul Sauriol, of Le Devoir, said he had reported Mr. Chaloult's address while his confrere Lucien Ayotte, wrote the introduction and described the "atmosphere." Sauriol described the meeting as "enthusiastic."

Nelson Bars Rubber From Grain

Protests Building Of Distilleries Would Use Up Steel

WASHINGTON, July 6.—(AP). — War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson protested to-day against a proposed program to produce synthetic rubber from grain on the ground that it would require critical materials "urgently needed for the war effort."

Opposing a bill calling for creation of a rubber supply agency to direct manufacture of synthetic rubber from grain alcohol, Nelson told a senate agriculture sub-committee sponsoring the measure that construction of such distilleries would require copper and steel.

"Every pound of copper and steel taken away from our present supply," he asserted, "would hinder the war program. And that is of paramount interest.

"Further, by placing production of synthetic rubber under an agency director, you would take from the President his control over priorities. This director could do anything he wanted to direct the flow of materials needed for war."

Accordingly, Chaiarman Guy Gillette (Dem.-Iowa) assured Nelson the committee would defer action until Nelson could present additional objections within a week.

Eight Saboteurs In Close Guard

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP).—Eight alleged Nazi saboteurs, captured after being landed from Axis submarines on Long Island and in Florida, are being held in the district jail under heavy guard to face trial Wednesday morning by a special military commission.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, which announced the arrest of the men, and other official sources would not confirm that the eight were here, but it was learned that they were in custody of Brig.-Gen. Albert L. Cox, Provost Marshal for the district area.

Formal charges filed against the men allege violation of the Law of War, the Articles of War, and conspiracy, and the Government is expected to seek the death penalty.

The prisoners were listed by the F.B.I. as: Ernest Peter Burger, George John Dasch, Herbert Haupt, Heinrich Harm Henick, Edward John Kerling, Herman Neubauer, Richard Quirin, and Werner Thiel.

Crash Victim, Gunless, Outbluffs Duce's Bomber

TORONTO, July 6. — (CP). — Sqdn. Ldr. George Patterson (Pat) Christie of Montreal, killed near there yesterday in the crash of a Hudson bomber, once downed an enemy plane without firing a shot. He had no guns because he was on a reconnaissance flight.

While on reconnaissance in the Mediterranean, he related in a (Liberty) magazine article last November, he was heading along the French coast twoard Cannes when he saw an Italian bomber approaching.

"I carried out a couple of dummy attacks well out of range," Christie related. "As his fore gun and rear gun could only turn about 30 degrees, if I kept up this dodging and did figure-eights over the top, he couldn't shoot me. I kept it up, getting lower and lower, until I got within 15 or 20 feet from the top of the aircraft. Then I pulled up again and watched. From sheer fright he slowly went down and force-landed the machine into the sea.

"I flew back, took a picture, and on the top wing, slowly getting undressed, and as the machine sank they started out for shore.

Hitler Couldn't Wait for Rommel Victory

Forced To All In Russia, Now So Tied Up He May Be Unable To Aid In Libya

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The great and probably decisive test of strength between the European Axis and the Allies at last is well under way, after many costly delays and false starts by Herr Hitler, due chiefly to the magnificent fight which the Russians have been waging.

The Nazi chief hasn't waited to see the outcome of his henchman Rommel's offensive against Egypt before slashing again with great weight at the Red front in the Kursk-Kharkov sector. His immediate objecitve seems to be the capture of the railway junction of Vorontzh, thereby cutting the main Moscow-Rostov railroad and depriving the Russians of their last direct supply line in that zone. His ultimate goal is to cash through the Ukrainian gateway into the Caucasus.

The Caucasus, the Middle East and Egypt are the heart of a vast, crescent-shaped front which must be regarded as an individual theatre of operations, although of course it interlocks with other fronts. The struggle for this territory where East meets West may easily determine the outcome of the war, and most certainly will bitally affect its course.

Thus far only the tips of the crescent have come into action These bloody points are represented by Rommels drive into Egypt and by his master's fresh effort to carve his way through the Red front within the next four months before winter again clamps down on him.

Nothing decisive has happened on either crescent as yet. While the Allies have halted Rommel and even hammered him back somewhat, the battle is far from over and it would be wishful thinking to assume that the resourceful Nazi commander is beaten. The important facts from the Allied standopoint are that the Axis forces have been stopped and that the Allies have at least for the moment seized the initiative from the enemy.

If the British army can retain the initiative, then Rommel's position will become increasingly difficult. Time is working for the Allies and against the invaders, for it is giving Auchinleck a chance to receive reinforcements, while Rommels' problem of reinforcements and supplies becomes more and more serious owing to the great length of his communications. Meanwhile the heavily reinforced Allied air force is hammering destructively at these communications.

Over on the other crescent-point the Germans claim to have thrown back the Red line and reached the River Don on a broad front. The

Gandhi Would Show the Axis

Stress Futility Of War—Let Allied Armies Stay

BOMBAY, July 6.—(CP).— Declaring that "India is as much interested as her Alies in warding off attack," Mohandas K. Gandhi proposed to-day that India be made free and that United Nations troops be allowed to remain to defend the country against the Japanese

"I argue that Allied troops, if they remain, will do so not to exercise authority over the people or an India's expense, but will remain under a treaty with the government of a free India at the United Nations' expense for the sole purpose of repelling Japanese attacks and helping China."

He proposed that India be allowed to start a new national life with non-violence as its "predominant sanction." He saiad this non-violence would "express itself in her ambasadors going to the Axis countries not to beg for peace but to show them the futility of war."

OTTAWA, July 6 — (CP). — A new priorities system has been established in Washington to cope with a North American supply situation which Munitions Minister Howe says is so critical "hundreds" of Canadian manufacturers will be nuable to obtain enough raw materials from the United States to keep their plants running.

"The zero hour is coming," Mr. Howe said last night in a statement announcing the new allocation setup, "when manufacturers will be unable to obtain sufficient steel, non-ferrous metals and other materials.'

Officially designated the Production Requirements Plan, the new system sets definite quotas for all manufacturers using more than $5,000 worth of metals in a quarter of the calendar year. Every manufacturer so qualifying must turn in a report giving his inventory, what he uses the material for and how much he needs for the next quarter year.

Manufacturers of civilian articles will be supplied after war industries have been provided with necessary raw materials, processed parts, machinery and repair parts.

Only Bare Essentials.

This means, Mr. Howe said, that in many cses "they will get nothing." Only civilian industries essential to a nation at war would be given 'any preference."

NEW YORK, July 6 — (AP). — As the Fourth of July week-end drew to a close last night the United States counted its dead from violent causes at 241—far fewer than when Independence Day was celebrated with few restrictions in the years of peace.

Last year's toll of lives for a three-day week-end Friday through Sunday, was 628, of which 384 were traffic victims.

Death took 124 lives on the country's highways on Sunday and Saturday, while 67 persons were drowned and 50 died in other forms of violence. There were no fireworks victims reported.

The nation-wide campaign to conserve tires and gasoline shortage along the eastern seaboard were the chief reasons for a general decrease in traffic and fatalities.

Although many more American families passed the holidays at home than in previous years, there were fewer home accidents reported. Federal rstictionrs on pyrotechnic displays in coastal areas and strictly enforced local safety laws accounted for the lack of fireworks victims.

A total of 18 traffic victims were counted in Callornia, which far outstripped the other States. Ohio led the States in reported drownings with a total of eight.

In Connecticut a man choked to death on a piece of meat at a picnic. A shipyard worker in Maine was crushed to death beneath an iron pipe. Seven persons died in a fire in Oklahoma. One person was killed in New York State when a bridge collapsed.

Unity Keyword Orangemen Told At Service

There must be no division of creeds, but they must all march together, respecting one another and seeing that there are equal rights for all, separate from the State, the Rev. E. W. Rowland told members of the L.O.B.A., L.O.L. and Juvenile Lodge who attended the annual service of the Orange Order at Mark Street United church

After a warm welcome to the members of the Orange Order, the speaker delivered his text "What mean ye by these stones?" and told the story of the building of a memorial of stones by the people of Israel, after they reached Canaan, to celebrate the safe crossing of the Jordan River. In just such a manner with marching and singing do Orangemen celebrate the 12th of July. Why are these things done? Because it is necessary to take a cue from the past, he said, that cannot be ignored, and they are the stepping stones to nobler things. Things can only be achieved in the present and the future as the things in the past are interpreted and understood.

"In 1689 James 2, King of England, in many ways a worthy man, but who sought to superimpose his religion on his people, was deposed from his throne and was succeeded by William of Orange and his wife Mary. With the help of Louis XIV, a rebellion was planned in southern Ireland and this rebel army marched to Londonderry and laid seige to a walled city in which there were 30,000 souls suffering privation. James was defeated in the Battle of the Boyne, and those in the citadel did it in the name of William of Orange. Those courageous souls had a higher motive than simply holding off a cruel enemy at the gates. They stood on the great principle that to live at all they must have free institutions, which represent the very soul of free men and women."

Because people believe in the freedom of religion, man's conscience is his voice of authority, and as of old we are fighting for the freedom of our religion, Mr. Rowland said. When Roosevelt and Churchill met on the Atlantic they forged there the framework of a world of federation and brotherhood, but that Charter merely reiterates what was given by our fathers in 1689, he continued.

"The State is made and maintained for the individual and the stand should be today and forever for a separate church and government. Wherever you have in history, men, or institutions or churches encroaching on these God-given privileges, there is trouble. The Bible is an open book to be interpreted by each individual according to his own soul. Pray that we never give over to hate, prejudice, or oppression, and never seek revenge, but let us through the spirit of God march on to prove to others that our life springs from within. So the warfare that we are engaged in will surely end in victory."

About two hundred members of the various Orange branches paraded smartly to church behind the Salvation Army Band, which also played very beautifully during the service. After church, the members paraded to Confederation Park where four wreaths wewre placed on the War Memorial by Past Grand Master of Ontario East, Ernest F. Reid, County Master of Peterborough, A. W. Millen, Grand Treasurer of Ontario East, Mrs. R. Pilling, and Grand Secretary of Ontario East, Mrs. L. P. Campbell. This is done in a yearly memorial service to honor the Orangemen killed overseas in the last war. Throughout the ceremony the Salvation Army Band played a soft accompaniment.

Nazis have exaggerated so much in their communiques that we can't trust them, but must await confirmation from Moscow. However, the Muscovites do say the enemy have driven a wedge into their line in the Belgorod sector, and there is no doubt Hitler is exerting great pressure on the Russians in this new attack.

It is worthy of note that the Hitlerites thus far have lacked, or at least haven't shown, the striking power which they displayed a year ago in their assault on the Soviet. The Russians say Hitler has lost so heavily in men and material in past 12 months that he is incapable of staging a great offensive.

That may be a correct statement, but I think we want to see the Germans in action for a while before coming to a conclusion. Both sides have taken such heavy punishment that only a fresh test, such as now i sunder way, can determine the relative striking power of these giant armies. It will be surprising if Hitler isn't holding considerable strength in reserve, and we may expect some bitter fighting, and many dark days for the Allies, before the issue is decided.

Hun Threaten Vital Don Crossing

Fling In All Reserves To Reach Vital Moscow To Rostov Ry.

MOSCOW, July 6 — (AP)—Russia's defending armies, fighting wave after wave of Nazi tanks and infantry on fields strewn with dead and wounded, sought desperately today to stem an offensive aimed at the important Don River and the strategic city of Voronezh on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

(The German high command claimed that Axis spearheads striking out from the Kusk-Kharkov line had reached the Don "on a broad front." If the claim is true, the Germans are perilously close to the Moscow-Rostov railroad line, which for 50 miles south of Voronezh runs about 10 miles east of the Don).

The struggle which has developed into a full-scale Nazi offensive is taking place in a rough triangle with Kursk and Kharkov in the west and Voronezh in the tast as its points. The fiercest fighting is in progress around the cities of Belgorod and Volchansk in the Kharkov corner.

Russian dispatches told of stubborn fighting around these two cities and said the Germans had driven a wedge into their lines in the Belgorod sector, but the government said the Germans suffered heavy losses under a Russian flank attack.

During the night "fierce engagements" continued in the Kursk, Belrod and Volchansk sectors, the Soviet mid-day communique said, adding that Red army tankmen had wiped out a regiment of German infantry and an artillery unit in "sanguinary battles" near Kursk.

All Hun Reserves In.

Southeast of Kursk, the Germans were attacking furiously and incessantly with a force estimated at more than 150,000 men by the Soviet High Command. The Russians reported tese attacks had been repelled, but the Germans apparently were throwing every available reserve into the struggle to smash eastward to the Don.

Signs of exhaustion among the German troops fighting at Belgorod and Volchansk were apparent,

Mission Band Told Story Of China

"For the beauty of the earth" was the subject of the worship service in St. James' Mission Band held on Sunday afternoon with a good attendance. The worship was led by Elvav Sollitt, the president, assisted by Helen and Joan Dalgleish and Sylvia Ferguson.

Audrey Lewers presided at the piano for the hymns which were chosen in keeping with the theme. The Scripture lesson was given in exercise form by Evelyn Wallace, Barbara McMillan, Mary Robinson, and Ruth Weaver, who emphasized the value of the Bible by reciting a favorite verse. The offering was received by Ross Nicholson and dedicated by the presidnt. The month's memory verse was learned and written in the individual books by the children, ater which a suitable poem, entitled "Love" was read by Freda McMahon. A chapter from the study book was "Lanterns in the China Sky," was presented by Constance Wagar the leader, who told the story of a little Chinese girl Beh-Wha, which she illustrated by the use of a very realistic Chinese doll in typical costume. A lovely solo, "O Waly, Waly" by Joey McMahon, was very much enjoyed.

The business included the minutes and the roll-call when the attendance was marked with stars on the roll. Posters made by the members were on display, as well as a fine Chinese scholl made by Graydon Hadwin. Plans for a work meeting were made for July and the Mission Band paper World Friends were distributed. The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

THE MODERN FATHER IS CHILD'S BEST FRIEND

Parents Intelligently Guide Offspring Through Life.

NOT long ago a questionnaire was sent out to a thousand men with children asking them what sort of fathers they considered they are. The majority of the men gave themselves a very low rating and evidently believed that they had turned out poor jobs as parents. This humility on their part may have been good for their souls; but I do not think it is justified by facts. I think that the modern father is one of the greatest of all modern improvements.

Of course, it is the custom to disparage the parents of today, to say that they are so much absorbed in their own affairs that they neglect their children, and to compare them invidiously with grandpa and grandma. But, in reality, there has never been any time in the world's history when men and women were so deeply conscious of their responsibility as parents as they are now. There never was a day when fathers and mothers devoted so much time and thought as they do now to trying to understand their children and steer them into the right path.

This is the first age in which the child has ever been considered a problem. Before that it was a biological incident. If it was healthy and strong and well-formed and well-favored and had a normal mind, the parents congratulated themselves on their good fortune. But if the child was sickly and died, or if it was a moron, the parents simply passed the buck to Providence and wondered why they had been so mysteriously afflicted. They never assumed any blame for themselves, or felt that there was anything they could do about it.

But this is not the way with modern parents. They feel that they must move Heaven and earth to give their children a fair break in life and they make any sacrifice to do so. All of us know poor fathers and mothers who are working their fingers to the bone and skimping on food and going shabby in order to have Tommy's adenoids out, or Jimmy's bowlegs corrected, or Mary's teeth straightened, or little Jennie sent to some school where experts will fan the feeble flame of her intellect into a light that will enable her to stumble through life.

Of course, you may say that the parents of the past could not have done these things for their children because it is only modern science and surgery that have enabled us to outwit Nature and correct her mistakes, but our grandparents wouldn't have wasted any money in any case on merely beautifying their children. They considered that looks were unimportant and they ignored the importance of the effect that a pleasing appearance has on one's success in life.

Those of us who are middle-aged can bear testimony to our parent's casual attitude toward us. We were looked upon as merely little animals to be fed and kept clean, and kissed when we were good and spanked when we were bad. Nobody made any effort to understand us, or to find out if we had any special aptitude or talent that should be developed. But now a baby is psychoanalyzed from the time he is born, and his parents study themselves blue in the face trying to interpret his howls and decide whether they are a call for refreshments or have some occult significance.

Parental Guidance

When a boy arrived at the time when he had to choose his life work, the old-fashioned parents could give him no suggestions about what he should do, because they were not well enough acquainted with him to know what he really wanted to do. But the modern father and mother, who have palled with him and played with him and encouraged him to develop his individuality instead of trying to force theirs upon him, are right there with the plan. And it is only to the parents who have made friends with their children that the youngsters can go for help and advice in times of trouble.

It is true there are a few parents now who enforce obedience on their children in the old heavy parent style. "Do as I say, or I will turn you out-of-doors." But, ater all, is slavish obedience such a virtue? Its effect on the weak-willed is to kill ever particle of initiative in them and to foredoom them to failure in life when they haven't Mother and Father to tell them. And even on the strong-willed it could only be enforced as long as the child was physically afraid of its parents. After that they had no hold upon him.

So I think that the modern parents are an improvement upon the old because it is only they who are big enough and broad enough to grant their children the right of self-determination. At any rate, the only ones I know who are making a success of their jobs are those who are friends with their children as well as fathers and mothers.

Nothing To Eat

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP)—Once, in the good old days, children lost at Coney Island were taken to the back room of a police station and treated to ice cream and lollypops while waiting for their parents to claim them. But air-raid wardens have taken over the back room and the kids now are taken to a little "ice cream" bungalow—the exterior the color of vanilla, trimmed with chocolate-colored paint—where they get nothing to eat. Police have found it's too risky to feed 'em, since most have eaten too much before straying away.

Bomber Plunges Kills Ace Two Companions

MONTREAL, July 6 — (CP) — Three men, incuding a Canadian ace of the Battle of Britain, died yesterday in the crash of a Hudson bomber into nearby Lake St. Louis.

The act was Sqdn. Ldr. George Patterson "Pat" Christie, D.F.C. of Montreal, who had an official bag of eight Nazi planes to his credit, and escaped death unnumerable times from the day he joined the Royal Air Force in 1937 until he returned to Canada to become Chief Instructor for the R.A.F. Ferry Command. He was 25.

The other two were Wing Cmdr. Brian Carr-Harris, 39, a native of Toronto who starred on Royal Military college hockey and football teams in the '20c, and LAC. Llewellyn, a member of the R.A.F. Christie was in charge of the plane at the time of the crash.

Cause of the crash was not determined. An R.A.F.F.C. statement said that the plane crashed shortly after taking off from Dorval airport on a routine instructional flight.

Wings Hits Water

Eye-witnesses along the lake shore said the plane had been heading into a brisk wind when suddenly it swooped down to the water, covered with white-caps, as though attempting to land. One wing sagged, struck the water, and the plane cart-wheeled to destruction.

By the time rescue craft could reach the scene, the plane was a crumpled wreck in seven feet of water, its nose jammed into a clay bar and its tail and right wing sticking out of the water. There was a jagged hole in the upturned belly of the ship.

A seat cushion and a ripped airmen's tie were found floating 1,000 feet downstream, indicating that at least one of the men had been thrown clear as the plane struck the water. The plane's log-book was floating nearby, but there was no sign of the men.

A professional diver started working in the wreckage, and the work of bringing up the bodies went on through the night, hampered by a strong river current.

Australia Honors a Friend

There was a period before the war when we were nauseated several times each week by protestations of affection between Germany and Italy. As well as the frequent visitings and junketing parties of the Fuehrer, the Duce, and the lesser luminaries of the Axis firmament there were exchanges of monuments, art treasures and other tokens of esteem. Now, as Mr. Churchill might say, the boot is on the other leg. The expressions of friendship between the United States and the various parts of the British Commonwealth must cause the Axis acute distress. The difference, of course, is that the Axis love-feasts were shot through with jealousy and the traditional hatred of the Italian for the German; no hatred exists between the American republic and the British Commonwealth and they are united in a cause in which their interests do not conflict. Their friendship has a better basis than that of the Axis.

On Saturday Australia did everything in its power to express its friendship for the U.S. Parades, flying flags, entertainments and ceremonies of all kinds marked America's day of independence. The United States Minister laid the foundation stone of the new American Legation at Canberra, which is placed close to the Prime Minister's official residence. In Melbourne the officers of the American forces were entertained officially, and the men of the forces were entertained unofficially by citizens. Mrs. Douglas MacArthur, who has acquired remarkable prestige in a short time, was the guest of honor at a number of functions and took especial interest in a rally of schoolchildren. The American troops gave demonstrations of baseball and American football. Apparently everybody had a good time and Australan-American friendship was given a boost.

In contrast, we in Canada did very little. What is the use of our complaints that the U.S. is indifferent to Canada when we take so little trouble to dispell that indifference? A few demonstrations across the country would have shown our friends to the south that we like them and appreciate them and would have done a great deal to interest them in us. But in matters of this kind Canada is strangely lacking in graciousness! We never seem to know when to do the polite thing. Nations, like men, must show themselves friendly if they expect to have friends. At present we are rather in the position of a girl who wonders why boys never wink at her; her problem is solved if she will wink first. A wink at the U.S. on their national holiday would have done more good than a bureau in Washington to spread news about Canada.

A Great Journalist Passes

French journalism retained until quite recently a flavor — somewhat reminiscent of garlic—which disappeared from the newspapers of Britain and America at the turn of the century; the French enjoyed and excelled at polemic journalism. And now the last of the polemic journalists, Leon Daudet, is dead.

For years Daudet was editor of L'Action Francaise, a royalist newspaper devoted to the cause of restoring the Bourbon monarchy in France. He was a power in the most extreme Right faction of French politics. He was not a fascist, although he was a strong anti-Semite; he had no wish to harass the Jews but he felt that they should be debarred from political activity in France. He had nothing but bitter contempt for the antics of the republican government during the period between the two wars and he expressed his views with explosive violence; Aristide Briand he called "the hump-backed cat," and Joseph Paul-Boncourt he once referred to as "the sweepings of a night cabaret." It has been many a long day since we had journalism of that type in Canada.

Daudet was the son of Alphonse Daudet, the emininet nineteenth century novelist. His life was a stormy one, darkened by the mysterious death of his son Philippe, whom Daudet always believed to have been killed by political enemies. When war broke out Daudet's paper was one of the few to take a strong pro-British stand, and after the invasion and fall of France it continued publication at Marseilles. But Daudet, at 75, was feeling the strain of long years of conflict, and his death was not unexpected.

Salvage In Rural Districts

The collectors of salvage in Peterborough have done well, and continue to do well, because they have organization and they have the co-operation of the public. Anyone who walks about the streets of the city may see heaps of salvage, carefully sorted and labelled, standing at the curb waiting for the truck to collect.

But in the rural district the situation is not well in hand. True, there are some sections where energetic committees have underfaken salvage work and have done well with it, but these are exceptions. Upon the whole, the rural districts have not been pulling their weight in the salvage campaign. An observer last week discovered one farmer who had ten old tires—the very essence of rubber salvage—with which he had done nothing and with which he apparently intended to do nothing. Shortly afterward our informant found another farmer who had twenty-five tires — twenty-five—and who had made no effort to see that they reached the proper sources! These men are not asked to give their old rubber; if they will bring it into the city — and they must come in sometimes—they can sell it for a good price. It is time the rural districts took a grip on the salvage problem and dealt with it.

Not long ago we wrote in these columns about a woman whom we had found who did not know that sugar was rationed. Little by little we are driven to believe that there are great numbers of people living within the area covered by this newspaper who have only the slightest notion of the importance of the war in which we are engaged. The farmers who have done nothing about salvage are examples. Our war effort needs their salvage and it is not going to reach its proper destination by a miracle. They must either bring it into the city or arrange rural salvage campaigns of their own. And they must do it quickly; next autumn or next spring will not do.

Using The Bayonet

One of the legends which has survived from the last war is that the German soldiers cannot stand up to bayonet fighting. True, no man likes to be attacked with one of those murderous spikes, but among the German troops they produced acute fear, and sometimes panic. In the present war we have heard little of bayonets being used, but an account of a skirmish in Egypt mentions them, and shows that the Germans are no better at resisting bayonet warfare than they were a quarter of a century ago.

It happened when a group of New Zealand battalions found that they had been cut off from their main force; it was night, and between them and freedom there was a considerable body of Axis troops. The New Zealanders bravely and recklesssly dashed upon the German machine guns and overran their positions; several gunners were killed and the rest turned and fled, hotly pursued by our forces who bayonetted them as they ran. The more Germans fell, the more their comrades were demoralized. In the charge was a Maori battalion which had never engaged in bayonet warfare previously; the men in this group, however, showed unusual skill in the use of the point. Said the colonel, after the New Zealanders had made contact with the main body of thsir forces, "The bayonet charge was a first-class show. It proved what we had learned in clashes with the Germans in earlier campaigns. He is a good fighter but panics easily at night when you get to close quarters... We learned long ago that Jerry does not like cold steel."

Before the war there was an idea that the bayonet, like cavalry, had no place in modern war. The Russians have shown us what cavalry can do when it is used with imagination and courage. And our own forces have found that the enemy hates the bayonet as much as ever he did, and that there are times when it can be extremely useful.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Says a headline, "Bread To Replace Bombs Immediately War Ends." We hate people who throw bread.

Why do they persist in calling it the Income Tax? From now on our income is simply going to be what's left.

An Edmonton fireman found life so dull that he started a fire in order to give himself some work. Personally, we like to see our firemen loafing and playing checkers. They are the one community service which we hate to see on the job.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE question of increasing the weight of hogs for British bacon is coming to the fore again, this time in the House of Commons. The Federal Minister of Agriculture was urged to permit pigs up to 250 lbs. to be graded in Class A. The difficulty is that the British Ministry of Food contracts for pigs of lighter weight in Class A, and the Canadian Minister cannot and should not change the weights without the British Minister's consent. "He who pays the piper can call the tune."

It is urged by some people that the last 25 lbs. is the easiest to put on. It may be easy to carry a pig on for 25 extra pounds, but the best authority on feeding livestock, "Henry and Morrison's Feeds and Feeding," clearly proves that it takes more feed to add these extra pounds and they cost too much. This authority claims, and offers proof, that the most profitable weight at which to turn pigs off is 200 lbs., or very little more.

Some of the most peculiar reasons were offered for increasing the weight of our hogs. One was that if the pigs were too heavy the "sides might be trimmed in the abatoir. If this could be done, what would the "trimmings" sell for? If this was done the farmers would feed their pigs to an extra 25 lbs., at an extra cost as a pig eats well at that time, and then have the packing-house trim some of it off to be sold at a low price for pieces.

On the other hand, just how would you trim a Wiltshire side? This Wiltshire bacon is shipped in the form of half pigs? The head and legs are removed and the hog is split down the centre of the backbone to make a Wiltshire side. If you have put an extra 25 lbs. on this pig, how could you trim it? This fat is an extra layer under the skin of the whole pig; the skin must not be broken so the only thing to do is ship your side of bacon "as is", and back comes the complaint that the bacon is too fat, and so cannot be graded A either here or in Britain. The British Government has a definite standard for bacon. They want a certain proportion of fat, but they want also a percentage of lean as it is the lean meat that carries the protein. The great demand for cheese is because of its high protein content.

Apart from these important conditions an effort to send fat bacon to the British market now is contrary to our contract, would definitely prejudice Britain against Canadian bacon. We know what happened following the last war; Canadian bacon was not wanted in Britain and we all but lost our only market. That condition followed large shipments of heavy, badly-cured and carelessly packed bacon to Britain during the last two years of the war, until "Canadian Bacon" became a byword of reproach among those who had to eat it.

It took years for our bacon to live down its bad record and build up a reputation that would sell it, and surely it would be the most short-sighted policy possible to ship the Ministry of Food in Britain the kind of bacon they tell us they do not want.

GOOD work houses in England are selling for over £100 and top geldings are bringing much more, in some few cases double that. Show Hunters which would readily bring £100 to £200 in August of 1939, can hardly find buyers today at £20. The crowds attending horse sales in England and Wales make it difficult for buyers to get close enough to see the animals properly.

A GROUP of farm workers in England have organized a co-operative society to farm 600 acres of land which they have leased. The remmuneration for each worker from land-girl to manager, according to the quantity and quality of work performed by each, is calculated on a system of points arranged in grades. The rewards to each depends on the profits made on the farm, which these people say has made them keen, critcal and hard-workng, and that they have accomplshed more than they possbly could have done without the enthusiasm which this co-operative system has given to the workers.

"You say, madam," said the barrister to the woman in the witness box, "that the defendant is a sort of relation of yours. Will you explain what you mean by that—just how are you related to the defendant?"

"Well, it's like this. His first wife's cousin and my second husband's first wife's aunt married brothers named Jones, and they were own cousins to my mother's own aunt. Then again, his grandfather's on my mother's side were second cousins, and his stepmother married my husband's stepfather after his father and mother had died, and his brother Joe and my husband's brother, Henry, married twin sisters. I've never figured out just how closely related we are, but I've always looked on him as a sort of cousin."

Crisis Near In Russia

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE Allied world drew an easier breath Sunday at the end of a week tense with war drama in Egypt and Russia.

For the moment, at least, British reinforcements appeared to have blocked again the Axis drive toward Alexandria.

Unquestionably Hitler's promised knock-out summer offensive against Russia is in progress. A German claim to have broken through Russian defenses testified to that. A crisis is brewing in Southern Russia that is no less urgent than that for the British forces in Egypt, even though the factors involved, including the time element, are wholly different.

Neither Russian or German reports afford much map data by which to gauge the ebb or flow of the huge and growing battle. This week-end the Germans spoke in broad terms of a gigantic break-through in the Ukraine and a speedy advance, toward the Don River area. For their part, the Russians had counter-attacked at Kursk.

It appears that the main German attack thus far has developed along a front of probably 200 miles from northeast of Kursk southward to Kupyansk, 80 miles east and slightly south of Kharkov.

Kupyansk was taken by the Germans more than a week ago. Belgorod, like Kursk, remained in German hands throughout the winter and spring. Volchansk, however, was the northern limit of Marshal Timoshenko's drive at Kharkov as Chungnev was its southern extremity. If the Germans now hold all of the Kursk-Kupyansk Railroad, therefore, it is clear that they have not only regained all of the ground Russia won about Kharkov, but definitely moved eastward beyond Timoshenko's jump-off positions.

The Russian salient that by-passed Kharkov to the south and stabbed dangerously close to the Dnieper River crossing threatening to outflank the whole Nazi line to Taganrog, appears, by this analysis, completely wiped out. The indicated front from Kursk to Kupyansk also implies a developing two-prong German drive to tear a huge gap between Russian armies in the south and those in the Central or Moscow area.

From Kursk and Kupyansk, railroads run generally eastward to connect with the remaining unhampered Russian north-south communication system. What is indicated by the German break-through claim is a converging twin drive, narrowing from a 200-mile to a fifty-mile front if it reaches its target, to cut thal tast direct Russian north-south connecting link.

The missing factor about all Nazi break-through claims in this battle as compared with previous fast-moving conflicts in Russia is lack of any indication that tank divisions have been able to plunge through far to the Russian rear. It was that blitzkrieg technique that won Hitler all his previous land victories. To date, Timoshenko's army seems to have found means to foil it, although massed tanks by the hundreds have been thrown at it repeatedly at many points. Russian retirements to keep the front intact have up to now proved successful.

The territory as yet lost or gained is of small consequence as compared with the losses in men and equipment for either side. The battle in Russia is a battle of attrition, of destruction of armies, not for this or that key point. Its time element can be computed only in weeks or months.

"The Old School Tie"

(NEW YORK TIMES)

THE bitter joke about the place of "the old school tie" in British life will lose some of its point if action reported to the House of Commons is followed up. The "old school," by an inversion which seems strange to us but natural to the British, is the "public school" of the Eton, Harrow and Rugby type, or what we should call a private school. Most of these schools were founded a long time ago on charitable endowments, to care for poor but worthy scholars. They became "class" institutions, for which a certain social standing was usually a prerequisite. Later they took in the sons of the more or less newly rich. In recent years there have been scholarships for the "poor but worthy." On the whole they stood for social barriers, behind which many men sheltered themselves throughout their lives.

War hit them hard, first by curtailing their income and enrolments, second by underlining the necessity for equal opportunity. The butcher's boy was not always a better pilot than the lord's or banker's son, but sometimes he was. If a better pilot, or as good a pilot, why not as good an education in time of peace? The country needed all the brains and character it could command. So, at the request of the "public schools" themselves, a committee has been set up to study the question of opening the famous institutions to new classes of students under Government grants.

Before anyone in this country indulges in the too ready sneer that it was about time Britain woke up, it may be well to remember that educational opportunities have not been equal here either. Despite the immense increase in college enrolments many boys have been denied higher education because they could not afford it, and a great many millions of tax funds and endowment incomes have been wasted on boys who could afford it but were not college material. President Conant of Harvard drew attention to this situation in an address delivered in this city last month. He advocated "a well-supported educational system by which talent reaches the college level irrespective of private income." This means public subsidies or scholarships, or whatever they may be called. We need them in our colleges just as much as Britain needs them in her "public schools" and in her higher institutions.

A democracy needs leaders, influential by talent and by character. The wider the basis of choice the more successful the democracy will be and the more capable of resisting the vulgar Fuhrerprinzip which now afflicts so great a part of the world.

Private Collectors of Revenue

KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD

THE budget laid before Parliament by Finance Minister Ilsley is being accepted, we believe, by the people of Canada as a national obligation which they will loyally do their utmost to meet. They realize that tremendous sums of money are absolutely necessary to carry on this country's part in the war. It is, of course, a government's business to devise ways and means to gather in the revenues required to conduct the nation's affairs, but it is also a government's business to the collector of that revenue. The job should not be imposed upon employers as is now being done.

The Government has an army of employees in Ottawa alone. It has them in every section of the Dominion. When it hasn't enough it goes ahead and engages more. In Kingston they are today so numerous as to be seen everywhere. Why, then, should the Federal Department of Finance force those who try to run a business and pay the salaries and wages of their own employees, to do the collecting for the Dominion By no kind of argument can it be maintained that this task, (which in many cases requires that an employer shall hire more help or pay extra salary for overtime to those who have to labor on the bookkeeping and making of returns) is the direct responsibility of those who employ. Definitely it is not!

The Government should do its own collecting and, furthermore, through its staffs, and all kinds of machinery, it should see that every man makes a return of his income no matter who he is, whether a business man in a city, a farmer in the country or a fisherman on the lakes. There should be no fear nor favor, no load put on one person or group or company that isn't applied with equal thoroughness to others. As the budget now proposes to operate, those who happen to be employers not only have to pay heavily in taxes of all kinds—federal, provincial and municipal—but they are told to look after the work which the Government itself should pay men and women to do, as it pays many thousands of them for other jobs. It is foolish to put a millstone around the neck of business and then expect it to earn the money needed to meet all the financial demands made upon it.

A Bible Message For Today

For thus saith the Lord that created the heavens; God himself that formed the earth and made it; he hath established it, he created it not in vain, he formed it to be inhabited: I am the Lord; and there is none else....

I will mention the lovingkindnesses of the Lord, according to all that the Lord hath bestowed on us, and the great goodness toward the house of Israel which he hath bestowed on them according to the multitude of his lovingkindnesses....

Doubtless thou are our father, though Abraham be ignorant of us, and Israel acknowledge us not: thou, O Lord, art our father, our redeemer; thy name is from everlasting.—Isa. xlv, 18; lxiii, 7, 16.

Looking At The Facts

Mr. Churchill is renowned for his courage in looking unpleasant facts fairly in the face and for telling the truth even when it is unpalatable. That is precisely what the American public is most in a mood to demand—the truth, good or bad, the whole truth and nothing but the truth. No possible good can come from any glossing over of the disagreeable fact that the best we can reasonably expect is a hard and bitter struggle before we can say with assurance that the tide of war has really begun to run in our favour. If anything, we have already had too much premature talk about peace, when the primary condition of any peace that will satisfy the American public is the complete defeat of the armed forces of Germany, Italy and Japan. The sooner we realize that this is a job that the United Nations must do for themselves —without foolish hopes of the enemy's quick collapse when he is still strong in every field of military and naval action—the sooner we shall be able to attend to that job.—Baltimore Sun.

HANDWRITING ON DECLINE

London historian announces that the art of handwriting has been on the decline for 400 years. We're inclined to dispute that. Judging by the signatures on some letters to the editor we get, the trouble must have set in about 400 B.C.—T.D.F., in the Vancouver Province.

Peterboro People In Montreal Meet Greek King

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Yeotes and Mr. Spiro Zakos of this city had the honor last week of being invited to attend the Greek Royal Banquet, held at the Windsor Hotel in Montreal on Monday afternoon to His Majesty, King George of Greece, where the guests were introduced to Mis Majesty, King George of Greece, where the guests were introduced to the King and shook hands with him.

A touching incident occurred during the reception when a boy from Barrie, was introduced to His Majesty. The King asked for the name to be repeated, and then asked the boy if he had not a brother, a lieutenant in the Greek army. The boy said that he had, and the King replied that the brother had been seriously wounded in fighting on the Albanian front, and had later died in hospital. King George had seen and spoken to him before he died and was able to give the boy a message from his brother.

At the banquet the King spoke in three languages, Greek, French and English, bidding his countrymen hold themselves ready for the time was coming when they would be able to help Greece again.

Benefit Game Planned For Thursday

Next Thursday, July 9, a benefit game between St. Peter's and Plazas will be staged at Riverside Park. Is is for Joe Rochetta and Lornie Dennie both of whom are on the casualty list of the C.S.L. Joe sustained a broken toe in a recent game while Lornie had finger of each hand broken.

It should be a good game as both teams are leading their respective leagues. Although City League ball may be considered to be of a little higher calibre, nevertheless, St. Peter's, who have only lost two games in fourteen starts this season so far, intend to give the Plazas a good going over for their money. In fact some rumors have it that the only thing the City League has over the Catholic League is pitching. The St. Peter's crew have some powerful willow swingers on their roster and Parsons and Wilson shouldn't give them too much trouble.

Heavy Hitters

St. Peter's will line up as follows, with probably a change or two: Catching, Vern Perdue; pitching, Tom Cavanagh and Hank Gordon; Jack Condon will hold down first base with Rev. Father Wolff at second, Joe Stewart at short and Honey Tompinks at the hot spot; in the field, Mike Conroy places in left, Ed Prete at centre and Jim Herr in right.

Perdue is a hard worker behind the bat and for the last three years has been playing in the C.S.L. having helped the Cubs to the championship last summer. Cavanagh has pitched two years with St. Peter's and last year did good work in the finals against the Cubs. Hank Gordon is also in his second year with the Saints and has won many games for them so far this year. He is cool and collected and not much bothers him.

Condon at first sack plays heads-up ball all the way and is one of the main stays of his team. Always consistent he deserves orchids for his efforts. He succeeded Andy Morrocco as the pilot of the Saints this year and is doing a swell job as coach-player. Father Wolff is a neat second baseman and covers plenty of ground to make difficult catches. Last year he did duty for the K. of C. and St. Peter's have secured his services for the present season. Stewart will take short, a former St. Peter's player, having played with them last year and at present with the Luckies he is out to help his former teammates to victory. Honey Tompinks at third is a hard hitter and good infielder and he should prove bad medicine for the Plazas.

In left field the C.S.L. team has a fine fly chaser in Conroy, shoestring catches are a specialty with him and he has a good batting record. Prete at centre has played three years with St. Peter's and does his duty well when it comes to flies. He comes through occasionally too with the hickory stick. At the righ field position Herr does a good job and of late has been doing some fine hitting. On the whole the team believes it will prove unlucky for the Plazas.

The players of the Plazas are well known to Peterborough sport fans, such as Starr, Ellis, Heal, Kingdon, Wade, etc. and there is little need to elaborate on their history.

A draw will be held in conjunction with the game and it will be made sometime during the game. Tickets have been distributed and are a dime apiece or three for 25 cents. The public is asked to give this sale its support. Any of the players may be contacted on the St. Peter's team as well as other players of the Catholic League for tickets. Also they may be procured at Dennie's booth on George street just above Romaine street. The ticket receipt besides allowing chances on any of the five prizes, which will be mentioned later, permits one to enter the grounds at Riverside. Admission will be ten cents and those who pay at the gate will also get a chance on the prizes.

The ladies' softball league has graciously consented to postpone their Thursday night's game so as not to prove a counter-attraction to the benefit game. Thursday night's scheduled game in the C.S.L. between St. Peter's and Sacred Heart has been postponed to the following night, Friday, July 10.

Whirly Runs 2nd As Tola Rose Sets New Mark

Although he gained his usual city block in the stretch, the combination of a milk-wagon loan on his back and a short, strange stretch worked enough of a bugaboo to make Warren Wright's whizzer wind up second to A. J. Sackett's lightly regared Hola Rose in the rich Butler Handicap at Empire City, before a crowd of 34,728.

As was the case the last time Whirly was beaten, it took a new track record to do it.

"The Rose," packing only 103 pounds, compared to the 132 on Whirlaway, led from end to end to hit the wire in 1:56 2-5, lopping three-fifth of a second off the standard Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Lively Night set up in winning this mile and three-sixteenths stake three years ag.o He returned his supporters $33.50 for $2.

As a result, instead of crowding Seabiscuit's money-winning record by picking up the $22,800 Butler pay-cheque, Whirley had to be satisfied with $6,000, second only in the feature of a program from which United States war relief funds received $100,000. The runner-up prize boosted Whirlaway's winnings to $410,486, leaving him $27,-244 short of the Biscuit's total. He expects to make up this difference in the $50,000 Massachusetts Handicap at Suffolk July 15.

He Likes Empire Track.

Tola Rose, a $2,600 yearling bargain who now has won more than $50,000, has shown that he likes the Empire track. The moody 5-year-old has run at the Yonkers plant seven times, has won three of those seven and finished second the other four.

His three-length triumph over racing's "hot horse" was the feature of a day that saw an estimated 180,-000 fans bet something like $6,000,-000 at United States race tracks, war relief gets about $200,000 from Empire City and Arlington Park, and Mrs. Payne Whitney's Shut Out take revenge on Emerson Woodward's Valdina Orphan in the Yankee Handicap at Suffolk to hold his undisputed spot at the head of the parade of 3-year-olds.

The only major victory ever chalked up by Tola Rose before the butler came at Empire, in the 1940 Questionnaire Handicap. Whirly whipped the Rose by nine lengths a week ago at Aqueduct.

Ft. Erie Stewards Suspend Owner Fair

FORT ERIE, July 6.—The stewards of the Niagara Racing Association at Fort Erie have issued a ruling suspending owner and trainer James Fair. The entry of the handicap performer McMark has also been refused and the stewards will forward a report on their action to the Incorporated Canadian Racing Associations.

The inconsistent running of McMark brought about the stewards' action and the Cainsville horseman's trainer's license has been taken up. Four horses entered from the Fair string for to-day's races have been ordered scratched.

During the time of the suspension Fair will be denied privileges of training his horses or admittance to the track. It is probable he will be able to turn over the remaining horses, excepting McMark to another trainer and be given permission to start them.

No definite time was given for the suspension by the stewards other than it becomes effective Monday morning. Fair has the privilege of appealing to the I.C.R.A., when the case comes up for a hearing and at which time the length of the suspension may be determined.

The action followed a warning given the horseman of the horse's reversal of form during the fourteen day meeting at Dufferin ,where McMark started six times. Of the six starts on the half-mile track five were in handicaps and one in an al-allowance race. The first start was a seven furlongs race, in which McMark was fourth. He was then sent back in a mile and a sixteenth race and wound up sixth. Three days later he was sent back in a seven furlong race and he won. His next start was over the same distance and McMark was fifth. His two following races were in handicaps at a mile and one sixteen, and the Fair racer won them both. Then on to Hamilton, McMark ran in the Hamilton Handicap, winding up eight and beaten a dozen lengths. His second and final Hamilton start was in a six and one-half furlong race and he was seventh, beaten thirteen lengths.

On Saturday McMark, whether it was on account of the different course at Fort Erie or not, broke out of the gate full of run and headed the handicap field until the stretch, finally finishing third, beaten less than two lengths by Jacless and Air Current for all of the money.

The horses had just been unsaddled in front of the stand, following the running of the handicap when the presiding steward, W. A. Hewitt, summoned Fair to the stand. An explanation of the sudden improvement shown by the horse was asked for. The stewards then went into conference and at the close of the day of racing the ruling was made known.

McMark was bred on Fair's farm at Cainsville. Practically all of the horses he runs are homebreds, with the six-year-old McMark being the stable breadwinner. In 11 starts this year he has won three and was third once earning $4,350. McMark raced 33 times in 1941 winning 9, was second 4 times and third 7 times, earning during the year, $6,571.

Ken Currie and Rod Jones were tie for first place in the net winner, both with a net of two under par thirty-three. Charlie Low and C. Selkirk were also tied with nets of 35½ to take second place.

Sunday was guest day at Kawartha and many of the members brought out friends from far away places to show off Kawartha's beautiful acres.

Last year's club champ n, Lt. Merle Ruiter, was home from Three Rivers for the week-end and it is reported played a nice seventy-nine.

Find Officers' Bodies

MARCH FIELD, Calif., July 6.—(AP).—United States army officials announced last night that the bodies of Maj.-Gen. Herbert Dargue and Capt. James Leavitt, killed with six others in the crash of an army transport plane last Dec. 12, had been found near the scene of the accident high on Kidd mountain near Big Pine, Calif. Gen. Dargue was commanding general of the 1st Air Force, with headquarters at Mitchel Field, New York.

Kawartha Slumps Badly In First Tilt

It seemed that all entrants had top priority ratings, allowing the boys to get their full quota of strokes, in the first game of the annual event held for the Dobbin-Glover Trophy, as the scores generally reached a new high.

This trophy is played for each year between the local two city golf clubs, and with the opener held at the Peterborough Golf Club Saturday, July 4, the homsters gained a very strong lead defeating the Kawartha Club, 65½ points of 24½. this large difference possibly is due to the Kawartha Club having lost many of its young top notch golfers to the armed forces, and also many of their players having to work on Saturday afternon.

However, as both teams seem to be very much more at home in their own backyard, Kawartha Club should close the gap at the next game to be held early in August over their own course.

The field was paced by the club professionals, with Lex Robson of Kawartha defeating Willie Spittal, three holes up; Robson plaing his first 18 of the year was a 36, one over part at the turn, bracketted it with a 38 for a 74.

Spittal, with a very poor first nine 41, pared 7 of the next nine for a 37.

S. Payne was in second position, putting together a 40-39—79.

As some of the entrants seem to have trouble understanding the team scoring; here it is. The player winning most holes on the first nine wins a point, some on the second nine, and one point to the winer of the most holes over the full 18—the ½ points is caused by both players splitting the number of wins on a nine or over the 18; this of course is a no-handicap affair.

Al Lust Kayoes In 12th Round

CALGARY, July 6.—(CP).— Al Lust, blond 21 year old Medicine Hat boxer who now lives here, today was being hailed by Calgary fight fans as the new Canadian welterweight champion.

Al, who joined the Canadian (Active) Army recently and will report for duty next Monday, unleashed a furcious two-fisted attack in the final round to score a knockout over Maxie Berger of Montreal, 50 seconds from the end of a 12-round bout here Saturday night.

Both boxers weighed 145 pounds.

The bout was recognized as a Canadian title affair by the Western Canada Boxing and Wrestling Federation but did not have the blessing of the Canadian Boxing ters in the east.

A recent announcement by Dave Castilloux, present Canadian champion, that he had voluntarily renounced his crown, however, may influence the Canadian Federation to recognize Lust as the new titleholder

A crowd of 2,500 watched Lust come out in the 12th round, belt the Montrealer around and then move in for the kill: The fight was one of the greatest ring battles this city has seen in 25 years.

Lust dazed the easterner with a hard right to he head, battered him against the ropes, then sent over an overhand right to the side of the jaw and stepped back as Berger crumpled to the canvass. It took 10 Federation which has its headquarminutes of first aid and medical attention to bring Berger around.

Official time of the knockout was 2.10 of the 12th. Prior to the last round, newsmen had given Berger six rounds and Lust four, with one—the first—even.

The fight was Lust's 13th professional battle—12 of whih he won by knockouts. He earned a decision over Ronnie (Frenchy) Beaudin of Montreal, in the other bout.

Berger's loss was his first by a clean knockout in 102 battles. Ray Robinson, however, scored a tehnical KO. over Maxie last January.

Being Converted

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 6 —(AP)—Navy men who will attend training school at Indiana University beginning July 15 may be startled to know the "ladies powder room" of the West Hall of the campus is being converted to quarters for the officer of the day.

Stars Study To Become Officers

There will be two outstanding diamond stars missing when the United States Service team meets the winner of the American-National All-Star game in Cleveland, July 7. Hugh Mulcahy, LEFT, ABOVE, former pitching star of the Philadelphia Phils, and Hank Greenberg, former Detroit Tiger slugger, are in training at the Army Air Forces officer training school in Miami Beach, Fa., and will be unable to play in the game. They expect to graduate as second lieutenants in a few weeks. The two stars are pictured at the school.

THE ENEMY AGAIN
CHAPTER X

THERE were no shots from above, but a murmur of excited voices reached Tom and Judith. Flashlights played all around, never quite spotting them under the wharf. For a few seconds the swimmers stopped paddling in the water and huddled together, holding to the barnacled post.

"This can't last long, Judy," Burke whispered hoarsely his teeth chattering. "They'll find us sure. They know we're under here."

"Let's take a chance of swimming for it," Judith said. "If they shoot at us it might attract attention and bring help of some kind. They may not take that chance. Anyway I'd rather drown than freeze to death," she said shivering.

"Then come on, darling." The endearing word strengthened her with new hope.

They moved in and around the boats swimming as quietly as possible, but their pursuers' lights picked them out. No shots came, but Judith was tense with fear. Swimming furiously now they drew out of the lights' range and reached a white schooner anchored off shore. With great difficulty Tom got himself aboard and pulled her up. They were exhausted and cold.

"I'm not sure this is a safe place but it gives us a chance," Tom panted, scanning the darkness.

"Surely they can't hound us much longer. The detective should be along soon. He was to follow me." Judith drew her shoulders forward and wrapped her arms around herself for protection against the cold air. "I'm freezing, Tom — simply freezing to death."

He took her hand and pulled her along the deck to the cabin door. Luckily it was not locked. Judith stumbled down the first step but he caught her up in his arms and set her safely on the floor below. His arms dropped away from her at once while her heart cried out to him not to let her go.

"If I can find some old clothes for us," he said, fumbling in the dark for closets. "We've got to get out of these wet things before we catch pneumonia."

There was nothing to be found, but he kept looking. Judith's fingers discovered a blanket on one of the bunks and she wrapped herself in it, wet clothes and all, and sat down on the edge of the bunk. Quite without warning, she laughed—a laugh that was next to tears and hysterics.

"When I get out of this mess, the company owes me a real vacation and another raise in salary. I'll never be the same."

Judith stared in the direction of his voice. Her heart thumped against her ribs so loudly she wondered if he couldn't hear it.

A devilish impulse rose in her to taunt him. "Don't tell me you really have a heart."

"One that beats for a redhead," he laughed. "Now don't try to make me say more, Judy, not until we are out of this. Then I'll prove what a real sentimental streak I have. What you have gone through for me . . ."

"You don't owe me a thing, Tom Burke," she flared hotly. "I have only been following orders. It's my job—the job you thought so stupid for a girl."

There was a swift movement and Judith felt herself pulled into strong arms and against a wet coat and a body that shivered with cold. His hand tilted her head back and he kissed her—a kiss that set her whole body tingling with excitement. He freed her lips but held her tightly in his arms.

"IT'S a free world, Judy, darling," he told her huskily. "I have a right to be sentimental any time I want to and without changing my mind about things."

She pushed at him and struggled to get out of his arms. Another minute and she would be weeping.

"Well I don't want any of your love," she said and wondered why she was telling such a lie—it was the only thing in the world she did want.

"No?"

He kissed her again. Slowly, she felt herself sink into a well of happiness and then just as slowly come back to the present. Against her will, her arms clung to him. Then he let go of her so abruptly that she fell back to the bunk. He drew in a sharp breath and moved away from her.

Judith was too stubborn to give way to tears and let him know he had won. Instead she got angry.

"Let's have a light—spies or no spies," she demanded and stood up.

"Judith, sweet—" he said "why don't you give in and say—" He broke off abruptly. "Sh—" he whispered. Her heart beat chokingly.

Into the quiet there came the sound close at hand, of oars dipping into the sea.

"Oh, Tom!" she whispered and stumbled forward against him, forgetting her anger wanting only the love and protection of his arms. "You were right. Investigation is not a girl's job. She should stay at home and—Oh, Tom!"

"Yes, Judy," he said. "I'm sorry I was so mean, darling, about your job." He put a finger under her chin lifting her tear-wet face. "I do love you, sweetheart. I have every minute of the time. Please keep on being brave."

HE pushed her from him and she huddled in a dark corner. She heard him swear.

They waited, Tom poised at the foot of the steps, every muscle drawn tight. Judith scarcely breathed. This would be either the beginning or the end of things for them, but at least she and Tom were back together.

There were cautious steps above. Then a flashlight poured down the steps. A man started down. Tom made a flying tackle for his legs and brought him down hard. A quick right to his jaw put him out for the moment. Tom saw the man was Heavy.

A second man had appeared, and Judith cried out sharply as she saw him raise the butt of his gun to bring it down on Tom's head. Her warning came a second too late and Tom's dodge did not take him out of reach of a glancing blow. He went down, and in that moment the spies won the upper hand.

"I will shoot," said Karl menacingly as Tom struggled to his feet, "if you make a move."

The third man kept the cabin well lighted with his torches, and at the same time made sure the portholes were closed and curtained.

"That was a foolish move you made back there," Karl remarked. "I could have shot you easily—both of you."

"This is a good spot as any," said Heavy, scrambling to his feet and shaking his head. He drew a cord from his pocket and set to work binding Burke's hands and legs; then he pushed him into a chair.

"You will talk now."

"No!"

"All right." Karl reached a hand for Judith. She gritted her teeth as the man's fingers dug into the flesh of her arm, but kept her face averted so Tom could not see the flash of pain in her eyes.

C. Westbrooke Tops In Sweepstakes

In the ball sweepstakes run on the side at the Dobbin-Glover event at the Peterborough Clu', Saturday afternoon, few upsets took place, although hard-hitting Charley Westbrook of the Peterborough Club led the Class C group.

The match an' handicap committee last week gave Charley two more strokes after hearing of his poor golf. Charley claimed he would show those fellows what they knew about his game and went out and proved it, shooting his best game of 1942, a gross 87.

The sad feature of the sweeps was T. La Branche, the hustling manager of the Peterborough Review, not handing in a card.

Tom after playing the first nine with R. Glover disappeared, the scorer not even getting a glance at the half card. Tom no doubt will no longer pan the player of the no card variety.

Handicaps, 12 and under: Low gross—F. Dunfield 77; 1st low net—T. Gentles, 80-10—70; 2nd low net—S. Payne, 79-8—71.

Handicaps, 13 to 20 Low gross—M Hardill, 86; 1st low net—R. Jones 88-20—68; 2nd low net—G. Munro, 92-20—72.

Handicaps, 20 and over: Low gross—C. Westbrook 87; 1st low net—G. Maniece, 90-22—68; 2nd low net—H. Cowell, 97-22—75.

C. Westbrook 87-22—65; G. Maniece, 90-22—68; R. Jones, 88-20—68; M. Hardill, 86-16—70; T. Gentles, 80-10—70; S. Payne, 79-8—71; G. Munro, 92-20—72; A. Rutter, 90-17—73; A Cauley, 91-18—73; F. Lawn Bowling

The main attraction out on our local greens this coming week will be the ladies' open tournament. It is scheduled for 1:30 o'clock Wednesday.

This is always looked upon by the ladies as the big day of the year. Besides playing for the cup donated by Senator J. J. Duffus, several sets of prizes will also go to the successful rinks.

Just how our ladies are lining up this year, we don't know but for several years back each local skip has entered her own rink. This is in no way compulsory, just a sort of "gentlemen's agreement."

And while we are on this tournament business it might be interesting to look back at few years and just see how successful these tournaments have been

Right now we have all records back as far as 1938, so will commence with that year.

On Thursday, July 14, 1938 there were twenty-eight rinks entered but a heavy shower that came early in the afternoon forced the tournament to be postponed until 6:30 in the evening. At that they played three 8-end games and Mrs. W. Zeihr of Peterborough skipped the winning rink.

In 1939 on Thursday, July 13, with twenty-eight rinks entered rain again forced out the tournament, but as two games had been compited the tournament was declared and Mrs. A. Hope, also of Peterborough, skipped the rink that was entitled to hold the Duffus Trophy for one year.

In 1940, on Friday, July 19, twenty-four rinks played and once again a Peterborough rink won the cup. This time it was skipped by Mrs. H. R. Martin.

And then last year, Mrs. J. Arnold, also from Peterborough, won the Duffus Cup from fifteen other rinks.

TORONTO LEAFS RUN UP THREE VICTORIES IN WEEKEND TANGLES

Dodgers Wallop Phils Twice; Yankees, Sox Split

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

Major League baseball teams put aside their pennant struggles today after two straight rounds of double headers and sent their stars to the Inter-League classic at New York City so that men of the fighting forces will have the needed equipment when they find time to play the game.

The three-day lull caused by this evening's all-star tilt and the Cleveland clash between the winner and a Service nine tomorrow night finds all teams in both leagues maintaining the positions they held before the strenuous week-end and, for the most part, by about the same margains.

New York Yankees split with Boston Red Sox Saturday and Philadelphia Athletics yesterday to retain their four-game lead in the American League. The Red Sox yesterday split with Washington.

Brooklyn Dodgers beat Philadelphia Phils twice Saturday while St. Louis Cardinals were breaking even with Chicago Cubs, but the Cards downed the Cubs twice yesterday and the Dodgers split with Boston Braves, returning to their lead of 8½ games over St. Louis in the National League.

A notable week-end development however, was the rise of Ted Williams, Boston's American League batting champion of 1941, to the head of the parade among the circuit's hitters for the first time this year. Williams is batting .348, best in his league for 150 or more times at bat.

Gomez Wins His Third

Roger Wolff pitched the Athletics to a 5-4 decision over the Yankees in yesterday's first game but the champs took the second, 4-2, to give Lefty Gomez his third mound triumph of the year.

A double by Johnny Sullivan and a single by George Case in the ninth inning gave the Senator a 4-3 victory over the Red Sox in their opener, but Joe Dobson blanked the Nats on five hits in the nightcap, won by the Red Sox, 5-0.

Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers continued their argument over third place, which the Tribe held by winning, 5-1, behind Mel Harder's three-hit pitching after the Tigers had taken the first game, 10-1, with a 16-hit attack.

Chicago White Sox swamped St. Louis Browns 14-2 as Ted Lyons pitched his 252nd major victory and hit a double and single, but the Browns squared it, 13-2, with Steve Sundra pitching six-hit ball and contributing a home run, triple and double.

Eddie Miller doubled in the run that gave Boston Braves a 6-5 verdict over the Dodgers. Then Larry French, who hasn't lost this season, pitched Brooklyn to a 2-1 triumph in the second game for his ninth victory.

At Pittsburgh a line drive struck Pitcher Paul Derringer of Cincinnati Reds on the knee after he had blanked the Pirates for five frames in the first game, injuring him so badly he was withdrawn from the All-star game. Pittsburgh went on to win the game 4-3 but Ray Starr pitched the Reds to a 5-2 decision in the afterpiece for his 12th decision.

St. Louis Cardinals whipped Chicago Cubs, 5-3 and 11-6, and Philadelphia Phils surprised New York Giants, 3-2 and 5-3, for their first doubleheader victory of the year.

287,934 Pass Gates

A total of 287,934 paying customers sat in on the double round of bargain bills. The National League drew 73,151 on the Fourth of July and 53,252 yesterday, while the paid attendance in the American League was 67,337 Saturday and 94,194 yesterday.

In Saturday's games in the National League, Chicago defeated St. Louis 6-5 in the first game but lost the second 9-3; the Giants won a pair from Boston, 11-5 and 3-2; Brooklyn swamped the Phils 14-0 in the first game and won 5-4 in the second, and Cincinnati shut out Pittsburgh 2-0. The second game was postponed.

In the American League, the Athletics won 5-2 over the Senators in the first game but were walloped 12-2 in the second and the Yankees split with the Red Sox, winning the first 6-3 and dropped the second 6-4. The Browns won 8-5 over Chicago White Sox in the first game and went 13 innings in the second to take an 8-7 decision. Cleveland defeated Detroit 10-3 in the first game and the second was called at the end of the eighth with the score tied 3-3.

By The Associated Press

There's a twin cylindered tornado in the International League, and it is no secret to the lead-leading Newark Bears.

Right now both Jersey City Giants and Toronto Maple Leafs are hot. The Giants, only a half-game behind the Bears, have won seven of their last eight games, while the Leafs have captured nine decisions in a row and are in fourth place.

The Little Giants' streak lured 10,104 paying spectators to Roosevelt Stadium yesterday, and the fans were rewarded with a double triumph over Baltimore Orioles.

Bobby Coombs, the big little man of the Jersey pitching staff, hung up his 10th verdict of the season in the opener, 5-1, as the Giants rapped out 13 hits, including a home run by Catcher Floyd Beal.

In the night cap the ultimate winners squandered a 4-1 lead before winning out in the 11th frame, 5-4, on Connie Ryan's long fly that scored Norman Jaeger.

Brant Allows Only Three

Toronto, playing only a single game with Syracuse, defeated the Chiefs, 1-0, behind the three-hit pitching of Bill Brandt. To make the victory certain, the Leafs counted the game's only run in the first frame, Al Rubeling getting one on a fielder's choice and counting on Johnny Wyrostek's triple.

Newark kept pace with the Giants for the day, and repulsed one challenger by defeating third-place Montreal twice, 12-5 and 8-6. The Bears had an easy time in the first contest, building up an 8-0 advantage in the opening four frames.

In the nightcap, however, they needed a five-run outburst in the sixth to insure the triumph.

Rochester ended a seven-game losing streak in the second contest by defeating Buffalo, 4-3, after the Pisons had annexed the first, 6-1.

In Saturday's games, Baltimore won a pair from Syracuse, 5-3 and 10-3. Toronto defeated Rochester 6-0 and 4-1, Jersey City won 6-5 and 3-0 over Newark, and Montreal turned back Buffalo 13-7 in the first game but lost the second 3-1.

National League Squad Favored

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, July 6—(AP).—For perhaps the first time since baseball's annual All-Star classic was inaugurated 10 years ago, the National League's standard bearers will be the logical favorites when they clash with the American Leaguers at 6.30 E.D.T. this evening in the Polo Grounds.

Trailing three victories to six in the previous nine games, the National Leaguers are seriously determined to win this one on superior pitching, and to whittle down the advantage the junior circuit has built up by its vastly greater slugging ability. Loss of three of their principal stars of last year's triumph at Detroit—Bobby Feller, Cecil Travis and Bill Dickey—has seriously weakened the American Leaguers.

The Nationals not only boast their usual fine set of pitchers, but they will go into tonight's game fortified by a group of hitters who, by the averages at least, stack up right alongside their rivals' star maulers.

Another point: The Nationals appear to have a superior incentive to win. They have been deadly serious in their preparations, to the extent that President Ford Frick made a special request that five crack pitchers be given adequate rest. With Manager Joe McCarthy of the American Leaguers ill all last week in Buffalo, the Americans apparently had little opportunity to make any such extensive provisions.

For still another reason, the National Leaguers would love to win this one. The team that is in front when the last out is made under the lights tonight will hustle for Cleveland to appear against Lieut. Mickey Cochrane's Service All-Stars in a second benefit game tomorrow night. It would give the Nationals particular delight to represent the big leagues in an American League city.

A crowd of more than 50,000 is expected to assemble under Coogan's Bluff to see the start of today's game.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, July 6 — (AP). — That American League all-star team is going to look mighty funny without Jimmy Foxx out there.... But it would look even funnier if Jimmy were playing on the other side....Incidentally, where are the figures to back up the usual story of National League pitching vs. American League hitting?.....Outside of Lou Boudreau, who has hit two-for-two in the past, Arky Vaughan's .400 is the best all-star batting average for any of to-day's starters. Ted Williams tops the American Leaguers with .333....If they sell out the Polo Grounds to-night and the Cleveland Stadium to-morrow night, the bat and ball fund still will get only $100,000, which will buy only about 22 per cent of the equipment that the soldiers and sailors have asked for.

Willie Joyce the Gary, Ind., lightweight, hired a sparring partner named Willie Joyce to help him prepare for to-night's scrap with Harvey Dubs of Windsor, Ont. To simplify matters, Willie No. 2 uses his middle name and fights as "Willie Ross."...The Joyce of combat, eh?

Professional note:

When Buddy Atkinson, the 120-pound Louisville Time reporter, volunteered to do battle with a wrestling bear for the sake of a story, he signed his piece, "By 'Buddy Baer' Atkinson Times 'Cub' Reporter."

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

TORONTO, July 6 — (CP). — There has been much talk about Ten to Ace since his gas ration ran out after six furlongs in the Canadian Derby. Most encouraging note in the wide stretch of comment is this: He has yet to be called a bum.

That is remarkable, because race followers usually become quite bitter about such matters. But it shows the good judgment of the writers who have analyzed the big Oakville, Ont. colt's stunning defeat by Maginot Line and all other entries in the six-horse Derby field. To me, Harry Giddings' Gingerbread horse is still the best thoroughbred ever dropped in Canada, perhaps the fastest three-year-old on this continent.

In his brief racing career, Ten to Ace has brought more prestige to Canadian breeding than it had in its previous history. When he's right again, he'll bring plenty more.

Fish story:

Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley tells a particularly pathetic variation to the old theme about the big one that got away. Henry Chinks, Hy Kendall, and Moe Blackman—all members of that no doubt world-renowned cultural organization, the Woodlands, Que., Poker and Fishing Club——had trolled for hours before Chinks hooked a huge muskie.

Kendall waited impatiently with a hammer to conk the fish, but Chinks would take no chances. He played his catch tirelessly. The morning hours wore on and finally he brought it to the side of the boat. The psychological instant arrived, Chinks gave the word, and Kendall bashed away with his hammer for a square hit on the muskie's noggin. There was a snap, and the three fishermen swooned. Something — perhaps the hammer blow—had put the -usher on the over-strained line. It broke: The muskie had got away.

Incidentally:

Box score of a Vancouver baseball game: "Umpires, Van Hatten and Davis. Errors, Van Hatten and Davis."......Typographical error, undoubtedly, but including the arbiters in the box score is an idea that could be developed....Credit them with putouts, assists, double plays, even base hits......Sit and mull it over awhile......The idea will grow on you.

Marc T. (Montreal Gazette) McNeil will shift his talents to service of the Canadian Pacific Railway one week from to-day.....One of this Dominion's best-known newspapermen Marc has been 16 years with the Gazette.....Dink Carroll will take over.

Fairview Workers Hold Garden Party

FAIRVIEW, July 6 — (ENS). — The lovely home and lawns of Mr. and Mrs. George Lockington of Nassau, illuminated with electric lights, was the scene of a very enjoyable garden party sponsored by the Fairview District War Workers in aid of war work. The committee in charge are to be congratulated for the efforts they put forth to make the evening such a success. The committee was composed of Mrs. George Lockington, Mrs. Fred Brown, Mrs. William Fowler, and Miss Ferne Armstrong.

Community singing with Mrs. J. Harrison at the piano was interspersed by a number of cowboy songs by Ralph Beavis playing his own guitar accompaniment, a number of games of bingo were played, each winner receiving a prize.

There was a fish pond in charge of Mrs. Fred Brown which caused lots of fun for young and old. A booth on the grounds was also very well patronized, being sold out before the evening was over.

F. G. Mann congratulated the group on the splendid efforts put forth in the past year when over $125 had been raised. The collection for the evening amounted to $25.50.

The two log cabin quilts which had been donated by Miss Agnes Fitzgerald and made by her aunt, Miss Lumsden, who is nearly 90 years of age, were drawn for. Tickets had been sold during the past few months by the ladies, which amounted to nearly $30.00. The draw was made by Master Stewart Gilbert. The first ticket drawn was No. 272 and the winner was R. P. Wellman, 221 London Street, Peterborough. The second draw was ticket 171, and the winner was Mrs. John Boyce, R.R. 4 Peterborough.

Lunch was served, bringing a most enjoyable evening to a close.

Votes of thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Lockington by Clarence Mann and the committee in charge were tendered a hearty vote of thanks by Fred Brown.

Veteran Receives Congratulations

R.S.M. C. McKenna, Regimental Sergeant-Major of Military Training Centre, No. 32, was awarded the Canadian Efficiency Medal, for 12 years continuous service in the Canadian Reserve Army. He is shown receiving congratulations from Sgt. Eileen L. Biddle, who is in charge of the C.W.A.C. in Peterborough. Sgt. Biddle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Biddle of Rogers Street, and her father served in World War 1, and is now a sergeant with the Rangers' Reserve Unit. R.S.M. McKenna is also a veteran of World War 1.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

BELLEVILLE BERRIES.

Red raspberries and huckleberries were 30 cents a quart on the Belleville market Saturday. Black currants sold at 35 cents the box, red currants 15 cents, and sweet cherries 20 cents. New potatoes were 65 cents a peck.

LOST CAR MARKERS

There are several 1942 car, truck and trailer license plates at the police station which have been found by motorists and turned in. The numbers are as follows: 20282, 23882, 40884, 82M69, 67007C, 67384C, 67031C and 38355T. Owners are asked to pick these up at once.

LODGERS SCARCE

A check-up of the log book at the police station reveal that the number of men wanting over-night lodging in the police cells has fallen off noticeably. Up to July 5 of last year 508 had been accommodated, but up to July 5 of this year only 297 had ben booked in. For the most part these are homeless wanderers and men looking for work, or passing through to some job.

NOTE TO BICYCLISTS

Police are becoming a little annoyed at the fact that many boys are neglecting to take good care of their bicycl elicense plates. To date 3433 have been isued, but some owners have not even bothered to replace the markers when they fall off. Strict supervision of bicycles is part of the police routine now, and some owners may be hailed before the chief, unless action is taken to obey this bicycle bylaw.

DOG OWNERS NEGLIGENT

To date only 449 dog tags have been taken out at the police station, against last year's total of 684, and unless there is action soon, either a lot of dogs will be introduced to the death chamber or else the owners will be paying fines. The dog catcher has been given instructions to crack down on the tardy ones, and he will tolerate no side-stepping of the law from this date on.

THROUGH FOR THE YEAR

Albert Evans of Lakefield landed a 23½-pound maskinonge in the Otonabee River on Saturday afternoon, making the catch below the locks at Lakefield. It was a beautiful specimen and gave Evans and his fishing pal, Jack Shaughnessy, Braidwood avenue, Peterborough, a real battle. Evans caught 14 lunge last week, which means he is through fishing muskies for the summer, as he has now caught his limit.

DELPHINIUM DISPLAY.

A beautiful displaye of delphiniums at the home of W. J. Smith, 254 Mark street, is gratefully mentioned by another resident in that section of the eastern neighborhood. A pool of lillies is another feature of Mr. Smith's exceedingly attractive home decorations

SO POPULAR.

The lads at the Training Centre with cars are the most popular people around 930 every night. Groups of soldiers stand hopefully around the bus corners waiting for some one from the Centre to go by with a car, and so save the wear and tear on their feet and the bus fare. It must be noted, too, that the men with the cars are very good about picking up their buddies and giving them a lift.

SO MANY TICKETS.

There were so many tickets being sold for one thing and another on George street, that people are completely bewildered as to what people are selling what. It had gotten to the stage Saturday evening where they went along the street holding up whatever tickets they had happened to buy. hoping for the best.

A NARROW SQUEAK

J. A. Fife, 247 Princess street, reported to police at shortly before four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, while driving north on Aylmer between King and Sherbrooke, a head-headlight of his car was broken. He was about to pass two bicycles, ridden by Gerald Hopkins, 52 St. James, and Don Floyd, 21 Brioux avenue, when the wheels collided and the bicycle riders fell in front of the car. According to the police report, no person was injured.

HELD BY POLICE

Two soldiers who have been absent without leave from their unit in Guelph, since June 30, were picked up by Police Sgt. Wigg and Constable Trennum on Saturday and held for military authorities. The two, Pte. William Temple and Pte. W. F. Thompson, were found on George street in civilian clothes. They had the police drive out to Jackson Park where they had cached their military uniforms.

HIS FIRST LUNGE

The first lunge hooked and landed by Allan F. Lush, 599 Aylmer street, was an 18-pounder, which he hauled out of White Lake, south of Gilchrist Bay, during the week-end. It was his first "muskie," and its gleaming 44 inches from snout to tail-tip, and girth of 18 inches, were more measurement details of a fighting fish that was worth waiting for. Mr. Lush was accompanied by his father and mother, and admits that his mother's experience was a real help in directing the strategy of subduing a muskie.

FIFTEEN RECRUITS

Fifteen young men bought tickets at the C.N.R. uptown office this morning for Kingston and Ottawa, and left on the noon train to report for military service. Most of them were bound for Kingston and the Ordnance Corps.

TRAFFIC MISHAP

Albert J. Bulmer, R.R. 4 Peterborough, was driving west on McDonnel street on Saturday evening, when a truck owned by DeCarlonis fruit store crashed into the side of Bulmer's car. The truck was parked on the south side of the street and started to make a right turn to go north on Downie street, when the mishap took place. Damage was very slight.

CARS DAMAGED

Cars owned by F. Loyst, 350 Stewart street, and N. J. Wootten, 528 Hunter street west, were slightly damaged at 6.35 Saturday evening, when they collided on Hunter street. Wootten was driving east on Hunter, and Loyst's car was parked on the south side of the street. The accident took place as Loyst pulled away from the curb.

Garden Party Nets $100 For War Victims

A garden party was held on June 22, both the afternoon and evening, on the spacious and lovely grounds at the residence of Senator Iva Campbell Fallis at Charles and Burnham Streets under the auspices of the Peterborough Women's Conservative Association.

The main objective of this effort was the raising of funds, which were to be given in equal shares to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund and a National Fund for the purchase of mobile canteens for service in England, and since these administer mostly in the districts where air raids have occurred, it could really said that the whole objective was to help those who were suffering from air raids in Britain. While the weather was not over inducive for affairs of this kind, being somewhat on the coolish side for outdoor activities, particularly in the evening, still a fine amount of money was made of which $50 appears in today's list of receipts for the local fund, the other being sent to Ottawa, headquarters for the other fund by Mrs. R. G. Cottrell, the treasurer of the Association. The ladies of this Association of which Mrs. J. Cridland is the president, wish to thank all who supported their effort on behalf of these war funds, which encourages them to further work for the same cause at a later date.

Four girls, Mildred Welsh, Joyce Wilson, Betty McIlmaine and Marguerite McGarrity, held a bazaar at 609 Lock Street in conjunction with which they held two small draws on a box of chocolates and a perfume toilet set, besides having a small bingo game from which they raised the nice sum of $10 which appears in today's list. These girls go to Confederation Public School and they surely have made a nice start for the vacation time by doing a good deed to help others.

Three boxes are listed from the village of Keene for a total of $3, and Mrs. Wm. Shannon who has contributed regularly for quite some months past is again listed with the regular donation of $3.

Roses And Lilies.

One of the finest gardens of roses and lilies in the city is offered by Jack Smith at 150 Benson Avenue for display on behalf of the fund this coming Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday evening under the sponsorship of the Peterborough Horticultural Society.

These gardens have been opened to public view before but never have they been more attractive than now, for a very nice lily pool has been installed and some rock gardens with some rare specimens of this type are to be seen. There will be no admission charge, but visitors may place a donation to help the fund in a box which will be available for the occasion. Mute evidence of the work of a Great Creator these lovely blossoms will surely speak to all who avail themselves of this opportunity to visit one of the city's beauty spots, that He alone and not Hitler will prevail in this titanic struggle between the forces of good and evil.

Mother Leaves 4 Children Alone For Hours

A callous disregard for the safety and comfort of her children was shown by a mother on Saturday afternoon when four children, the eldest a boy 8 and the youngest a six-months-old baby, were left alone in a car at the rear of the Grand Hotel, from mid-afternoon to shortly after eight in the evening.

Mr. Emmerson, manager of the Grand Hotel, notified police, when he discovered the children in a car on the hotel parking lot, and Constables Leo Murphy and Gordon Trennum investigated. The children so far as could be learned had been left alone and without food or drink since between two and four in the afternoon until eight, in the closed car. Mr. Emmerson gave the children, two boys age 8 and 3 and a girl age 6, a lunch, and then provided a bottle of milk for the baby.

Constable Trennum stayed with the children while Constable Murphy endeavored to get in touch with Children's Aid Society officials. Unfortunately he was unable to do so, and Mrs. Maguire, the police matron, was ill at her home. When he returned to the car the mother of the children, along with her brother and another man, a resident of Peterborough, had returned.

According to the police report, all three had been drinking. They were ordered to report to the police station, and were interviewed by Police Sergeant Gordon Puffer.

Another story along the same line is recorded in a second police report in which a local man, requested police to put his wife in the cells. He claimed she had been absent from home, neglecting her children during practically all of Saturday. At nine o'clock, the police took her out of a local hotel and locked her up. She was allowed her freedom on Sunday morning.

On Saturday night, at half-past twelve, Constables Menzies and Morrow found an inebriated gentleman sound asleep on the steps of George Street United Church. He had chosen a rather cosy corner and was dead to the world when the police came along and bundled him off to the police cells.

Mayor In Reserves

VANCOUVER, July 6 — (CP). — Mayor J. Cornett of Vancouver and Harold Winch, C.C.F. member for Vancouver East, and leader of the Opposition in the British Columbia Legislature, are in a reserve army camp today for two weeks' training. Both are privates.

EXHIBITION GAME

The Turret Lathes softball team of the Geneleo plant are accepting the bid of the Belleville Air Force team for a game here next Saturday. The Airmen are looking for an engagement and have intimated that they would like to come to Peterborough. Correspondence in the meantime will likely settle the details.

Protests Remand Of Seven Days

Percy Holland of Peterborough was charged before Magistrate E. A. Gee, in city police court on Monday morning with selling liquor, and pleaded not guilty to the charge. He was undefended, and requested that the magistrate grant him two days' adjournment to arrange for a lawyer. This was vigorously opposed by Chief Constable Newhall, who pointed out that Holland had completed a 90-day stretch in jail a short time ago and was brought in by police less than two days after he had been set free.

"I have a job to go to pitching hay this morning," Holland stated.

"He always has this same tale," replied the Chief.

Despite Holland's protests he was remanded in custody until Monday, when the case goes on.

Arthur Lafave, another Peterborough resident, was given little consideration when he faced the court on a charge of vagrancy, which stressed the fact that he refused to work when he was able to do so.

He pleaded not guilty and argued that he had a job at the Loc Works to go to this morning.

When asked by the magistrate if he would oppose an adjournment, Chief Newhall stated this man was on valuable war work, and had left the job, moreover the Chief charged he had abused his wife, and had not contributed to the family unkeep for a month. He opposed an adjournment and the accused was held in custody until Saturday for trial.

Lightning Bolt Strikes South End Home

A lightning bolt coming out of a fairly clear sky early Sunday evening played hob with the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Naish at No. 2 Chester street, south of Rye's Pavilion, on the bank of the Otonabee River.

Mr. and Mrs. Naish were sitting listening to the radio when the lightning struck, and it sent the knobs off the radio whizzing past their ears across the room. The lights were broken and the top of a wall switch went spinning across the room. The bolt apparently struck a pole outside their house, followed the wires into the attic, where it wrecked the meter, tore the handle off the switch box, melted all the fuses, and sent the metal covers off the boxes across the room.

The lightning charge apparently split, for a small part of the charge followed the water pipes into the bathroom, ripped wainscotting off the bathroom, broke the plaster in the cupboards downstairs, and smashed a water glass.

The main charge, however, passed right through the attic, leaving the building at one corner of the roof, where it tore the eave and a part of the roof. Cottagers on the opposite side of the river claim they saw a ball of fire go hurtling into the river from the corner of the house. The front window of the house at the same corner was shattered.

Upstairs another radio which was hooked up not only lost its knobs but both the front and back of the set was blown into concave form, the front and the back bulging out.

Two large insulators were smashed from the pole outside the house and the insulation burned from the wires. It looks very much as if the whole house will have to be re-wired.

"I just started my holidays," said Mr. Naish, a C.G.E. employee, "and it sure looks as if I started them with a bang."

Five Men Join 119th Battery

Five non-commissioned officers of the 4th Field Battery, R.C.A. (Reserve) Peterborough, joined the ranks of the active service forces today, when they were handed transportation warrants to Camp Petawawa.

The five men retain their rank, and are posted to the newly-formed 119th Feild Battery, Active Force, now being mobilized ,and for which the first recruiting was done at Listowel. The men will act as instructors, and they are as follows: Sgt. M. J. Doris, Sgt. J. F. O'Brien, Bombardiers, J. Bianco, V. J. O'-oTole, and G. M. Plumpton.

Board Cancels Junior Fair

Directors of the Peterborough Exhibition have decided to suspend indefinitely their junior department which they have carried on during the last two years as continuing activity since Morrow Park became a military training centre.

Increasing restrictions on automobile transportation and the problem of obtaining sufficient farm help were major factor in the decision of the directors to abandon for the present, and probably for the duration of the war, the junior branch for the young men and women of the farms of Central Ontario.

Enquiry by a special committee indicated that many of the young people of the counties from Prince Edward and Hastings on the east to Ontario county would be unable to find time this summer to take part in the junior exhibition, and this report to the Board was unanimously but reluctantly adopted. As a secondary agricultural project the junior branch was adopted by the Peterborough Board as an experiment which became an immediate success, later copied by other exhibitions in the province. It brought together both girls and boys of the farms in various judging competitions and other helpful work, and its sustained appeal here was to a large extent supported by the personal interest of Gordon S. Matthews, who provided a dinner every year for the entire group of participating young people from a wide area.

Peterborough's last exhibition in 1939 was immediately followed by the transfer of Morrow Park from agricultural to military purposes, but in 1940 and 1941 the junior branch was continued in circumstances that had become rather discouraging to the project.

Hotel Keeper In Havelock Is Fined $300

Magistrate E. A. Gee cracked down hard on Thomas Poulos, Havelock hotel keeper in city police court Monday morning, levying a fine of $300.00 and $19.25 cost on a plea of guilty, and the fine was paid. The option was three months in jail.

Poulos was charged with keeping liquor for sale, and the information was laid by Provincial Constable Grayling, following a raid on the premises by Provincial Police on June 20.

Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., suggested the fine of $300.00. "My learned friend has apparently forgotten that the Isley budget just came down," remarked G. N. Gordon, K.C., who was counsel for Poulos.

This might be classed as compulsory savings for the war effort. The court has to take care of it, when they don't do it themselves," Magistrate Gee replied.

"I would suggest in view of the fact that the section has been amended to read, fines from $10 to $1,000, that the Crown start nearer the minimum," Mr. Gordon added.

"Next time it might be a thousand," was the Magistrate's reply, and the fine stood at $300.00.

"Lou are getting off light today, Mr. Poulos; I would advise you to be more careful from now on," Magistrate Gee warned as he closed the case.

Stillman Guyett of Apsley, charged with keeping liquor for sale and with having liquor while on the interdicted list, pleaded not guilty and the case was adjourned for a week.

35,000 Norwich People Left Homeless

"You would never know Norwich; all the shopping centre around Ovford Place and St. Stephens, and lots of factories are all down and hundreds of "pubs" are gone. I can't tell you all, but there are 35,000 people homeless."

This is one of the glimpses of German destruction of the English city of Norwich as sketched by Thomas Whitworth to his sister, Mrs. F. Storey, 284 Mark street, in a letter of recent arrival.

"You will see by the address that we are no longer at Northumberland street. Our house was destroyed by fire, and we have nothing left—only the clothes we stand in. We were lucky to escape with our lives.

"You would not know Heigham the raids were terrible. All the close and the old church are gone, the laundries, "pubs" and Brighty's shop, as well as al the rows of houses.

"It was one of those things you never dream of experiencing. We never undress to go to bed now. Where we are staying, half the windows are blown out and the ceilings are down, but some how we manage. The rain comes in on us in wet weather, but we are thankful to be alive to tell the story."

Mrs. Storey received this letter prior to the "blitz" raid on Norwich reported within recent weeks.

IN MEMORIAM

HUGGINS.—In fondest memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Thompson R. Huggins (nee Mary Ann Murney), who fell asleep in Jesus, July 4, 1923.

Our thoughs wander as daylight fades,
To happy days in the Land of Long Ago,
And memories paint the scene of old,
In the gold of twilight glow.
We seem to see in the soft dim light
A face we loved the best,
And we think of her when the sun's last rays
Sinks slowly in the west.
None knew her but to love her,
None named her but in praise,
Some day, some time, our eyes shall see
That face we loved so well.
Some day we'll clasp her loving hand
And never say farewell.

—Lovingly remembered by Husband and Family.

pleasant year, with much stirring in of personal ambitions which may be centred on romance and adventure rather than practically constructive issues. However the energies and faculties should be splendidly stimulated for accomplishment, either in mechanical, inventive lines or in art, science, literature or other cultural forms. Romance and pleasure, however, seem to dominate.

A child born on this day should be talented in many practical as well as cultural forms, being intellectually brilliant, original in ideas and having unusual mechasical and creative skill.

A Nervous Worrier?—Redirect Your Energy

Turn "Nerves" Into Vitality

On the verge of tears because her husband is a few minutes late! What a prey to worry is the woman with sensitive nerves.

And unless this young wife learns how to control her edginess, worry and "nerves" will continue forming a vicious circle until she faces a breakdown.

Like all nervous people, she needs outlets for the high spirits, the keen imagination she now wastes in transforming trifling mishaps into catastrophies.

How much better, if you're of this type, to devote your valuable energies to an outside interest—social work, amateur theatricals. In the home, too, petty worries resume their normal proportions when you can turn to a hobby such as weaving or painting!

Perhaps also you need a check-up on your physical health—eyestrain, anemia may cause nerves. Of you may find certain stimulants such as tea or coffee are bad in your case.

Change your jitters into vitality, charm. Our 32-page booklet by a well-known physician explains physical and mental causes for "nerves," gives advice on insomnia, fatigue, nervous indigestion. Includes directions for correct diet, body care.

For your copy of "Overcoming 'Nerves' and Everyday Health Problems" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

OPENING 2-NO TRUMPS

AMONG PLAYERS of the top group, an opening bid of 2-No Trumps is used on those hands of evenly distributed strength which are powerful enough to make game opposite a partner who could not quite keep an opening suit bid of one open, yet could not make game opposite an utterly blank hand. With them, every suit must be positively stopped at least once. In fact, they seldom make the bid unless any singly-stopped suit is at least four cards in length and the others stopped twice.

1. ♠ K Q 10 ♥ K Q 10 ♦ A 9 6 4 ♣ A K J
2. ♠ A K ♥ K J 10 ♦ A Q 6 4 ♣ K Q 9 3
3. ♠ 8 7 5 4 3 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 9 5 ♣ 8 6 4 2
4. ♠ 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 6 ♦ 9 5 3 ♣ 8 6 4 2
5. ♠ 8 7 5 4 2 ♥ 6 ♦ K 5 3 ♣ 8 6 4 2
6. ♠ 8 7 5 4 ♥ 6 ♦ K 5 3 2 ♣ 8 6 4 2
7. ♠ J 9 8 4 ♥ 6 ♦ K 10 8 2 ♣ 10 8 7 3
8. ♠ J 9 8 4 2 ♥ A 5 3 ♦ K J 10 ♣ 10 6

Hands 1 and 2 above are sound examples of the kinds which leading players open with 2-No Trumps. The others are examples of various types of responses.

Numbers 3, 5 and 7 call for bids, 4 and 6 for passes. Here is a simple rule to measure them. With no honor strength, you require at least a six-card suit, and should rebid it, whether major or minor, if your partner then calls 3-No Trumps; with about a half a trick in honor cards, like a K, Q-J or a Q and a J and a 10, you need a five-card suit, whether major or minor, and rebid it only if it is a six-card major if your partner then calls 3-No Trumps; without at least a five-card suit, you pass unless you have a bit more than a half a trick in honors, such as No. 7. With the equivalent of a couple of tricks in high cards, or more, you invite a slam, as with No. 8.

So your first response, with those hands would be: 3, 3-Spades; 4, Pass; 5, 3-Spades; 6, Pass; 7, 3-No Trumps; 8, 5-Spades, but if the suit were of only four cards, 4-No Trumps to invite slam. Except for slam purposes, higher suit responses than three are not made; when four or more, the suit is considered an obligatory trump.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A K Q 6 3 ♥ A Q ♦ K Q J 2 ♣ 10 4

West: ♠ 9 4 ♥ J 8 7 6 ♦ 10 3 ♣ 9 7 6 5 2

East: ♠ 10 7 2 ♥ K 3 2 ♦ A 6 5 4 ♣ K 8 3

South: ♠ J 8 5 ♥ 10 9 5 4 ♦ 9 8 7 ♣ A Q J

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

After North bids 2-Spades and South 3-No Trumps, what is the soundest course of the bidding on this deal?

Pilot Is Blamed In Lombard Liner Crackup

WASHINGTON, July 6—(AP)—A House of Representatives committee on investigation of air accidents declared Saturday the crash of a Transcontinental & Western passenger plane near Las Vegas, Nev., Jan. 16, in which Carole Lombard, film actress, and 18 others were killed, was due to the negligence of Captain Wayne Williams, the pilot.

In a report prepared for submission to Congress, the committee said investigations showed Williams failed to follow the established course between Las Vegas and Los Angeles, the destination of the night flight, and that he flew the plane at such a low altitude that it collided with Potosi Peak of the Spring Mountain range near Las Vegas.

While directly attributing the crash to Captain Williams' flying course, the committee said evidence showed that the air line had failed, prior to the accident, to establish rules for the route requiring all night flights to be made at an altitude which would insure safe passage over the 8,304-foot peak.

Fifteen of the 19 victims of the crash were army air corps personnel engaged in ferrying activities.

"This accident would not have occurred," the committee said "had the T.W.A. adopted the same procedures as Western airlines for night flights from Las Vegas to Los Angeles, and required all of its pilots to fly the Spring Mountain range at 10,000 feet."

The committee said it found nothing to substantiate rumors and reports that the crash was caused by engine trouble, sabotage, "and even a fight in the cockpit of the plane."

"Every large user of metal will be required to obtain a quarterly authorization for all his scarce material requirements under the production requirements plan," Mr. Uren said, warning that a rating under the plan did not necessarily guarantee delivery. "Actual shipments of United States materials will be governed by month-to-month decisions of the War Production Board at Washington."

Companies under the new priorities plan no longer may use or extend preference ratings assigned in any other way, except for construction or capital equipment.

Scarcity Of Help On Farm Tends To Reduce Offerings On Market

Pressure of farm work and transportation problems added to the fact that farm help is decidedly scarce is starting to reduce the size of the Farmers' Market on Saturday morning. It was noticeable on Saturday that the number of farmers' wives in the upstairs market was considerably less than the two previous Saturdays.

Flowers and fresh vegetables dominated the scene, and the larkspur, delphinium and gaillardia made a picture of rare beauty on both the outdoor and indoor sections. A large bouquet of beautiful flowers could be had for 25 and 35 cents, and one woman was selling Madonna lilies at 15 cents each.

Eggs were plentiful and ranged from 30 cents to 40 cents, with 33 and 35 cents being the general prices. Butter was 37 and 38 cents, and was scarce. Chickens sold at 30 and 33 cents, broilers were the same and hens ranged from 26 th 28 cents. Duck eggs were 5 cents each.

Cherries were 75 cents a six-quart basket, white currants 10 and 15 cents a quart box, red currants and gooseberries 15 cents a box, and huckleberries, the frist of season, sold at 30 cents a quart box. Strawberries were 20 and 23 cents a box.

Old potatoes were $1.85 a bag, or 40 cents a peck, and new potatoes were 30 to 40 cents a six-quart basket, and $3.00 to $3.50 a bag. Lettuce was 2 for 15 cents, beets, carrots and onions, 5 cents bunch, and cauliflower ranged from 10 to 20 cents a head depending on the size. Cucumbers were 2 for 15 cents.

There were three or four lots of young pigs, eight weeks old, and farmers were asking $18.00 a pair and $16.00 a pair.

Soviet dispatches said. Many of these troops had been brought hastily from the rear or other fronts it was rtported. These reports told of one division of motorized infantry which lost 1,200 dead during an attack on a narrow front two days ago.

While last night's Soviet communique indicated the German onslaught had been slowed up near Kursk, it empahiszed the bitterness of battle and indicated it was continuing in full fury. Fighting south-east of Kursk was in is nintn day with the Germans reported using five infantry, four tank and two motorized divisions.

With this mobile equipment, the fighting moved swiftly from one point to another and Russian battlefront dispatches said a Russian counter attack had recaptured four inhabited points in the Kursk region.

The Red army was reported to be holding strongly on the German right near Kursk in an effort to block any attempted junction of these Axis forces with the German armies striving to push north-eastward from Belgorod and Volchansk.

Voronezh, the apparent objective of the Nazi drive, is about 130 miles east of Kursk. It is the capital of Voronezh province and has a population of about 212,000.

ginning to suffer from lack of adequate supplies of food and water as a result of the heavy pounding of their extended communication lines by Allied airmen.

R.A.F. pilots returning from bombing missions told yesterday how they had spotted one huge concentration of 3,500 Axis supply trucks west of El Alamein and plastered it with high explosives.

"We undoubtedly destroyed hundrsds of truck and hundreds more were put out of commission by our bomb blasts," one pilot said.

British bombers also hammered the German airdrome and supply dumps at El Daba, 35 miles west of El Alamein, starting huge fires which were visible 50 miles away.

The fliers said terrific explosions touched off by the bombing indicated an ammunition depot had been destroyed.

Dispatches from Turkey said there are unconfirmed reports in Ankara that the Germans are moving mechanized equipment down through the Balkans to seaports near Athens, apparently with the intention of shipping it across the Mediterranean to replace losses in North Africa.

Observers doubted, however, that sufficient equipment could reach Rommel in time to prove a factor in the showdown struggle now shaping up some 70 miles west of Alexandria.

(Axis accounts acknowledged that British resistance had stiffened somewhat, but beyond reporting the repulse of British counter attacks gave no details on the situation in Egypt.)

Alexandria remained calm, with the populace showing no signs of unrest. Cafes, bars and restaurants continued to do a rushing business and the two English daily newspapers devoted almost as much space to cricket matches as to the war.

Runaway Drags Trent Couple

TRENT RIVER, July 4 (ENS) — A shipment of 1,000 small mouth black bass fom Deer Lake Hatchery was deposited in the river this week.

A serious accident was narrowly averted this week when the horse owned by Mr. John Ruttan of Trent River became frightened and bolted near the cheese factory, throwing Mrs. Ruttan from the buggy and dragging Mr. Ruttan some distance. Both were bruised and shaken up and Mrs. Ruttan had a bone in her jaw broken.

Mrs. R. Lewis of Belmont has rented the house formerly occupied by Miss B. French, and has taken up residence there.

Fishing has been very good the past week and the many parties claim fish are striking better than any time last summer. Mr. Cramer and Mr. Mullet of Niles, Ohio, who are at the Cedar Isle Lodge, caught several muskies this week, the largest a 10 pound beauty. Mr. Fred McLaughlin brought in a 6½ pound pickerel.

Mrs. Malcolm Brown and baby daughter returned home from Campbellford Hospital on Thursday.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid was held on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Jas. Longmuir, Havelock road. Being on the holiday it was more of a social gathering and patriotic meeting. Very little business was discussed, only they decided to have some work done on the church piano. Lunch was served at tea-time and the Ladies wore Victory aprons. Proceeds amounted to $7.00.

REDS PULL OUT OF TRAP THREATENING 2 ARMIES

MOSCOW, July 7—(AP).—German mechanized divisions drove with sharpening menace today at the Voronezh link between Russia's Central and Southern Armies despite Red Army resistance which, it was officially reported, paved the line of the new advance with enemy dead.

(The German high command claimed capture of Voronezh, but this claim was not confirmed in Moscow).

"According to reports which reached us across the front lines, six trains with a total of 247 cars packed with wounded have already been dispatched to the German rear," wrote a correspondent of Tass, the Sov-t news agency.

The correspondent pictured the Russian retirement in the Voronezh vicinity as a manoeuvre to eliminate "the menace of a German flanking blow." He added that the Russians had "improved their positions and thwarted the plans of the German command."

(Vichy broadcast a report that the Russians had launched a counter-offensive at Izyum and Kupyanks, on the southern flank of the Germans' Voronezh offensive, throwing the enemy back across the Krasnaya River).

A dispatch from Voronezh, capital of a province of the same name in the black soil area, said that the Russians were opposing the foe from realigned positions and that "conditions here are extremely hard."

Tanks Hold River Line

Soviet tanks were ranged along the east bank of the German-forced water line and were reported throwing back successive waves of Nazis attempting further crossings.

This indicated the Germans have failed in initial efforts to penetrate the Russian defences in depth.

On the opposite, or western shore, tanks and troop-laden German trucks were backed up for some distance awaiting a chance to cross, and Red Air Force bombers were blasting them in unending waves while Soviet fighting planes were in constant clashes with Nazi fighters.

Cutting through a massive curtain of German anti-aircraft fire, Russian bombers were reported to have destroyed two large crossings and damaged two others, then to have bombed Nazi engineers trying to repair the damage.

At one point where the Germans crossed the water line 40 tanks negotiated the stream only to fall into a circle of Soviet artillery fire which smashed them. The Red Air Force was credited with destruction of 59 more enemy tanks and 72 troops and supply laden trucks.

Fresh divisions, including the German 8th Infantry, were moved into the battle ofter being rushed from another sector, increasing to 12 the total number of divisions and to almost 200,000 the number of Nazi troops in the drive, the Russians said.

The Red Army, nevertheless, was said to be defending the waterline stubbornly, liquidating the small enemy mobile groups which reached the east bank. A full German regiment was reported defeated and most of its personnel killed in one of the greatest clashes.

Thousands of other Germans were killed, the Russians said, and a dispatch from the front declared six trains totalling 247 cars each crowded with wounded, had been seen moving to the German rear. Hundreds of Nazi tanks planes and guns were declared battered out of action.

Making the Boche Pay Dearly.

Fighting by day and by night, the Russians keep "wearing down the Germans an destroying their war equipment," it was announced, and half a dozen engagements cost the invaders 3,550 dead.

Red army commanders directed powerful counter attacks in some areas and withdrawal from others (perhaps under a threat of encirclement) to meet the offensive.

Rommel South Flank Retreats

Axis Unable To Face Heavy Pressure Of British Attacks

CAIRO, July 7 (AP)—Continued pressure on Axis forces in the Western Desert has forced the Axis southern flank back to the west, British headquarters announced today.

British and United States heavy bombers in a daylight raid on Bengasi, Libya, yesterday, scored direct hits on shipping and staarted several fires, it was announced.

Although a steady stream of troops, tanks and guns was moving up to strengthen the British forces, they conceded that Rommel's position was strong and that he probably was receiving reinforcements also.

The heaviest British ground blows thus far in the attempt to clinch the initiative have been struck by artillery. Big guns, rumbling almost constantly for 48 hours, have knocked out numbers of German tanks.

A night assault, in which the British army took an Axis strong point between El Alamein and a ridge to the south, was Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's most important gain to be reported up to today in the come-back effort.

Facing All Axis Forces.

Britain's commander-in-chief now in active command at the front, is facing almost all Rommel's North African forces concentrated in an area running about 12 miles inland from the El Alamein region and roughly 12 miles to the west.

Both sides are spent after almost six weeks of ceaseless battle in the tiring dry heat of the desert and it is too early yet to say whether the British forces have the strength left to try for a knockout.

Accounts from the Axis side indicated that the British forces, at least temporarily are winning the race to mass the greater strength of men and arms on the critical El Alamein Line.

Swiss correspondents in Berlin said Nazi military sources conceded yesterday the British army had taken the offensive with strong land, sea and air reinforcements.

They noted a tone of reserve in German reports, in contrast with last week's confidence, emphasizing Nazi mention of "surprising" British tank resistance, large numbers of British and American submarines off North Africa, apparent air superiority and still-arriving reinforcements.

Disclisure came yesterday from the Western Desert also that United States and German arms had been matched in their first land encounter of the war June 11 and 12.

Edward Kennedy, Associated Press correspondent with the unit in the Western Desert, said the action "must be counted as a victory, for the Americans estimate they knocked out at least nine German tanks and came out of the battle unscathed."

States Begins To Wipe Out Bund

57 Highest Officials On The Spot In War On Spies

NEW YORK, July 7.—(AP). — A smashing blow at the German-American Bund, involving 57 of its highest officers and active members in the United States, was begun today by federal agents on newly returned indictments charging conspiracy to evade national defence regulations.

Twenty-six were named in indictments charging conspiracy to evade the Selective Service Act and conspiracy to counsel Bund members to resist service in the armed forces of the United States and of conspiracy to conceal Bund affiliations in filling out alien registration forms. Three more were accused of all but selective service violation.

The balance of those sought — among them national and sectional officials and principal leaders of the Bund—were the object of denaturalization proceedings.

"We intend to put the Bund out of business," said United States Attorney Mathias Correa.

Fritz Kuhn, former national Bund leader, now in prison, and Gerhard Wilhelm Kunze, a subsequent Bund chieftain arrested recently in Mexico and returned to the United States yesterday, were involved in the federal proceedings.

Denaturalization proceedings were instituted against Kuhn, serving a term for larceny, and Kunze was charged with evasion of the Selective Service Act, a charge upon which he was held in $50,000 bail yesterday. Kunze is wanted also in

Harvest Leave Tips Incorrect

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP). — Defence Minister Ralston said today that "any information emanating from national defence headquarters to the effect that harvest leave will be granted this year" is "unauthorized and incorrect."

"Intensified training and operational requirements make it extremely doubtful if any harvest leave can be granted, and if granted at all it will be on a most restricted basis," Col. Ralston said.

A considerable number of soldiers were granted special leave last year to help with the harvest, and last week a defence department spokesman said a similar plan was under considration for this year.

The Minister's statement today made clear that no wide plan will be possible this year, although he indicated leave might be granted to a few men in special circumstances.

LONDON, July 7—(CP).—The Moscow radio today quoted a Vichy report saying a huge fire in a big factory near Paris resulted in several of the departments being burned down and large numbers of engines, lorries, transformers and other supplies about to be sent to Germany being destroyed.

The broadcast quoted Vichy as saying an investigation established that the fire was an act of incendiarism.

Charge CBC Fails To Play Up War Programs

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP)—Jean-Charles Harvey, editor of Lejour, Montreal weekly newspaper, told the House of Commons radio committee today that he considers the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation shows an "apparent incompetency in dealing with idea sand propaganda" in its war programs.

Lists of war programs given to the committee by CBC officials might be impressive in quantity but were not impressive in quality, he said.

The CBC had done much for radio in Canada but had failed to provide enthusiasm for democratic principles and to oppose the anti-British feeling wrich was the cause of many difficulties in Quebec. The freedom enjoyed in Canada provided ideal material for broadcasts but advantage had not been taken of it.

There had been failure on the part of the CBC to use Canada's best French and English speakers to promote unity.

Such events as ship sinkings in the St. Lawrence should be quickly followed by broadcasts bringing home to Canadians the reality of danger, he said. There was evidence of lack of clever and understanding leadership and co-ordination.

The CBC had failed to sell the war and democracy to the people of Canada and particularly Quebec.

Lack of Appreciation

Mr. Harvey said he did not criticize the loyalty of the CBC governors, but he thought the CBC showed a lack of full appreciation of democratic principles.

"There has been an apparent incompetency in dealing with ideas and propaganda," he said.

"Some broadcasting seems to be done by people who seem to lack real faith in democracy and freedom."

Some propaganda showed poor taste and even gross melodrama. One Quebec broadcaster had expresed opinions in the press of "Victory at all costs" and had written it was "better to lose the war if victory can not be attained without the communist regime."

A regular French CBC commentator from Montreal had said in a broadcast on July 9, 1941, that Germany and Russia both sought world

Berlin Claims 28 Of 38 Convoy Sunk

Bagged U.S. Cruiser Too, Saved Some By Plane Says Report

BERLIN, (From Germas Broadcasts), July 7.—(AP).—The Germans to-day claiamed the sinking of a United States heavy cruiser and 26 merchantmen out of a convoy in Arctic waters between Spitsbergen and the Norwegian North Cape.

(There was no confirmation of the German claim from any other source. In the last previous big Arctic convoy battle the Germans claimed they sank 18 Allied ships, when actually six were sunk).

A special communique from Hitler's headquarters to-day said the convoy consisted of 38 merchant ships, carrying planes, tanks, ammunition and food supplies bound for Archangel with a heavy escort of Allied warships.

The attacks upon the convoy started on July 2 in Arctic waters 300 to 400 miles off the North Norwegian coast. The convoy escort was said by the Germans to have included battleships, cruisers, destroyers and corvettes.

"In close cooperation, German submarines and air formations sank a heavy American cruiser and 19 merchantmen totalling 122,000 tons," the communique said. "Submarines sank nine ships totalling 70,400, making a grand total of 28 ships of 192,400 tons.

"The remaining vessels were dispersed. The battle still is going on. German Red Cross planes rescued a number of American sailors."

The Victoria Cross

London July 7 (CP).

THE Victoria Cross to-day was awarded Cmdr. Anthony Cecil Capel Miers, D.S.O., for valor while commanding the submarine Torbay in a 17-hour "daring and successful raid on shipping in a defended enemy harbor."

The citation said he surfaced in the harbor to recharge his batteries in full moonlight "under the guns of the enemy" and then waited several hours to attack in daylight

"When he had fired his torpedoes he was heavily counter-attacked and had to withdraw through a long channel with the anti-submarine craft all round and continuous air patrols overhead."

The Gauntlet

MELBOURNE, July 7 — (CP).—An Allied merchantman has reached port after beating off an attack by a four-engine Japanese bomber in the Bay of Bengal and dodging through five hours of shelling by two or more Japanese submarines off the Australian coast.

5,000 Prisoners To Be Free—If Slaves Go Back

VICHY, July 7.— (AP).—Pierre Laval announced to-day that 5,000 French war prisoners were selected by the Germans for repatriation and "are ready to come home' if French workmen respond to his appeal to go to Germany.

In a circular letter to government organization committees in each industry, the Vichy government chief admitted that recruitment of French workers for German industries was 'difficult' and that he was up against 'prejudices' which had to be overcome.

"It is necessary that results come, swift and great, Laval declared.

In a broadcast June 22, Laval exhorted French workers to labor in Germany in order to gain the release of Fench prisones. At that time he also flatly declared: "I desire Germany's victory because of the Red peril.'

430,000 Captives Lost In Crimea

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts) July 7 (AP)—A special report by the German high command today said that Crimean operations from September 21, 1941, to the fall of Sevastopol cost the Russians 430,000 prisoners, 1,198 tanks and 2,102 guns.

In the heavy fighting for Sevastopol from June 7 to July 4 the Russians lost 30,000 to 40,000 dead, the high command said.

Total German losses in the same period were listed at 872 officers and 23,239 men. These included 190 officers and 4,147 men killed, 11 officers, 1,580 men missing, and the remainder wounded.

Between June 2 and July 4 the Russians lost 123 planes in aerial combat and 18 on the ground, while German losses were 31, it was claimed.

Soviet Naval losses were listed as four destroyers, four submarines, two 10,000-ton steamships, one 5'000-ton transport, two smaller transports and numerous coastal vessels and freighters.

Wire-Tailed Rockets Latest In Air Hazards As Britain Gives Raiders Bad Time Of It

LONDON, July 7—(CP).—Wire-trailing rockets were disclosed officially today as one of Britain's newest weapons of defence against aerial raiders.

The weapon, which has been in use to protect merchant ships for more than a year, was described as an apparatus which shoots a projectile that opens into a parachute from which long wires dangle.

The rockets, fired up as planes swoop to attack, often force them to veer off course or risk engagement in the wires.

145 Million R.A.F. Leaflets Rained On Germany, Slave Lands In '42

LONDON, July 7—(CP)—Brenden Bracken, Minister of Information, told the House of Commons today that during the first six months of 1942 the R.A.F. showered 145,000,000 leaflets on enemy and enemy-occupied territory.

One hundred and sixty-six different leaflets were dropped, with 61,000,000 copies falling on Germany, he added.

Defending Britain's propaganda effort against attacks in Commons from both the right and the left, Mr. Bracken said, "Some of our critics show a singular lack of understanding of the real functions of the Ministry of Information. The Ministry does not and will not try to control the press."

Mr. Bracken announced he has created a political warfare executive post to co-ordinate the work of the many diverse propaganda agencies. Under this scheme, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden makes the policy and Mr Bracken administers it.

"We have always been in complete agreement," he explained.

Defending the BBC which has a semi-independent status although it is government supported, Mr. Bracken declared it "is the largest and most trusted broadcasting instrument in the world," reaching 200,000,000 persons each week.

"Axis powers look up it as a mighty enemy," he declared.

Sink 110th Ship In Caribbean

By The Canadian Press

The sinking of another United States merchant vessel in the Caribbean, reported by the United States navy to-day put at 110 the unofficial tabulation of United and neutral nations merchant ship losses in that area since the United States entered the war.

The torpedoing and sinking of the merchantman a month ago with the loss of two men of a 31-man crew brought total sinkings to 341 in the western Atlantic.

At an east coast United States port, the United States navy reported that the attack on the merchantman occurred in daylight, lasting only seven minutes before the ship was sunk.

One of the ship's two lifeboats was destroyed when the torpedo exploded, but the men launched the remaining boat and two life-rafts.

The sub commander and his men gave survivors their position and the eaxct mileage to the nearest land.

After talking with the survivors, the sub commander ordered his craft among the floating debris and picked up some of the case of cargo from the sinking vessel.

Survivors reached port in seven days. For five days the lifeboat towed the two rafts, on which there were 16 men, and on the last two days all 29 men crowded into the lifeboat.

VICTORIA July 7.—(CP)—Canadian Army units as well as squadrons of the Royal Canadian Air Force now are stationed in Alaska, Air Minister C. G. Power disclosed in a statement issued here today.

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 7.—(AP)—A man who barricaded himself in a house and resisted arrest was killed today after he shot two detectives in a heavy crossfire which lasted an hour.

Endurance Pilot Now War Chief

LONDON, July 7.—(CP).—Maj.-Gen. Carl Spattz, who in 1929 made aviation history as commander of the army endurance plane, 'Question Mark,' has been appointed commander in chief of the United States army air forces in the European theatre of war, it was announced to-day.

As his first public act in his new post, Gen. Spaatz to-day awarded distinguished flying crosses to three members of one of the American bomber crews who participated in the first United States air raid on German-held western Europe July 4.

Gen. Spaatz himself wears both the D.S.O. and D.F.C., the former for bringing down two German planes in the First Great War and the latter for piloting the 'Question Mark to its then record continuous flight of 150 hours, 40 minutes and 15 seconds over Los Angeles in January, 1929.

The 51 year old commander has been in England since June preparing the ground work for American bombing of Germany.

Letters Win Pilot the D.F.M.

Captive Pals Tell Of Hero's Giving Up His 'Chute

LONDON, July 7 (CP Cable) — A 20-year-old bomber pilot who, although wounded, gave his parachute to his wireless operator and made a crash landing in Germany with his Whitley bomber afire after ordering his crew out was announced today as a winner of the D.F.M.

The action in which Flt.-Sgt. William James of Leeds was the hero occurred last August in a raid on Cologne. The story on which the award was based has just been pieced together through letters from German prison camps. All members of the crew, including James, are prisoners of war.

One of the letters to James' parents was from a Canadian member of the crew Sgt. Pilot D. A. Switzer of Ottawa. It said that when I left the aircraft, everything was under control," but that "after I jumped your son gave his parachute to the wireless operator."

"As a result" Switzer wrote, "he had to make a crash landing at night. You should be very proud of him."

James was wounded when the plane was caught in the glare of Cologne's seachlights and as riddled with flak. He was further injured on landing. James has had two operations and wears an iron boot but said in letters home that "I'll soon have that off and learn to walk again."

No Cause for Despair in Boche Advance

Russ Oil Still Behind Great Caucasus Range—If Nazis Ever Reach That Barrier

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The weight and fierceness of Hitler's mammoth offensive against the Russians in the Kursk-Kharkov sector give blunt warning of the dangers which the Allies must surmount during the next few crucial months.

The Nazis have bludgeoned their way 120 miles eastward to the Don River, thus threatening the gateway to the Caucasus. But this advance which carries the invaders to miles deeper into Soviet territory than they got in their drive last year, should cause neither surprise nor despair.

Hitler is flinging 1,000,000 men against the Russian positions in the valley of the upper Don. He is making a wholesale sacrifice of life in an effort to wash out his past failures with the blood of Germany's youth.

When you get that much pressure thrown against any battle line, something has to break. We must expect Russian reverses during the furious fighting which is ahead of us, and it's best that we adjust ourselves to that viewpoint. This recognition of facts shouldn't blunt our belief that the Allies will keep Hitler out of the Caucasus and the Middle East for which he is striving.

The Hitlerian strategy is plain enough. His fofensive is calculated (1) to severe Russia's communications with the Caucasus, thereby cutting the Reds off from vital oil and food supplies, and (2) to swing a great army across the entrance of the Caucasian Isthmus, ready for an assault southward to the oil fields and the Middle East.

Berlin already claims the capture of the city of Voronezh, an important railway junction near the upper Don. If this is true it would sever the last main line between Moscow and Rostov—a hard blow to the Russians. The Nazi chief also must envisage the capture of the big industrial city of Stalingrad on the Volga and Astrakhan, which lies near the mouth of the Volga on the Caspian Sea.

Should fortune favor him to that extent he then would be holding a line right across the top of the isthmus running between the Black and Caspian Seas. But there his troubles would be only well under way, for in order to drive down through this isthmus he must force the lofty Caucasus Mountain range, which is one of the most formidable military barriers in the world. And south of those peaks he presumably would come up against British and United States forces.

Dr. Temple Thinks of Ruhr

Would Have Allies Bar Nazis' War Resources

LONDON, July 7.—(CP). — The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. William Temple, proposed today that the industrial resources of Germany's Ruhr Valley should be worked by an international syndicate after the war in order to find another use for its potential war output.

"The problem of Germany consists of two things," he said at a Foreign Press Association luncheon "One is what we call Prussian tradition; the other is the immense war potential which exists in the gifts of nature to the whole Ruhr district.

"Steps must be taken to render the Prussian traditional ineffective and there must also be some other use found for all the war potential which the Ruhr industry constitutes.

"I am very much attracted by the suggestion that the industrial resources of that part of the world, together with some of the neighbor countries beyond the frontier of the Reich, should be worked by an international syndicate."

He said that whether such a syndicate should be on a basis of public or private ownership was a matter for future decision.

COMMONS DEBATE ON CONSCRIPTION IS NEAR THE VOTE STAGE

Expect Vote Tonight On Bill 80

Toronto Liberal M.P. Claims People Want Conscription

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 7.—(CP).— The government, with its House of Commons supporters sharply divided on the conscription issue, to-day looked hopefully for a vote at the evening sitting on Bill 80, the measure on which that issue has been debated with some interruptions since June 10.

Yesterday's sitting added seven to the speeches made against the conscrption-enabling bill by government supporters, and added another to the English-speaking Liberals urging immediate conscrption.

In all 13 members spoke yesterday. Some had already spoken on the main motion but had a second opportunity by virtue of the amendment moved by J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspe) criticizing the government for bringing in a policy that might cause dissension and internal war.

Barring last-minute changes of plans the members are expected to conclude their speech-making tonight and leave an opportunity for Prime Minister Mackenzie King to close the debate.

Mr. King launched the conscription debate last month when he moved second reading of Bill 80 which repeals section three of the National Resources Mobilization Act and leaves the government free to impose unlimited conscription at will—a power which he said was not to be exercised at once and might never be used.

"Side-Stepping" Accusation.

F. G. Hoblitzell (Lib., Toronto-Eglinton) accused the Government of "side-stepping" its responsibilities by holding the plebiscite last April and declared that the plebiscite result was a notice from the people that they wanted unlimited conscription without delay.

Mr. Hoblitzell, who opposed the plebiscite policy last winter, said he had been "purposely" barred from getting his name on the Speaker's list in this debate by action of the Liberal Whip (W. H. Taylor, Norfolk), and had obtained the floor only by co-operation of Speaker Glen.

(Mr. Taylor later told The Canadian Press: "I did not in any way deprive Mr. Hoblitzell of the right to speak.")

The Toronto-Eglinton member ran into difficulties when Deputy-Speaker Vien insisted Mr. Hoblitzell cease reading his speech. The Toronto member took his seat without finishing what he had prepared, although other members contended a precedent had been provided by permitting previous speakers to read their speeches.

Fisheries Minister Michaud, 14th Cabinet Minister to enter the debate, said the Prime Minister had been faced with a difficult problem.

Mr. King had brought to, that problem the same "patient, reasonable and tactful methods" adopted by Sir John A. Macdonald, Cartier, Laurier, and the methods of the late Sir Robert Borden "until he made the mistake of yielding to an element which caused him to bring

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, July 8

THIS SHOULD be a most auspicious day for approaching elders, employers, superiors or others in influential positions for favors, preferment, promotion or anything else greatly desired. The subtler and more tacit approach would find more success than abrupt or tactless methods. Large corporations, political or diplomatic bodies as well as secret fraternities, are susceptible under the prevailing astral influence.

Those whose birthday it is are under excellent promise for promotion, favors, esteem and preferment from those in influential places and authority. Approach these with subtlety and penetration rather than direct and abrupt attack. Large organizations, business, political or diplomatic are similarly susceptible to tact and finesse. The mind should be under unusual stimulus for original and creative thought as well as decisive action.

A child born on this day should have much creative talent and originality and should attain ready favor and recognition from those in high places.

Replying to criticism that he had sent "socialities" to speak in the United States, Mr. Backen said he had laid down "one absolute rule—to send no more lecturers to the United States because they did so much more harm than any possible good, that I thought they should stay home."

The House cheered when Mr. Bracken said "a high powered publicity mission instructed to force Britain down the throats of the American peope" would do more harm than good. He declared one prominent American had estimated that less than eight per cent of the American population was irreconcilably anti-British and "could be cured only by the undertaker."

The House also was told by Ernest Thurtle, Parliamentary Secretary for the Ministry of Information, that Britain will spent £8,600,000 ($38,200,000) on information services at home and abroad during the current fiscal year.

Not Enough Coal

WASHINGTON, July 7 — (AP). —Notwithstanding a 5,573,000-ton increase in the United States soft coal stockpile during May, Acting Director Howard Gray of the Solid Fuels Office said yesterday that the amount now in storage is not sufficient to guarantee adequate protection against wartime shortages.

The bituminous coal division of the Interior Department estimated that on June 1 consumers held 67,409,000 tons of soft coal in storage, aaginst 61,836,000 tons on May 1.

Living Costs Up, May Mean More Bonuses

OTTAWA, July 7—(CP).—An increase in the cost of living index, announced yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, indicates strong possibility that cost of living bonuses will be adjusted upward next month, Labor Department offcials said last night.

The official index advanced from 116.1 at May 1 to 116.7 at June 1 and the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in a statement on the increase last night said it was "quite possible" a further increase would be recorded next month.

This would increase bonuses now being paid and would give small bonuses, equal to the amount of the increase, to those not at present receiving bonuses.

Revision of the bonuses is made quarterly on the basis of an 'adjusted" index which uses August, 1939, as 100. Present bonuses are based on an adjusted indext of 114.6 and will be subject to review when the next index is announced early in August.

The adjustment is made when the index has advanced or declined at least one full point. Increases are at the rate of 25 cents for a full point and payment is also made for fractional increases about the full point.

Shoud the index remain stationary in the next month the present adjusted figure of 115.9 would warrant an increase of thirty cents in the weekly bonuses now being paid.

Bonuses For Those Over $25

In addition, male adult employees and all employees earning basic rates of $25 or more a week not now receiving a cost of living bonus would be eligible for a bonus of 30 cents a week.

Male employees under 21 years, and female workers employed at less than $25 a week would be entitled to 1 per cent of their basic weekly rates.

Plainfield Barn 45 Loads Of Hay Wiped Out In Fire

TWEED, July 7—(ENS).—Fire of unknown origin compl tely destroyed the barn and contents of Philip Shannon, Thurlow farmer one mile east of Plainfield, on Saturday afternoon. Forty-five loads of hay, 300 bushels of wheat, twelve young pigs and farm implements were lost in the blaze. Damage is estimated at $3,500.

Whipped a high wind, blazing shingles were carried to the barn of Charles Larkin, county ex-warden, setting fire to a straw mow, but a guard of several farmers quickly extinguished the fire before it made any headway. The Shannon house and several other buildings were saved by the efforts of farmer neighbors.

Shannon and his son were working in a hay field at the rear of the property when they noticed flames and smoke pouring from the roof of the barn. No one was at the house at the time. They quickly gave the alarm after racing to the structure, but the fire was out of control by the time assistance arrived.

A young sow, mother of twelve lost pigs, became terrified at the fire and plunged through the window of the pen located in the barn basement. All livestock were out in pasture at the time. The barn and contents were insured.

Nazis Reported Buying Poles

NEW YORK, July 7.—A report that workers from Eastern Europe are being sold on the Nazi slave market to German employers was broadcast Monday by the London radio, quoting Stockholm newspapers.

German employers can now buy workers from the State and be free of the necessities of paying overtime, giving holidays or sickness benefits, and can also pay lower wages than German workers demand, the broadcast, recorded by CBS, said.

The broadcast quoted Dr. Robert Ley, leader of the Nazi Labor Front, as saying that "Polish workers can only go on living as second-class people, serving the German interest."

Greeks Need Grain Till Harvest Cut

BERNE, July 7 (AP) — Greece must receive grain at the rate of 1,300 tons daily or about 39,000 tons until harvest time, if the Greeks are to have daily rations of six ounces of bread, the Swiss newspaper Neue Zuercher Zeitung said today in a survey of the situation.

Shipments of Swedish, Turkish and Swiss grain under International Red Cross supervision currently permit bread rations of slightly less than six ounces five days a week and about seven ounces twice a week.

There is little other food and the outlook for the coming harvest is discouraging, the newspaper said. Even vegetables and fruits are scarce, it reported.

Berlin Ignores Argentine Salute Demand

BUENOS AIRES, July 7.—(AP)—Germany has admitted responsibility for the submarine sinking of the Argentine freighter Rio Tercero and offered reparations, but the Nazis apparently ignored a reported Argentine demand that the Germans salute the Argentine flag in a public ceremony.

An official communique issued here said German contended the Rio Tercero was sunk by mistake because it did not carry distinguishable identification.

"It is absolutely unthinkable," the German note said, "that there exists a deliberate intention on the part of the German submarine commanders to offend the Argentine flag."

That was the Nazis' only mention of Argentine flag in the official version issued here. But a reliable foreign office source said Argentina had requested the German salute to her flag as proof of good intentions toward Argentine shipping.

The German charge d'affaires was quoted by this source as telling Foreign Minister Enrique Ruiz Guinazu that the flag salute was an obsolete diplomatic practice—alien to the mentality of "New Germany."

The Nazis expressed willingness to idenmnify Argentina for the loss of the ship and the lives of five Argentine seamen "in view of the friendly relations existing between Germany and the Argentine Republic."

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 7 — (CP). — Cattle trade continued dull at the Livestock Market here up to mid-session today with sales too few to establish prices. Bids were generally 50 cents lower.

Veal calves, lambs and sheep were steady. No price was established for hogs which were unsettled. Unsold from yesterday was 1,350 head of cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 700; calves, 700; hogs, 650; sheep and lambs, 300.

Veal calves sold at $14 to $14.50 for choice, with common selling downward to $

Sheep sold at $5 to $8.

Hogs closed previously at $16.65 to $16.75 dressedweight at yards or plants.

Stalemate between cattle shippers and local buyers was carried over from last week into yesterday's dealings at the Union Stock Yards. A further general drop of 50 cents in prices failed to enliven trading and a big carryover to Tuesday resulted.

The decline was attributed to the forthcoming reduction in the ceiling price to 19¼ cents a pound dressed to be imposed by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, July 13. Further pressure on prices is indicated since yesterday's quotations were equivalent to about 11½ cents a pound for live steers, although the ceiling of 18¼ cents dressed will mean about 10¼ cents a pound liveweight when it goes into effect.

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, July 7 — (CP). — No trades were made in wheat in the first half hour of the Winnipeg Grain Exchange session today. A few resting orders were in the pit but no deals were transacted. Export business was at a standstill. At Chicago, wheat was 70½ cents.

One or two scattered and routine trades were made in coarse grains with prices remaining at previous closing levels.

Spies Executed One A 'Refugee'

LONDON, July 7—(CP). — Two enemy spies—one of them a British subject—were executed today in Wandsworth prison.

The Briton was Jose Estella Key and the other, a Belgian national, was Alphonse Timmerman.

They were convicted under the Treachery Act, a Home Office announcement said, and their appeals later were dismissed. The proceedings were in secret.

Timmerman, a 38-year-old ship's steward, entered this country last Autumn posing as a refugee but, said the announcement, "his real mission as a spy was detected before he could do any mischief."

It said he ultimately confessed he had been sent to Britain by the German secret service to try to learn naval and military secrets.

Key, 33, born at Gibraltar, operated at the British "Rock," gathering information for the enemy on movements of British land and sea forces by way of the Western Mediterranean fortress.

The trials took place last May and the appeals were dismissed in June.

No Conspiracy Is Found In Hotel Case

Three charges against Miss Mary Robertson, manager of Hotel Champlain, of conspiring to defraud were dismissed by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in city court Tuesday morning. Evidence in one of the three cases had been heard three weeks ago, but judgment had been reserved and this morning the Magistrate in a lengthy judgment explained his reasons for dismissing the case. After judgment had been given and the two other charges similar in nature were read, Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C. said he was offering no evidence, and therefore the other two charges were dismissed.

The charge in which judgment was given today was that the accused had between January 10 and 26, of 1942 unlawfully conspired with W. A. Bennett by issuing false receipts for room rent, for larger sums than were paid to defraud the Department of Munitions and Supply by enabling Bennett to recover the amounts shown by the alse receipts instead of the amounts actually paid.

At the conclusion of the evidence some time ago, a motion for dismissal was made by T. J. Carley, K.C., counsel for Miss Robertson, but the motion ws refused. The defence adduced no evidence.

No Conspiracy

In his judgment Magistrate Langley said in part that "the case turns almost entirely on the evidence of Corporal Lockwood of the R.C.M.P. and on particular conversations with the accused and statements by her to the constable. It is essential that the Crown prove a corrupt degree between them, even though one alone is charged. It is not necessary to prove an express agreement but an agreement may be inferred from the surrounding circumstances.

There must be a common design or it is not a conspiracy."

Magistrate Langley quoted several questions and answers from the examination-in-chief and at one point he remarked that the ordinary understanding would be that Mr. Bennett had told Miss Robertson he wanted the receipts so he could obtain money from his employer, the Canadian General Electric Company, but it was found this was not so at all.

"The determination of the case upon such evidence is fraught with difficulty because statements of Miss Robertson are in the third person, and not a made by her, and the fact that she never mentioned Bennett's name in her conversation with the officer is hard to understand."

"I feel after very thorough consideration that it would be improper to convict in this case." Magistrate Langley said.

No Evidence Offered

The other charge was then read and the Magistrate stated he wished to hear the case as a preliminary enquiry. The Crown offered no evidence and the case was dismissed. On the third case, the accused had already consented to be tried summarily by the Magistrate, but Magistrate Langley objected and stated it too would have to be a preliminary enquiry. The Crown again said no evidence would be offered, and this finished off all the charges against the accused.

It was apparent from the judgment handed down by the court that during the trial the cross-examination by Mr. Carley had broken down entirely any connection between the accused and Mr. Bennett in statements given the officer. The latter had gone into the hotel with almost 200 hotel receipts, and had singled out the three on which the charges were based, but Miss Robertson on the other hand in her conversations with the officer had apparently been talking about all of the receipts rather than any individual ones.

Street Building Program Being Delayed

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — (ENS). — Hope is still being held out by councillors that the oil necessary for the continuance of their road improvement program will be forthcoming. If it isn't the entire program begun four yeas ago may be scrapped at a cost of several thousand dollars to local taxpayers. This was revealed at the regular session of Council held on Monday night when Deputy-Reeve P. H. MacMillan, chairman of the Road and Bridge Committee, laid before them a communication from the district engineer for the Department of Highways at Port Hope. Familiar with the work being done on Campbellford streets, Engineer Poynton recommended the requisition for oil be filled. It was recalled that in 1941 all re-surfacing scheduled for that year had been completed early in June and Council's expenditure for oil during the current year was estimated at $1,600-$1,700.

Under the heading Reports of Committees, Road and Bridge Chairman MacMillan revealed that weed spraying would begin on Wednesday of this week and added that the one-horse mower he was authorized to purchase a month ago was expected to arrive soon. He said he had taken up the matter of building drain through the old Presbyterian sheds on Bridge Street with the new owners, Seymour Township Council, and had found them willing to co-operate in the matter. They had expressed their willingness to pay 50 per cent of the cost of installing a 24-inch tile which is expected to solve the drainage problem in that vicinity. Mayor Long declared he was in favor of this being done and a motion authorizing the work was carried.

Property Chairman J. R. Battisby reported that he had looked over lots south-west of the C.N.R. Station which Harold Dalgleish had offered to purchase at the last meeting. He recommended that they were "worth more than he (Mr. Dalgleish) wanted to pay," but added the disposition of them was up to Council. Some further discussion followed as to the town being in the real estate business and holding property which might better be privately owned, thus providing revenue in the form of taxes, and the matter was finally shelved with no action taken.

Deputy-Reeve MacMillan told council that a considerable quantity of refuse had been thrown into the roadside on the north end of Ranney Street near the High School. "T's should be looked after and cleaned up," he said. On motion of the Reeve and Councillor Fowlds the question was turned over to the Police Chairman with power to act.

Relief Officer J. J. Lewis Hay reported F. McNeil had recently paid a visit to the town and found everything in his department all right. There is only one family on relief, he said, and this is being charged back to the township of Seymour. Tax Collector J. C. Birmingham gave encouraging news to the financial picture. He said that of the $8,000 tax arrears budgeted for $66,000 had already come in. He was optimistic about the balance.

Population Increase.

Members also had cause for surprise in the report of Assessor Harry Townsend, who told them the population had actually gained since last year despite the number who had moved away to positions in war industries. Though the increase was only a small one (15) it was at least heartening to the town fathers and an indication that if people were moving away others were coming to take their places. Assessor Townsend placed the 1942 population at 2,879. Since the dog population also came under his jurisdiction, Mr. Townsend asked what was to be done about collecting license fees from dogs wh se owners were on active service (a year ago council decided to make such animals tax free). He said the fe had already been collected from some people coming in this category so council decided that the easiest way out was to collect from the remainder of them.

The ground on the park recently built at the corner of Booth and Centre Streets is still too soft to permit placing benches there so that people can rest after climbing the hill. This information was given by Deputy-Reeve MacMillan, following the suggestion of Reeve Calver who thought it was time the park was serving some other purpose than being just something to look at. Deputy-Reeve MacMillan said the sod was still too soft to bear any traffic and added the park was not yet completed. He said plans to cut an opening in the hedges and build walks inside should be carried out before the people were allowed to use it.

The clerk read a draft of the agreement between the corporaton and the newly engaged Garbage Collector R. Martin embracing several minor changes. Only alteration added to the draft was that the agreement could be terminated on thirty days' notice by either party and with this the form was ratified. A by-law authorizing the sale of Lot 1' Block 33, to Roy Martin at the sum of $15 was passed. The clerk also read a communication from the Department of Health urging co-operation in the matter of laying sewers of non-ferrous material as a means of conserving metal. This was received and filed and a letter from the Dominion Association of Fire Chief was turned over to the chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Concert Whistler Is Guest Artist At Weekly Luncheon Of Rotary

Rotarians had the unique privilege of listening to one of the greatest American concert whistlers, when Ernest Nickel of Beverley Hills, California, now holidaying at Buckhorn, gave a half-hour program at the club's weekly luncheon on Monday.

The guest artist was introduced by Ian McRae, who was occupying the chair for the first time as president, and he sketched a bit of Mr. Nickel's background. He is an American concert whistler who has appeared with symphony orchestras in Vienna Berlin, London, Detroit, New York and many other centres. He has appeared as guest artist with Fitz Kreisler, and Madam Schumann Heink, and has taken part in several of the Walt Disney pictures, the best-known of which was "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Mr. McRae revealed that the artist came from a Rotarian family, and that his father was the first president of the Rotary Club in Los Angeles. Mr. Nickel has just appeared recently at Rotary International in Toronto.

To the accompaniment of the soft strains of the gramophone in Waltz Bluette, Mr. Nickel, completely at ease, made effortless tonal changes with various types of modulation that sprang forth strongly and then tapered off almost into silence.

His second number was taken from the Finale to the Overture of William Tell and he delivered it with consummate skill. He then paid tribute to Carrie Jacobs Bond, whose protege he was for a long time, and accompanying himself on the piano, he whistled the beautiful strains of "I Love You Truly."

Different Sounds.

Then in a little talk on effects that produce bird notes, Mr. Nickel revealed that his whistling can be recorded octaves beyond those of the piano, even to notes that cannot be heard at all. He said that birds had always fascinated him and that he did a nufber of bird whistles in the Disney pictures. By voicing different letters of the alphabet, different whistles were produced, and a combination of different words produced entirely different sounds again. He went on to explain that birds living in different parts of the country produced different sounds and gave illustrations. The colder the climate he said, the lower the notes go, and the same bird in California would sound very different in Canada or even the Middle West in the United States.

After paying tribute to the amity between Americans and Canadians Mr. Nickel had his audience join in the whistling of "Let the rest of the World go by." Then with Harry Northrop at the piano he delighted his audience with a merry rendition of "Whistle While You Work" and "Heigh Ho," both from the picture "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs."

Turning back to the gramophone he gave as his next number 'The Indian Love Call," and this was a masterpiece of artistry. The whistle came so softly at times as to be almost indistinguishable from the instruments of the orchestra. His final selection was based on parts of "The Glow Worm," which he said was the piece he started to learn on when he was seven years old. In conclusion he paid tribute to the Peterborough Rotary Club and other service clubs for the spirit of fellowship that was a part of them.

Dr. D. B. Avison moved the vote of thanks on behalf of the Rotarians, saying that he would expect to hear a lot of whistling around town now, but that "it won't remind me of you." After a final hearty handclap in appreciation of Mr. Nickel's contribution, the meeting was dismissed.

Dunham Aces Beaten 27 to 3

COBOURG, July 7.—Dunham Aces took a terrific beating from the league-leading St. Michael's team in a Cobourg Men's League softball game in Victoria Park last night as the Saints completely outclassed them to the tune of 27 to 3. Errors proved largely responsible for the defeat, fifth straight suffered by the Aces, leaving them still at the bottom.

The winners tried out a variety of combinations in the field in winning, giving all their players a chance to perform. Ball, starting catcher for the Saints, had a home run with two on, while Woodcock had a triple. For the losers, Kitts also had a triple to open the sixth, but was left stranded.

American Tanks Knockout 9 In Libyan Scrap

WASHINGTON, July 7—(AP)—A force of United States tank soldiers met and defeated German Panzer units in a Libyan desert skirmish June 12 and was believed to be engaged alongside British troops in the Battle of Egypt.

The War Department announced the tank encounter in a communique last night. Dispatches from Cairo credited the American force with knocking out at least nine German tanks without suffering casualties itself in the battle between Knightsbridge and Acroma the day before the German ambush of the British armored force June 13.

The Americans left their tanks at Tobruk and got out of that contested port just before the Germans went in. Cairo advices said they were to have returned to the United States to apply lessons learned in the desert, but because of the German advance were ordered to stay and join in the fight to save Egypt.

The American tank crews went to Africa under command of Maj. Henry Cabot Lodge of Boston, who returned to Washington yesterday. During his desert tour of duty Lodge underwent machine-gun fire and dive bombing and narowly escaped being taken prisoner.

"American crews manned American-made medium tanks in combat during a part of the Battle of Libya on June 11 and 12," said the War Department communique. "They comprised a portion of a group of American armored force observers who have been in North Africa for several weeks.

Georgian in Carge.

"The tanks operated by the Americans were under the command of Capt. Charles C. Stelling of August, Ga. In two days of heavy fighting, the American crews succeeded in knocnig out several German tanks. The American tanks were hit repeatedly but were not seriousy damaged. There were no battle casualties among the personnel."

Edward Kennedy, Associated Press war correspondent with Allied troops said the American unit saw little fighting the first day The following day it was part of a British formation charged with holding a desert ridge between Knightsbridge and Acroma to protect the withdrawal of South African infantry from the Gazala area.

About 75 German tanks attacked shortly after dawn. The battle raged all day. The ridge was held.

Maj. Lodge, who is also the senator from Massachusetts, went to the Libyan fron to arrange for temporary inclusion of the American force in a royal tank regiment and to get data for special training in desert warfare.

Maj. Lodge has reported his findings to the general staff and plans to give the Senate Military Affairs committee a detailed report.

Colored Lights Retained At Hastings

HASTINGS, July 7—(ENS)—Little business was transacted at the regular meeting of the Hastings Hydro Commission, Monday night. No instructions have as yet been received from the authorities with regard to cutting off the strings of colored lights on the main street in order to conserve power. Until notice to the contrary is given, the commissioners decided to continue the practice of utilizing these lights throughout the summer months.

It was pointed out that tourists who reside here during the holiday season have no right to expect special dispensations and general lowering of hydro consumption rates. "Unless these delinquents pay their bills promptly cut-offs will be issued forthwith," warned Dr. W. E. Wilson, commission chairman.

On motion of commissioners Fairman and Kelly the following accounts were ordered paid: Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission, May power, $353.15; Bell Telephone Co., $1.88; Royal Bank, June collections, $3.70; Dept. of National Revenue, war tax, $71.63; J. R. Jones, refund, $4.00; Line Cable Accessories, $20.00; Dept. of Transport, rental, $10.00; T. A. Coughlan, supplies, 75c; E. M. Hess, salary and expenses, $77.45; H. C. Oliver, labor and supplies, $13.00.

Do You Mean It, Mr. Howe?

Mr. C. D. Howe, the Minister of Munitions and Supply, has made a statement regarding the shortage of steel and non-ferrous metals which will worry a great many Canadian manufacturers. A new and simplified system of priorities is to come into force shortly which will direct metals to defence industries in the quantities in which they are needed; makers of civilian articles will get the remainder, if anything remains. Mr. Howe appear to think that many plants will be forced to close.

But we have heard these drastic predictions from Mr. Howe before. He is respected as an able, forceful Minister with a great capacity to get things done. However, he has a tendency, arising perhaps from some deep-rooted dramatic instinct, to make startling statements which he later modifies considerably. As a result, when Mr. Howe throws a bomb now we expect the bang to be considerably worse than the damage.

If hundreds of Canadian plants are forced to close the unemployment so caused will at once be absorbed in war industries, but the damage done to Canadian business will be serious. Nobody wants "Business As Usual" during a war and Canadian business and industry is prepared to do anything possible to further our war effort. But wars cannot be fought without money and money comes chiefly from business. If Canadian industry is dealt a blow which will force hundreds of plants out of operation we wonder how the money is to be made up which they used to supply in taxes? And we wonder how they are going to start operations again after the war? We make no plea that business should be coddled in wartime, but we are apprehensive of moves which look as though they may put the economy of this country on the rocks in the post-war period. Meanwhile, we wait to see whether Mr. Howe will modify his latest statement.

Patriotism Is Not Enough

That final cryptic saying of Edith Cavell—"Patriotism is not enough"—is capable of many applications. It may, for instance, be fittingly directed at those well-meaning writers who are anxious to help Canada by writing critical and inspirational articles about her but who, in so doing, rely upon their abundant patriotism rather than upon matters of fact. Their patriotism is most decidedly not enough to conceal their lack of well-balanced opinions.

These general remarks are provoked in the main by an article called "Is Canada Really A Nation?" which appears in the current issue of that excellent weekly journal, Saturday Night. It is written by a Mr. Horace Brown, and it is Mr. Brown's opinion that this country has everything except a people worthy of possessing it. This is a defensible idea, but Mr. Brown is not skillful or even careful in his exposition. When, for instance, he says "The 'French problem' in Canada is an artificial creation, smoldered by politicians and a handful of misguided university students. Pour the amalgam of Truth upon it and it will dissolve into the melting pot of true Canadianism" he is talking nonsense, even though he does succeed in creating one of the most astonishing metallurgical pictures in the history of Canadian journalism. But it is when Mr. Brown talks about the press that he really shows the insufficiency of patriotism as a writer's total equipment.

"Our Press," says he, "has become slothful, incompetent, devoted to the special interests of the publishers. It must be told that it is rendering invaluable aid to our enemies with its creation of disunity on the one hand, and its complacent acceptance of things as they are on the other."

Anyone in Canada who talks about the Press in that large, general way is taking in a lot of territory. There are over a hundred daily papers in this country, and at least eighty of them are published in English; there are at least twice as many weekly papers. That is the Press of Canada. How many papers does Mr. Brown read every day? Fifty? Twenty? Five? And does he get them from all across the country? Presumably when Mr. Brown talks about "our Press" he refers to the papers he knows, and we should like to be told how many papers he knows and where they are published. We see papers from all over the country every day, printed in French and English, but we should hesitate to lay down the law about "our Press." Either Mr. Brown has made a very careful study of this matter or else he is talking through his hat. And if he is talking through his hat why is he permitted to do so in the pages of a paper which generally confines itself to intelligent and well-informed discussion of national affairs?

When a writer of Mr. Brown's exuberant nature feels an upsurge of patriotic ardor two courses are open to him: either he can write an article full of amalgam turning into melting-pots or he can go into the forest and chop down trees. The latter is the wiser course.

The Butter Subsidy

The idea of subsidies is an uncongenial one but the butter subsidy seems necessary and wise. It will assure us of a continued supply of this necessary food and will help to prevent inflation. Payment will be made, under this subsidy system, to farmers for milk used in buttermaking, and manufacturers will be paid for the butterfat they use.

When the butter subsidy was being discussed it appears that one bright official on the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said: "If there is no butter you can eat more bread." And if there is no bread, presumably we can eat cake? A shortage of butter or cheese in Canada would be a serious matter, for our population have become used to having these foods in abundance and a lack of them would create a dangerous dietary deficiency. It is no hardship to lose a luxury, but we have never been used to thinking of butter as a luxury.

Producers of butter cannot be expected to sell it at a loss, and we do not want the price ceiling on butter raised. The subsidy is the only solution.

Take Out The Desks

It is a matter of weary routine for the Speaker of our House of Commons to remind M.P.'s that they are not permitted to read their speeches. But read them they do, for it appears that they cannot trust their tongues, or their thoughts, or possibly their grammar, to get them through a speech in any other way. And what long speeches they read! Apparently they think, like schoolchildren writing an examination, that the longer they labor and wrestle with their subjects, the more impressive they will be.

In this connection it is interesting to notice that the recent debate on war leadership in the British Commons took 15 hours and that 32 speakers were heard; each man, presumably, spoke about 20 minutes. A mere twenty minutes would hardly suffice a Canadian M.P. to dispose of his first twenty pages and his first ten cough-drops. But in the British House the rule against reading is strictly enforced; if an M.P. cannot speak he is expected to remain silent.

The Ottawa Journal has what appears to us to be an excellent solution for this problem. Let us take all the desks out of the House, so that the members will have no place in which to hide their manuscripts. That will fix them!

NOTE AND COMMENT

Mussolini now has his head shaved to conceal his graying hair. Matters are getting very close to the bone in Italy.

Rationed suits in Britain are allowed only eight pockets. In Canada a change pocket would do the job.

In Colonial days it was believed that anyone who ate potatoes every day would die within seven years. Now such a person would merely diet.

"Young Mother's Place is Home Except in Great Emergency" says a headline. And we have even known them to be useful in an emergency.

If travel was a cent a mile it would cost $26,000,000,000 to travel to the nearest star. They'll have to bring down the rate before we will stir an inch.

Winston Churchill is reported to be facing another serious crisis in his political career. If Winnie's career were charted it would like the temperature graph of a hysterical fever patient.

The Examiner is glad to make acknowledgement of the fine work done by Mr. Victor Sifton as Master-General of the Ordnance, an office which he has held since December, 1940. Now, having re-organized the Ordnance Department he has returned to his usual work, which is newspaper publishing. We are lucky to be able to turn to men of his ability and resource when we need them.

Appraisal Made Of the War

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THIS week I shall review three books about the war, widely different in purpose and in the outlook of their authors, but all three of more than ordinary merit. The first, published by Messers Collins, is "Dawn of Victory" by the well-known foreign correspondent Louis Fischer. This author is unusually mysterious for a man of his profession. Most foreign correspondents are only too eager to introduce personal matter into their writings; Quentin Reynolds, for instance, two of whose books were reviewed in this column last week, does his utmost to make himself out a fascinating fellow and a boon companion of the great. Not so Fischer; I read his "Men and Politics" with attention and I have read his latest book carefully, and I still know little about Fischer, though I think that I have increased my knowledge of European affairs considerably.

"Dawn of Victory" is an appraisal of the war situation formed after a recent visit to Britain and after a consideration of the information which Fischer, who appears to have interesting sources in Europe, has received from Russia; the situation in the United States, of course is comparatively easy for him to estimate as it is his adopted country. Fischer is deeply convinced of the truth of the statement made by Winston Churchill at Ottawa on December 30, 1941: "Everywhere breaks the dawn and the light spreads, blood-red but clear."

LIKE many people on this side of the water, Fischer had his doubts as to whether the British people could stand up to the fury of German air attack. This is understandable; although we on this side of the ocean had heard about air warfare in China and in Spain it was still remote from our experience. In the years before the war we showed great ability to close our minds to what we did not want to know. When the Luftwaffe struck at Britain many people wondered if the nation which had placidly accepted Ramsay Macdonald, Stanley Baldwin and Neville Chamberlain, could 'take it'. People who knew England well never doubted for an instant, but comparatively few Americans know England at all. But Fischer found the British "hard, tough and philosophical". He also found them aroused and ready for great changes at home as well as for great battles abroad. They were sick to death of the stuffiness of the period between the wars when they had been lulled to sleep by the cradle-song of middle-class industrialists, and they wanted a more wakeful, vigorous England after the war. Meanwhile they had a war on their hands, and they meant to win it in their own way. Says Fischer: "It is difficult to wage a war the way the British people are doing it; they do it out of necessity without ferocity. They have a will to win without a wish to hate. It is difficult—and very civilized."

Fischer's opinion of Winson Churchill is most interesting, and seems to substantiate some of the criticism of the British leader which has been heard during the past few weeks. He regards him as "a political genius . . . the poet in politics, a Napoleonic Byron". He says elsewhere, "In making national sentiment and in reflecting national sentiment he has no equal, and if only for that reason he must and will remain Prime Minister as long as the war lasts or as long as he lives in good health." But then comes the fly in the ointment; Churchill has no mind for, and no patience with, the economic aspect of the war. And his government is not so much a team as a school class. But because of his many qualities of greatness, Churchill must remain. Meanwhile, what about economics? It is Fischer's opinion that Britain is capable of miracles in a pinch, but too weak industrially to be safe without foreign aid; she saved herself by a miracle of faith and energy in 1940, but now her commitments are too widespread for her production system. "England is America's permanent ally, permanent liability and permanent asset. Whatever happens, Great Britain will be at the side of the United States in this war and probably in the next peace. America's strength, Britain's shortcomings, Germany's ambitions, geography and history have thrown England into the arms of the United States."

REGARDING the peace, Fischer shares the common delusion of his countrymen that Europe should be made into a combine of interlocking states. Americans see no reason why this system should not work as well in Europe as it does in their own country. It is the one sort of democracy which they really trust. Unfortunately it involves a simplification which does not agree with the facts of European existence. Countries with separate languages, histories and national chararters cannot be lumped together with an injunction to be good. This quaint idea mars the latter part of Fischer's book. Like many another, he is anxious to assure his countrymen that they will have to assume mighty responsibilities in the new world which emerges from this war, and he cannot resist the temptation to make those responsibilities appear as attractive, and as little onerous, as possible. It is to be feared that the situation will not be quite so easy as some of these prophets imagine. But in spite of this final lapse into superficiality Fischer's book is well worth reading as a picture of Europe and the world today, and as a cautious but clear prediction of eventual allied victory.

Unconsidered Trifles

Mr. Smith: "My wife came from a very large family. Did yours?"

Mr. Brown: "No, she brought it with her."

Passenger: "Glad isn't the word, I'm amazed."

Young Husband: "I suppose you'll threaten to go home to mother after this?"

Wife: "I'll do nothing so foolish. I'm going to invite her here."

The newly married man sighed deeply as he said:

"The fellow who was my best man came to lunch with us for the first time on Sunday. My wife's cooking impressed him so much that he's sent her a carving set."

"That was very nice of him," said a listener.

"Oh, I don't know. He sent her three chisels and a mallet."

Huns Close on Red Artery

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

THE armored southern claw with which Hitler is reaching eastward for a throttling grip on Allied communications and war resources has been definitely blunted by the British 8th Army in Egypt. Its northern counterpart in Russia, ten times more powerful, is dangerously close to a vital Red Army war artery, however, if it has not already cut it.

German claims of having pushed bridgeheads across the Don River, undenied from Moscow, are accepted in London as probbaly accurate. The site of such crossings must be somewhere within less than fifty miles of the Voronezh Junction on the Moscow-Rostov railroad, 150 miles east of Kursk. The Don parallels the railroad to the west for sixty miles or so and at no point in the span is more than twenty miles distant from it.

LAST DIRECT LINK

That railroad is the last direct north-south communications link between Russian southern and central armies. If it has been broken, or the Don crosed as close to Voronezh as indicated, a German salient more than 100 miles deep has been driven into the Russian front, all but slicing the central and southern battle sectors apart.

London reports credit the Germans with having thrown 1,000,000 men into the Kursk-Kharkov drive. British observers now share the belief that a great Nazi turning movement southward down the Don Valley is in the making. A Nazi claim that Russian forces still west of the Don are threatened with encirclement tends o to bear out that conclusion. And down the Don lies Rostov and beyond it southward, the Caucasus and its oil.

Moscow reports furnish no clear picture of the tremendous battle, although they admit further Russian retirements in the Kursk area. There are German reports, however, of a powerful Russian offensive in the Orel sector, eighty miles north of Kursk.

The implication is that Russian armies in the central or Moscow zone are moving to Marshal Timoshenko's assistance, probably down the twin Orel-Kursk rail lines, to strike from the north at the flank and rear of the Nazi salient to the Don. The mass of Timoshenko's southern army apparently still is holding in the Belgorod, Volchansk and Kupyansk areas, south of the German push to the Don.

SITUATION NOT HOPELESS

The grave view taken by British military spokesmen of the Russian situation on the Upper Don seems fully warranted on the face of meagre advices from that seething front. It is by no means hopeless from the Russian viewpoint, however, and there is still lacking any word that the mass of tank weight thrown into action by the Nazis has succeeded in breaking through to create confusion behind Russian lines.

British worry over the Russian front also reflects lessening London and Cairo tension over the battle in Egypt. It seems clear that with his initial effort to break through to Alexandria foiled, Rommel must within hours disclose whether he has chosen to stand and risk utter destruction as British reinforcements come up, or run for it to more formidable defensive positions.

That he can expect to muster new strength for attack in Egypt as quickly as the British with their shorter and far faster communication lines seem unthinkable.

Military judgment clearly dictates a Nazi withdrawal before it is too late, but until the Nazi commander shows his hand, the first battle of Egypt cannot be written off as ended.

The Challenge of Bad News

(CHRIST--N SCIENCE MONITOR)

IN TIMES like these how many of us on the home front are like Elisha's servant How many of us, reading about the movements of armies or listening to military experts analyzing the strength of material forces, do what that young man did when he saw a host encompassing the city, "both with horses and chariots." He was the one who said, "Alas, my master! how shall we do?"

He had only dismay to contribute to that situation. How many of us give anything more when things appear to be going badly? Do we simply stand aghast at the apparent enormity of evil? Don't we often do worse, angrily berating our leaders and our allies, or thoughtlessly picturing an unprincipled gangster general as an invincible conqueror How many of us take Elisha's course? The account in the Sixth Chapter of Second Kings, tells it: "And Elisha prayed."

You will remember the sequel. The young man's eyes were opened "and, behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire round about Elisha." And the prophet, confident that he would be protected from the evil purpose of the King of Syria, prayed again. The enemy forces were captured and Elisha sent them back to their own country.

The Bible is full of such records of the deliverance of those who truly trusted in God, good, and understood the superiority of spiritual power. Such trust is the essence of prayer. Christian peoples need more often to remind themselves of the Power which supports any good purpose and to put their trust in Him. Many British people are convinced that the so-called "miracle of Dunkirk" resulted from a national day of prayer. In America bad news should not be an occasion for the doubt and dismay of Elisha's servant, but for "effectual, fervent prayer.

Greece's Ordeal

From "HELLAS"

A Talk Recently Broadcast by
GENERAL D. T. NOTI BOTZARIS
Former Greek Minister of State
(By Courtesy of the B.B.C.)

A YEAR has passed, a year of triple slavery. Sunday, April 6. After divine service the Greeks learned that their army, which in the mountain-tops of Northern Epirus had pinned down the unprovoked aggressor and reduced a great power to impotence, would now, for all its inadequacy, have to face the steel-girt army of another and a greater power, which without cause invaded us and sought to take us in the rear.

Invasion of Thrace and Macedonia. The impressive names to which our generation thrilled in earlier struggles re-echo once again. Roupel is attacked, and the forts on the high plateau of Kato Nevrokopi. The other forts, too, and the passes of Macedonia and Thrace, but all hold out.

Thereupon the enemy violates our ally, Yugoslavia, before she has had time to adjust herself to the conditions that, against the enemy's expectations, the patriotic coup d'etat has brought about. Thus the enemy's forces advance along the River Struma and debouch upon the River Axios and Doiran. Three days of defence. Our units and light tanks hold out against the armour-plated German ones. Battle at Doiran. Battle at glorious Kilkis. The parachutists are put out of action. But the disproportion is overwhelming. Salonica falls. It was just a year ago yesterday. The beautiful city on the Thermaic Gulf is overrun; 29 years earlier it had been liberated on the feast day of its patron, Saint Demetrius. Salonica, the key to Greece's territorial integrity, her glory and her pride, that she had founded 23 centuries ago, and again restored from its ashes 23 years ago. Salonica, the capital of Macedonian Hellenism, as it was described by King George I. when receiving Ferdinand of Bulgaria during the latter's enigmatic visit. And, as happened more than 500 years ago, Salonica is among the first places to be attacked.

But it is a fair thing, according to Tyrtaeus, to meet one's death in the front ranks, fighting for country.

The tragedy moves forward swiftly to its inexorable end. The forts hold out for a long time, and help to cover the embarkation of units cut off in Eastern Macedonia and Thrace, Olympos and Thermopylae.

With their life's blood Greek and British soldiers together offer a libation of freedom. In Epirus our army, victorious against the Italians, calmly awaits its fate; the black cloud of slavery is descending, the same cloud that covered Greece in the space of three weeks and Crete within a further five.

But these eight weeks had an incalculable influence upon Libya and Syria, Irak and Russia, and upon the whole gigantic conflict. Once again Greece has become a holocaust to light the way to freedom.

Later, the struggle in Crete, Egypt, the enslavement of the many, the few scattered throughout the world; the gradual reorganization of the nation's forces. The struggle begins anew. It is the second drama in the National Trilogy. For it is our belief that a third drama will be enacted, the one that will do justice to Greece, through which, as she has achieved glory, so she may achieve happiness.

A Bible Message For Today

AND after six days Jesus taketh Peter, James and John his brother, and bringeth them up into an high mountain apart, and was transfigured before them: and his face did shine as the sun, and his raiment was white as the light. And, behold, there appeared unto them Moses and Elias talking with him. . . .

And as they came down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, Tell the vision to no man, until the Son of Man be risen again from the dead. And his disciples asked him, saying, Why then say the scribes that Elias must first come? And Jesus answered and said unto them, Elias truly shall first come and restore all things.—Matt. xvii, 1-3, 9-11.

AND there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars; and she being with child cried, travailing in birth, and pained to be delivered. . . . And she brought forth a man child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.—Rev. xii, 1, 2, 5.

Won't Repeat The Error

HAD the United States joined in the sanctions against Italy when the latter invaded Ethiopia, it might have deterred Hitler from breaking the peace of Europe a few years later. Today Mr. Welles declares that the United States is committd to a policy which will maintain an international police power after the war to ensure freedom from fear to peace-loving poples until there is re-established that permanent system of general security promised by the Atlantic Charter. Moreover, he promises that the United States will participate in the gigantic task of relief, or reconstruction, and of rehabilitation which will confront the United Nations at the time of the armistice.—Calgary Herald.

Keenan-Flett Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Melton To Mark Golden Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. G. T Melton, 943 Water street, who have lived in Peterborough for the past 28 years, will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary on Thursday. Married in Holy Trinity church, Leytonstone, in the count of Essex, England, in the year 1892, they later lived for some years at Great Yarmouth in the county of Norfolk. In 1914 they left this historic and, recently, much bombed seacoast town to become citizens of Peterborough, where they have lived ever since.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton have four children: Mr. D. G. H. Melton of the city, Major G. R. Melton, attached to the staff of the Royal Military College, Kingston, at present overseas; Mrs. J. H. Cridland of this city, and Mrs. C. M. Campbell of Toronto. There are also three grandchildren: Joan and Geraldine Melton, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. H. Melton, and Geoffrey Cridland.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton will enjoy the best of health and both lead very active lives. Retired since 1940, Mr. Melton works in his garden with a zest a younger man might envy and maintains that plenty of walking exercise will keep a good constitution in excellent condition, a theory which he has proved over a number of years.

Mrs. Melton's favorite pastime is knitting, although members of her family proudly display beautiful pieces of needlepoint done by her. Knitting socks for men on active service, however, takes up most of her time now, and her contribution must total hundreds. Both have been members of the Church of England all their lives, and Mrs. Melton is an enthusiastic member of the W.A. of St. John's church.

Mr. and Mrs. Melton will be at home on Thursday to their many friends in the city who will wish to celebrate with them this glad occasion and wish them many more anniversaries.

Canadian China In Local Stores

For centuries china from the potteries of the Old World has been so famous that no one in the New World has thought of offering serious competition to the exquisite products of Dresden, Wedgewood and Limoges.

But now, hesitantly, but in increasing quantity, china made in Canada and the United States is making its appearance in our shops and stores. Canadian china in Peterborough shops has increased in the last few months, and some really pretty pieces have appeared. Deposits of china clay appear in British Columbia, Alberta, New Brunswick, and Quebec.

Canadian china in Peterborough stores is still chiefly of the novelty type. There are vases of rich color and graceful design which come from the Medalta potteries at Medicine Hat; and, also from Medicine Hat, pretty gaily colored breakfast and luncheon services, inclined to be on the heavy side, but pretty and attractive. A large number of charming novelties come from the McMaster Potteries at Dundas, near Hamilton. One of the most charming pieces from this firm is a china piggy bank. The pig is a creamy white in color wreathed with pink and green flowers. Much of the McMaster china is in this creamy white china with designs of pink and green flowers; some of it however, comes in pastel shades of pink, green and blue and these pastels have a certain depth and warmth not usual in pastel colors. Besides the piggy bank there are small vases, ashtrays, jugs, dutch shoes that would make cute flower-pots and miniature animals. All of them would make excellent wedding, Christmas or birthday gifts.

From Toronto come the products of Candec potteries, also of the novelty variety, with especially realistic and clever miniature animals.

Canadian china has not the brittle delicacy of French nor the aristocratic grace of English china. Nor is there anything typically national about it. But the designs are sturdy and graceful, the colors, even pastel shades, are warm and deep, and the glaze is high and lustrous. It is to be hoped the industry will soon turn its attention to the creation of practical attractive china for every day use, that proper use may be made of the large Canadian clay dpposits.

DOROTHY DIX

PHYSICALLY WEARY WIFE LOSES INTEREST IN FAMILY

DEAR MISS DIX: I am twenty-two years old and feel as if I were sixty-two instead. I have a wonderful husband who works six days a week and makes a decent salary at a lifetime job, and I know he sincerely loves me. We have been married three years and have an eight-month-old child. Our home is finely furnished.

The first two and a half years of our marriage we scrimped to get these things and could save no money. Before and after the baby's birth I required a great deal of medical care and this took quite a bit of money. We have no debts at present, but due to rising prices of food and rent and union dues we still don't seem able to have any money. I have to do all of the cooking, washing and cleaning and taking care of the baby and a six-room house. I am worn out with the work and pinching pennies, for I deny myself everything, permanents, dresses and amusements.

Worse still the baby cries and keeps me awake at night. The doctors say that there is nothing the matter with him, that it is just a habit and that he will grow out of it, but it is running me crazy.

Now my problem is I have gotten so I don't know whether I love my husband or not. I have gotten so I don't seem to have any feeling for either him or the baby. What do you think is wrong with me?

ANSWER: I think you are so physically exhausted that you have gotten emotionally numb. I remember a woman once telling me that she had nursed a sick child night and day until she was so spent and dulled with loss of sleep and fatigue that when she thought the baby died in her arms she could not feel even sorrow. Nothing but her own weariness. And she laid the little creature down on the bed and fell beside it in a stupor from which she was aroused by the baby's stirring and making a faint moan. That brought her wide awake and enabled her to save its life.

You are emotionally in the same state that this woman was. Too worn out to feel anything but your bodily need of rest, and the wise thing for you to do is to hire some competent woman to come and take charge of your house and child for a month. She will break the baby of its bad habit of crying in a couple of nights, for she will know how to deal with it.

Have Some Fun

And do go and get a permanent and a pretty dress or two and spend your afternoons at the movies, and you will look like and feel like a new woman. Maybe you will have to go in debt for this, but it will be money well spent because it will save you and your home.

But, reading between the lines, I judge that you are living beyond your means. You have finer furniture than you can afford and a bigger house, and it keeps you under too big a strain. Also, you are certainly not a good manager, or else you would never have let the baby get the upper hand on you. My earnest advice to you is to try to simplify your mode of living.

And don't forget that it is just as necessary for any young couple to have some pleasure and amuse-

BORDERLINE JEWELRY

The Aztec sunray motif executed in sterling silver and set with large cabochons of amethyst quartz makes a bracelet and pin ensemble. Suzie Hannagan has set the pin on her handbag.

From Mexico has arrived a fine selection of sterling silver costume jewelry, set with semi-precious gems, which bit by bit makes us glad we are border neighbors.

The Aztec rose and the Aztec sun, commonest and most beautiful of the ancient Mexican design motifs, are used effectively in modern treatments. Typical too of Mexico's vastness and generosity of color and scheme are the jewelry pieces; they are dramatic as well as wearable, real accents to the slick clothes of today. It will be a shock to many that Mexico has anything but turquoise matrix to put into bijou settings, but there is a wonderful jade green stone which is usually carved for further delight and such subtle stones as the smoky amethyst quartz in the ensemble shown above.

BRINTONS DEFEAT ELECTRICS BY 9 TO 3 IN GIRLS' CITY LEAGUE

Power At Bat Is Big Help To Carpetmakers

Launching a pile driver attack with a barrage of lusty clouts, Brintons took a one-sided decision from the Electrics in a Girls' City and District Softball League tilt at the Ashburnham Bowl on Monday evening, winning 9 to 3.

Brinton's power at the bat, saved the day for them as they shared doubtful honors with their opponents in some rather loose fielding, players of both teams enjoyed considerable freedom on the bases, romping around almost at will. The game was livened by some spotty but top ranking fielding by individual players of both sides, and the fair sized crowd of fans enjoyed the game throughout.

M. Batley, first sacker for the Brintons, speared a line drive that was a sizzler for one of the neatest put-outs of the duel, and N. Smith at second for the same team made a one hand catch that brought a wave of applause.

L. Hughes, pitching for the winners, sent six batters down swinging and only walked three. She was steady throughout and shows every sign of steadying down to be one of the top bracket hurlers in this popular league. M. Larmer hurled for the Electrics and turned in a creditable performance but her support was not the best, and she deserved a much closer score on her work during the game. She struck out five and issued three free trips to first. E. Basciano, right fielder for the Brintons, smashed out a home run in the eighth to chase runs in ahead of her, and give the Brintons the big edge in the score column.

The teams:

Brintons—A. Weir, ss; M. Batley, 1b; D. Walker, c; E. Basciano, rf; H. English, cf; D. Smith, lf; I. Stewart, 3b; N. Smith, 2b; L. Hughes, p.

Electrics—E. Bennett, 1b; S. Milburn, 2b; M. Hunter, ss; A. Larmer, ss; R. Milburn, c; M. Killingbeck, 3b; M. English lf; G. Barnes, rf; S. Primeau, rf; A. Coffee, cf; T. Batley, cf; M. Larmer, p.

Score by innings:

Brintons	211 010 04—9	12	6

In spite of the cool breezes the boys turned out and played their games according to schedule. And when we say cool, we mean cool. All the sweaters, overcoats and pullovers that were neatly tucked away in the moth balls for the summer months were hurriedly brought forth and used to good advantage.

Last night's results did not alter the standing of Group No. 2 very much. Fred Dearborn still leads the parade, but he had to pay strict attention to the game all the way through. Mr. Pringle, pinch-hitting for Jim Skinner, made things very uncomfortable, at times, for Dearborn, Loftus and Co.

Jack Sedgewick hangs on to second position. Dr. Fulford slipped a bit and has dropped down a peg in the standing. Percy McFadden had a run-away as did C. Giroux. Charlie Elliott and F. Kerr had a real fight up until the last few ends. Jim McDonald had to go all out to earn a photo-finish from Bob French.

The games committee chairman just doubled the score on Percy Moore, but not quite, and so it goes on, and on, and on.

Tomorrow is the ladies' open tournament. Play commences at 1.30 o'clock.

Leafs Win 10-3 Over Cardinals

HASTINGS, July 7—(ENS)—Two 'teen-aged softball aggregations, potential mushballers of the future, displayed plenty of talent in a five inning contest on the local diamond Monday evening.

Vince Herrington, on the mound for the Leafs, showed real promise as a hurler, limiting the Cardinals to seven hits and three runs as his own team bunched 15 bingles, good for 10 markers. Herrington helped his own cause with a perfect night at the plate to score three runs himself. However, the final 10 to 3 score in favour of the Leafs was not all indicative of the tight play. Leo Petticrew, Cardinal first sacker, was the only player to dent Herrington's offerings for more than one hit.

Stanley Stevenson, W. H. Kumpf, Joe Jones and Joe Mulholland deserve real credit for organizing and making it possible for these youngsters to play.

The teams:

"MENTAL CASE"

CHAPTER XI

FOR a moment the cabin of the schooner was deathly quiet. Then Burke spoke.

"Let go of her!" he said from between closed teeth. "Take your dirty hands off her!"

"So you have decided to tell us things about the bomber?" prompted Karl, grinning with victory but retaining his hold on Judith.

"He is not," Judith cut in. "Do what you like but he's not talking. He is not selling American defense for my sake." She turned her eyes on Burke. "Don't say anything, Tom."

Karl retaliated by twisting her arm again until she had to cry aloud with pain. Cold beads of sweat popped out on Tom's forehead as he strained at his bonds.

Then the foreigner slapped her. The blow staggered her and she reeled back against the wall.

"Stop it!" roared Tom, and broke loose from Heavy's grasp. He could not do much, tied as he was, but he made a lunge for Karl. The force of his body knocked the man over and broke the hold on Judith.

While they scrambled to get Burke under control, Judith dashed up the cabin steps. One of the men yelled and sprang after her, but she did not pause. She was just one jump ahead of the man as she reached the rail. His hands grabbed at her as she plunged overboard. The cold splash of water took her breath away for an instant.

When no shot followed her, she thought, "They're sure I will drown. Maybe I will."

But with determination she started swimming for the lighted horizon. She would not let herself think of Tom back there in the schooner. If she could reach shore she could summon help. That was her only thought.

Each time she lifted her head to glance toward the shore the distance seemed no shorter. Suddenly, she knew she could not make it through the heavy breakers. All she could hope to do was stay afloat for a little longer and pray that something would happen to save her.

Just then the clouds and fog lifted for a few minutes and the moon came out brightly. She saw that she was not so far from a cove. If she could only reach it without being tossed against the rocks!

A swell rose, tossing her over and under as it broke into a white foam. When she came out of it, spitting water, another one caught her and bounced her around like a grain of sand. But it carried her a little nearer the cove.

A blackness settled over her as she felt herself go down and down.

JUDITH moved, groaned and slowly opened her eyes. She saw a blue sky overhead. She sat up and looked about in bewilderment. She was in a little cove protected by rock on three sides, the pounding ocean on the other. The tide was out; when it came in, she might be swept out to sea again. The thought brought her instantly to her feet.

Shivering with her damp clothes and the biting air, she set out to scale the rocky wall. Sharp rocks bit at her hands and brought blood. Her long fingernails broke like paper. Her shoes were gone and her clothes were in rags. But tugging, pulling, slipping, she finally reached the top of the cliff.

She sought to pierce the heavy fog blowing in from sea. As she was about to turn away the fog suddenly thinned and she saw a number of pleasure boats anchored down the coast, but she had no idea which one she had escaped from. And now was not the time to ponder. She had to get to the authorities and find help for Tom.

She turned and started away, fighting the nausea in the pit of her stomach. The going was slow and the rough earth bruised her feet. Again and again she fell, rose wearily to her feet and stumbled on.

At last she reached a lettuce farm and went up to the little house. There she collapsed on the doorstep. A Chinaman came hurrying out to stare at her. Her throat was so dry she couldn't talk until he handed her a drink o water.

"Can you take me to town?" she managed to ask in a weak whisper.

"Me no gottee car, ladee," he sang, and lifted his hands helplessly.

"A wagon," she suggested hopefully.

He shook his head. "No gottee." But he pointed to a mule, and there was a happy smile on his face.

"Me fixy," he told her.

Judith leaned her head against the post of the porch and tears dimmed her blue eyes. "How am I to ride a mule?" she wondered. "But I have to."

The old man was gone a long time down at the barn. When he did return Judith's lips slowly parted in amazement.

The mule was harnessed to the barn door. The Chinaman was grinning broadly. Judith laughed despite her misery.

COME along, ladee," he called, and stopped for her.

Judith stepped on the sled but decided quickly she had better sit down. She was skinned and bleeding. Her once beautiful curls were matted and she was dirty. She looked worse than a tramp.

The town they reached hours later was hardly more than a wide spot in the road. The Chinaman took her to the only store. She thanked him profusely for his aid. She had no money to pay him for the service but he bowed elegantly and drove off, satisfied.

Judith went inside the building. She tried to explain to the man about her capture and escape, and how she was washed to the rocky shore. He stared at her, nodding his head, but by his look she knew he did not believe a word of her story.

"You will help me, won't you?" she begged, her eyes tragic. "Get me a car?"

"Sure, miss. Just a minute. I'll call one." He went to the back of the store.

But what the grocer really called was an ambulance, as Judith discovered when the car came clanging to a stop before the store. The attendants came in.

"Here she is, boys," said the man.

"Why—why" Judith stammered, "I don't want an ambulance. I asked for a car." She turned on the owner of the store, her eyes blazing. "You old hypocrite! You can't do this to me. Take your hands off," she yelled at the attendants as they took her by the arms and led her, struggling, to the waiting ambulance.

"Mental case," said the man, following them. "Talks 'bout spies and escaping in the ocean."

"You old viper," screamed Judith as she was forced into the car and the door closed. "Don't you take me to a hospital," she warned the white-coated man. "I want to go to the Watson Airplane factory in San Diego."

"Sure, miss," agreed the young doctor soothingly.

"You think I'm crazy? Well, what you're doing is crazy—interfering with justice and letting criminals escape! You can't do this."

"Please don't worry miss," he said.

"The name is Miss Kingsly and I am employed by the Watson Airplane Co. I was kidnaped by spies. Can't you understand?"

"If you will just be quiet, Miss Kingsly," he began.

"Keep quiet yourself," she snapped at him.

She huddled as far away as she could get while the ambulance roared down the highway. She clenched her fists and bit hard on her lower lip to keep from crying. She refused to answer the questions put to her by the young interne.

It was the last straw when the car rolled to a stop and she looked out to see the hospital before her. She burst into a flood of tears.

The nurse at the desk motioned with her hand to enquire if it were a mental case. The attendants nodded as they led Judith to the elevator.

Cellar Position Knights Defeat Leaders

The Knights of Columbus who are at the bottom of the heap in the Catholic League came through Monday night with their second win to trim the top ranking St. Peter's squad at Memorial Park 12 to 7.

It was their night on and the winners played fine ball all the way hitting and fielding well. After the losers saw six runs go over the counting station in the third for the K. of C. it sort of took the heart out of them.

Can Make Playoffs

K. of C. have 11 more scheduled games and with two postponements to work on besides they have plenty of time to get out of the cellar. After defeating the league leading Saints it seems that Pete Moore and his crew are going to give battle from here on in to the finish line. The Knights are only a couple wins behind the Cubs who are in third position.

Jack Condon's pack figured they had an off night and should be in good form for Thursday's benefit game against the City League Plazas.

Heavy Hitting

Mongraw on the hill for the K. of C., pitched fair ball, striking out two, gave out one free pass, but was nicked for 16 safe blows. His opponent Gordon was slugged for 14, fanned one and walked the same number.

For St. Peter's the big ball busters were Rev. Father Wolff and Conroy with a double and a pair of singles apiece in five trips to the rubber. Tompkins and Prete had a pair of singles, the former in five and the latter in four atempts. Kerr and Perdue also flashed through with a couple of singles. On the opposing lineups Smith was the big boy with a homer and two singles in four tries with Riley pulling through with a double and a single in the same number. Wolff came through too, with a deuce in singles having four trips.

Benefit Game

The tickets for Thursday night's benefit game for Joe Rochetta and Lornie Dennie are going well and indications are that a good crowd will attend the fray to be staged at Stevenson's Park starting at 7.00 p.m.

Umpires who will handle the game have not been decided upon as yet, but will be soon. Prizes for the draw will be announced Wednesday.

The teams:

St. Peter's: Fr. Wolff, 2b; Condon, 1b; Tompkins, 3b; Prete, cf; Conroy, lf; Herr, ss; Perdue, c; Gordon, p; C. Conroy, rf.

K. of C.—Riley, cf; Tracey, 3b; Galvin, c; Wolff, 1b; Masterson, lf; Smith, ss; Mills, 2b; Mongraw, p; Baldwin, rf.

Royals Defeat Plazas In Close Game

Softball fans were treated to a rare old display of heavy slugging on Monday evening when the Royals pepery City League softball team, downed the league-leading Plazas 14-13 in a see-saw tussle at Riverside Park. A single by Giardino, followed by a triple clout by Nisiol gave the Ed. Riley crew the extra run, and the slim margin of victory.

This upset tends to tighten the race even more, and if the Luckies can topple the league leaders when they meet on Friday, they will take over first place by a slim margin. At the present time, Plazas' lead with six wins and three losses, Luckies are next in line with five wins and three losses and the fast stepping Royals are close behind with five wins and four losses.

The game had all the earmarks of the old knock-'em-down drag-'em-out city league tussles, but there was only a fair crowd to watch the performance. The game was a little late in starting because a few of the players had to work until seven o'clock.

Fraser started on the mound for the Royals but folded in the second when the Plazas started a barrage, and Akers was called in with one out. Before the stampede had been halted seven runs had crossed the plate. In the first innings, the Plazas had sent the Royals down in order, executing a neat double play, W. Starr to Blewett to Ellis. They came back again in the third, to push three more tallies across, then added one in the eighth and two in their last time at bat. During the entire game, the Plazas showed their usual terrific batting power, hammering the ball to all corners of the park, Heal and W. Starr cracked out triples and Joe Blewett had a homer in the big second. W. Starr had a double and single besides his three-base clout. Godfrey had two singles, and Edie Starr a single and double.

Heal was tossed out of the game in the fifth when he protested loudly about the umpire's decision. Batley, on the bases, called Heal out for leaving the base before a fly ball had been caught, and the ensuing oral battle waxed so warm, the player was given the gate.

Royals got away to a slow start, but capitalized on every opportunity. In the second both Akers and Giardino drew walks and scored, and in the third, four singles, a double and an outfield error added four more to their total. They continued to pile them up in the fourth getting a pair of runs that started with two walks. They were blanked until the eighth when wild pitching paved the way again for a scoring splurge. Pryde and Akers both drew walks to start this stanza, and before the innings had been straightend out, the Royals had gathered in five runs to take a two-run lead. Plazas got it back again in their half of the ninth when two runs crossed, Parsons and W. Starr singling, but it wasn't enough for the Royals had the extra punch to score in the final and the game finished in the middle of the innings with the Royals one run in front.

G. Gatfield was in top hitting form last night, and bashed out three singles, while L. Holmes got four. Giardino cracked out three one-baggers and Holland secured a double. For the Plazas, the fine fielding of Julian Wade out in centre garden was outstanding, and he turned in one of his best peformances of the season to date. Heal at shortstop played nice ball, and Ellis at first, did a swell job.

The next game in the senior loop is on Wednesday evening when the Soldiers meet the Juveniles.

The teams:

Plazas; Heal, ss; W. Starr, 3b; Godfrey, lf; Blewett, 2b; Ellis, 1b; Wade, cf; E. Starr, c; Johnson, ss; English, rf; Parsons, p.

Royals: D. Holmes, rf; Hawks, 3b; G. Gatfield, lf; Pryde, 2b; Akers, lf, p; Giardino, ss; Nisiol, 1b; L. Holmes, c; Holland, cf; Fraser, p.

Score by innings:

Plazas	070 300 012—13	16	3
Royals	024 200 051—14	19	4

TORONTO, July 7—(CP)—Twilight racing got the glad hand fast and often around Winnipeg this season but complaints are beginning to filter in from other sectors ..Hal (Vancouver Sun) Straight concentrates his adverse comment on Saturday twilight racing (Objection: Card finishes too late for traditional weekend beakers of brew) but leaves the weekdays to fend for themselves...Ken (Edmonton Journal) McConniel lashes out in all directions...He wrote flatly after the first twilight card in Edmonton that it was "definitely not a success."

South side track authorities at Edmonton ignore decades of racing progress...There is no starting gate, not even chutes...The horses are sent away in the oldtime running start which—as always—is fine if your nag happens to be pointed the right way when the field shifts into high.

Jim (Toronto Globe and Mail) Coleman suggests a war charities match between Pte. Al Lust and LAC Dave Castilloux for the Canadian welterweight title...The question arose when Pte. Luct hung a 10-minute snooze on Maxie Berger in Calgary...Western fight men recognized the fight as being for the Canadian welterweight crown recently vacated by Castilloux but the authoritative Canadian Boxing Federation would have none of that—mainly because until Lust beat Berger he was strictly an anonymous gladiator...The C.B.E. continues to recognize Castilloux as the titleholder despite his announced decision to retire...A bout between Lust and Castilloux would be a natural, with plenty of boxoffice pull.

Football talk is growing again in the East and Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara says Montreal could have Reg (Winnipeg Blue Bombers) Threlfall as coach for the asking... Dave Castilloux Remains Champ

MONTREAL July 7—(CP)—Frank Hogan, president of the Canadian Boxing Federation, said today recognition of the Al Lust-Maxie Berger bout by the Western Boxing and Wrestling Federation for the Dominion welterweight crown is a "lot of hooey."

"How can the western body make it a title fight when there already is a champion?" asked Hogan. "Dave Castilloux now in the Royal Canadian Air Force is still official holder of the Canadian welter crown."

Previously the Canadian Boxing Federation had passed a rule declaring that any champion who entered the armed forces would be allowed to retain his title as long as he didn't leave the country and that he was in a position to defend the title.

Castilloux is in a position to defend his crown said Hogan, and pointed out that talk to the contrary is wrong.

Hogan added that "if there were no champion, the governing body would have been only too glad to consider the Lust-Berger bout for the Canadian title so as to help the game along out there in Western Canada."

(Lust was hailed at Canadian champion by the western body when he defeated Montreal's Maxie Berger by a knockout in the closing round of a 12-round bout in Calgary Saturday.)

Leagues Leave Series Details In Council Hands

NEW YORK, July 7 (AP)—Officials and club owners of the major leagues, meeting in three lengthy sessions yesterday, discussed the possibility of altering the plans for the 1942 World Series, but left the final decision to the advisory council.

A long joint session, which followed separate league meetings and lasted almost till time for the All-Star game, wound up with both leagues leaving the series entirely in the hands of the council, composed of Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, President Will Harridge of the American League and President Ford Frick of the National League.

Leslie O'Connor, secretary to the commissioner, said after the final meeting that the only definite plan for the World Series called for the contribution of a part of the receipts to war relief. All other details will be worked out by the advisory council, which did not set a date for a meeting. The council usually holds a regular session about a month before series time.

Considerable talk in baseball circles had involved the possibility of playing a World Series longer than the usual seven games and taking the later games on a "tour" of several cities, and it was assumed that such an arrangement was among the matters discussed.

A request by Clark Griffith, owner of Washington Senators, to play all of Washington's remaining home games this season at night, with the exception of Sundays and holidays, was turned down in the joint meeting, with Commissioner Landis casting the deciding vote.

The American League approved Griffith's request at its meeting, but then the National League voted against it and in the joint session Landis sided with the senior circuit.

Washington already is operating under a special ruling, allowing the Senators twenty-one night games at home this season, seven more than any other major league club.

The American League also discussed condensing the 1943 season by two weeks, although adhering to a 154-game progrm. President Harridge said the junior circuit considered starting the season a week later than usual and ending it a week earlier. Such a schedule would make for many more doubleheaders. It was not brought up at the joint session.

A suggestion made several days ago by Jack Zeller, general manager of Detroit Tigers, that the clubs give up spring training trips to Florida and California next season never was discussed.

Expect Feller To Start For Service Crew

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND, O., July 7.—(AP).—A great, patriotic throng of 60,000 to 70,000 spectators is expected to comfortably fill Cleveland's massive Municipal Lake Front stadium to-night to witness the greatest stars in baseball battle to swell the fund of the Army and Navy emergency relief funds.

The competing teams will be Uncle Sam's soldiers and sailors managed by Lieut. Gordon 'Mickey' Cochrane, one-time pilot of the Detroit Tigers, and the ever-familiar stars of the American League, victorious in New York's Polo Grounds last night over the National League All Stars, 3 to 1. The American Leaguers will be led by the veteran Joseph Vincent McCarthy, manager of the world's champion New York Yankees.

Bobby Feller, Clevelands own great 23 year old fireballer, or John Duncan Rigney, former ace of the Chicago White Sox, both right handers, will be on the firing line at the start for the service all-stars, with Clevelands Jim Bagby, another right hander, the choice of Manager McCarthy. Bagby has won nine and lost four to date

Lieut. Cochrane, supremely confident and determined to triumph, nevertheless had not decied upon his positive pitching choice or his starting line-up today. It was the general impression that he would give the nod to the idolized Feller for sentimental reasons and then throw Rigney into the fray when and if Feller got into trouble.

'Not Many Hits.'

"We came here to win," Cochrane snapped. "We've got good pitching, a great defensive outfield and hitting power. We'll give 'em more than they are figuring on. They won't get many hits off us in that big ball park. If we can take 'em I'l be the happiest guy in the world."

starting line-up probably will find The balance of Lieut. Cochrane's Sam Chapman, Philadelphia Athletics, in right field; Don Padgett, property of the St. Louis Cardinals, in left, and Joe Grace of the St. Louis Browns in the centre garden.

The infield probably will be Benny McCoy of the Athletics at second, Cecil Travis of Washington at short Ernie Andres Louisville Colonels at third and either Johnny Sturm Yankees or Chester Hadjuk of the Chicago White Sox at first. Andres a former Indiana University star is the only player among the All-Stars without previous major league experience.

It's Earnshaw-Cochrane Again

George Earnshaw and Mickey Cochrane, who formed the great battery for the great Philadelphia Athletics' baseball team of the early thirties, are together again. This time they are Lieut. George Earnshaw and Lieut. Cochrane, and they are coach and manager, respectively, of the service all-star team that will play the American League all-stars tonight. Lieut. Earnshaw, LEFT, and Lieut. Cochrane are shown at the Great Lakes naval training station looking over the service team during a workout.

Baltimore Shatters Leaf Streak, Split Double Bill

By the Associated Press

Jersey City Giants to-day are holding down the No. 1 spot in the International League and Montreal Royals can claim some credit for this switch of leadership.

The Giants were defeated for the first time in seven starts last night but Newark, erstwhile leader, dropped a pair to the Royals and skidded to second place.

The Bears held the lead since late May. Their double defeat last night and subsequent slip to the runner-up spot climaxed a slump that started June 20 and brought 11 defeats in 17 games.

Buffalo tagged the Giants, 4-3 last night. Jersey City deadlocked the score at 3-3 in the opening half of the eighth inning on a homer by Sid Gordon with one on. The Bisons, however, snared their winning tally in the lower half of the same inning.

Montreal, now only a full game out of first place, was outhit in both games but won out on top-flight hurling, 4-1 and 7-3.

Joe Pages generosity in issuing seven passes in four frames he worked aided the Royals to their triumph in the opener while Ed Albosta's relief twirling was the deciding factor in the nightcap.

After last night's games, the three leaders were jammed at the top of the standing like this:

Club	Won	Lost	Pct
Jersey City	46	32	.590
Newark	47	33	.588
Montreal	46	34	.575

Jersey City puts its new honors in jeopardy twice to-night, playing a twin bill under the lights at Buffalo, while Newark and Montreal tangle at Montreal in an afternoon contest.

In last night's other battles Baltimore halted Toronto's nine-game winning streak, 5-0, in the first tilt of a bargain bill but lost the second, 16-1.

The Rochester at Syracuse engagement was postponed.

The Sports Round-Up

NEW YORK, July 7 — (AP). — Look for Lou Boudreau to give another nifty performance against the Service All-Stars to-night.....Lou claims that the cares of being manager havent affected his play, but look what he did the first time he got out there on a ball field with no one to worry about but himself ....Even Leo Durocher picked him as the standout of last night's game and Leo wouldn't admit any one of his National Leaguers was any better than the others......Bill McKechnie must have known what was coming. While the American Leaguers were getting the range in batting practice, Bill chased a crowd of reporters, photographers and autograph-getters away from the dugout. "I want to see the hitters," he explained.

Bright idea:

After the brawl was over last night, someone asked Durocher what the pitchers were throwing to Joe Gordon who fanned three times...."I dont know," Leo answered emphatically, "but I'm gonna find out."

Both Boudreau, York Belt Ringers For 3-1

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, July 7—(AP). — Better All-Star games possibly will be played than last night's spectacle at the Polo Grounds in which the American League once again slugged the National into 3-1 defeat before a benefit crowd of 33,694, but it is difficult to imagine one more dramatic.

One minute after big Ernie Lombardi of the beaten National Leaguers lifted a lazy fly to right field to end the contest, darkness closed over the big arena as part of New York's City's second wartime blackout. For 22 minutes, the crowd that for two hours had cheered itself hoarse sat tense and almost silent.

They sat as at a wake for the blasted hopes of the National Leaguers, who had entered the 10th annual struggle with such a burning determination to win and had seen their chances vanish almost with the first pitch.

Where the Nationals had planned to invade Cleveland today for a climatic appearance against the Service All-Stars in Municipal Stadium tonight, they found themselves instead returning chastened to their respective clubs, while the triumphant Americans headed for the West and additional glory.

Slugs Second Ball Over

Last night's game was over to all intents and purposes when Lou Boudreau, Cleveland's handsome young manager, laced the second ball pitched by Mort Cooper of St. Louis Cardinals into the deep left field stand. The Nationals from that instant must have felt it was hopeless, the crowd did, anyway.

Boudreau's blow must have unsettled Cooper, who had been Manager Leo Durocher's game-time choice to start instead of Claude Passeau of Chicago Cubs, his original selection. For the next American leaguer, Tommy Henrich, bumped a double into right centre, and after the next two men went down big Rudy York of Detroit Tigers caught a pitch late and lofted it into the upper deck in right field.

From there on, with the Americans boasting a three-run lead and their pitchers—Spud Chandler of the Yankees and big Al Benton of Detroit—setting the Nationals down inning after inning, there was never much doubt that the junior leaguers had won their seventh victory in 10 All-Star duels.

Mickey Owen, the Brooklyn catcher who failed to stop a third strike and was the goat of the 1941 World Series, saved his side from a shutout with a pinch home run off Benton in the eighth. He was the only National Leaguer to get past second base, and precious few of them got even that far as Chandler and Benton issued only six hits.

Durocher's big mistake, as it turned out, was in starting Cooper instead of either Johnny Vander Meer of Cincinnati Reds or Passeau. Both proved to be in dazzling form as they toiled in a cause already lost. Vandy, his southpaw curves fairly crackling, allowed only two singles in three innings he worked.

Silver Plate Gift To George Ralph

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — (ENS).—The Badminton Club entertained their coach and a former president, George Ralph, at a party given in his honour at the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Clarke, Crowe Bay, on Friday evening. A picnic supper was served and alter nearly thirty members of the club gathered around an open campfire where the main feature of the evening, a presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph, who will soon be leaving town as a result of the closing out of the Bank of Commerce branch, took place. Vice-President Donald Meyers made the presentation, a silver entree dish, and in his remarks expressed the club's appreciation to Mr. Ralph for his valuable contributions to it. He pointed out that Mr. Ralph had that time been one of its most enthusiastic members while serving as club three years ago and had since been instrumental in organizing the well on the executive. To Mrs. Ralph and her interest in the club also, Mr. Meyers paid tribute.

Millar Trophy Only July 23-25

TORONTO, July 7. — Canadian professional golfers, looking ahead to the 1942 Canadian Open, get an opportunity to tune-up their shot-making equipment in major league competition two weeks before the big Mississauga event.

Second to Seagram Event

Hugh Borthwick, secretary-treasurer of the Toronto and District professional Golfers' Association, last night announced that the 15th annual Millar Trophy tournament will be held at Islington Thursday, Friday and Saturday, July 23, 24 and 25.

The Millar competition, open to all Canadian pros, is regarded as second only to the Seagram-sponsored Canadian Open in importance and in money value in the Dominion. It carries with it the Canadian pro match play title.

Approximately $1,000 will be distributed in the Millar Trophy tourney at Islington. It's a three-day match play links test, with the 18-hole championship final Saturday afternoon, July 25.

A qualifying round will again be dispensed with this year. In its place will be substituted a consolation flight for players eliminated in the opening round. The consolation boys had such a big time of it in 1941, it was decided to continue the idea.

Sam Kerr Won It

Last year Sam Kerr, then Glen Mawr pro, scampered home with his first major golf title by defeating Lloyd Tucker of Kitchener Rockaway Club in the final. Stan Horne of Quebec and Bog Gray, Scarboro', were the semi-finalists. Gray was the titleholder in 1940.

A field of forty to fifty is expected for this year's Millar, which has developed into an attractive proposition for spectators in recent seasons.

PELAGIC FISH

Lucky Teter Killed

Indianapolis, July 7 (CP).

EARL (Lucky) TETER, 39, of Noblesville, Ind., widely known automobile stunt man, was killed last night in the last event of a holiday thrill show at the Indiana State Fair Grounds.

Teter was believed to have died instantly as his car hit the end of a ramp in a 160-foot leap through the air over a large transport truck.

Dr. A. A. Sullenger of city hospital said that he suffered a crushed chest and head injuries.

The show last night was to have been the last for the duration for Teter's stunt troupe, the "Hell Drivers," Art Wright, publicity director for the organization, said.

Cut Whirlaway's Weight 2 Pounds

BOSTON, July 7—(AP). — The apparently jinxed Whirlaway's chances of breaking Seabiscuit's all-time record earnings of $437,730 in his next start soared today when Charles J. McLennan, the Suffolk Downs racing secretary, gave Warren Wright's 4-year-old the comparatively comfortable top weight of 130 pounds for the eighth running of the $50,000-added Massachusetts Handicap here July 15.

Whirlaway, an upset loser to A. J. Sackett's Tola Rose while carrying 132 in Saturday's Butler at Empire City, drew only two pounds more than Louis Tufano's Market Wise, another of his under-rated 1942 conquerors.

The long-tailed Wright star needs only $27,244 to equal Seabiscuit's total and the winner's share of the Massachusetts probably will be around $48,000.

A total of 67 were nominated for the Massachusetts, and McLennan's imposts ranged all the way from Whirlaway's top burden to 92 pounds for A. C. Ernst's Aletern. It is likely that eleven or less will be started in the rich mile and a furlong event, including Emerson F. Woodward's Rounders, which will get in with 106 pounds.

Mayor Resents Criticism Of West-Enders

Resenting adverse criticism of members of the Council reported from residents of the west-end in connection with Wartime Housing's choice of the Hatton property as a new site for temporary houses, Mayor Hamilton said at last night's meeting of the Council that he had never been consulted by the company about any of the locations the company had selected as community centres.

"There is some feeling in the west-end," said His Worship, "and these is a lot of talk going on, blaming certain members of this Council for the company's decision to build houses in that section. It was undeserved by the Council. We had nothing to do with it.

I was never consulted in any way by Wartime Housing as to the location of any of the sites they have chosen, and I think it is unfair that there should be criticism of any member of the Council, blaming them for any action Wartime Housing has taken."

Alderman Gordon interposed the comment that the Housing Company had gone over the Hatton ground and decided on it a month before the west-end petition reached the Council. He added that he had verified his statement by enquiry at the registry office.

"There is a lot of talk, too, about some of the west-end people," said Alderman Gordon, "and it is just as complimentary as what they are letting loose."

Mayor Hamilton stated that he had no personal feeling in regard to the Housing Company's course. "This criticism is entirely unjustified."

"If they'd come out into the open and tell us they don't want 1,500 mechanics to come here, we'd all know who they are," Alderman Gordon commented.

Mayor Hamilton said he had been concerned about the industrial problems of homes for so many men engaged in essential war work.

Alderman Glover said he had heard no rumors or reports. "I agree with Mayor Hamilton that it is unfair to try to blame the Council when Kent Hamilton of Wartime Housing declared that he was wholly responsible for the selection of the Hatton site. I was one who tried to get the company to select the property further south. I am sorry that there should be any feeling in this matter."

Mayor Hamilton's defence of the Council followed receipt of a letter from Kent Hamilton of Wartime Housing, acknowledging the Council's suggestion of four other properties and its recommendation that any of them be chosen instead of the Hatton acres for the next housing project.

"We do not think the reasons advocated for opposing this location are sufficient to justify a change on our part," was one of the observations in the Hamilton reply. He wrote that the company had already decided on the Hatton site, and had expressed its willingness to use the property west of High street and north of the old Sandstone Brick location if it were needed.

Alderman Glover's remarks concluded the discussion.

Hun Swarms

The Germans obviously sought to drive a wedge between Russian forces of the south and centre. The campaign apparently was aimed at eventual isolation of the oil-rich Caucasus.

"During July 6 our troops waged fierce battles west of Voronnezh and southwest of Stari Oskol," the Soviet information bureau reported "Our troops evacuated a number of population places."

Voronezh is a manufacturing and mill city of 212,000 on the Moscow-Rostov railway about 10 miles east of the Don. Situated in a low plains region, it is a port on the Voronezh river, a tributary of the Don. Stari Oskol lies 65 miles to the southwest.

The fact the communique listed the area "west of Voronezh" rather than that west of the Don as a battleground implied that the Germans, striking from the west bank, had succeeded in landing in force on the east.

Heavies Do Good Work

Russia's heaviest tanks, the "KV" type, were reported earlier to have wiped out a Nazi bridgehead at a strategic waterline, otherwise unidentified.

Soviet tank crews were credited with annihilating more than 1,000 Germans west of Voronezh in a night engagement and killing 800 others and destroying more than 100 tanks in four days of fighting at a village.

"Assisting Red Army units, guerillas of the Kursk area wrecked a German troop train," the information bureau said. "Thirty cars and the locomotive were smashed. Many enemy officers and men perished under the debris."

About 70 German tanks were listed among material destroyed by Russian fliers in operations over the front Sunday.

Two attacks by German armored detachments and infantry against Soviet positions on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow, where feeler thrusts have been executed for several weeks, cost th invaders 900 dead, 20 tanks, five armored cars and field guns, the Russians announced.

The Germans succeeded in pressing back Soviet forces in the sector, it was said, but they were dislodged by counter attacks.

"In two days,' 'the information bureau added, "our troops operating in a sector of the Kalinin front destroyed 25 German tanks and annihilated over 2,000 enemy officers and men."

A White Russian guerilla detachment operating in the region of Vitebsk, 290 miles west of Moscow, wrecked two invasion troop trains, killing more than 200 men.

Red Army Gunners Pepper A German Position

Fighting is bitter on the southern Russian front again as the German armies try to breach Red defences which guard the Caucasus oil, coveted by Hitler's war machine. Offensives and counter-offensives keep things hot and here Red army infantry, with artillery support, seeks to dislodge the Germans from a Russian village. Bursting shells from vicinity of the buildings attest to the Russian gunners' marksmanship.

about during the last war a policy which caused such a deep wound in the side of Canada that after 25 years it has not yet healed," Mr. Michaud said.

"So long as our Prime Minister continues to follow such a policy of prudence I shall give him my full support," the Minister declared.

In time of crisis a government must have full and unlimited authority to work for the security of the nation, he saaid, "and that is why I am supporting this bill."

20 P.C Understand French.

Mr. Michaud spoke in English although, he said, he would prefer to speak in the Fresch language which was his moter tongue. But e realized that only about 30 per cent. of the members would understand his French while virtually every member would understand his English.

But there were many speeches in French including that of J. A. Bonnier (Lib. Montreal-St. Henri) who opposed the bill.

Hon. Grote Stirling (Con. Yale) supported the measure without qualification, and argued that most of the government's major moves were made at the insistence of the Conservative Opposition ond other bodies.

Mr. Stirling was unable to finish due to the 40 minute rule. It was so strictly applied that it ended his speech in mid-sentence.

Angus McInsis (C.C.F. Vancouver East) saiad his party opposed the bill and one reason was that all regulations set up under the Act should be contained in the bill itself. He claimed these regulations had been "scandalously misused."

F. C. Whitman (Lib. Montreal-Mount Royal) spoke in favor of the bill, declaring that thé government should have such powers as the bill conferred and should have had them from the beginning of te war.

Elie Bertrand (Lib. Prescott) Sarto Fourner (Lib. Montreal-Maisonneuve-Rosemcst), J. K. L. Laflamme (Lib. Montmagsy-L'Islet), J. Fontaine (Lib. Megantic-Frontenac), Liguori Lacombe (Con. Laval-Two Mountains) and J. Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouta), spoke against the bill and against conscription.

T. P. Healy (Lib. Montreal-St. Ann), representisg a Montreal riding which turned in a 'yes' vote in the plebiscite, supported the bill.

Living Costs Up

Board said the increase in June was "very largely caused by increases in the price of beef" and brought the index for the first time to more than a full point above its level just prior to the start of the price ceiling.

The official index for November 1, 1941, was 116.3, and the price ceiling came into effect December 1, 1941.

The Board in its statement said: "The present season is that in which prices normally reach the high point of the year. Recognizing this normal seasonal variation in prices the board has permitted such things as beef, lamb and potatoes to rise in price, but they will decline again in the late summer and autumn.

"It is quite possible that the July 1 figure, which will be available early in August, will be slightly higher than the June 1 figure just announced. In August or September months the cost of living will again decline as meats and vegetables become more plentiful and their prices follow their normal seasonal curve."

In reporting the increase during May the Bureau of Statistics said an increase in the food index from 123.4 to 126.2 was responsible. There was an appreciable increase in beef prices and other meats also were higher. Eggs and potatoes advanced while cheese and lard declined.

The fuel index dropped from 112.9 to 112.6 as a result of lower coal prices, and home furnishings and serices were down fractionally from 118 to 117.9. No change was recorded in rentals, clothing and miscellaneous items.

CHUNGKING, July 7 (Tuesday)—(AP)—Gen. Chang Kai-Shek marked the start of a sixth year of war with Japan to-day with a broadcast in which he declared that "by the end of this winter Japan's strength will be only one-tenth of that of the Allies."

He thanked the United Nations for their unfailing concern and collaboration and declared Japan, plunging deeper and deeper into the morass of Chinese resistance, "now is beyond recovery."

Find Nazi Spy Saturday Night In Wrecked Car

KINGSTON, N.Y., July 7 (AP).—Police held today on a charge of carrying weapons without a license a German alien, Fritz Paul Helbig, 39, of Hartford, Conn., who was found in a wrecked automobile Saturday night with luggage containing an unregistered Spanish-made automatic pistol and a United States army uniform.

Passing motorists found Helbig unconscious behind the wheel of an automobile that had crashed into a culvert near High Falls, and took him to hospital here. Internes became suspicious on opening his luggage and called police.

Helbig told officer he was a baker en route to Monticello to find work. His travel permit, required of registered aliens, expired on April 14. He said he intended to give the uniforms to a friend entering the army, police reported after questioning him.

Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in New York City said agents of the New Haven, Conn., office are investigating Helbig's activities in connection with other cases. They declined to comment on Helbig's arrest.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

EFFECT OF SCARCITY

"I don't think we need a resolution about this," Mayor Hamilton remarked Monday night as the committee adopted a motion by Alderman M. Swanston directing A. G. Metheral, plumbing inspector, not to enforce any sections of the plumbing bylaw which were contrary to new requirements of Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

$1,500 FOR BAND INSTRUMENTS

Contributions from the city council and the Civic War Council amounting to $1,500 have been forwarded to Colonel John A. Dewart, officer commanding the reserve battalion of the Prince of Wales for the purchase of band instruments. The council gave $1,000 for this purpose and the local women who carry on salvage operations wrote a cheque for $500.

MATRON WAS THERE

In a story appearing in Monday's paper concerning four children left in a car at the rear of the Grand Hotel, it was pointed out that the police matron was ill at her home at the time. It has since been learned that despite her illness, the matron, Mrs. L. L. Maguire, did accompany the police officer to the scene in the police car, and stayed until the mother of the children returned.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS

Max Wilson, a highway worker on No. 28 north of Apsley, was seriously injured some time ago, when a truck crushed him against an air compressor, fracturing his pelvis. He was taken from St. Joseph's Hospital to the Red Cross Outpost Hospital at Apsley on Saturday and is making a good recovery. Dr. J. C. Smith is attending him.

SAVED BLUE SERGE

Appreciation of the city's action in declining to adhere to the custom of buying double-breasted coats for the firemen this year was expressed in a letter to the council Monday night by H. R. Cohen, administrator of fine clothing for Wartime Prices and Trade Board. "I wish to assure you that this sort of saving is earnestly desired, and is a tangible contribution in the conservation of much needed materials".

OVER-ANXIOUS

Reports from the main street reveal that five maskinonge were lost in Little Lake over the week-end. In every instance the muskies broke the fishing lines when they got close to the boat, and it would appear the fishermen were too anxious to get the muskies out of the water. Russ Wildman lost a dandy at Katchawanooka Lake. He had it in the boat, but could not reach the knock-out club, so removed the hooks. Just as soon as he did this the muskie gave a flip and leaped back into the water.

HELP, POLICE.

The arm of the law has the power to frighten more than evil doers as one embarrassed policeman found out Monday. A small boy was riding along Charlotte street on his tricycle when he managed to unseat himself on the sidewalk. While he was deciding if his hurts were worth producing a howl for, a friendly policeman came along and started to help the boy up. The lad took one look at his rescuer and opened his mouth to its widest extent and let out a roar as loudly as he could muster. That's gratitude.

NAMES NOT CORRECT

In the Collegiate results published on Monday the names of Mildred Spicer passing from Grade 11C to Grade 12, and Joan Leslie, from Grade 10B to 11 were misspelled and the name of William Filer from Grade 10A to 11 was omitted.

SIGN BOARD DAMAGED

The week-end wind damaged the new sign board advertising Peterborough recently erected on No. 7 highway at Actinolite, Alderman Bradburn told the council Monday night. Part of the big sign was blown from its moorings. The chairman of the manufacturers committee was authorized to have repairs made.

NEW PLACE

The Orange parade to be held this year on Saturday will take place in Havelock, and it is expected that there will be about eight or nine hundred representatives from the county. Upon the return of the Peterborough group, they will parade from the C.P.R. station up the usual route of Water to Dublin and down George streets.

HE LOST THE MUSKIE

Chief Petty Officer Jimmy Paisley tried his hand at fishing on Monday, and he had excellent luck up to a point. He hooked a muskie weighing in the neighborhood of 12 pounds and played the fish in the proper manner. When he got it up to the side of the boat, he set the rod down and started to lift the muskie out of the water. The line snapped just below the sinker as soon as he started the lift and away sped the fish. He had been casting back of Lillico's body shop in the Otonabee river.

A BEAUTIFUL GARDEN

Members of the Horticultural Society report that Jack Smith's flower garden on Benson avenue is a picture of unusual beauty. The lilies, including Regals, Madonnas, Testaceum and Regal hybrids, are now at their best. This garden is being thrown open to the public on Wednesday afternoon and evening and on Thursday evening to aid the Peterborough British War Victims' Fund. The arrangements were made by the Horticultural Society, of which Mr. Smith is a member.

Brethren of Peterborough Lodge, No. 155, A.F. and A.M., will meet at the Funeral Home of A. Comstock and Sons, Water St., on Wednesday, July 8th, at 2.30 p.m. for the purpose of attending the funeral of our late V.W. Brother E. E. Lord.

Newsboys Stamp Sales $14,500

Making Remarkable Contribution To War Effort

The magnificent contribution which carrier girls and boys of the Examiner are making to the war effort in the sales of War Savings Stamps was recognized on Monday evening when all the carriers were guests at a banquet in the Empress Hotel. Leaders in War Savings Stamp work, including Gordon Matthews, R. E. Layfield, Ross Dobbin, Chris Hughes, Vincent Eastwood, all spoke briefly, lauding the work of the carriers. Awards to top ranking salesmen were made, and in the group ABOVE is shown Billy Edgar, LEFT, top salesman for May; Nancy Leith at CENTRE is top salesman for June, and Jack Harris, RIGHT, won a special prize for the best customer average. Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie, officer commanding the Fourth Brigade, R.C.A., made a presentation of one of the cups, and Gordon S. Matthews, chairman at the banquet, who is shown on the LEFT, also made a presentation. At TOP LEFT inset is George Clark, and at the RIGHT inset is Keith Orde, both of whom have sold more than $1,000 worth of stamps since the campaign started.

Examiner's Carrier Staff Is Honored At Banquet

Boys and girls of the Carrier staff of the Peterborough Examiner, dressed up in their best bib and tucker, sat down to celebrate their remarkable success as salesmen of War Savings Stamps at a dinner given by the City of Peterborough, Monday evening, at the Empress Hotel. These "little merchants" have reached a total to date of $14,500 and they have only been on the job for about eight months.

Gordon Matthews, joint chairman of the War Savings Committee, presided and started the ball rolling by having three letters of congratulation read. A letter from the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance, was read by Vincent Eastwood, and it said in part:

"Would you be kind enough to express to the carriers the very deep appreciation of myself and that of the government for the work which they have beeing doing. The success which has attended their efforts has been an inspiration to the National War Finance Organization and to no little degree has determined the Government's policy in making available the newscarrier plan to every daily newspaper in Canada. Their efforts are a very real contribution to the prosecution of the war effort."

Lt.-Col. Douglas Lawrie read a letter from Brig.-General Lope Armstrong, Commanding Officer of Military District No. 3, who praised the carriers for the fine work they have been accomplishing and urged them on to even greater efforts. Congratulations were received from Vice Admiral Percy Nellis, R.C.N., in a letter read by Bob Layfield.

Prize Winners

Bill Edgar, who was winner in May, was presented with the small gold cup and a pair of shoes donated by Neill's Shoe Store, Ross Dobbin, member of the National War Finance Committee, making the presentation. Bill took over the route from his cousin, Wilbur, and the two together have turned in $600 for stamps sold since the start of the campaign.

Winner of the monthly trophy for the second time, Nancy Leith received the large cup for June, repeating her effort of April, as top salesman. She was presented with a small gold cup, a pair of shoes from Neill's and a photograph from Cripps, by Chris Hughes, chairman of the sales committee. The total amount of money she has turned in to date is $996.75.

Two other boys receiving awards which were presented by Bert Cowan, circulation manager of the Examiner, were Weldon Fanning, who has sold $572 worth of stamps, about 2287 single stamps, was given a flashlight and Jack Harris who has sold $895 worth about 4,000 single stamps, received the same prize.

The guest artist for the evening was Victor Cremasco, who accompanied by his mother, sang "Beautiful Dreamer" and "Johnny Doughboy Found A Rose In Ireland" and led the boys and girls in a sing-song directed by Harry Northrop.

Former Winners

Former trophy winners were: Weldon Fanning, December, 1941, who has sold $572 in stamps; Donald Pagett, January, $681 in stamps, Keith Orde, March, $1,118.75 in stamps, and Nancy Leith, who won the award in June also received it for her fine work in April.

Runners-up and outstanding carriers were Carlotta Laing, who was second prize winner once, and Elva Laing, who was weekly prize winner several times, have turned in $470 for stamps, and Bertha Bradley, who has the smallest route in the city, but who has the very high sales rate of $7 per customer. Ray Douglas, the youngest carrier and Victor Doughty have both been very active, too.

New Idea

The idea of the carrier boys participating in the war effort was conceived about eight months ago by Mr. Cowan. This was the first time it had been done any place in the Dominion, and the youngsters have been such successful trail blazers that the idea is going to be carried out on a Dominion-wide scope.

H. L. Garner, general manager of the Examiner, praised the carriers and said that credit was due not to the Examiner staff, but to the boys and girls themselves. He said that when the idea was first discussed, he felt perfectly confident about taking it on, for the carriers of the Examiner have already established a very high reputation for themselves. The Bingham Trophy, the only time it ever came to Canada, and which can only be won once by any group, was won by the carriers a few years ago for being the best salesmen. The Examiner Boys' Harmonica Band which participated in a contest in the Canadian National Exhibition against many others from all over the province, was also successful.

Hard Work Ahead

Arthur J. Walwym, County organizer for the National War Finance Committee, urged continued effort in selling of stamps. The schools have been averaging only $300 a week from the sale of stamps, and the carriers have been turning in $450 a week. In recognition of this achievement, he continued, all the carriers are to be given white belts with places for money and stamps, and a red, white and blue button to wear. In addition, following the military pattern, there will be lietuenants, captains, and generals named all over the country and later on perhaps the generals from the whole of Canada will have the opportunity of meeting. Mr. Walwym said that the rating for the County of Peterborough would be up against a great many other counties and that the contribution that the Examiner carriers were making would in a large measure decide on the standing that would be made.

In addition to the musical numbers given by Victor Cremasco, the Northrop Trio played quiet dinner music all through the meal.

Bylaws Are Passes To Close Streets

Bylaws passed by the council Monday night gave final authority for parts of Albert and Hilliard Streets to be stopped up and closed.

Canadian General Electric Company is paying the city $1,231.51 for a strip of the north side of Albert Street four feet in width to provide more room for its main siding and thereby more safety for switching workers. Prices for parts of Hilliard Street upon which houses were built long ago were fixed at $110 to Archie Breault; $45 to John Shaw; $60 to Mrs. J. R. Taylor and $50 to Joseph Gaskell.

It was stated that there are 12' 4" difference between the occupational limits of their properties and the boundaries cited in the registered deeds. The extension of the four houses beyond the actual street line is on the south side of the street connecting George and Water streets at the extreme north end of the city, at the old Allison store corner.

At the opening of the meeting Monday night Mayor Hamilton was required by statute to call out to the empty public gallery inviting any objections to the "stopping up" of these two streets, a formality that takes nothing for granted, not even the empty benches and the obvious fact that no one was present to protest or approve.

Canadians Are Urged To Guard Certificates

The Unemployment Insurance Commission would like to impress on people the necessity of guarding their new certificate cards bearing the number of their unemployment insurance book, William Nellis said to-day.

Already a number of cases have come to light where these cards have been lost and that makes it difficult or impossible to check on their book number, and while eventually a new book may be issued, the person in question will not receive credit for anything that has been paiad in previously.

"It is a simple matter," Mr. Meil's said, "to carry this little card along with your registration card, and it should be valued in the same way as a bank book, because whether it is realized or not, it is money in the bank."

Fairview Total Now $185 For War Victims

Starting in May last year, with a social held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown of Fairview, a group of loyal citizens known as the Fairview war workers commenced working as a group to help the victims of air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, and with the completion of their 7th effort on behalf of the fund have raised their total to the splendid amount of $185.25 with the $60 that is reported in this day's list of receipts for the fund.

Their latest effort which culminated with a garden party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Lockington at Nassau on June 30, was responsible for the last named amount, and was both financially and in every other way the finest they have sponsored to date on behalf of the fund.

This included a draw for two log cabin quilts made by a lady over 85 years of age, and donated to the group by her niece, Miss Agnes Fitzgerald of R.R. No. 4, Peterborough. These were won by R. P. Wellman of London street and Mrs. John Boyce of R.R. No. 4, Peterborough.

For the garden party, music was supplied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Harrison of the city's filtration plant and Mr. Ralph Beavis of the Lakefield Road, while the genial host kept the crowd in a merry mood with his amiable leadership in community singing, etc. There were games of bingo for prizes which had been donated by the Quaker Oats Co. Ltd., and the Ovaltine Co. Ltd. while a fish pond was operated for the benfeit of the younger folk, and a booth for the sale of candy and soft drinks. Fred Brown led in a vote of thanks to the committee in charge of the event and Mrs. W. Fowler who has made a most efficient secretary for the group, and Clarence Mann voiced the thanks and appreciation of all to Mr. and Mrs. Lockington for the use of their grounds to hold this effort, in which all united to make such successful results in the cause of helping the people of Britain.

A short while ago this column reported a donation from the pupils of St. Peter's School which was raised by the collection of salvage. In today's list there appears another contribution of $2.50 which comes from the boys of Grade 3 at the same school. Their class room is located in the annex, and they had a salvage drive of their own which resulted in such proportionate good results as independent from the main school, for which they too deserve a word of commendation in their efforts to help along both the war effort and the victims of air raids in Britain. The personal touch to the list of receipts is maintained by a $2.00 gift from J. D. whose names has manye times appeared in former lists.

Lovely Garden Exhibit

One of the city's most beautiful flower gardens is being opened to public view this Wednesday afternoon and evening and Thursday evening by Jack Smith at 150 Benson avenue, sponsored by the Peterborough Horticultural Society on behalf of the fund. All people love beautiful flowers, the work of an Almighty Hand, they speak of the resurrection and a life to come holding out the promise of a future life, and here in this garden they are to be seen in profusion, nurtured with care by one whose hobby has always been to produce the fines if this type of horticulture with very evident success. The addition of a fine lily pool and rock garden has materially enhanced the beauty of this spot where such varieties as Madonna, Testaceum, Crows Hybrid, Regal, Shelbourne Hybrids, Sunset, Wilsoni, Centifolium and other Lilies are now in bloom and also a profusion of Hybrid Tea and Polyantha Roses ase well as numerous well known perennials. The public is most cordially invited to visit this beauty spot, for which there is no admission charge, but they may leave an offering for the fund in a box specially there for the occasion. Remember the day and time, this Wednesday afternoon and evening and the day following in the evening.

Veteran Furrier Thomas Barrie Dies 76th Year

Thomas Barrie, president of Barrie's Limited, for many years one of the most widely known furriers in Canada, died this morning at his residence, 757 Water street, in his seventy-sixth year.

Born in Otonabee Township, Mr. Barrie began his business career in Peterborough with the J. T. Fairweather Company, another name that was long prominent in the retail fur trade of this province.

The Fairweather store was located at the northwest corner of George and Simcoe streets in the old building upon which the J. C. Turnbull departmental store was erected in 1913-14. It is now the premises of Zellers Limited.

Older citizens, contemporaries of Mr. Barrie, remember him as one of the salesmen of Fairweathers, at that time probably the most attractive retail stores in Peterborough. It featured the selling of fur garments, and from that association Mr. Barrie found direction into his life's work. In 1900 he acquired the Fairweather business and eventually confined his activities entirely to the manufacture and selling of furs, dispensing with several other smaller departments. The next fifteen years as proprietor resulted in steady expansion of Mr. Barrie's interests, and in 1915 the company of which he was then the head erected the building on the east side of George street, south of Charlotte street, which eventually became the centre and headquarters of a chain of seven stores operated by Barrie's Limited. They were located in Vancouver, Regina, Edmonton, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Toronto and Peterborough.

In all those expansive activities, virtually on a national basis, Thomas Barrie reached the height of his business career. His abilities and enterprise found fulfillment in the multiple outlets he had established across Canada.

Serious Illness

About eight or nine years ago Mr. Barrie suffered a serious illness from which his recovery seemed for a time to be unlikely. However, he gradually regained health to a large extent, enabling him to return again to the active engagement in his company's affairs, which during the depression years had gradually abandoned its western connections.

The late Mr. Barrie was a life member of the Rotary Club and of the Y.M.C.A. Board. In his middle years he was deeply interested in the community activities of his home city. He was a president of the Chamber of Commerce and a promoter of the Retail Merchants' Association and a devoted member of Trinity United Church. His outlook on life was marked by conviction and sincerity, partly reflected at one time by personal support he gave to local temperance effort. And in these later years he had reached the position of one of the few surviving elders of Peterborough's business community of that long period of prosperity from 1900 to 1929, highly esteemed by many friends, and also by the general public whom he had known through the years in the sustained course of business.

Mr. Barrie is survived by his wife, the former Annie Brundrette, and his sister, Mrs. (Dr.) M. A. Morrison. The funeral will take place Wednesday at 3.30 p.m. from his residence to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. Dr. E. W. Young will conduct the service.

A Yen For Bright Lights

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two young women in our early twenties who have good-salaried positions in our small home town. We have worked in this town since graduation. While we like our work, there is no opportunity for advancement in our jobs, or for social contacts with eligible men our own age who have similar interests. Our families are not financially dependent upon us.

Would you advise us to leave our secure jobs and our good homes in order to seek better jobs and more fruitful social and intellectal contacts in a large city? Shouldn't there be more to life than the monotony of earning a livelihood?

TWO PERPLEXED GIRLS.

ANSWER: Unless we happen to be geniuses there isn't much to life for any of us beyond earning a livelihood and while this may be monotonous so is the necessity of eating and having a roof above our heads and clothes to cover us. Beyond that we get out of our work whatever we put into it—interest, excitement, amusement, or boredom. It is up to us whether we get thrills or yawns out of our jobs.

I wish that I could say something to you two small-town girls that would make you realize how much better off you are with your good steady jobs than you would be if you threw them up and went to the city to seek your fortune. You have good comfortable homes, with plenty of good food to eat, a nice room of your own; you are people of consequence in your community; you have never been hungry, or cold, or lonely in your life. Your employers take a personal interest in you. You have never just been a cog in a machine. You have plenty of dates with the boys.

If you go to the city you will wear your shoes out going from employment agency to employment agency seeking a job and when you find one it will probably pay less than you get now. For the first time you will find out what it costs just to exist, and when your home wardrobe wears out you will be shabby. You will nearly die of loneliness and you will have no possible chance of meeting the eligible men you dream will fall in love with you and ask you to marry them.

No girls have such poor chances of making good marriages as the business girls in a city, because it costs so much to live that poor men cannot afford to marry before they are middle-aged. Nor do any girls live a drearier life than those who are forced to live in a squalid little apartment where they are crowded to death and where, after their long, hard day's work, they have to cook their own meals.

If you have a poor job at home, stick to it and thank God for your luck.

Go With Your Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: I am married to a wonderful husband and have no children. A few weeks ago he had to go out of town to work and live until the job is over. My problem is this: The town is full of women getting money from men who work there and who are earning big wages. Should I go and be with him or stay where I am?

WORRIED.

ANSWER: Go by all means. Your husband will need your protection against the gold-diggers. Many men, who are domestic by nature and who are used to a comfortable home and dependent upon their wives for companionship, are easily inveigled into entangling alliances with women when they are separated from their wives. They are victims of sheer loneliness, but it breaks up their lives just the same.

Teach Yourself to Play the Piano Well

Music An Entree To Social Life

Brilliant company, and you one of the stars! Playing the piano is one of the best ways for a girl to make friends, often nicer friends.

And they can't guess how you learned to play—perhaps teaching yourself the quick way, with a keyboard chart! It's true; with such a chart you can learn to play delightfully, without spending many laborious hours learning notes and keys.

The chart exactly matches the main part of the keyboard and you stand it up just behind the real piano keys, as our sketch shows. With each key is given its music staff note and a number; so, in starting to play, you have only to glance from paper note and key to real key below.

For your copy of "Quick Course in Playing" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of instruction book.

"The Authority on Authorities"

A TIME FOR NO HURRY

POSITIVE responses to opening game-guarantee suit bids of two are so unusual that many players have not acquired facility in handling the situation after one has been made. Knowing that, with a bit of real strength opposite the big opening hand, the side is in the slam zone, many players feel it is incumbent upon them to jump then into whatever final contract seems to be makable, or else content themselves with using some kind of ace-showing methods. They seem to forget that more gradual action may be necessary to find the preferred suit or No Trumps.

The bidding given in the first table is what actually occurred on this deal in a rubber game. West led his heart 6, and South's goose was cooked. Realizing he had to lose the lead once, in diamonds, and hence required two heart stoppers, it was obligatory to try the finesse of the heart Q, which, of course, failed.

Both North and South were to blame for the debacle, though each blamed the other. North's correct second bid was as given in the second table, 4-Diamonds. But, even with North rebidding at 3-No Trumps, South should then have bid 4-Spades to show he had exactly three cards of the suit. His failure to support spades the first time would make it clear he did not have four, or enough to support a four-carder adequately.

There is no way to beat 6-Spades on the deal, unless North misplays the hand, as a successful finesse of clubs makes it possible to discard the heart Q.

How should North and South show their exact suit lengths to each other on this misfit deal, and thus land in the ideal contract?

Officer, Bandit Are Slain In Duel

CHICAGO, July 7 — (AP).—Detective Walter Storm, 36, off duty, and an ex-convict identified as Eugene Guzy, shot and killed each other in a brief gun battle in a northwest side tavern-liquor store early to-day.

Storm immediately fired at the robbers, striking Guzy four times. The wounded bandit, however, turned his fire on the officer, shooting him in the head and shoulder. He died as he arrived at a hospital. Guzy on parole from Joliet penitentiary, lay dead on the floor of the tavern. His three companions escaped.

William Allan Elected "Chief" At Re-union Of Meiklejohn Clan

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7. — (ENS). — Eighty-four descendants of the late William Meiklejohn and Isabella Kerr, who settled on the Rawdon Boundary over a century ago, held their second annual reunion at the O'Sullivan tourist resort, Crowe River Bridge on Wednesday. Particularly represented at this year's affair, was the older generation in the persons of George Meiklejohn, Mrs. Peter Meiklejohn, Mrs. Peter Meiklejohn, Mrs. Hiram Barnum, Mrs. James Meiklejohn, all of whom are grandchildren of the original settlers. However considerable regret was expressed at the absence of Andrw Meiklejohn, now in his 95th year, and the oldest living member of the family.

Also taking its toll on attendance was the war with several of the younger members of the family either in training or overseas, while the heavy hay harvest and conditions in general contributed in cutting down the total from last year.

With ideal weather an even 72 sat down for dinner at the tables beneath the cedars, and a dozen other arrived later. During the afternoon the older members enjoyed a real visit, while the children turned their attention to swimming. Those attending from a distance were: Miss Margaret Meiklejohn, Edmonton George Meiklejohn and family of Tweed, Stuart Meiklejohn and family of Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. Johnston from South Monaghan.

The youngest member present was Sandra, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grenville Meiklejohn, a new arrival since last year. A family record, recently started by the secretary, created much interest, and he announced his intention of having completed next year.

Interesting Meeting

The W.I. had a business session on Thursday afternoon when the regular meeting of the Society was held in the Town Hall. Mrs. Earl Braithwaite was hostess, and Mrs. Earl Waldie, president, was in the chair, and with her were vice-president Mrs. Harold Taylor, and secretary-treasurer Mrs. C. Thackeray.

The new programs were distributed and a few moments spent in studying them.

Mrs. J. W. Pacey reported she and her committee had made sixty pounds of strawberry jam, the society's contribution to the Red Cross. The committee assisting Mrs. Pacey included Mrs. C. Braithwaite, Mrs. Tanny Blodgett, Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite and Mrs. Earl Thackeray.

There were letters of thanks for socks read from Frank and Neil Mouncey, Melville George and Rae Timlin.

The matter of filling ditty bags was taken up and several members volunteered to knit the wool goods. Miss Ruby Blodgett was named in charge of wool.

The financial statement showed $20.33 on hand.

It was decided to offer two prizes at Roseneath Fair for first aid kits, assembled under Red Cross instructions, to the W.I. members who studied the health course in 1941.

It was decided to observe the 35th anniversary of the organization on the afternoon of August 6. Many former members will thus have an opportunity of meeting together.

It was decided at regular meetings that refreshments be limited to sandwiches and tea.

Two excellent papers were presented; first, "Canadian Industries" by Mrs. Thackeray, and "Women in the Federation of Agriculture" by Mrs. E. Timlin.

Mrs. Thackeray spoke of two Canadian Industries, rubber and sugar. The sources of rubber, its every day use in Canadian industry, the processing of reclaimed rubber and manufacture of synthetic rubber were related.

From sugar beet to sugar bowl, the second part of Mrs. Thackeray's talk, revealed the sugar beet was first used in the 19th century and used in Quebec in 1881.

A description of development, cultivation, harvesting and final manufacture of the beet into sugar were told by Mrs. Thackeray.

Mrs. Timlin spoke of the importance of the contribution women had made, and were making to "The Federation of Agriculture."

Aureen Brown recited "Babes and Kittens" and Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite read a story "Road to Success." Refreshments were served by the hostess.

School Purchased $609 In Stamps

The children of Mather's School, S.S. No. 7, Otonabee, have been carrying on a very successful war effort for some time. The total raised in three years amounts to $718.460 and there are only thirty children in the school. This is a mark that larger schools might aim at with pride.

Of that $718.40, 97.74 was donated to the Senior and Junior Red Cross Societies, and $11.10 to the British War Victims Fund. Their crowning achievement was the purchase of $609.57 in War Savings Stamps.

For the past year, 1941-1942, War Savings Stamps alone have been handled, and the total amount reached has bnee $260.07. This is the spirit that means defeat for Hitler.

HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A. or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore, tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. —(Advt.)

Did Not Tip Hun Oumansky Says Of Red Raid Plot

MOSCOW, July 6 — (AP). — Tass, Russian news agency, circulated abroad to-day a denial by Constantine Oumansky, former Ambassador to the United States, that he had passed on to the German Charge d'Affaires in Washington, advance information from the State Department on Germany's plans to attack the Soviet Union.

The statement circulated by Tass follows:

'The American magazine Ladies' Home Journal has published an article the authors of which allege that while I was Soviet Ambassador to the United States I communicated to the en German Charge d'Affaires in Washington the contents of a statement made to me early in 1941 by Mr. Sumner Welles to the effect that, according to information at the disposal of the American Government, Germany was preparing to attack the Soviet Union.

"Witnout going into some other incorrect statements contained in the article in question I declare that there is, of course, not a shadow of truth in the allegations that I communicated that statement of Mr. Sumner Welles to anybody but my Government.

"I am disgusted by this calumny. I think, though, that there are nowadays few credulous people in the United States who would believe such malicious fabrications so widely circulated in days past with the purpose of hindering that better mutual understanding which now has been reached between our two countries."

Canuck Night Squadron Downs Four

Hit Germans Hard As They Bomb Middlesbrough Area

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 8—(CP Cable). — Four enemy raiders shot down over England's northeast coast last night were credited to an R.C.A.F. night fighter squadron in its most suc-:ful night's operation since its inception.

Actually, though, only one Canadian, Po, George Arthur Lawrence, 2: of Brandon, Man., tallied a kill, as the other Nazis were brought down by Wing Cmdr. D. G. Morris, D.F.C., a South African and R.A.F. members of this squadron.

It was the second victory for Lawrence when he got the Nazi raider in his gunsights. The night of April 28 he downed a Junkers 88.

Lawrence sighted the target and manoeuvred for closer range, he told officers at his home drome. He managed to wo: his twin-engined Beaufighter to within close range before launching a stern attack.

"I fired two short bursts," the Brandon flier said.

"After the second attack I saw a flash from the enemy's starboard engine. The :ircraft went into a flat spin from a height of 8,000 feet and still was spinning when I lost sight of it."

The night's operations brought the total bag of the squadron to a dozen enemy planes destroyed.

Layman Writes Battlefront For The Press

(Editor's Note.—Associated Press Middle East war correspondents thought they might be getting too professional to please their public. So they sent a layman, Theodore A. Morde of New Bedford, Mass., to the Front. Morde is a 30-year-old traveller who has shipped on freighters to all parts of the world. He toured Spain during the Civil War there. Below is his story of his first trip to the Egyptian Front.)

Written for The Associated Press
By THEODORE A. MORDE.

CAIRO, July 8.—(AP).—I drove westward from Alexandria to the desert front.

When trucks passed by with prisoners, the Tommies' favorite joke with the Italians was to point toward the sky and pretend that Axis planes were overhead. The prisoners would cower on the bottom of the trucks and come up again after hearing the laughter of their guards.

Soon the sound of artillery fire caused me to halt and ask Tommies standing unconcernedly by how far it was to battle.

They pointed to a ridge a mile ahead: "That's El Alamein."

Starting off again, I had scarcely reached the ridge when three shells plunked down within a quarter mile of the car.

It was late afternoon and I was wondering where to spend the night when I spotted a scattered group of field ambulances. A South African major in charge invited me to pass the night with his boys. He told me his company had retired to this position only a few hours previously.

An Italian Trick

As the evening pased, one by one stories of bravery and hardships came out. At least two of the men had slipped away after being "in the bag." One was a 30-year-old captain who told how the Italians used water, alocated to prisoners, to wash in front of their captives who had had nothing to drink for 24 hours or more.

The next morning I drove forward to a dressing station where I found a wounded British tank gunner His tank and a German tank had both been disabled in fighting. He leaped from the turret and ran toward the German tank, hurling a hand grenade. It bounced off and did not explode. He seized the grenade and held it against the side of the tank until it exploded. He was blown clear, but lost right his arm and suffered cuts and burns. The doctors said he would recover.

Tipping Gov't. Claims Chalboult

MONTREAL, July 8.— (CP). — Rene Chalout Liberal member of the Quebec Legislature for Lotbiniere, testified to-day, at the third day of his trial on charges laid under Defence of Canada Regulations, that the only purpose of the address he delivered here May 15 was to ask the Federal government "not to impose conscription for overseas and not to violate its promise to the people of the province of Quebec..

When questioned by Defence Counsel Fernand Choquette, Mr Chalout said thta he was convinced at the time that conscription for overseas would bring about dangerous reactions in Quebec, and that his rpeech was a warsing to the government. "I wanted to warn the government," he said, "that the riots which took place in 1917 when conscription was passed would be repeated on a possibly larger scale.'

Mr. Cralout said that the whole

Another Vote Before Conscription

King To Ask House For Confidence Prior To Any Action

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 8.—(CP).—Prime Minister Mackenzie King will ask the House of Commons for a vote of confidence before and if he imposes conscription for service overseas.

He gave the House this assurance last night in a speech closing debate on the motion for second reading of Bill 80 which empowers the Government to impose unlimited conscription by proclamation. The motion was carried 158 to 54.

Mr. King said he would not seek a vote of confidence on unlimited conscription if that proved necessary, but he would call Parliament for that purpose if it should be in recess when the emergency arose.

Mr. King said that there would be no major debate on conscription after Bill 80 is enacted, but if he asks for a vote of confidence as promised he intimated that brief time would be allowed for discussion according to the practice in the British Parliament.

Up to the present conscription for service overseas had not proved necessary, Mr. King said. But if it became necessary, after passage of Bill 80, he would make a reference to Parliament.

This decision was not a change in policy, but was in keeping with his previous statements on this question.

A motion for a vote of confidence was an entirely different thing from a full dress debate on a Government measure.

Only Sound Course

The Prime Minister said he believed the present government policy was the only sound one.

The power to conscript wealth would remain unrestricted and the 1942-43 budget should serve to convince the House and Canadians generally of the government's readiness to conscript wealth so as to distribute the burden of the war effort as equitably as possible.

In no case would we wish to countenance a second debate on conscription for overseas. The bill did not commit the government to conscription for overseas but it did place it within the discretion of the government to impose such conscription if it became necessary.

If the administration deemed the step necessary it was to be presumed it would be taken to meet a situation permitting of little delay

Swoop From Crimea

LONDON, July 8—(CP).—The Germans may attempt a diversionary landing upon the Caucasian front from the Crimea, but this would be a difficult operation because of the rugged shore line and potential Russian fleet action, an authoritative British source said today.

Soviet warships removed from Sevastopol are now at either Novorossisk or Batun, he said. Both ports were reported well defended. Novorossisk is said to be the better naval base but is only about 80 miles southeast of the Nazi-occupied air fields of Kerch, while Batum is 350 miles.

Steady Air Raids Keep Deaths Mounting In UK

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—Although recent German raids on Britain have not been on the scale of the heaviest blitzes of September, 1940 and April, 1941, the British people are still taking punishment from the air.

Only 57 nights in the first six months of 1942 were free of German raiders. In April, 1942, casualty figures shot up to 938 killed and 998 injured. The June statistics have not yet been issued, as the Ministry of Home Security must wait the outcome in cases where injuries are serious and the victims may be shifted from the injured to the killed column.

Indications are that the figures for June—which will include the casualties in raids on Canterbury, Weston-Super-Mare, Norwich and Southampton—will be on about the same level as those for May.

The upswing in the last three months is the result of Hitler's much vaunted "Baedeker" raids. Under the "Baedeker" schedule, Exeter was attacked on April 23 and 24 and on May 4; Bath on April 25 and 26; Norwich on April 27; York on April 29 and Canterbury on June 1 and 6.

One June 28 the Germans shifted their attention from historical beauty spots to a crowded seaside resort and attacked Weston-Super-Mare.

Bath Suffers Badly

Bath and Exeter both suffered special hardship under the Nazi attacks. Bath, a retreat for the ill and aged in peacetime, was not geared to meet the air onslaught. Exeter, although better prepared to face trouble, had its hands overfull

Heavy Malta Raids Upon Convoys Headed For Rommel

CAIRO, July 8.—(AP)—Intensive British air blows and harrying patrol stabs against the Axis forces, both aimed at wearing down the enemy's power in the still undecided battle at the threshold of the Nile, were announced by British headquarters today.

Still however, there were no major attacks on either side and both forces evidently were stabbing to test the opposition and saving their heavy punches for a decisive battle that might be joined at any time.

A British headquarters bulletin said patrols operating near the coastal end of the line destroyed some Axis tanks yesterday and took a few prisoners while the R.A.F. again pounded Tobruk and started "violent explosions and fires" with direct hits on enemy machines, gun nets and oil stores in the battle area.

Three enemy planes were shot down on the North African front and nine more over Malta. The R.A.F. lost eight planes but six of their pilots were saved.

Egypt Preparing

Behind the lines, the Egyptian Government put its military and civil defences in readiness for any emergency.

Both Desert armies were established firmly on their corridor lines between the Mediterranean and Qattara Depression in the El Alamein area, both closely concealing when or how they would try to break the stalemated situation.

In the last 48 hours the Germans have withdrawn from the southern end of the line, in effect turning a corner at the inland anchor and establishing a sidewall.

British headquarters regarded this as a security measure against a flank attack, but there was no indication whether it was because Field Marshal Edwin Rommel was organizing a new attempt to burst the bottleneck or because he had strength left only to hold on.

(Stockholm newspaper dispatches from Berlin indicated uneasiness in the Nazi capital over Rommel's position. One correspondent reported he was in difficulty because his exhausted troops faced Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's fresh reinforcements.

Wells Of Fish Oil Even Nazis Can't Stomach All British Left Axis To Drink In Libya

CAIRO, July 8—(AP).—Fish water, so unpalatable that no stomach can stand it, was all that the British army left behind for the Germans to drink, on the western desert.

This was the result of fish oil methodically poured into the wells at all oases.

Although German engineers no doubt have cleansed the wells by now and made the water drinkable, it will keep its lingering taste of fish for months.

Because water sources on the desert, although scarce, are virtually indestructible, this method has supplanted former efforts to blow up the wells. Where a well is blasted the enemy can get palatable water within 24 hours by digging a new one nearby.

5 m.p.h. Too Fast In Kingston Traffic Lands Escaped Trio Back In Cells

KINGSTON, Ont., July 8—(CP).—All three convicts who escaped from the Kingston Penitentiary yesterday afternoon were this morning back in their cells.

Harold Demude and Kenneth Churchman were recaptured early this morning in a stolen car by the Kingston police after a battle in which one of the convicts was said to have been wounded. The third man in the party, Ralph Cheney, was recaptured a couple of hours after getting away, being picked up near the Military District No. 3 headquarters hiding in a bush.

The three men had apparently been working on the construction work near the east wall of the institution and it is believed that they slipped away about 3.30 in the afternoon.

Their One Mistake

Churchman and Demude were caught because Churchman drove at 35 miles an hour in a 30-mile-an-hour area and they were spotted by Constable R. Bernard Murphy and E. T. Shannon, cruising in a police radio car.

"We didn't know the car had been stolen," Constable Murphy said. 'It hadn't been reported We didn't know who was in it either. We went alongside and hollered 'pull over,' and when it didn't, we knew there was something fishy. A couple of minutes later, when it was doing 80 miles an hour and we were doing 80 miles an hour to stay with it, we had a good idea what it was all about.

"They went tearing along Princess street—that's the main street here in Kingston—and there was some traffic on it, but not too heavy. Then they skidded into Earl street and came to a dead end. Two men jumped out of the car and ran into a hay field. We were right behind them. They threw themselves down and tried to crawl away, but we got on top of them pretty fast."

Murphy drew his gun and told the convicts to hold up their hands, but the two kept on coming toward the officers. When only a couple of feet away, Demude swung a heavy club he had behind his back. Murphy ducked and was struck a glancing blow on the shoulder.

At the same time Murphy fired, the bullet striking Demude in the hip and inflicting a flesh wound which slowed up the convict sufficiently for Murphy to overpower him. Shannon knocked Churchman out with his baton and the two were bundled into the cruiser and taken back to prison.

While Warden R. M. Allen refused to make any statement, it was learned the three prisoners were working in an outside gang and made their escape in the back of a truck delivering supplies to the

Chinese Refuse To Quit Rail Gap

CHUNGKING, July 8.—(AP).—With the Chinese still clinging to a 25-mile sector of the Chekiang-Kiangsi Railway, the Japanese were reported today to have started a new thrust southwest from Nanchang in a fight for the Kiangsi-Hunan line, second loop toward an overland rail trunk with which the Japanese seek to link Shanghai and Singapore.

A delayed Central News dispatch from Kiangsi said the Japanese penetrated Fengchang and Changshu, 30 and 45 miles southwest of Nanchang, Monday afternoon.

Fierce fighting was said to be going on around the two towns, the first main stops on the line which connects with the Chekiang-Kiangsi line at Nanchang and runs into Hunan Province to join the trunk line south of Canton at Chuchow, south of the provincial capital of Changsha.

The Chinese reports said their troops had closed in around the Japanese advance forces which penetrated the two towns.

The high command's night communique indicated the Chinese were battling to prevent the invaders from thrusting spearheads into the Kiangsi-Hunan Railway.

In coastal Chekiang Province, the communique said, a Japanese attempt to push further south from Lishui, the former airbase near the Fukien border, had been beaten back with heavy enemy casualties.

The Chinese, who have beaten off three previous invasion thrusts into Hunan in the big battles of Changsha, have held the second loop of the rail system extending 230 miles from Nanchang to the juncture with the Canton line. The Japanese have tried pushing north from Canton, but have made no great progress.

From a branch of the Canton line the Japanese would have to build a last link of 300 miles to join with communications through French Indo-China, Thailand and Malaya to Singapore.

Massed Tanks Hold Line At Voronezh

Wipe Out Hun Van As Battle Ranges River Banks

MOSCOW, July 8—The counter-atacking Red Army was reported tonight to be wiping out German bridgeheads on the east bank of a bitterly contested river in the Voronezh sector (apparently the River Don), and to be repulsing successfully all further enemy attempts to cross the stream.

The Germans yesterday reported their columns had crossed this river at several places, but today Russian dispatches from the front said landings on the east bank are being wiped out.

Violent combats still raged along the river's course, but light enemy units which had reached the east bank were reported destroyed and the bulk of the German forces held on the west bank.

Red Star, mouthpiece of the army, announced "it is with great difficulty, but nevertheless our troops are holding the pressure of the enemy."

The Germans claim of the capture of Voronezh by reinforced Nazi troops which streamed across the Don River 10 miles west of the city went unconfirmed. The Soviet Information Bureau said the withering ffre of massed Russian tanks had beaten off bitter German assault upon a height in the chalky hills just west of Voronezh.

Red Army men gave ground in two areas of the Staryi Oskol sector and counter attacked in another to pile up a toll of 3,000 or more Germans killed, 80 trucks and 35 tanks destroyed, it was announced. Both before Staryi Oskol and Voronezh, the Russians said, their guns flamed through the night, rounding out a two-month defence against regional German offensives.

Violent combat was reported in both the Voronezh and Staryi Oskol sectors of the Upper Don Basin as the Russians battled twin drives to the east from the Kursk-Kharkov zone dangerously threatening the Red Army communications.

The invasion salient apparently widened slowly.

Heavy pressure before Staryi Oskol, a rail town of 22,000 on the Oskol river 65 miles southwest of Voronezh, forced the Russians to withdraw to new positions, but only after they had exacted a heavy toll, the Soviet Information Bureau announced.

Call 30 Extra Tanks

The Information Bureau said German reserves were thrown into action. Thirty tanks, more than a regiment of infantry and planes were reported to have attacked at one point.

"Soviet artillery met the enemy with a mass shelling and destroyed 12 German tanks," the Bureau reported. "Soviet heavy tanks and infantry counter attacked and threw the enemy back to his initial positions. The Germans left more than 700 dead on the field. Prisoners were taken."

Red Army men killed 400 more and disabled nine German tanks in a fighting withdrawal at another point, it was said.

Of the other major combat zone in the Don River basin 65 miles northeast of Staryi Oskol, the Bureau said:

Allies Can't Afford To Let Hitler Refuel, Restock On Middle East Resources

By DE WITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

As the Nazi Napoleon begins to make the weight of his great offensive felt, a lot of folks are beginning to take refuge in the remark that, after all, the Allies can lose the Caucasus, the Middle East and Egypt and still win the war.

That's a terribly dangerous idea to be nursing. There is, of course, a modicum of truth in the asretion, but it represents the rankest kind of wishful thinking—and it's an invitation to complacency.

I'm not one of those of little faith who believe that the Allies are doomed to defeat in this vast theatre which strategically is one of the most vital of the whole war. Our peril is very great and we certainly shall lose this territory unless we make a mighty effort and fortune favors us. But we definitely have a chance to hold our ground as things now stand.

Should Hitler gain his objectives, however, the Allies would (barring perhaps one contingency) be faced with the grim alternatives of losing the war or of seeing it protracted for many long years, with no man able to foresee the end.

The contingency which would offer deviation from that black prospect would be the successful establishment of a powerful Allied front in Western Europe before Hitler was able to capitalize the vast resources and strategic advantages which he would have gained by his conquest. Such a front would have to be thrown into action quickly, because the Nazis would acquire strength fast after seizing the oil, minerals and foodstuffs.

While present indications are that the Allies aren't yet ready for a land invasion of Western Europe, still it strikes me that they might be impelled to jump to it suddenly if Hitler's present offensives, either against Egypt or against the Russians, should jeopardize the whole Middle Eastern set-up. In any event, one would expect Britain and the United States to inagurate a terrific bombing offensive against German cities with all forces available in an effort to force withdrawal of German strentgh from the Russian front.

This whole picture grows out of the premise that if Hitler can t break through to fresh resources he will be beaten. If he can reach these resources he can repair his war machine, and his chances of winning the war will be good.

We have to probe a bit deeper than that, however, to get the full force of his position. Should he gain his present objectives, he not only would acquire resources but he would cut the Allies off from them in that theatre. Russia would be badly ham strung if she lost her grain fields and oil wells in the

Berlin Boosts Convoy Claim

Now Boast 32 Ships Of 38 Sunk Russia Bound

BERLIN, (From German broadcasts) July 8—(AP)—The German high command today claimed the sinking of four additional merchantmen in a "British-American" convoy reported attacked on the Arctic supply route to Russia. Altogether 32 ships of the convoy of 38 were claimed to have been sent to the bottom.

(There was no confirmation of the German claim from any other source. Previous German accounts of ship sinkings along this route have proven far in excess of actual losses when the convoys reached their destination.)

The high command said the four ships sank by submarines trailing the convoy aggregated 24,700 tons and brought to 217,100 tons the total sinkings reported in the past two days. Of the 28 merchantmen previously reported sunk, 18 were said to have been accounted for by bombers and nine by U-boats.

A communique repeated the statement in the special war bulletin yesterday that a heavy United States cruiser was sunk in the attacks.

The communique said the convoy was "very well protected by heavy enemy naval forces, destroyers and Corvettes" and was loaded with aircraft, tanks, ammunition and food for Russia.

Saboteur Trial Is Secret

8 Arrive At Court Under Machine-Gun Guard

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP). — In a setting of utmost secrecy, guaranteed by heavily armed soldiers, police and secret agents, and walled-off corridors, eight German-born men went on trial for their lives today before a military commission sitting in the Justice Department.

The eight, accused of violating the articles of war by stealing into the United States with intent to spread fire and destruction by Nazi sabotage methods, were rounded up by the Federal Bureau of Investigation after they had been landed by U-boats on lonely beaches of Long Island and Florida.

So veiled with secrecy was the commission proceeding—the first important one of its kind since the Civil War—that not even the fact of the starting of the trial was made known officially.

An informed person confirmed it, however, after it became obvious from the arrival of the prisoners, the seven generals who compose the commission, the prosecution and defence counsel and a number of witnesses.

The prisoners arrived behind a wedge of motorcycle policemen in two closed vans guarded by soldiers with machine-guns and automatic rifles.

HOUSE OF COMMONS VOTES 158 TO 54 FOR CONSCRIPTION BILL

OTTAWA, July 8.—(CP).—Climaxed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King's promise of a further vote before unlimited conscription is imposed, the main debate on that issue ended in the House of Commons last night with adoption of the motion for second reading of Bill 80 by a vote of 158 to 54.

By this vote the House placed approval on the principle of the Prime Minister's bill which repeals Section Three of the National Resources Mobilization Act and leaves the Government free to impose unlimited conscription by Order-in-Council.

But Mr. King, in his speech closing the main debate, announced that before conscription for service overseas is imposed he will seek a vote of confidence from the House.

He said there would be no major debate on conscription again but a brief time would be allowed for discussion, such as is done on confidence votes in the British House of Commons.

This announcement was a surprise to members and, according to reports current last night, was a surprise to some of the Ministers. It had been indicated earlier that there would be no further reference to the House on conscription once Bill 80 had been enacted.

Conservative House Leader Hanson said the Prime Minister's speech indicated that the Government had "looped the loop three times," but rules of the House made it impossible for him to develop this comment.

The vote showed a wide split in the Liberal ranks with 46 of the Prime Minister's followers, all but one from Quebec, voting against him. The one exception was Elie Bertrand (Lib., Prescott).

War Risk Up To-day

It may be some days before the bill is discussed in committee since the House now will take up a number of measures including the War Risk Insurance Bill which comes up today.

Before debate began yesterday, War Services Minister Thorson tabled a proclamation making single men and childless widowers aged 20 and from 35 to 40 liable for compulsory military service. Previously 21 was the lowest age for compulsory service, and 35 the highest.

When the House divided on Bill 80, the Conservative and New Democracy groups voted solidly with the Government and two Independents, A. W. Neill (Ind., Comox-Alberni) and Mrs. Dorise Nielsen (Unity, North Battleford), supported the bill.

But the six C.C.F. members present, and two Quebec Independents, J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe), and Liguori Lacombe (Cdn., Laval-Two Mountains) voted with the 46 French-Canadian Liberals against the bill.

Before the main vote was taken the House voted down by a call of Ayes and Nays the amendment moved by J. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe) which substituted for second reading of the bill a declaration that the Government's policies would and debate would involve delay.

Military considerations would probably prevent the disclosure in open debate of the factors on which the decision of the government was based.

As far as the present administration was concerned, the decision on overseas conscription would not rest solely with the military authorities and any action taken under the bill would have to be authorized by the governor-in-council.

"If an administration is to begin to carry out its duties in the prosecution of a war, it cannot afford to be left in any doubt, at any time, as to the adequacy of its support by parliament, and least of all in a time of peril," said Mr. King.

Must Be No Uncertainty

"The assurance of the confidence of parliament is particularly necessary to the leader of a government where there is the slightest reason for him to doubt the extent to which he may be able to rely upon the support he will receive in the House of Commons."

For himself, he did not think the House would feel it had been shown the degree of confidence it had the right to expect from a ministry, if, in a matter of so great concern as overseas conscription, the government were to act before its decision were made known to the House.

He could imagine what would be said by members if, with parliament in session and before informing members of the government decision, he were to sign an order-in-council putting into effect overseas conscription and immediately thereafter were to go into the House and inform it of the action the government had already taken.

If the government decided conscription were necessary, there would be no delay in enforcing that decision. Unless it became apparent the ministry had ceased to enjoy the confidence of the House there would be no delay.

If Parliament was not actually sitting, it could be brought together in a few days. There would be no need for further legislation, merely an expression of confidence in some form. It was virtually impossible to conceive of a situation where the lapse of a week would affect sending reinforcement overseas, since arrangements to that end could proceed concurrently with the re-assembling of Parliament.

G. W. Mulligan Passes Away At Age Of 77

A veteran resident of Peterborough, George W. Mulligan, known as "the Gospel Singer," and who is noted particularly for the singing and playing he did for the open air services in Confederation Square Sunday nights, died at his home, 804 George Street, after a short illness, Tuesday, at the age of 77.

Born in a little place, Lebanon, which used to be near Omemee, he lived in and around Omemee until coming to Peterborough over forty years ago, where he started a little music store on George Street. While a patternmaker by trade, he was a music teacher by profession, and gave singing lessons out in the small communities of the district. He was for years an employee of the Quaker Oats Company.

The late Mr. Mulligan was keenly interested in church work and furthering Christianity. He had been a member of the Gospel Hall for over thirty-five years, and looked forward with very keen interest every year to the open air services in the park. He had become almost an institution around the Council chamber where he appeared with the greatest regularity every spring to seek permission to hold his services. As late as Sunday last he presided at the organ and led the singing.

As a young man he did a great deal of concert work and was choirmaster of a number of important churches in Toronto and at one time of St. Andrew's Presbyterian and the old George Street Methodist Churches in this city. During the visit of the Duke and Duchess of York to Toronto a number of years ago, Mr. Mulligan took a choir to perform there.

Surviving are three daughters: Mrs. J. W. Irvine of Kinmore, N.Y., Mrs. A. M. Brumwell, Vauxhall, Alta., Mrs. George T. Reader of Peterborough, and one son, A. Wallace Mulligan of Toronto. There is also a sister, Mrs. George Adams, of Lindsay, and a brother, Howard, of Fort Cologne, Que.

The funeral service will be held Friday at 2 p.m. from the Nesbitt Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte Street. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

of his address was a long series of arguments aimed at convincing the government that there was every reason "not to impose conscription for overseas." He said that he spoke extemporaneously and that no newspaper carried a full text of his address, adding that the most accurate report, however, incomplete, was found in Le Devoir.

He said that he was "perspiring freely and in a highly nervous state" when the two Montreal Gazette reporters, Myer Negru and Blair Fraser, interviewed him after the meeting to check over their notes with him. He added that the interview was interrupted several times by persons coming up to congratulate and chat with him, and he remembered Gerard Filion and Jean Drapeau 'making desperate signals to him to remind him about a train he must catch.

Congratulated Quebec.

Reading from notes he had prepared in his Quebec law office and completed in the train taking him to Montreal for the meeting, Mr. Chaloult gave an outline of his address. He said he had at the outset congratulated the people of the Province of Quebec for having voted "No" in the plebiscite held on April 27.

He said his first argument against conscription was that the adoption of this measure would be a violation of the late Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe's pledge to the people of Quebec, promising that conscription for service overseas would "never, never never" be endorsed by him. Next, he said, he invoked Atlantic Charter, wherein Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt agreed to protect national minorities. Another argument was an indictment of Prime Minister Mackenzie King as showing "ungratefulness" toward the Province of Quebec to whom "he owed everything."

"Further on," said Mr. Chaloult, 'I tried to prove that Canada's war effort is greater than all other Allied Nations, such as the United States, Russia China, and even England."

"I mentioned the $1,000,000,000 gift to England, and also that taxes in Canada were higher than in England, as proved by Maxime Raymond (Liberal member of parliament for Beauharnois) in the House of Commons last week."

"I said that our 500,000 soldiers for our population of 11,000,000 constituted a greater war effort, proportionately speaking, than the United States, China, Russia and England."

Keep Troops Home

Mr. Chaloult said he urged Canada to imitate England, which kept its 3,000,000 soldiers on its soil. "These arguments", he said, "were in answer to those who call us slackers and claim our war effort is weak in Quebec. I added that French-Canadians were not ready to accept conscription until their receive decent treatment and be given fair representation in the civil service, the armed forces, and the awarding of war contracts."

Mr. Chaloult said during his testimony that at several times during his address, he had asked the people of Quebec to use "legal and constitutional" means in combatting conscription.

He said that he concluded his address with quotations of a peace message last Christmas by Pope Pius XII.

Speaking about his observation that "Canada's imperial ties be severed after the war," the accused said that he had to repeat the word after the war" when an enthusiastic spectator shouted "right now!"

Defence Counsel Choquette obtained permisison to file as evidence a newspaper containing a story of a speech made before the Quebec Legislative Assembly by Mr. Chaloult, in which he corrected certain statements published in certain newspapers following the meeting.

Mr. Chaloult said he had made his parliamentary speech because he had detected "intellectual dishonesty" in editorials published by the Montreal Star, the Montreal Gazette and the Toronto Globe and Mail. He added that the reporters who covered the meeting were above reproach.

Airmen Visit Lumber Mill On West Coast

Forty-eight hours spent in the Pacific Mills, one of the largest lumbering concerns on the Queen Charlotte Islands, B.C., gave AC1 Claude Hewitt, son of Mrs. C. Hewitt, 213 London Street, a former employee of Canadian General Electric and McWilliams' clothing store, the thrill of a lifetime he said in a letter to the Examiner. Lumbering is carried on extensively in British Columbia, and the process of hewing immense British Columbia and Douglas firs into logs and lumber is a fascinating one.

To anyone, particularly to an Easterner, the work is a revelation he said. He explained what was meant by such terms as "whistle-punk" (trade name), which is the name for the man whose job it is to press a button when the timber is being pulled down to the 'chuck." The chokerman is in charge of moving the logs after they have been drawn into one central pile.

"A skyline," he said 'is the cable that runs from the sea inland to the logs that have been cut. It is attached to a drum on the "donkey engine,' which is a steam-driven winch with four speeds forward and one in reverse.

Some of the logs are anywhere from 75 to 160 feet in length and 6 feet across at the butt, he said. AC1 Claude Hewitt also told of an interesting setting in the northern part of the islands that he ran across. One of their planes had been forced down, and he was one of those to go along in the plane carrying the spare parts to the crippled machines.

"Langara might be described as a painter's paradise. The whole island coast is whipped by the angry surf and there is only one tiny sheltered cove suitable for habitation. The houses here are clustered about the inner part of a horseshoe-shaped bay, about a quarter of a mile wide. In the centre of the bay there is a float moored there permanently, on which is a cold storage and general store building, operated by the fishermen on a co-operative basis. A catwalk built on spruce logs reaches out from shore. Tied up alongside this catwalk are fishing boats painted in black, silver and even pink, which are scrupulously clean. After each boat unloads its catch of salmon and halibut, the boat is washed down to keep it clean. As much as two hundred dollars a day can be earned by some of the fishermen, depending, of course, on the run.

"People are very friendly here, too. When we wanted to buy a salmon to take back to camp, they insisted on giving us one as a parting gift. The weight cleared fourteen pounds."

LAC Little of Millbrook, along with a number of boys from Ontario, is stationed with AC1 Hewitt at Alleford Bay, Queen Charlotte Islands, and they all enjoyed reading the Vacation Edition of the Examiner and seeing familiar spots once more. According to this Peterborough boy, there is one argument that is good at any time and that is as to which place has the best fighting fish. The boys have about come to the conclusion that leaving out the salmon of British Columbia, the two provinces are equally matched. The writer's one regret appeared to be that they had to sit by and watch American fliers on their way north flying to meet the Japanese.

Canadian Army One Unit, Idea Of Worthington

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 8.—CP)—Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, commander of the 4th armored division, expresses the opinion that the Canadian Army should be one and indivisible.

A crusader for divisional esprit de corps among the troops under his command, this pioneer Canadian expert in tank warfare would like to see the present system of dividing the army organization up into corps and regiments abolished.

In an exclusive interview with The Canadian Press at his Eastern Canada training camp Gen. Worthington said when a man enlists he should join the "Royal Canadian Army" just as an airman enlists in the "Royal Canadian Air Force" and a sailor in the "Royal Canadian Navy."

"If you do that you will wipe out a mass of administration," he said. "I woud like to see this army brought up to date."

In the 4th Division now practically all officers and men wear the black beret and the badges of the armored corps. Regimental caps and badges are passing out of fashion although the General has not yet insisted on complete uniformity. That is the way he wants it. He wants his men to feel they are members of the division and not of the "Mudshire Fusiliers."

"Unit esprit de corps is all very well," said Gen. Worthington "but it must go higher. We don't want petty jealousies between units. We don't want one unit taking pride in being better than another. We want each unit to be ready to help the other if necessary."

He then went on to say he would carry the idea even higher than the division, to the army as a whole.

"I think we should scrap the whole army system as we have it both in Britain and Canada and have a Royal Army or a Royal Canadian Army."

When a man joined the air force he was proud to belong to the air force and didn't care what squadron he served with or what capacity. A sailor was proud of the navy but didn't worry what ship he served on. The same could be made true of the army. All a man wanted to know was that the organization he joined was doing a job and that he would be given the work for which he was best fitted.

after a terrible pounding. The city suffered not only the blasting effect of high explosives and thousands of incendiaries but also ruthless dive-bombing and machine-gunning. Nazi bombs dropped on many of the main municipal buildings as well as on the A.R.P. emergency food headquarters.

Fortunately, Exeter was one of the cities which took to heart the great lesson of the heavy 1940, 1941 blitzes—the vital need of de-centralization. Its defence organization survived the vicious attack and continued to function successfully.

This organization was built up during the comparative lull from August, 1941, to March, 1942. In this period, Exeter, like other cities did not allow inactivity to dull the edge of its defence work efficiency. On the contrary, the whole national defence organization was overhauled and tightened up.

The recent "Baedeker" raids did nothing whatever to lower civilian morale; they have been a valuable means of keeping the civil defence army on its toes. In Exeter, Bath, or wherever the Germans strike, this army now is ready to take in stride whatever the enemy from the air delivers.

tired dust-stained captain arrived on foot. He had been captured by a lone German armored car. The Germans left one man to guard the captive. The captain chatted with the guard and asked him for a cigaret. As the guard reached for one, the captain grabbed his gun. He made off with the gun, leaving the guard on the spot.

As we talked with this captain one of the officers told of an experience which befell an R.A.F. pilot who crash-landed several miles behind enemy lines. The pilot lay low until after dark and then set off, guided by the stars, toward the British lines. Everything would have been all right had he not stumbled into an Italian sentry guarding a gasoline dump.

"I just shot the silly..through the head" the pilot said. "The rest of the Italians filed sleepily out of their tents with their hands in the air."

The pilot, unable to satisfy the Italains' desire to be made prisoners, slipped away in the confusion. The next day he was picked up by a British tank.

Another Marine Base Coming Up

This boatload of American marines is pictured as it left the side of a war transport to land the men on an unnamed island in the south seas, where the "devil dogs" will set up an American base. Full equipment is carried with the men, and another outpost from which Uncle Sam can keep tab on the Japs and get ready for the return blows that he is planning, will soon be ready.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, July 8 — (CP). — Cattle trade was slow at the Livestock Market up to mid-session here today, with prices about steady at yesterday's close. Veal calves were strong, lambs strong to 25 cents higher and sheep were steady. No prices was established for hogs. Unsold from yesterday was 1,000 head of cattle.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle, 400; calves, 400; hogs, 500; sheep and lambs, 200.

A new problem to be faced by the Wartime Food Corporation has arisen in the local cattle market to add to the confusion already existing as a result of the delay being experienced by drovers in having their shipments appraised by the Government agency. The problem is said to be a new type of speculation.

Yesterday's prices were generally 50 cents lower, although some outside packers and local butchers completed deals at 25 cents under Monday's levels. Taking the 50-cent reduction in bids as a basis, yesterday's prices were the equivalent of 11 cents a pound for steers, live-weight, or still half a cent a pound over the 10½-cent equivalent which will come into effect next Monday when the 18¼-cent dressed price for both civilian and army prices become effective. The Government market report of a year ago, for the week ended July 10, 1941, gave the average live-weight price of steers as 9 cents a pound.

Weighty steers were from $11 down; butcher steers, $9.50 to $11; butcher heifers mostly $9 to $10.50; cows from $8.75 down; bulls, $8 to $9.50; fed calves, $11 to $12.25; and stockers $9 to $10.

Sheep sold at $5 to $8.

Hogs closed previously at $16.65 to $16.75 dressedweight at yards or plants.

Canada Runs Call-Up To 40 Years

Single Men, Widowers Minus Children In 6 Yr. Age Extension

OTTAWA, July 8.—Believed to be one of the results of the Washington conference between Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Mackenzie King, Canada is enlarging her military force by calling on single men and widowers without children between the ages of 20 and 40 years. The previous age limit were between 21 and 35 years. War Services Minister Thorson made the announcement in the Commons Tuesday in the tabling of an Order in council extending by six years the age span—an extension which means the calling up of 25,000 men next month. This is the largest call yet made under the compulsory service law.

Departmental calculations are that there would be about 193,000 men in the enlarged group, but there will be heavy subtractions because of various priorities and postponements.

Deductible from that figure would be all volunteers in the services and those whose postponements must be granted because of engagement in agriculture and other essential tasks.

Of the total, about 93,500 would be represented in the age groups of 36, 37, 38, 39 and 40 years.

All men born in the years 1902 to 1922 who were single or widowers without children July 15, 1940, are liable for call, Mr. Thorson said, but those born in 1922 will not be called until they reach the age of 20.

21 to 45 in United States

In the United States men aged from 21 to 45 are liable for the draft. No actual distinction is drawn between single and married men but so far no married men with dependents have been called up.

Today's proclamation said in part: "It has been decided to call out for military training . . . every male British subject who is or has been, at any time subsequent to the first day of September, 1939, ordinarily resident in Canada, who on the 15th day of July, 1940, was unmarried or a widower without child or children

U.S. Merchantmen In Raided Convoy

LONDON, July 8.—(CP).—United States merchant ships were in the Russia-bound convoy which the Germans claimed yesterday to have attacked between North Cape and Spitsbergen, an authoritative British source said to-day, but he added he was unable to say whether United States warships formed part of the escort.

(A special communique from Hitler's readquarters yesterday said the convoy consisted of 38 merchant ships, and battleships, cruisers, destroyers and corvettes and that one heavy American cruiser and 28 ships were sunk by combined air and submarine action.)

The British source recalled that the last German allegation of damage to a northern convoy was 'exaggerated, but said he was unable to indicate the extent of the Allied losses in this convoy while the ships were still at sea.

"The Admiralty and the Government are fully alive to the necessity of putting out a communique as soon as possible," he added.

Plan Extension To Foundry For War Work

COBOURG, July 8 (ENS)—Expansion of the plant's facilities through extension of the buildings and alterations in the present buildings at the Dominion Wheel and Foundry here is expected to increase materially the capacity of the plant, it was revealed yesterday by Robert Holland, the superintendent. Ninet-eight per cent of the capacity of the plant is devoted to war production. Prior to the war the foundry was working at about peak capacity and with the outbreak of war with its accompanying demands on industry, the plant made a changeover from civilian production to war production, the transfer being made without halting production.

The pattern store, which is now a moulding shop, will be extended half-way across the old machine shop in order to give more moulding space, thereby assisting materially in meeting the increased demands on production. Another moulding section of the plant is to be extended forty feet east and the dimensions of this extension will be about 110 x 40 feet. This will simplify transportation of the hot metal and pouring apparatus. Another projected addition is the housing in of the loading platform which will give ample protection from rain and winter weather.

Carefully Stored

Built some time ago, the new pattern store is a well-constructed building in which has been housed the multitude of patterns used in the foundry's work. Indexed so as to provide immediate access to any pattern, wooden and aluminum patterns have been carefully stored away on racks extending the full length of the building. Firms which are frequently sending in orders to the foundry have their patterns stored together so as to simplify selection of and specified pattern. Right now the foundry has one section of the racks devoted to patterns of castings for cooking, eating and similar arrangements of military camps, and these include stoves, furnaces an like eqquipment. There are also patterns for castings required by air and military camps for heating installations, water and oil supply systems. The ship building indutry and the mines have their patterns carefully stored away in the foundry's pattern shop and also included are those for railway transportation. As the foundry has a Class A priority rating it can be seen that it is necessary to have instant access to any required pattern to fill whatever rush order is being handled and the whole plant has been geared to maximum speed and efficiency in that regard.

360 Tons per Month

At present the foundry is turning out 360 tons of castings per month, Mr. Holland told The Examiner, and it is hoped that with the completion of the new extensions and alterations this can be stepped up by 15%.

The foundry is a busy hive of industry with 52 men engaged in turning out work under the most modern conditions of the moulding trade. Air operated individual hoists elevate or lower as desired the pots of molten metal for easy pouring, the operator having only to devote his attention to the actual pouring without any handicap of sustaining any part of the weight of the apparatus. Everything possible to increase the efficiency of the plant has been taken advantage of and as improved foundry operation methods are conceived they are put into effect.

New Sub-Chaser Engine Ready

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP).—Foreshadowing an early start of a mighty new phase of anti-submarine warfare in American waters, the United States Navy announced yesterday the invention of a lightweight high-speed Diesel engine, made especially for use in sub-chasers and already in mass production.

The new power plant, along with a new variable pitch propeller, was understood to be ready for installation in quantities of small craft destined soon to join the fight against the U-boats and authorities declared that these would be craft of superior performance.

"This is the best engine any sub-chaser ever had," one expert declared.

Developed as the result of more than twenty years experimentation undertaken after the First Great War, the new engine has four banks of four cylinders each, centred around a vertical crankshaft. Because of its unusual shape it has come to be known as "the pancake."

Built as a unit with the engine is a new type of reversible propeller which eliminates the need for complicated, heavy reverse gears and thereby further reduces the weight of a sub-chaser's machinery and increases its capacity for fuel and ammunition.

Craft equipped with these new power plants, it was said, have a greater cruising radius, speed and manoeuvreability than those propelled by standard equipment.

The engine is being produced by the Electro-Motive Division of the General Motors Corporation at Lagrange.

Public Address Equipment Used At School

PORT HOPE, July 8 — (ENS).—An opportunity was given Port Hope music lovers on Tuesday night when through the courtesy of P. A. C. Ketchum an experiment was tried at Trinity College School when Mr. Ketchum put into use for the public, the school's new reproducing and loud speaker equipment.

This concert is the first of a series and the program consisted of Rachmaninoff's Concerto in C minor, played by Sergie Rachmaninoff and the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra, with Leopold Stokowski as conductor.

This demonstration was much enjoyed by all who attended and it is the hope of the music lovers that Mr. Ketchum will feel it worth while to continue these concert recordings during the summer. The school is in possession of a fine library of such recordings by very fine artists and orchestras.

As well as this concert on Tuesday night, those who attended were given another opportunity of viewing the exhibition of the water-color pictures done by members of the Canadian Society of Water-Color Painters.

Another War—Another Lodge

It is interesting to see the name of Henry Cabot Lodge, Junior, appearing in the news; it is a famous name and those who remember the last war in detail know how important it was then. The present Henry Cabot Lodge is the U.S. Senator from Massachusetts and a major in the U.S. Army; he is the first Senator to take part in actual fighting since the Civil War. He has recently returned from Libya, where he commanded American tanks in battle.

He is the grandson of Henry Cabot Lodge the elder who was one of the chief congressional figures, during the period 1890-1920. He was an eminent scholar and Republican leader, and a prominent member of the American aristocracy of Boston. Indeed, his second name was derived from that family which Samuel Bushnell has immortalized in the lines,

I come from good old Boston,
The home of the bean and the cod,
Where the Cabots speak only to Lowells,
And the Lowells speak only to God.

It was this Lodge who led a determined opposition of 38 Republican senators in a fight against Woodrow Wilson's peace plans. Lodge was firmly opposed to Wilson's plan to include the Covenant of the League of Nations in the Versailles Treaty and he won his fight. Lodge, by the way, had favored the entry of the U.S. into the war directly after the sinking of the Lusitania. His political career, though strenuous, did not absorb all his energies; he produced several historical studies and was also the editor of the works of Alexander Hamilton; it was he who prepared The Education of Henry Adams for the press.

The present bearer of the name is also the possessor of an aggressive spirit. In a public statement he said recently, "We must keep up with our preparedness program even after the war. We must never allow our armed might to slump as we did before. The United States must continue powerful. Only in this way can we guarantee a just and lasting peace." It is good to hear this sort of talk from a Senator; it is realistic and it has a plan. Incidentally this statement by Senator Lodge reflects the spirit of Peace By Power, by the brilliant young Canadian economist, Lionel Gelber; this book was reviewed some weeks ago in this paper. Senator Lodge reflects the opinion of many Americans that the peace will be even harder to win than the war, and that only a determined policy on the part of the United Nations, backed up by political and military might, will suffice to put the world on its feet again.

Leadership is in the Lodge blood, and it is gratifying to see that the strain is in no danger of running out.

Springtime Of Beauty

We have noticed several letters in the columns of our contemporaries recently from men and women who complain of the difficulty which they have in getting jobs because they are too old. Some of the men have been refused for service in the armed forces because of their age, although they have perfect health; the women are chiefly typists who find that they cannot get work because they are no longer in their first youth. The remarkable th[illegible]g is that none of the writers of the[illegible]ters is over 45 and the majority are under forty!

We can understand the difficulty of the men who want to serve in the forces. However well preserved a man may be at forty he has not the resilience of a lad of twenty. A physician may find him in perfect health, and so he is for his age, but he lacks the bounce of youth. However, we find it hard to understand why a typist of 35 should not be able to get a job now, when Ottawa is facing a serious shortage of experts in that field. Indeed, we should think that women between 30 and 60 would be better at this work than girls. To the younger typist work is apt to be an interval between school and marriage; to the older woman it is a job worth keeping and the principal occupation of her life.

But the worship of youth for its own sake is characteristic of this continent and this century. Great numbers of people appear to have the idea that the first thirty years of life are the best, and that the forty years succeeding those are a period of decline, or at best a perilous fight to retain what has already been gained. Perhaps this nonsensical notion has a part of its origin in our American attitude toward education; we are apt to regard education and intellectual development generally as something which happens during the early years of life and which is not augmented by later experience and learning. The worship of youth, indeed, seems to be rooted in a fear and mistrust of life as a whole. Surely it is time that we discarded this foolish popular concept.

It is interesting in this connection to consider the importance which the totalitarian states attach to youth.

Giovinezza, giovinezza,
Primavera di belleza,

sang the Italian Fascisti—Youth, youth, Springtime of beauty—as their portly Duce ran upstairs, joined in the harvest and thrust out his jaw in a ludicrous attempt to simulate the abundant vigor of a young man. And in Germany the middle-aged and the elderly have been crowded more and more out of the national picture. But all this strenuous play-acting means nothing. To sane men and women all times of life have their special sweetness and are accepted philosophically in the order in which Time brings them; what wise man ever wished to be younger? Perhaps some of our captious employers would do well to find out what an applicant for a job can do, and not how old she is.

A Grave Situation

Eight gravediggers are on strike at Mount Pleasant Cemetery in London, Ontario. At present they are paid $20 a week and they want a raise of two dollars. Considering the nature of their work this does not seem unreasonable; after all, as Shakespeare has wisely observed, a gravedigger makes houses that last till Doomsday, and there is no record of a client ever requiring his services more than once.

We have never known a gravedigger personally and our notion of the ancient profession of gravedigging is wholly derived from literature. Consequently we are deeply curious about the London strike. Are the strike meetings, for instance, held in a crypt, or a ruined vault? Do the strikers gather at midnight? Has any one of the eight a pet owl? Do they make jolly professional jokes, like the gravediggers in Hamlet? We confess to an absorbing interest in these matters. The knell, the shroud, the mattock and the grave, the deep, damp vault, the darkness and the worm should certainly—if we are to trust Sir Walter Scott and Harrison Ainsworth—be the accompaniments of unrest in gravedigging circles. We can see them now, the mad wags, lolling at their ease beside a half-dug grave, quaffing old ale, cracking jokes about the Conqueror Worm and waiting for the cemetery committee to come across with that extra couple of bucks.

Fear Of Bureaucracy

A number of editorials which have appeared in the columns of our contemporaries reflect the growing uneasiness of the people of Canada about the rapid growth of bureaucratic government in this country. At present we are all willing to be regulated and restricted and hedged about with stipulations in order to expedite the war effort of our country. But there have been suggestions that as some of these regulations appear to work very well they should be continued in time of peace.

Certainly, when we have peace once again, it will be hard for the average citizen to judge between measures which are necessary to put the country on a firm basis, and those which are no longer needed and which merely serve to hinder legitimate private enterprise. It is easy to make a restriction appear needful when in actual fact it can very well be disposed of. That is why we must be continually alert and continually critical of anything which looks like bureaucracy for its own sake. If we retain needless bureaucratic controls after the war it will be our own fault; the power to get rid of them lies with us.

There is a tendency for certain "advanced" thinkers to talk these days as though democracy, after the war, were going to be altered, growing more and more to resemble state socialism. It will be wise for us to remember that democracy is not a political theory in the narrow sense at all, but rather a free and independent spirit residing in men's hearts and minds. If we preserve it in ourselves we shall have no difficulty in getting rid of the bureaucrats.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The attempt of a U.S. customs official to collect duty on Canadian arms going to Alaska to help fight the Japanese impresses us as the prettiest bit of red tape that we have seen this year.

CBC French Network

From (WINNIPEG FREE PRESS)

DR. AUGUSTIN FRIGON, assistant general manager CBC, testifying before the House of Commons radio committee, brought up the subject of the French network when he stated that it was carrying on a program quite comparable to that of the English, and current gossip that there was something wrong with the French network war effort was almost ridiculous. Does "ridiculous" seem quite the correct word when it is remembered that the Germans consider it quite worth while to broadcast regularly to Quebec and Paris and Vichy and when the CBC has announced that the combatting of this propaganda is none of its business?

Does "ridiculous" seem an entirely happy term when it is stated again and again in extenuation of the present situation in Quebec that the people there have not been sufficiently informed of the real issues of this desperate war

Isn't it about time that Canadians asked what was going forward on the French network?

WE have before us a program running for a year on the French network and entitled "Radio-College." In the foreword Dr. Frigon hopes that the broadcasts of this "Radio College" will be an encouragement and an aid to the listeners in their educational endeavors and in the perfecting of their culture. Well, perhaps; but a perusal of the program certainly does not indicate that either that education or culture will have anything to do with making the listeners at all aware that there are eight provinces in Canada besides Quebec, or indeed that anything has happened in this Dominion for the past hundred years.

For instance, these are the characters given place in the so-called Canadian history sketches: Cartier, Champlain, Louis Herbert, Viel, Brebeuf, Jean Nicolet, Maisonneuve, Marguerite Bourgeoys, Jeanne Mance, Dollard, Monseigneur de Laval, Pierre Boucher, Jean Talon, Madame de Repentigny, Evangeline, Montcalm, Lecure, La'Habitant, La Mere Canadienne, La Maitresse d'Ecole, Pierre Bedard, La Fontaine, Monseigneur Provencher—these and no others.

There are a series of broadcasts on sculpture, and among them not one single English Canadian name or reference. There are likewise a series on the so-caled Canadian house and its origins, and likewise not one single reference to anything that is English Canadian. Poets, dramatists, every last one French. Moreover, several of these lecture series were accompanied by illustrations, very good and not at all cheap illustrations, which were sent to the supposed listeners and not one of them had any reference to anything English Canadian, or anything that faintly suggested British culture.

All of this is very much the business of the rest of Canada, not only as to the cost of it, but because this sort of isolationist propaganda —for that is in essence what it is—should have no place under the name of Canadian national service. When it pretends to be such a service, when the committee in charge in the name of the Canadian radio puts that sort of thing over it is guilty of a dishonorable procedure. It is false to its trust. Moreover it is not playing the game with Quebec.

AND from whom and from where is coming the enunciation of the policy behind these French network performances? Has the CBC Board of Governors passed upon them? Do they know what is going forward over the French network and what is not going forward? Are they absolutely sure that the CBC is not being used to an end that, whatever else it may be, it is not one to which Canada as a whole can subscribe, and which is placing Quebec out on a limb? All of this is in general all Canada's business. It is particularly the business of the CBC Board of Governors.

Unconsidered Trifles

"Humph. So you want a job. Do you ever tell lies?"

"No, sir; but I could learn."

"Why are you bringing me all your old socks to darn?"

"Well, when you refused to marry me, you said you'd always be like a sister to me."

"In assessing the losses of its enemies, Germany always multiplies them by at least three," asserts a military commentator. The department which issues these figures is said to be controlled by a Nazi who was formerly a waiter.

The Young Man: "May I ask, sir, if you would consider letting me marry your daughter "

Lawyer McNab: "No, I wouldn't consider it under any circumstances. Six and eight, please."

The hope of the family returned from his first day's work at a munitions factory with fingers bandaged.

"Ho, Bert," said his father, "how's this?"

"Well," said the bright one, "the foreman said the machine was "fool-proof, but I soon showed him."

Going his round during the blackout, the corporal of the guard was horrified—but not struck dumb!—to find one sentry leaning negligently against a garden wall.

"Hi, you!" he roared. "Why aren't you marching up and down?"

"Sorry, corp!" replied the sentry. "The absurity of it all suddenly overcame me."

It was her fourth or fifth venture into the lottery of marriage—the film star wasn't sure which. So when the registrar's clerk began asking a few questions she got annoyed.

"Have you been married before?" he asked. "And, if so, to whom?"

This was too much. In her most freezing manner the star demanded:

"What is this—a memory test?"

It happened that two separate army weding receptions were given at the same time in a West End hotel in adjoining rooms, and this led to confusion, as some of the guests got into the wrong rooms. At length it was decided to throw open the dividing partitions and make one party of the two. A little later a waiter approached an officer who was standing against the wall in a semi-dazed condition, and offered him champagne. "No, thank you," he replied "I'm not feeling very well. In fact, I can see two brides already."

ANOTHER FRONT THAT FRIGHTENS HITLER

Second Front Need Mounts

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

AN ominous German advance beyond the Don, in Russia, is obviously forcing a grave decision on Washington and London if second-front help is to be afforded soon to avert what could be a Red Army disaster.

Within little more than a week, Nazi forces have stabbed eastward from the Kursk jump-off 120 miles to cross the Don and take Voronezh, by Berlin account. At that point they appear poised to strike again in any of three directions, each of critical importance. Which road they will take is not yet clear, but a Nazi-sponsored report from Paris says they have already moved due eastward, presumably with the Volga, 300 miles away, as their ultimate goal.

It does not seem probable. While the Voronezh penetration defines the depth of the Nazi drive from Kursk, it does not disclose the width of the wedge. Russian reports of battle still raging southwest of Staryi Oskol, however, indicate it is as yet dangerously narrow for its depth.

SOUTH DRIVE PROBABLE

A NAZI turn southward down the Don, coupled with intensified attacks in the Belgorod, Volchansk and Kupyansk regions to widen the gap in Russian lines to the Don, seem more probable. It is what Marshal Timoshenko expects.

Staryl Oskol lies some seventy-five miles southwest of Voronezh, on the Oskol River. It lies less than forty miles, however, south of the Kursk-Voronezh Railroad, along which the Germans drove to and beyond the Don. If it is still in Russian hands as indicated, the Nazi thrust is 120 miles deep, but only forty miles wide at point and masses of Russian troops are deployed both north and south of that slender corridor.

The greatest danger of the Russians at the moment appears to be a Nazi pincer movement southward from Voronezh and east of the Don to Liski, and simultaneously north-eastward up the Kupyansk-Liski railroad from Kupyansk. If these jaws met anywhere along the Kupyansk-Liski-Voronezh railroad before Timoshenko escaped beyond the Don, the north-central wing of his army might be annihilated.

NABIS RUN RISK

NAZI exploitation of the break-through to Voronezh would not be without grave risk, however. North of the narrow wedge threatening to cut Russian armies of the south and centre apart clear to the Volga lies the whole strength of the vast Red force deployed in defense of Moscow and long rested from major operations.

The German line eastward from Kursk to Voronezh is exposed to flanking attack along the whole 120 miles.

Presumably Nazi reports of advances in the Upper Volga sector of the central front, far northwest of Moscow, represent holding pressure to keep the Red Central Army from throwing its full weight to Timoshenko's aid in the south. It seems fairly certain, however, that the main hope of Russian armies in the south must be the central armies, striking southward to pinch off the Voronezh wedge.

East of Voronezh a series of river lines afford hope of stemming the Germans advance if it does take that direction.

When all this is said, however, the plight of the Russian armies, and particularly of Timoshenko's right centre forces, is very grave. It seems unquestionable that Russian pressure for Anglo-American major relief moves must be mounting.

C.B.C. Programs

(SYDNEY POST RECORD)

TESTIFYING before the House of Commons Radio Committee yesterday, E. L. Bushnell, CBC general supervisor of programs, said that Canadian Broadcasting Corporation programs were designed as far as possible to meet public demand. "We are not trying to give the public what we think the public should have," he claims. "Within the bounds of good taste, we are prepared to give the public balanced programs of the type they want."

With the statement that CBC radio programs are in good taste, there will be no dispute. Perhaps that is what is wrong with them, the sacrificing of entertainment and color to an objective which is important, but minor, for if anyone wishes to spend a few hours in more dreary or drab fashion than by listening to purely Canadian network programs, there is no better way in which it can be accomplished. True, there is the odd program which is bright and entertaining, but generally speaking the Canadian musical programs are pretty dull, there are entirely too many "morale building" programs which may or may not be contributory to morale but certainly are not contributory to amusement, there is too much talking on Canadian radio, and through it all there is rarely the saving grace of any kind of humor. The same cannot be said for most of the American programs which come through the CBC, for they are tuneful, entertaining and amusing.

A great deal could be done to improve Canada's contributions to radio. The CBC has made great strides, some of them in the right direction, but it would be desirable if the objective of entertainment were paramount to that of inflicting programs of the educational or historical type upon wearied listeners in these days when a little spice would go a long way, and when music without words might be more enjoyed by the unseen audience.

Making Him An Expert

THE chief personal interest of the Son of Heaven is said to be the study of marine biology. While Hirohito must write poetry as a part of the duties of his office, the study of fish is a real hobby in which he does the job himself, and needs no ghost writers or other help.

Amid the rude shocks of war it is a pleasure to realize that we Americans are making Hirohito's interest in the depths, and especially the bottom of the sea, more absorbing every day. When the descendant of the Sun Goddess doffs his sacerdotal kimona or his admiral's uniform and dons a diving suit to review the Japanese Grand Fleet, we will have done our part to make him a real expert on the life of the fish. —Chicago Daily News.

Schmelling's War Role

MAX SCHMELLING, who was flattened by one Joe Louis on his last trip to this side of the ocean, is now known to have been in charge of the notorious "torture camp" at Uswecim, Pland, and is said to have been a particularly cruel disciplinarian. It is not likely Schmelling, if he survives the war, ever will find a welcome waiting him in any ring in the democratic countries—and certainly not in Poland.—Niagara Falls Review.

Guelph Is 115

ON April 2, 1827, what is now the city of Guelph came into existence. There are few cities that have the romantic history attached to their early days that falls to the lot of Guelph. The career of John Galt, the founder of the community, and who, himself a man of letters and a journalist, undertook the formation of the Canada Company, is interwoven with the early days of the city.

And now Guelph finds herself 115 years old. True she has not grown to as large proportions as some of her contemporaries, but she has grown well. There is a stability in Guelph that few centres can exceed. The city has shown its ability to weather times of depression and seasons of hard times and come out as strong and virile as ever.—Guelph Mercury.

Found Friendship

RUSSIANS also have discovered values doctrinaire Communism never developed. They have found friendship in other peoples. A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

Then said I, Ah, Lord God! behold, I cannot speak; for I am a child. But the Lord said unto me, Say not „ am a child; for thus shalt go to all that I shall send thee, and whatsoever I command thee thou shalt speak....Then the Lord put forth his hand and touched my mouth. And the Lord said unto me, Behold, I have put my words in thy mouth.—Jer. i., 6, 7, 9.

And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud; and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were a sun, and his feet as pillars of fire; and he had in his hand a little book open; and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth, and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth; and when he had cried, seven thunders uttered their voices.

And when the seven thunders had uttered their voces, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not....

And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea and upon the earth. And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey; and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. And he said unto me, thou must prophesy again before the peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.—Rev. x., 1-4, 8-11.

Britain's Policy

(Letter in New York Sun)

FOR some reason—or for no reason—a lot of American patriots seem to assume that England, out of all the nations of the earth, is somehow bound to strictly altruistic policies, and that if any of her policies can be shown to be for her own benefit it is evidence of hypocrisy. For eighty years of the nineteenth century her diplomacy tended to preserve peace.

The present question is not how to keep England from ruling the world, which she doesn't want to do, but how to keep Germany from doing it, and prevent Japan's grabbing not only India but the Philippines, and as much more as, with the aid of Germany, she hopes to secure. An American who thinks he would rather live in a world dominated by the Prussian military tradition and Japanese ambition than in one safeguarded by balance of power and an armament maintained to nip aggressive wars in the bud is apparently willing to cut off his nose to spite the British face.

Altruism in international relations is rarely practicable; enlightened self-interest is, because it rests on law and justice and fair dealing.

Russia's Noble Example

RUSSIA has set a noble and inspiring example to every other nation, great and small, which is fighting for freedom, and her achievements no less than the national spirit that inspired them and made them possible will remain imperishably emblazoned in historic records as long as time endures.

Editor Accuses Draft Board

NEW YORK, July 8 —(AP). — Ralph M. Ingersoll, editor and publisher of the newspaper PM, accused his draft board in an open letter today of attempting to draft him because of prejudice against PM.

A major portion of the newspapers front page headlines was devoted to the letter and the next three pages contained the text and an explanation by Ingersoll, who said in an editorial preface that he was ready to go into the army or continue as editor but added:—

"What I am kicking about is the decision being made by a draft board which has betrayed prejudice in my case—apparently because it doesn't like PM.

Classified 1-A by his local draft board, Ingersoll appeared for induction June 24, only to find that this had been delayed because of an appeal for deferment by Marshal Field, owner of PM, who said Ingersoll was indispensable to the paper's continuance.

The editor was cheduled to appear before the board tonight for a new hearing to determine his status.

Ingersoll prefaced a list of accusations with a demand that his case be 'handled by an impartial board.

"At my hearing on the night of June 16," the letter saaid, "one of you saiad to me: "Don't you think it would be a fitting climax to PM's career to have it end with your being drafted into the army as a private?"

"Were you drafting me in order to kill PM or in order to send an able-bodied combatant to fight our enemies as PM has done since its inception?

"You saiad: 'Wouldn't your competitors laugh if PM went out of business on account of your being inducted?' Were youp volunteering to help former America firsters and isolationists to kill PM—or were you sending me to kill Nazis?"

Ingersoll, who is 41, said he had told the Board he had two dependents, one a former wife 'awaiting a very serious operation and the other an 'aged paralytic,' and that he had no capital and was, in fact, in debt.

Institute Women Help In Haying

CAMPBELLFORD, July 7—(ENS) —It was Grandmother's Day at the Rylstone W. I. meeting on Thursday when members met at Mrs. John Simpson's for their regular meeting. The attendance was smaller than usual due principally to the additional farm work that most members are doing. Even the president, Mrs. Hector Arnold was unable to be present and it was reported at the meeting that she was home helping with the haying. Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn presided for the business period part of which was devoted to a discussion on the question of holding their regular summer lawn social. After taking the sugar rationing into consideration along with the tire and gas situation members voted against the social for this year. They were of the opinion that the money raised by the social would to some extent be offset by the waste of gasoline and rubber. Following the plan adopted last year they announced their decision to provide the money for one bag of sugar which will be given to the Institute branches in the fruit district for jam making.

The main feature of the program was the motto of the day which was given by Mrs. Thos. Fry, "It is the Little Things that Make Life Worth While." She built her subject around the Golden Rule "Do Unto Others, etc." Only four grandmothers attended the meeting and as a consequence the part of the program in which they were scheduled to take part had to be cancelled. Remainder of the afternoon was given over to a contest conducted by Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn and a quizz by Mrs. E. Irwin. The Institute will meet next month on August 5th.

GENERALS WIN 14-4 IN GIRLS' LEAGUE TO START SECOND HALF

Strickland Fans 13 Batters For The Generals

Top style pitching by Norma Strickland on the mound for the Generals, and a steady parade of well placed hits gave the C.G.E. team a well deserved 14 to 4 victory over Brintons in a snappy game played at Ashburnham Bowl, on Tuesday evening.

It was the first game of the second half, and the fast stepping Electrics kept right on their merry winning way blasting all opposition in their path. The Brintons, on the other hand showing steady improvement each time out, made it a fight all the way, but seemed to lack the punch and drive that goes to make winning ball games. The pitcher for the losers L. Hughes, toiled along seemingly undisturbed by the fact that the outfielders left several long clouts go for hits that should have been easy outs.

The Brinton team seemed to lack finish, and even the Generals are but a shadow of the teams turned out by the same plant a few years ago. This is hard to figure too, as many of the girls who played on C.G.E. teams with a lot of fight and spark a few years back are still on this year's aggregation. Proof that the much needed zip was lacking was apparent in that the girl coaches and players did not keep up a line of chatter to encourage the pitchers.

Norma Strickland had a grand night on the mound for the winners. She fanned 13 batters, walked five and allowed just five scattered hits. The team just played fair ball back of her. Craig at second and Bigelow at first teamed up in a nice double play, while M. Wade went deep behind third base to snag a hard hit fly. Strickland and Marilyn McCarthy were the top hitters with three singles apiece.

L. Hughes struck out four batters, walked two and was nicked for 14 hits, several of which should not have been hits at all. Dolly Walker, catcher for the Brintons, and a live player was right on the job and took two fouls back of the plate in handy fashion. Marg. Batley, the first sacker, blasted out two hot singles, that got past the infield.

The teams:

Brintons: M. Miller, lf; M. Batley, 1b; D. Walker, c; E. Basciano, rf; H. English, cf; I. Smith, 3b; I. Stewart, ss; N. Smith, ss; L. Hughes, p; A. Weir, ss.

Score by innings:

Generals	421 111 121—14	14	10
Brintons	001 000 021—4	5	6

JUDITH'S NEW JOB
CHAPTER XII

JUDITH opened her eyes and stared dazedly about the hospital room. At the foot of the bed a doctor and nurse watched her anxiously. She had slept for 24 hours, a sleep of exhaustion encouraged by a sedative the doctor had given her.

She rose slowly to the surface of consciousness. Then suddenly all the event of the night on the boat came back to her.

"Let me get out of here," she cried and started to get out of bed. But the nurse stepped forward and firmly forced her back under the covers.

"You must be very careful," she insisted.

"You are a sick girl," put in the physician, bending over her attentively.

Judith pressed her lips together and pulled herself back against the pillows. She looked at the doctor defiantly.

"I want to know if I look like a crazy person?"

The doctor shook his head quickly and smiled at her. "Of course not, my dear, you're just a sick young lady."

All right then. Listen to me. Call up the Watson Airplane factory and ask for Mr. Mathews and tell him to come after Miss Kingsly at once. Will you do that? Promise?"

He nodded. "I'll do it right away, Miss Kingsly. Now you rest and have some food. You haven't eaten in the last 24 hours, you know."

"That isn't the half of it. I haven't eaten in two days. You had better tell Mr. Matthews to bring me some clothes too." She eyed him suspiciously. "You did promise to call?"

The nurse and doctor went out together.

"Are you really going to call, Doctor Martin?" the girl whispered.

"What harm can it do?" he challenged. "I told her I would and I don't like to lie. Besides, there might be some truth in her words. It's a clew to work on, you know. But I am afraid it is just a mental case."

Judith was given food and after she had finished her hair was combed and curled and tied up. One of the student nurses brought some powder and rouge. But there were no clothes for her, so she stayed in bed obediently.

She was beginning to think her message had not been delivered or that Mathews had deserted her when the door of her room was pushed open and in came the manager of the factory, weighed down with boxes and bundles, and followed by the doctor and nurse.

"Miss Kingsly!" he cried. "I've never been so glad to see a person in my life." He dropped the boxes on the floor and reached to kiss her cheek as if he were an old friend. "We've been crazy. Mr. Watson is flying out here—should be in here in a few hours now."

Judith smiled, her eyes glowing. But before she could speak, the doctor was saying apologetically: "I'm so sorry about all this, Miss Kingsly."

She accepted the apology with a wave of her bandaged hand.

"Mr. Mathews—what happened to Tom? Did the detec—" Her eyes were cloudy with tears.

He smiled and nodded his head. "The detectives reached the boat right after you jumped overboard. There was some shooting but all the men were captured and Burke was unharmed. Even the ones at the house were caught. That's why the detectives were a little slow in catching up with you."

"Then Tom is all right." Gladness rang in her voice and the tears spilled over her lashes. She wiped at them with the corner of the sheet.

"He will be in a little while," grinned the manager knowingly. "Just as soon as I get you out of here. I haven't told him yet about you. I have him out at my place. We'll go there immediately."

Two nurses came to help Judith dress in the lovely things Mathews had brought for her. The bandages were removed from her hands and Judith found that the scratches had healed nicely.

"I had no idea you were so lovely, Miss Kingsly," said one of the nurses, as she stood off to have a better look.

"Quite remarkable how a little fixing up helps," smiled Judith. "Think I'll do now?"

"If he doesn't say he loves you, something is wrong with his eyesight."

Mathews was waiting for her in the hall. He tucked her arm through his and led her away.

"I just called home and found out Burke is in the garden. I tdlo them to keep him there. It's a pretty setting for the reunion of lovers."

Judith blushed but made no comment.

The car pulled into the driveway and Mathews pointed in the direction of the swimming pool.

"Follow the walk around there and you'll find him somewhere nearby."

Judith slipped from the car and hurried down the flagstones. She had never been so happy in her life. She rounded a shrub and ran smack into someone. She bounced back, breathless, as the man turned.

"Judy!"

For a moment, Tom Burke could not believe his eyes. He wiped a hand across them to clear his vision.

"Oh, Tom!" she cried and reached hands towards him. "I'm not a ghost."

That was all she needed to say at the moment.

Much later Mathews came out to say that Watson was there and wanting to see them. Judith's eyes were bright with the happiness of love as she and Tom slowly followed him to the house.

"Miss Kingsly!"

Watson hurried across the room and took her in his arms. Judith, astonished by his sudden action, was mute and wide-eyed. He kissed the top of her head.

"My dear girl—I have been frantic over your disappearance. I'm taking you back east with me—at once."

"Just a minute," put in Tom. "Miss Kingsly doesn't work for you any more."

"What do you mean?" Watson almost shouted the question; then he subsided and smiled. "I see," he said. "I suppose you are taking over the job of her future?"

Judith blushed as Tom's arm went around her waist and pulled her to his side.

"That's right, Mr. Watson," Burke answered. "Judith did a swell job for the company. She was responsible for rescuing me and capturing those spies. No man could have done better. But I never want her life put in danger again, and it isn't going to be," he added determinedly. "From now on she's going to lead a sheltered life."

There was a twinkle in his eyes as he kissed her.

Watson was beaming at them as he reached for Tom's hand; then he turned to Judith.

"I'll miss seeing that red head of yours every day, Miss Kingsly. But, frankly, I sent you out here because I hated to see you and Burke separated. I thought you two might patch things up if I threw you together." He sighed. "I had no idea I was letting you in for such an experience. I trumped up that excuse of a leak in the organization just to send you out here. It's a good thing I did."

"It's a good thing for both of us," said Tom.

Judith turned glowing eyes to the man she loved.

"And for me too," she smiled.

Mathews suddenly reasserted himself as host. "Well, seeing that the future is taken care of, suppose you two explore the garden again. I'll entertain Mr. Watson."

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

Heres what happened last night:

Benny Chesler's rink ran the string out to ten straight wins.

R. Payne is still in a tie for second place, but he had to keep bowling all evening to defeat R. Hendry.

The Fire Chief's quartette is still in that second place tie with R. Payne, but he had to make a couple of nice shots to put away the Routley brothers. It was close.

The Colemans—father and son—broke even. E. L. Sackville took care of 'our business' man and the junior member of the firm took Ernie Wall's boys into camp.

R. Burns and T. McMillan fought it out by the extra end way. It was a real game with some extra fine bowling.

And on the next green Harrison and Renaud also went into overtime with 'Gentleman Jim' getting the verdict.

H. Freeman and Dr. Long had a good close game all the way. The dentist got the pull by two shots.

The Downey-Williamson game was pretty much one-sided according to the score.

In the ladies' section, without consulting the records, we believe it is now a three-way tie for first place. It looks to us if the leading rinks are Mrs' J. Kingsbury, Mrs T. Doughty and Mrs. J. Arnold.

However, as the schedule is just a little more than half way through it is a little early to make any predictions.

St. Peter's-Plazas Benefit Game Thursday Night Has Four Prizes

Plans have been completed for the benefit game to be staged at Riverside Park on Thursday evening, starting at seven o'clock, and judging by the sale of tickets there will be a bumper crowd. The game is a llenge tussle between St Peter's, leaders in the Catholic League, and the Plazas, who are n leading the Men's City Softball Loop.

It is reported member of the teams in the Catholic loop plan to turn out in force to cheer their colleagues on to a win over the fast-stepping Plazas, and to prove that mushball in Armour Park is on a high plane. It should be a real battle with perhaps a lot more spark that is usually shown in the games at Riverside. The fighting Irish mean to contest the decision throughout, regardless of the fact that it is an exhibition tilt, because it is their big chance to humble the best team in the city and district.

The game was arranged by officials of the Catholic League to assist Joe Rochetta and another player, both of whom have suffered fractures playing ball during the year, and not only ran into doctor and hospital bills but lost time from work as well. The proceeds from the game should do much to reduce their out of pocket expenses, as everyone is giving their services free of charge.

Nagle Phelan, a well-known athlete of other years, and Max Board have offered to referee the game, and as both are strict arbiters, all warm arguments will be given an immediate cooling.

Fred Scates, veteran sports announcer and organizer, has agreed to take care of a draw during the game, and everyone who buys a ticket to see this battle will have chances on the prizes. First prize is $6, donated b the Sacred Heart team; second prize, an end table, donated by Ben Swartz; third prize, $2 merchandizing order from the Canadian Department Stores; fourth prize, a man's shirt, donated by Vern Selkirk, and a tie donated by Max Board.

AMERICAN LEAGUERS PROVE TOO MUCH FOR ARMY-NAVY STARS

Jump On Feller For 3 in 1st Win By 5 to 0

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
Associated Press Sport Writer

CLEVELAND, July 8—(AP). — The American League All-Stars have proved by all tests that they are, currenly, the mightiest in baseball.

Before a patriotic throng of 62,094 spectators in Cleveland's mammoth Municipal Stadium last night, the triumphant American Leaguers also proved their pitching was too sharp for eyes dulled by months of devotion to another task and their bats to potent for pitching arms grown rusty in the armed services of their country.

The American Leaguers routed proud Bullet Bob Feller of the Navy, Cleveland's own fireballer, with a three-run outburst at the start, and then went on to trounce Lieut. Gordon (Mickey) Cochrane's Soldiers and Sailors, 5-0.

For six innings the American Leaguers clung to a 3-0 lead collected at Feller's expense in the first two, and then sewed up the game in the seventh with a two-run attack on Mickey Harris, former Boston Red Sox lefty.

"Iron Mike" Cochrane, once manager of the Detroit Tigers, and one of the greatest catchers in baseball history ,took the defeat calmly.

"We lost in the first inning," Cochrane explained. We had the bases loaded and a single would have changed the whole story. We just muffed a big opportunity."

Rigney Goes Good

Best looking pitcher of the night was John Dungan Rigney, late of the Chicago White Sox, now a "gob" at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station. The 27-year-old Rigney, went to Feller's rescue with no one out in the second, and pitched five innings, allowing the mighty American Leaguers only three hits.

The homecoming of Feller, making his first appearance in Cleveland's ball field since late last September, was pathetic. When he proudly strolled to the mound, cheers greeted him. After Lou Boudreau, 24-year-old Cleveland manager, had flied out, Tommy Henrich of the Yankees rolled a scratch single towards the box, which Feller was unable to reach. Ted Williams, the Boston clouter, was passed, and Joe DiMaggio blasted a single to centre, scoring Henrich. Then Rudy York, Tiger first baseman, lifted a high fly to right, with Williams scoring.

In the second, Ken Keltner, Cleveland's sparkling third baseman, slammed a triple into deep centre and Buddy Rosar, a Yankee catcher, whacked a single into the left field grass, with Keltner scoring. That finished Feller. Sailor Rigney came in to stop the proceedings.

Roger Hornsby's Swaps Win Games, Cost Is Low

FORT WORTH, Tex., July 8 (AP) —The boys were trying to figure out how much the present Fort Worth ball club cost Rogers Hornsby and finally decided it must run in the neighborhood of $30 and a spare tire.

Trader Hornsby has materially changed the personnel and Texas League standing of his Cats this season by the inexpensive process of signing players nobody else wanted.

They say his typical greeting is: "Hello. Sign here. Take right field."

Fort Worth fans didn't know Alex Hooks, an Oklahoma City castoff, even was in Texas until he hit four-for-four against Shreveport.

Joe Winfield started as a pitcher two hours after signing.

Bill Barisoff came by train from the Pacific Coast, grabbed a sandwich, cap and uniform and has been in right field ever since.

In the lineup today is only one regular who opened the season and he's in left field instead of centre field.

But the club that started out to give Dallas a fight for the cellar now is in the first division, playing whirlwind ball and drawing 25 per cent more fans than last year's team.

Hornsby believes it's good business to look at a player — if it doesn't cost anything.

His pickups include Third Baseman Flea Clifton and Second Baseman Rabbit Warstler, former big leaguers. In addition to Hooks and Winfield, five others were obtained on option.

Before the season opened Hornsby bought two players and purchased another later but made up for these lapses by selling a like number.

But the fans are used to his lightning changes. It wouldn't surprise them if Babe Ruth floated down some night, disguised as a barrage balloon, in time to play the second game of a double-header.

Pair In Seventh See Leafs Shade Birds 3-2

By the Associated Press.

All good things must come to an end, and that's exactly what happened—and quickly—to Jersey City Giants.

After leading the International League for only a day, they tangled with Buffalo Bisons at Offerman Stadium last night and promptly proceeded to lose two games and drop to second place 1½ games behind Newark Bears and only half a game in front of Montreal.

The Giants lost both games by one run and both times the losing pitcher was Warren Sandell. Buffalo was leading 4-1 in the opener, when the Jerseys scored three times in the seventh to tie. Then Buffalo came back with one run in its half to win.

The Bisons were also leading in the nightcap, when home runs by Nino Bongiovanni, Bobby Westfall, and Joe Orengo accounted for five runs which tied the score at 9-9. Four Buffalo players hit home runs —Jim Levey, Dutch Meyer, Jack Redmond, and Johnny Welaj. Meyer's was the most damaging, coming with two on in a five-run fifth-inning uprising. Buffalo won the game in the last of the ninth on Redmond's single, Levey's double, and Mayo Smith's single.

Bears Take Royals.

The Bears behind the hurling of George Washburn, defeated Montreal Royals, 5-1. Washburn allowed only four hits, but he issued 14 bases on balls.

After Rochester Red Wings won the initial contest, 8-5, Syracuse Chiefs scored three times in the nifith to take the second half of the bargain bill, 6-5. Erv Dusak of the Wings had a field day, exploding two homers, two doubles and a single before the evening's festivities were over.

Despite Ed Robinson's 14th circuit clout of the season with Hank Edwards on base, Baltimore Orioles lost to Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2. Baltimore held a 2-1 advantage until the seventh when the Leafs scored twice to win. Singles by Lee Handley, Eddie Leip, and Johnny Wyrostek plus a wild pitch by Ken Trinkle, gave the Leafs their winning margin.

The first annual International League all-star game will be played at Buffalo to-night (8:30 p.m. EDT) and proceeds from the contest will go to purchase athletic equipment for the Canadian and American armed forces.

Toronto's sinkerball artist, Nick Stincevich, will start for the northern team and Bobby Coombs of Jersey City has been selected as the starting pitcher for the southern team.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 8.—(CP)—As the years roll on and tales from the past soar in stature, athletes of today appear dull and lifeless creatures. They live too much by the rules—because if they don't bigtime clubs won't have them. Color gradually is dying out of sport. It remains only on the playing field, because a steal of home or a terrific body check always will have color. But when an athlete takes off his uniform today he becomes an ordinary citizen.

A few years ago most athletes were history-making characters, in or out of uniform. When will there be another John King, who hated southpaws so much (because he couldn't hit them) during his playing days in the Texas League that he tied his son's left arm behind him when he found the child picking up a toy with his left hand? For that matter, when will there be another Red Dutton, who used to send pictures of glamorous babes to his friends on the old Montreal Maroons and has his wife write accompanying fan letters?

And remember Burleigh Grimes used to be Boiling Boileigh? He had callouses on his knuckles from socking umpires. He boils no longer. Someone has turned off the heat within. At his best, he barely simmers.

Sam Rotschild, the Sudbury hockey maestro, talked a little about the old days yesterday at a luncheon which sounded the first official roll of drums for the Canadian Open (Toronto Mississauga, August 6-7-8). He was on the Maroons with Dutton. A letter would come asking Hooley Smith—for instance—to wear his hat backwards walking down a certain street that night, or giving a telephone number. Calling the number invariably meant endless conusion. Dutton's wife wrote the letters to lend the proper feminine touch.

Practical jokes then were taken at face value—something to laugh at, talk about 15 years later—but not now. Nobody ever has admitted it, but Joe Cooper, the Chicago Black Hawks defenceman, was sold by New York Rangers because he played too many practical jokes. Lester Patrick told me after he sent Cooper down from Rangers to Philadelphia Ramblers that the big defenceman would never get back up with Rangers again. He asked that nothing be written about it then because he was trying to make a sale, but he made the sale all right. It won't hurt to tell now. Nobody got gypped, because Cooper is a good defenceman.

Perhaps the only way to get that personal dash into sports is to break up existing sporting organizations The war may do that, whether we like it or not. If it does, sports will have to start from scratch again when peace comes and it may take 10 or 1½ years before the color is "organized" into the background again. Meanwhlie, if you hear about anyone stealing an umpire's pants, drop us a line.

Bradley Risking His Crown At Brantford

TORONTO, July 8.— Quality, rather than quantity, will be stressed in the twentieth Ontario amateur championship golf tournament, which will be featured at Brantford Golf and Country Club on Thursday Friday and Saturday.

Ex-Champions Enter.

Bruce Bradley, the Oshawa entry who bobbed up from nowhere to lasso the precious title, gold medal and replica of the championship trophy last year, will be called on to meet the challenge of three former titleholders, John S. Lewis of Brantford, Jack Nash of London, and Phil Farley, Scarboro's recent Ontario Open hurdler.

Lewis and Nash have appeared both as amateur champions and as runners-up. Farley has tucked the title away three times. George Boeckh runner-up to Don Carrick in 1933, is another Bradley threat.

L. B. Bissell, the Londoner who made such a good showing in the 1938 Canadian amateur; Jim Twiss, Mississauga, who turned in a neat scoring trick in the Ontario Open last week; Nick Wisnock, the long hitting Burlington member; Bill Kozak, Lookout Point; and Bill Treadway, Cedar Brae are others in the fietld. The entry, as anticipated, is small.

Farley Hottest Bet.

Hottest proposition at the moment is Phil Farley, who hedge-hopped over amateurs and professionals in the Ontario Open at Cedar Brae. He may find stiffer competition in match play, which will prevail after Thursday's 18-hole qualifying round.

The championship final will be an 18-hole event for Saturday afternoon.

Heroic Scot Lad Lets Kilts Crimp Coney Trip

NEW YORK, July 8 —(AP). — All the hair-raising adventures young Hugh Bright experienced during bombing raids on his native Glasgow were nothing compared to the terrors he underwent on a pleasure trip to Coney Island.

For while his three fellow British "blitz scouts" took the beach resort by storm yesterday, Hugh blanched on one occasion and blushed on another.

At home Hugh's exceptional and courageous service as a stretcher-bearer won him a tour of the United States and Canada with the other Scout heroes — nicknamed 'Blitz Scouts' because of their bravery. But at Coney, Hugh didn't quite make the grade and it was because of his kilts.

"Gorblimey!" cried Troop Leader Roy Davis, 18, of Southampton, as he touched ground after a chute descent. "Aren't you going to try it, Hugh?"

"I think not," replied the 17-year-old Scottish lad, glancing up 250 feet to the top of the jump and then down at his kilts. "Somehow I just don't feel like it."

And if the modest Hugh's face was white then at the thought of exposing a good part of himself to the public gaze, it turned another color—red—in the Steeplechase Park fun house later.

Young Davis, together with John Bethell, 16, of Birkenhead, and Stanley Newton, 18, of Gibraltar coaxed Hugh into the house of laughs, where a concealed skirt-blower promptly sent his kilts skyward.

"Gorblimey!" shrieked the trousered trio, "Hugh's blushing."

Along the whole 50-mile front stretching 20 miles south from the El Alamein region and then turning westward 30 miles to the region south of El Daba, both sides kept up artillery fire.

There was little other ground activity except for flying British tank columns harrying the Germans.

Among emergency measures introduced at a secret meeting of the Egyptian parliament July 6 was an immediate credit of 2,000,000 Egyptian pounds of which one-fourth was earmarked for the army. (The Egyptian pound nominally is worth about $3.70).

Anti-aircraft precautions were ordered strengthened and another emergency measure required physicians and nurses, pharmacists and public utility workers to stand by their jobs in any eventuality.

Two sweetless days, on which no candy or pastry will be made, were added to the three meatless days weekly in a further restriction of 'unnecessary consumption.'

House Votes

tend to create dissension that might lead to internal war.

During the concluding speech by the Prime Minister there was a heated exchange when Mr. King said that a Conservative member had described him as opposed to sending men overseas.

Mr. Hanson insisted that the Prime Minister name the member and quote him. Mr. King said he intended to proceed with his speech and would give the reference later.

King Names Diefenbaker

But Mr. Hanson insisted and Mr. King named John Diefenbaker (Con., Lake Centre) as the member to whom he referred.

Mr. Diefenbaker denied he had made such a statement and Mr. King read the statement he referred to from the official record of the House.

This, Mr. Diefenbaker insisted, had reference only to the Prime Minister's opposition to conscription for service overseas, and the incident ended.

An anti-climax division was created immediately after the main vote. The House at once went into committee of the Whole on the bill just as a formality, with Deputy Speaker Vien in the chair.

As the committee was about to rise and "report progress" on motion of the Prime Minister, Mr. Hanson took the floor.

"Before this motion is put, Mr. Chairman, if I may, I should like to make this statement," he said. "Because of the speech made by the Prime Minister tonight after the debate, when no one else could reply, a speech in which it was indicated that the government had looped the loop three times—"

The Conservative House Leader was interrupted by cries of "order" and other shouts from members which created a tumult.

Chairman Vien said the motion had already been put to the committee before Mr. Hanson arose.

Three Liberals Bolt

Mr. Hanson appealed from the chairman's ruling and Speaker Glen was recalled. He put the question to the House and Mr. Vien was sustained on a call of ayes and nays. Mr. Hanson and his followers then demanded a recorded vote which resulted in a vote of 137 to 44 with New Democracy group and three Liberals and some Independents supporting Mr. Hanson against the government and the C.C.F. group.

The three Liberals were George Cruickshank (Fraser Valley), Jean Francois Pouliot (Temiscouata) and Ross Gray (Lambton West).

Last day of the debate brought a long list of speakers. A feature was an appeal by R. W. Gladstone (Lib. Wellington South) for wider delegation of duties to private members coupled with the suggestion that unless this appeal was heeded it might bring "more plain speaking, hurt feelings—or worse."

Mr. Gladstone supported the bill and indicated a desire for immediate action to make sure of the powers it would confer upon the government.

Russians Kill

west of Voronezh. In one sector a large German force tried to capture a height defended by Soviet tank detachments. Our tanks met the enemy steadfastly."

A Soviet tank detachment holding a sector in the Don River Basin west of Voronezh killed 700 Germans and demolished 14 of their tanks in a day's action, it was announced.

Wipe Out 1,000 At One Time

Outnumbered Red Army men were declared to have killed more than 1,000 during defence of a village for 48 hours, although the implication was that the invaders finally won it.

The Germans have cleared the Crimea and shouldered back the Red Army with more or less success on a 150-mile line of the southern front since starting 1942 offensive operations on the Kerch Peninsula two months ago today. Pincers threaten the Caucasus.

All German gains in this period, however, probably total less than 15,000 square miles, in contrast to the 335,000 square miles occupied in the first two months of the Russian war.

Two months after Hitler's forces struck east June 2, 1941, they had swept to the Dnieper River, occupied such centres as Novgorod, Smolensk and Nikoaev and established siege lines about Kiev, Odessa and Leningrad, of which only Leningrad was to survive.

Russia's southern line sags deepest under the weight of Nazi fire and steel at Voronezh, 130 miles east of Kursk.

The Germans hold Kupyansk, 150 miles southwest of Voronezh, as the result of a 60-mile drive from their base at Kharkov. They are battering Red Army positions in between. Otherwise the long mainland front is essentially as it has been for months.

The Russians stand guard south of Leningrad before such Nazi-occupied points as Novgorod, Staraya Russa, Rzhev, Gzhatsk, Vyazma, Bryansk, Orel (northern anchor of the Voronezh operations), Kupyansk, Stalino and Taganrog.

Labor Situation On Farm Reported Worse

"More food products will be wasted in Ontario this year than ever before in the history of the produce," said Harry H. Scott, president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, following a meeting of the directors Mosday which Reeve James Gifford of Ennismore, attended.

"Our director from many sections of the province were unanimous in their opinion that the farm labor situation is even worse than was anticipated, even by trose who have been warning us of trouble ahead," Mr. Scott continued.

"Last year we were favored with ideal weather and short crop conditions. At the same time the exodus from the farms had not reached its peak. This year we have normal crops with some adverse weather and the shortage of labor is acute."

A cynical and perceptibly acidulous note sounds in this statement's next paragraph: "The Federation officials are of the opinion that little can be done to improve the situation inasmuch as the Federal government, cosvinced that the farmer will produce any way, is apparently not ready to mobilize effectively the man power of the country in order to harvest the crops. Only a food shortage will bring home to the responsible people the necessity for action.

The Federation appreciates the mobilization of the High school students by the Ontario government. This has been the only bright spot in the picture.

The Federation was astounded by recent statements credited to Donald Gordon, chaiarman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, who told a recent delegation that the farmers would be fortunate if, at the end of the war, they found themselves in as good position economically as they are at the moment. Mr. Gordon also expressed the opinion that agriculture could not become competitive in the labor market with industry.

Reduction of Farm Products.

This means, in the opinion of our executive, that our farmers have to give up ropes of securing more help, and, in the end, will result in a reduction of farm products. The Federation feels that it has done everything possible to emphasize the serious nature of the situation but realizes trat until official Ottawa is prepared to recognize the inherent danger now facing us in the production of food our farmers must face facts and accept the edict that there is little help in sight.

In addition it is the expressed opinion of our executive that the fight for adequate remuneration will have to be maintained with full vigor. Our officials are amazed to find Ottawa so satisfied with productios trends and unable to visualize the short position that is developing so rapidly."

Butter Fat Bonuses.

Reeve Gifford said it was expected that the 6-cent butter fat bonus by the government would continue in effect for the duration of the war. In that connection he recalled that a delegation of the executive of the Dairy Farmers of Canada and the Federation of Agriculture met the Wartime Prices and Trade Board and Hon. Jas. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, about two weeks ago, regarding the price of butter fat, and subsequently tre six-cent bonus was announced to be paid through creameries to the producer.

Heavy Re-stocking Of Fish In Lakes

Distribution of fish fry from the Deer Lake Hatchery this season has already reached box-car figures, or even astronomical. For instance, 25,800,000 pickerel; 63,550 speckled trout, 1,605,000 maskinonge.

The summary of this restocking already in 1942 was shown to The Examiner today by Chas. Kingnan, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association. Pickerel have been transferred to waters all the way from Campbellford to Muskoka. The Trent River at Campbellford got 2,000,000; Crowe Lake, Marmora, 1,000,000; Keene, another million; Round Lake at Havelock, one million; Paudash Lake, Bancroft, one million; and an additional two million in the Trent at Campbellford and Lower Falls.

The Otonabee River at Peterborough received 750,000, and all the way through the district pickerel deposits have been correspondingly heavy. The muskie distribution has been in multiples of 5,000. Rice Lake got 75,000. Some of the largest quantities have gone to the chain of lakes around Havelock—Whetstone, Round, Belmont, North River, Tongamong, Kashabog and others. The East Peterborough hatchery also sent 115,000 muskies to the St. Lawrence River, at Brockville. Katchawanooka Lake at Lakefield got 100,000, but the entire list is too long and detailed for anything more than passing mention of totals.

The Battery is permitted to recruit up to its full establishment of 204 men all ranks, and it is expected at the rate recruits are coming in that the battery will be up to strength before the time comes to go to summer camp.

I.O.D.E. Chapter Gives $25 To War Victims

The Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. of which Mrs. Etta Robinson is the Regent, has been a persistent helper to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, having on a number of occasions made substantial contributions to alleviate the distress of air raid victims in Britain through this fund, one of their contributions amounting to $300.

Only as recently as May 12 they made a donation of $25.00 to this fund, and now they are back again with a similar amount which represents a part of the proceeds from a garden party held on June 19 at the residence of Mrs. F. D. Kerr, 586 Rubidge Street, the other portion being given in a similar amount to the Peterborough Air Force Auxiliary. This by no means represents the total results of their efforts, for right now they are sending $100 worth of clothing direct to England for the use of those who have been bombed out and from all accounts this too will be a valuable asistance, when one considers that in the city of Norwich alone some 35,000 people have been made homeless through the recent air attack on that ancint city. This contribution to the fund wa handed in by Mrs. W. A. Davern, the treasurer of this chapter.

From A. R. Church also comes a repeat donation which marks the third time money has come from this source, by his having a box to hold the odd coppers and change, this adding the personal touch to this day's receipts for the fund.

The box at Loblaws has been a good producer to help the people of Britain. P. E. Moore the manager, is a native of one of the most heavily bombed coastal cities in England, whose parents were advised in common with other aged people, to give up their homes and move to less vulnerable spots. The amount listed to-day in the name of this store is $9.00 Another box collection completes the list for the day, with $1.90 coming from the box in the Royal Bank of Canada.

To-night all lovers of beautiful flowers may have an opportunity to see one of the finest collections of lilies and roses in bloom at the residence of Jack Smith, 150 Benson Avenue who is opening his garden to public view in aid of the fund which will be assisted by a silver collection, the event being held under the sponsorship of the Peterborough Horticultural Society. All are cordially invited to come and see this beauty spot, which also includes a lily pool and some nice rock gardens.

Minister-Counsellor To U.S. Once Student At Collegiate

Lester Bowles Pearson, O.B.E., M.A., Canada's Minister-Counsellor in Washington, lived for some years in Peterborough at the parsonage of George Street United Church, and was a student at the Collegiate Institute under Dr. H. R. H. Kenner. His father was the Rev. Albert Pearson, affectionately remembered by many of the present membership of George Street Church and by other citizens who knew him during his local pastorate.

LESTER B. PEARSON

An interesting sketch of this young diplomat was recently wired from Ottawa by R. K. Carnegie of the staff of Canadian Press.

"Mike" Pearson's friends in this city will recognize some of the familiar lineaments that are high-lighted in the following personal reflection of the former Collegiate student who is now prominently placed in the Canadian legation at Washington during these years of history in the making:

"Legally he is Lester Bowles Pearson, O.B.E., M.A. Actually he is just plain Mike, and the nickname suits him. In 1929, a year after he started his career in the Dominion's young diplomatic service, he was temporarily attached to the Washington legation. Now he is back as second-in-command to Hon. Leighton McCarthy, Canadian Minister.

It's a safe prediction he will be liked by State Department officials and members of the diplomatic corps in Washington. In every other post he has occupied, people have recognized in Mike a deep and logical thinker—once they realize that behind his boyish and infectious smile is a mature mind.

The new Minister-Counsellor takes to Washington a distinctly Canadian viewpoint, backed by considerable experience in dealing with international problems. He approaches every problem without bias and when he reaches a conclusion he's prepared to stand by it.

Was in R.F.C.

He doesn't like the "Lester Bowles" part of his name, but he does like "Mike." He says, "I got the nickname in the First Great War. I guess it seemed more appropriate than Lester for a fellow in the Royal Flying Corps." He doesn't seem old enough to have been in the last war. Actually he is 45.

One of his good points—and he has many—is that he never takes himself over-seriously and refuses to be nonplussed by big reputations. He is naturally courteous, but more so to the humble than to the pompous. The way he deflated certain "stuffed shirts" in London, where he was stationed at Canada House as secretary with rank of counsellor until a year ago, has been the source of many a chuckle in Ottawa. Blustering and swank are simply wasted on this nochalant man.

Son of a Methodist minister, Mike was born in Toronto. After brilliant courses at University of Toronto and Oxford he seemed headed for a scholastic career and for a time lectured at U. of T. on modern history. Perhaps this experience gave him the remarkable ease and aplomb with which he conducts press conferences. No question fired at him by newspapermen ever worried him noticeably.

Both in London and Ottawa he was eagerly sought after by correspondents and was never too busy to help. Sometimes he spoke for publication—never to be quoted by name—and sometimes he spoke "off the record," but what he said was invariably helpful.

Diplomatic Service

In 1928 the late Dr. O. D. Skelton, then Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs, who had also been a college professor, brought Mike into the diplomatic service. After a stay at Washington he ran into one job after another as an "adviser."

He was adviser to the Canadian delegation at the naval disarmament conference in London in 1930, at The Hague for the conference on codification of international law the same year, and at Geneva at the 1932 conference on armaments. In fact, he spent five years as an adviser at international conferences or secretary to royal commissions in Canada.

Going to Canada House, in London, in 1935 he later became secretary with the rank of counsellor. He was through the bombing of London, but insists nothing happened to him—although he acknowledges that the windows of his flat were smashed and a bomb dropped in his back yard.

He left London to return to Canada May 13, 1941, the day after the heaviest bombing attack London suffered. "As soon as the Germans were sure I had left they stopped bombing London," he said.

That is typical of Mike's dry humor. At one meeting with the press he picked up a memorandum dealing with his replacement of Hume Wrong at the Washington Legation. "Wrong transferred to Ottawa; Pearson transferred to Washington; your holidays cancelled," was the way he read it to the reporter.

Mrs. Pearson moved from London to Ottawa in 1940, a year before her husband. Their son, 14, and their daughter, 13, both born in Canada, have about lost their English accent. Now they will be going to Washington.

As for Mike, his accents never change and neither do his mannerisms nor his habits. They are racy of old Ontario."

Building Roads Laying Sewers On Hatton Farm

Reversing their practice on their three other projects in Peterborough, Wartime Housing Limited will begin Wednesday the laying of sewers and water mains and the making of roads for streets on the Hatton estate property at the west end of Charlotte street where 125 temporary houses for munitions workers and their families will be erected.

Contract for the preliminary services has been let to Rusicica Brothers of Toronto, and towards the end of the month the Eastwood Construction Company, who have been awarded the house building contract, are expected to begin operations.

Experience has demonsrated an advantage in getting roads, with their sewer and water mains, well advanced prior to the undertaking of the main housing job. This plan also provides more convenience for the separate contractors, more elbow room and the avoidance of getting in each other's way.

The Eastwood Construction Company's contract is for 125 houses of the types already in use in the Burnham's Point and Park Hill Road communities. J. H. Eastwood told the Examiner today that he expected to have the Monaghan Road staff house finished by the end of August in spite of the early obsruction of adverse ground conditions when this work was begun.

Licenses Net Peterboro $807.50

Of the 74 marriages here in June, licenses issued locally for 53 yielded $265 to the city treasurery, City Clerk Outram informed the council Monday night. Revenue from all licenses amounted to $807.50.

Mr. Outram's review of police court grist for two months follows:

"During the month of May, 73 cases were registered in Police Court, 37 of which were convictions and four of the persons charged entered written pleas of guilty and did not appear in court. Twelve offenders under the Liquor Control Act paid fines totalling $150.00; two charged as second offenders were committed to gaol. Also two persons were committed to gaol for drunken driving. Under the Highway Traffic Act two were convicted for inadequate brakes and one for careless driving. In addition there was one conviction for dangerous driving (Code 286 (6), and fine and costs of $59.50 were paid; accused was also prohibited from driving for six months. Fines in four cases totalling $40.00 for illegal fishing were paid and remitted to the Provincial Treasurer. These charges were laid by the Game and Fisheries Overseer. Under the Special War Revenue Act, R.S.C. 1937, a licensed manufacturer was convicted of failing to file sales return, and the $10.00 fine was forwarded to the Minister of Finance, Ottawa. Total proceeds for the month were $346.26 —$93.90 being the proportion paid to the Province.

In June 95 cases were dealt with. Of the 49 convictions 29 appeared in Court and the remaining 20 authorized a constable to plead guilty on their behalf. Of the 14 charges laid by the R.C.M.P. against local hotel proprietors under Section 444 of the Criminal Code (consipracy to defraud) three were dismissed, eight were bailed for trial and three have been adjourned to July 7th. The sum of $115.00 was received for fines under the L.C.A.; two offenders went to gaol for non-payment. Convictions involving motor vehicles included: Intoxicated in charge of car, 1; Dangerous driving, 2; Exceeding 30-mile an hour speed limit (Wartime Reg'ns Dept. M. & S.), 2; H.T.A., careless driving, etc., 9; City traffic by-laws (overtime parking), 5. Also under the H.T.A. there were eight convictions, totalling fines of $16.00, for riding bicycles without lights. Total proceeds from the month's activities were $365.00 — $200.44 paid to the city; $120.31 to the province, and the balance to J. P.'s, witnesses and Crown Attorney fees."

Walter Dredge Returns After 37 Years

On his first visit to Peterborough in 37 years, Walter Dredge, jobbing printer of Edmonton, briefly recalled this morning members of the staff of the old Examiner to which he became a press department apprentice 45 years ago.

WALTER DREDGE

"J. R. Stratton was the head of the firm," Mr. Dredge said. "J. F. Jamieson was the general manager, and William Menzies was the advertising man. F. R. Yokome was the editor, Albert Martin was the foremn of the newsroom, and Harry Donnelly was foreman of of the press room. They have all passed away.

William A. Buchanan of Lethbridge, now a Canadian Senator, was on the news staff with Ernest S. Clarry, who I understand is now living in Ottawa. R. M. Glover was Mr. Stratton's secretary, and Harry Lacheur was employed in the job department. When I joined the Examiner they used to make boxes on the third floor over the bookstore conducted by Albert H. Stratton. The boxes were for the Peterbrough Lock Company of which J. R. Stratton was then the president. As soon as a vacancy occurred in the press room I was taken on under Harry Donnelly, learned my trade and after eight years altogether with the Examiner I went west in 1905."

Prior to departing for Edmonton, Mr. Dredge had married Agnes Speirs of Otonabee. He was born in Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dredge of Wiltshire, England. His father had been a gardener in the Old Country. His home here was north of the city in the vicinity of the filtration plant, then the estate of John Carneigie.

"I remember that my father did the landscaping of the lawns of Nicholls Hospital," Mr. Dredge said. "We came east for the marriage in Toronto of our youngest son, Corp. Robert Victor Dredge, R.C.A.F., of No. 4 Repair Depot, Scoudouc, N.B. They have since returned to New Brunswick. I was also a delegate from the Edmonton Lodge to the convention of the Canadian Order of Foresters in Montreal. My wife is at present visiting her brother, Bruce Speirs, at Lang, and we are leaving Sunday for Edmonton after an absence since June 1st."

Mr. Dredge said he has operated his own job printing business in Edmonton for many years. The Alberta city is now the centre of greatly increased air activity since the United States declared war, and immediately began prepartions for the defence of Alaska. One detail of their preparations is the construction of a long runway for U.S. bombers.

Fred Imming Given Rank Of Corporal

In a letter to Alderman G. N. Gordon, Fred Imming of the R.C.A.F. reports that he has been promoted to the non-commissioned rank of corporal at a Canadian base post in Devonshire, England.

"When I was on leave I spent a few hours in Peterborough and bought a few pictures which I shall show you when I get home. It is quite an old cathedral city. I had supper there, and believe it or not I had bacon and one egg. I saw Hugh at Bournemouth. He was ill in Scotland for about six weeks, but has since been posted to a squadron in the south, where the weather is milder and not so damp. I do not know for the moment where he is.

My daughter, Muriel, with the Women's Auxiliary Air Force, has also been posted to a new station, but right now I am out of touch with both of trem for the time being. I want to thank you very much for your letters. They were most welcome as you have no idea how homesick one gets over here."

Rangers Plan Visitors' Day At Rifle Ranges

Next Sunday, July 12, has been set aside as Visitors' Day at the Prince of Wales Rangers' Camp at the Rifle Ranges and families and friends of the Regiment are invited to visit the camp and see the boys going through the regular syllabus of training.

Officers and men of the unit are making preparations for the accommodation of the visitors, and a lunch will be served picnic fashion, then a sing-song held around a huge bon-fire in the evening. The Prince of Wales Rangers' band will be in attendance during the afternoon and evening to provide music. The Civilian Recruiting committee is also being extended an invitation to visit the camp.

Members and friends of the regiment who have not transportation are asked to assemble at the Armouries at 3.30 Sunday afternoon, and all memberr of the regiment who have cars along with citizens who will volunteer to bring their cars will transport the civilians to the camp, which is two miles east of tre Trent Canal on the old Norwood Road.

The Battalion will parade at four o'clock at the Ranges and will be inspected by Major V. Eastwood, M.C. Visitors also will be able to watch the men on the ranges and in their usual week-end training.

Tea will be served in the officers' mess and in the sergeants' mess, and tea, sandwiches and cake will be served to tre families and friends of members in the regiment.

On Tuesday evenihg, the regiment had its largest parade to date, with 337 men all ranks turning out for drill. The new recruits are showing marked aptitude for the training, and their appearance is improving with every parade. The regiment is showing a steady growth, with an increase in the number turning up every week.

Of the 337 men in Tuesday's parade, more than 200 have enlisted since the Prince of Wales Rangers mobilized for active service, joining with those of the old unit who were either too old or too young to join the active ranks. Eight more were taken on strength Tuesday and an equal number failed to pass the recruiting officer. The new men are as follows:

To Get New Fuse Plug Must Turn In Old One

To buy a new fuse plug, you have to present the old one that has burned out according to new retailing regulations. This restriction applies to a long list of articles such as electrical appliance plugs, sockets and cords, buzzers, conduit filling, and so on.

If retailers adhere strictly to this new ruling the public can buy only for replacement purposes.

"What if I haven't got an old one," a buyer in a notions department store asked to-day.

After some weak hemming across the counter, this man got a new switch, but without substitution.

The Higgins Hardware store has posted the trade regulation at their electrical goods counter, but that was the only retail spot where the new order was actually displayed.

ENGAGED COUPLES SHOULD CROSS-EXAMINE EACH OTHER

A Pre-Marriage Questionnaire Would Cheat Divorce Courts.

THE trouble with engaged couples is that they waste so much valuable time in discussing purely academic questions when they should be using it in trying to get a line on each other. They vivisect each other's emotions when they should be probing into each other's tastes and habits. They spend hours and hours, weeks and months and sometimes years and years in asking: "Do you love me?" "Am I the ONLY one?" "Would you pine away and die of grief if anything untoward should happen to me?"—when they should be putting the party of the other part through the third degree about the things that will make him or her a pleasant companion to live with, or a perpetupal pain in the neck.

All of which is so much eye wash, as the modernistic youths say, for, of course, and lover is going to lie like a gentleman and tell Arabella she is more beautiful than Miss America. No human being can guarantee how long his or her love is going to last, and men have died and worms have eaten them, but not for love.

If lovers enjoy passing an evening in telling each other these pretty fairy tales, it would seem a harmless enough amusement, except for the fact that it results so often in what we are pleased to call the "disillusion" of marriage. Men and women take on life partners without the slightest knowledge of what sort of people they really are, or how they will suit them, and when they find that they are allergic to each other they wail over the disappointments of marriage and rush for the divorce courts.

More divorces are caused by husbands and wives having little "ways" that get on each other's nerves than by all the major and minor sins, and it is both sad and ironic to think how many of these tragedies could have been prevented by a few well-directed questions during the days of courtship.

Romeo Has a Right to Know

But Romeo never asks Juliet what are her reactions towards the kitchen, yet the success of his marriage depends just as much upon her loving it as it does upon her loving him. If she can never pass a display of pots and pans unmoved and if she regards a kitchen as a place where she can make magic with roasts and stews and sauces, at forty he will be one of the fat and contented husbands who advises all young men to marry. But if she boasts that she cannot boil water without scorching it, at middle age he will be sour and dyspeptic and wondering what made him do it.

Nor does Romeo get Juliet's idea on the financial proposition and find out on the safe side of the altar whether she is a spender or a saver, yet that knowledge will determine whether he will spend his life dodging the bill-collector, or be living some day on Easy Street.

Neither does Romeo inquire into whether Juliet believes in liberty for husbands, or thinks that the marriage ceremony automatically constitutes a wife her husband's jailer. Yet how many domestic brawls could be saved if a chap made his getaway before he stuck his head in the noose, instead of vaguely struggling for a little liberty after his wife has gotten him on the leash. And Romeo could, with profit, find out whether Juliet considered that her husbnd should be a household pet, or a beast of burden, and treated accordingly.

Juliet Moght Well Ask

And Juliet could save herself a lot of grief if she would do a little sleuthing before marriage and find out her prospective husband's opinions on a few basic propositions, as, for instance, his views on a home—whether it is a place for a husband to stay in of an evening, or merely a convenient spot in which to change his clothes before he steps out alone for a night's diversion with the boys.

Does he intend to make any effort to make life happy and interesting for his wife, or does he think that just being married to him will provide any woman with all the joy and excitement she could desire? When, things go wrong at the office, is he going to take it out on her and say all the mean things to her that he dared not say to his boss? Has he the sulking habit? Or does he fly into rages? Or does he pass into the silence?

Will he hold her responsible for the high cost of living? Will he think she ought to grow her own fine feathers, or look like a million dollars in a basement bargain? Will he make her feel that if she was half the sort of wife she should be, the children wouldn't have the measles, or have to have their teeth straightened, or wear out their shoes? Does he read at the table? Does she have to shut her eyes when he eats an egg?

What are his views on the allowance question, and a wife's right to belong to clubs, and have a few opinions of her own?

What a pity engaged couples do not have heart-to-heart talks before marriage, instead of quarreling over them afterwards.

Feels Alone Though Married

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am 23. Married four years. Have two handsome little sons. I love them, but my husband, who is also 23, seems to think that should be sufficient for my complete happiness. It is not I want his companionship and I haven't got it. He doesn't seem to crave my company. He will talk with me if he can do all the talking but unless I have something vitally important to say he doesn't consider it worth his while to listen.

He won't take a walk with me. He isn't interested in going to the movies with me. I am tired of living alone. True, I have my women friends, but what I need and must have is the companionship of a man. Sometimes I feel I must seek one who would be my mental companion, but I love my husband in spite of myself. So what am I to do? I feel so terribly alone. Tell me and you may yet save a marriage from going on the rocks.

Answer: If all the wives whose husbands do not spend their evenings entertaining them got divorces, there wouldn't be many homes left intact. Many men, for some reason that women never seem to be able to understand, appear to stricken with dumbness when they cross their own thresholds and, no matter how gabby they are in public, they pass into silence in the privacy of their homes. No matter how much they set other peoples' dinner tables in a roar, they open their mouths at their own table only when they put food into them.

A Man's Attitude Understandable

Doubtless the reason for this is that the average man gets plenty of arguing and persuading and trying to be entertaining in his business, and when he comes home he is all talked out. He wants to rest his tongue and also rest his ears. You can't wonder at his attitude toward conversation. But it is hard on his wife who has probably spent most of her day, by her lonesome, with no livelier companionship than the baby, and who is all bottled up with talk that she is longing to get off her chest.

Wives consider it mere perverseness in their husbands not to want to tell them everything they have seen and heard during the day; and especially they resent their husbands not being willing to talk over their business with them. They think it shows that their husbands don't trust them, or something.

But, nine times out of ten, the real reason is that the husband wants to put out of his mind for a few hours all the details of the daily grind; he feels that if he has to thrash over all of the blunders and mistakes and incompetences that he has to contend with, or repeat the bawling out the boss gave him, or the anxiety about whether the bank is going to renew his note, that he simply couldn't go on with it. He feels his only salvation is in forgetting work for a little while and being able to go back to it with a fresh mind and a new viewpoint.

Harnden-Brisbin Vows Taken In Havelock

HAVELOCK, July 8 — (ENS). — A very pretty summer wedding was solemnized on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mary Brisbin, Matheson street, when her oldest daughter, Miss Eileen Bessie Olga was united in marriage to LAC Howard Harnden, Trenton, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harnden, Havelock, with Rev. J. W. Wilkinson officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Barry Seabrook, Jr., Peterborough, and entered the living-room to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, played by Mrs. Florence Clark. The wedding party stood in front of a bank of baskets filled with lilies, roses and Canterbury bells. The bride looked charming in her wedding gown of blush pink sheer and lace, with matching headdress and shoulder veil. She carried an arm bouquet of Briarcliffe roses and bouvardia, tied with satin streamers. Her sister, Miss Leota Brisbin was bridesmaid, gowned in aquamarine sheer and lace, with headdress to match, and she carried a bouquet of Talisman roses and bouvardia. The groom was ably supported by LAC Keith Harrison, Trenton.

About sixty guests were present and were received by the bride's mother, dressed in Churchill blue shadow sheer with white accessories, and she wore a corsage of sweet peas. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who wore a blue figured crepe dress and a corsage of rosebuds. During the signing of the register Miss Margaret Johnson sang "Because."

Later the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for a honeymon trip west, the bride travelling in a Queen's blue two-piece ensemble, with white accessories. They will take up temporary residence in Trenton. Out of town guests were present from Springville, N.Y.; Peterborough, Toronto, Norwood, Lakefield, Millbrok, Roseneath, Centreton, Grafton and Campbellford.

This Is Everybody's War

By MOLLY BROWN

School is out and pupils and teachers alike are enjoying a holiday. And as one who was a pupil not so long ago, this reporter ventures to say that no one deserves a holiday more than the teachers. There will be a shout of protest at that, no doubt, from people who regard the teacher as an object of envy because of his lengthy holidays and either forget, or do not know, tha a goodly portion of that holiday is spent marking examination papers and taking refresher courses. But that isn't why your children's teachers have earned their holidays.

Think, your children go to school for five hours a day, five days a week, for approximately ten months in the year, during their most impressionable years. All this time they are under the influence of the teachers at the school which they attend. During their younger years at least, the teacher is a being endowed with supreme power, a fount of all knowledge. Is it any wonder that he should wield a tremendous influence over plastic young minds? There never was a teacher, however ineffective he might be, who did not influence for better or for worse, the lives of the pupils who studied under him.

It is this that makes the teacher, more than any other member of our society, a builder of democracy. It is his influence, and that of the parents, which determines whether the child should grow up to be a tinking, responsible citizen. If a child respects his teachers he will strive to emulate them in all things, but if he does not, then he is apt to lose the benefits of the knowledge the have to impart.

Usually the most important thing we learn from our teachers are not the things on which we are questioned at examination time. We do not even know we are learning at the time, but they keep coming back to us in later life. Stray remarks, words of wisdom, dropped when the teacher was himself for a moment, and not merely a faucet on the fountain of knowledge.

Perhaps a number of younger Peterborough people will remember a Latin class one drowsy May afternoon, when work was suddenly made impossible by the crashing discords of a newly formed Bugle Band, practising under the window. As the uproar died away, the teacher said with a twinkle, "I want you to remmebr that war always interferes with education." The class laughed There was no war on then. But perpaps they remember now, anl realize that war interferes with many things, of which education is not the least important.

Such influence is a heavy responsibility on the shoulders of a conscientious teacher, and there are few wo are not conscientious. The world owes a great debt, not merely to the great teachers who made names for themselves, but to the hosts of unknowns who have shouldered their responsibility with patience, sincerity and care. Their task is a thankless one, not because we are ungrateful, but because the realization of our benefits often comes too late for us to thank "Thank you!"

For Thursday, July 9

This seems to be an urgent time for concentrating the energies as well as the assets for the purpose of withdrawing from a static or crystalized state of affairs and orientin gthem in the direction of new achievements and fresh objectives of no mean order. Many factors favor this decision and large corporations or political bodies may be found ready for clever, original and well-organized propositions, but use tact, diplomacy and subtlety or shrewdness. The public or community may also approve and cooperate. Young peosons may find much pleasure, afftection or romantic attachments as well as business opportunity.

Those whose birthday it is should endeavor to solidify their interests and evluate their assets in an effort to be swift and decisive in the direction of major achievements, with increasing and enduring results, even though new tactics, ideas and fresh objectives may he the inspiration. With tact, diplomacy and cleverness, shrewd and ingenious proposals will find co-operation from large organizations as well as public interests. The young should partake of these exception opportunities and as well find pleasure in friendships, social activities or romantic adventure, possibly courtship and marriage.

A child born on this day should have originality ,ingenuity and exception iragination or intuition, accompanied by subtlety, deep insight and sound reasoning ability. It should have romantic, social and domestic happiness.

Commandeer Private Tires FDR Warns U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP).—President Roosevelt said yesterday it might become necessary to requisition all the automobile tires in the Unite. States, if wartime conditions grow more acute, b made it clear he is hopeful that such extreme action can be avoided.

Scrap rubber c llections have improved, he said, but it was still too arly to estimate their effect upon th situation. The drive is enabling officials to find out more definitely just what rubber stocks they can count upon, he added, and it is already apparent that scrap is not a cure-all.

Mr Roosevelt spoke at his first press conference since June 16, before Winston Churchill's recent visit. He seemed rested and efreshed despite the heavy burdens of the Presidency in warti e, and in high and amiable spirits. He leaned back in his chair, tipped his cigaret-holder to its characteristics jaunty tilt and exchanged banter with the correspondents.

This buoyant mood left him at one point, however, when the reporters questioned hi closely on the rubber and gasoline problem and he answered, with unconcealed sharpness, that he was trying to ave the nation, not gasoline and ubber.

It was at this point that he added a statement that if the war should grow worse it might be necessary for the Government to commandeer privately owned tires. The country, he said, is ready to make any sacrifice in this emergeno period.

There was no discussion as to what provision might be made for the motorist whose car would become virtually worthless at present if his tires were removed, or of other problems which would arise from such a program.

The President reported that no decision has yet been reached on the question of nation-wire gasoline rationing as a tire conservation measure, and said he still is hopeful that it might be possible to separate the gasoline problem from the rubber problem.

As for gasoline rationing, he remarked that, if he lived near an oil well and had a car with good tires nd needed it for his business, he would not be able to see why he shou'd be forbidden the use of the readily available gasoline.

At the War Production Board, officials who have consistently favored gasoline rationing as a rubber saving device would make no comment on Mr. Roosevelt's remarks.

Care For Children

LANSING, Mich., July 8—(AP)—Dr. Evan Davies, London educator here for the British Ministry of Information, told the Michigan Institute of Social Welfare today that ritain is planning already for the post-war care of children of Europe, including those of Germany and Italy. "These infants should not be crucified on the cross of poverty," Dr. Davies declared, adding it would take the united efforts of victorious Allied powers to save them.

No Wholesale Discrimination

OTTAWA, July 8 — (CP). — The Wartime Prices and Trade Board intends to protect retailers from discrimination by wholesalers in shortages of goods, Edgar G. Burton, Retail Trade Administrator, said in a radio program last night.

Mr. Burton took part in the National Radio Forum on a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network discussing price control and the retailers. Others participating were George S. Houghan, secretary of the Canadian Retail Federation; C. E. Cornish, Melita, Man., general merchant, and D. M. LeBourdais, Director of the Board's retail trade administration.

Mr. Cornish said smaller merchants were concerned that they would suffer more than large firms as shortages became severe.

"The Retail Administration definitely will see to it that there is no discrimination," Mr. Burton said. "Should the need arise the wholesalers and manufacturers will be ordered to supply their regular customers proportionately, unless they can show some good reason why they should not, poor credit for instance.

Two matters which the board has under consideration are regulation of opening of new stores and limiting the hours retail stores are open. Amng retailers there was a wide variance of opinion over hours, and action by the board would be greatly facilitated if retailers themselves could reach some agreement, Mr. Burton said.

Induction Ceremony At Norwood

NORWOOD, July 8—(ENS). — Norwood United Church was the scene of the induction of the Rev. Ernest E. Pugsley into the pastorate of the church, on Friday evening. There was a good representative gathering present.

The Rev. E. W. Rowland of Mark Street United Church, Peterborough, had charge of the service of induction. The Rev. George Kelly of Lakefield preached a very eloquent sermon from the text Isaiah chapter 6, verses 9 and 10. This relates to Isaiah's vision in the temple.

"These words, probably written many years after the event, form the background of the prophet's commission, which was sent to preach to an unsympathetic and unresponsive people. The prophet assumed his work was a failure, but subsequent events proved that it was not so. The prophet laid the foundation of a mighty nation, whose writings have proved an inspiration to Christendom, as well as to the Jewish people. Similarly Jesus Christ under tremendous difficulties and apparent failure in His gospel laid the foundation of the Christian Church which has spread throughout the world."

The speaker gave a striking illustration which related to one, Allen Gillespie who was sent to blueberry Creek to preach the gospel and after much labor resigned his work, believing that he was a failure. Subsequent events showed that he had not labored in vain by reason of the fact many testified to the great inspiration he had been to them by his preaching and living. The sad tragedy of these various cases is that people do not take the trouble to thank the preacher while he is with them for services rendered. If people would only remember to express their appreciation, what a difference this would make in the minister's life, he said.

After the inductilon service, members of the congregation, together with the ministers representing the local churches adjourned to the school for a social time and refreshments. Rev. Mr. Rowland acted as chairman for a brief program. various ministers, and the happy occasion was brought to a close by the Benediction pronounced by the Rev. E. E. Pugsley.

Dominion Day

On Thursday afternoon, the members of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church met in the Sunday School room for their July meeting. Mrs. Lawler, the president, in the chair. The attendance was smaller than usual.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises, and this was followed by various reports from the leaders of different committees, and arrangements were made for holding "a month of silver."

Mrs. Harvey Lobb took charge of the p ogram, which opened with the Psalm for Dominion Day, read by Miss M. Carter. A Dominion Day reading was given by Mrs. Robert Leeper. Mrs. E. Munroe and Mrs. R. Ferguson rendered a very fine duet, accompanied by Miss Helen Bailey. An instructive sidelight on misisonary work was read by Mrs. H. Lobb, and Mrs. R. McMillan played several beautiful selections on the piano.

The meeting was brought to a close with hymn and prayer and the singing of the National Anthem.

W. A. Meets

The June meeting of the United Church Women's Association was held in the Sunday School room with an attendance of 28 and Mrs. James Brown, president, in the chair. The meeting opened with hymn and prayers, after which the corresponding secretary, Mrs. Ed Scott reported that 20 letters had been writen up to June. Letters of appreciation were read.

Mrs. John Marks, leader of the groups for the month, then took charge of the meeting, and after a hymn was sung, led in prayer. Mrs. R. Leeper read the scripture lesson, and Mrs. Marks read "Lesson Thoughts." Mrs. H. Lobb gave an excellent paper on the topic "God's Scale of Values." A solo was contributed by Mrs. J. M. Gay and the meeting closed with hymn and prayer.

War Work Goes On

The individual ladies' groups organized around the district for war work, are still doing excellent work in spite of the business of the season. Mrs. W. J. Kane entertained for the ladies of her Red Cross group for the second time this week. One crib quilt was quilted, blocks pieced for a large quilt top, and knitted squares for an afghan handed in. More left-over yarn was distributed for additional suares. Lunch was served and a social time spent. Visitors were present from Campbellford and Peterborough.

Mrs. Ford also entertained a group of war workers last week for a quilting. A very nice quilt top was donated by Mrs. Drain, and also one from Mrs. Ford. Two large quilts were quilted, after which refreshments were served and a social time spent.

NEW PRIORITIES REGULATIONS

Will Affect Every Industry

ON July 10, 1942, a new Priority regulation will be applied in Canada to every Canadian industry. Under it all businesses, other than retailers, will be classified, and will be allotted symbols which must be used for all purchase orders. Any business which fails to comply with the new regulation will run the risk of not obtaining certain goods or commodities it seeks to purchase.

The new regulation, which is Order No. 1 of the Priorities Officer, Department of Munitions and Supply, establishes a system known as the Allocation Classification System. Under its terms every purchaser of goods or commodities of any kind, valued at $15 or more, other than a retailer or a person who buys from a retailer, must acquaint himself at once with the appropriate symbols. He must indicate the correct symbols on:—

(1) All purchase orders or contracts placed after July 10, 1942; and

(2) All purchase orders or contracts, regardless of the date of placement, which call for delivery after July 31, 1942. A purchaser who has placed an order for delivery after that date must, before the end of July, 1942, advise his supplier of the appropriate symbols.

Industrial and mill suppliers, warehouses, and other businesses performing similar functions for industry, shall not be deemed retailers for the purposes of the order.

If any business is in doubt as to how it should classify its operations and what symbols it should use, the business should obtain correct information from the nearest Priorities office at 34 Adelaide Street West, Toronto; 604 Marine Building, Vancouver; or 702 Dennis Building, Halifax, or from the Priorities Officer, Department of Munitions and Supply, Ottawa. Copies of the regulation may be obtained from the same sources.

R.A.F. And Army Train Hard For Joint Action

By LOUIS HUNTER.

LONDON, July 8 — (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill's statement in the House of Commons yesterday that joint training of the Army and the Royal Air Force has reached a "considerable scale" and is being continually expanded, was believed by some observers to foreshadow the eventual development of a sort of unified command which would direct "second front" operations of the two services.

Development of a unified command would follow the trend of popular and service opinion and would go further than the co-operation which now exists between the Coastal Command of the R.A.F., the Admiralty, the Bomber Command and the Ministry of Economic Warfare. The Admiralty and the Ministry of Economic Warfare occasionally recommend potential targets for the R.A.F. Commands.

Command Expanded.

Lending strength to belief that a unified command is a possibility was the Prime Minister's disclosure that the Army Co-operation Command is being "substantially expanded" and that aircraft of this command are occupied solely in joint training as well as squadrons of the Bomber and Fighter Commands.

Mr. Churchill's statement followed questions which implied some dissatisfaction with the co-operation between the two services in Libya and elsewhere.

The Prime Minister disclosed that before the Libyan offensive began last September he gave a ruling that "upon the Military Commander-in-Chief in the Middle East announcing that a battle is in prospect, the Air Officer Commanding-in-Chief will give him all possible aid, irrespective of other targets, however attractive."

This directive, which Mr. Churchil said was agreebale to both forces and is still effective, ruled: "The Army Commander-in-Chief will specify to the Air Officer Commanding-in-Chief the targets and the tasks which he requires to be performed, both in the preparatory attack on forward installations of the enemy and for air action during the progress of the battle.

"It will be for the Air Force Commander-in-Chief to use his maximum forces for these objects in a manner most effective. This applies not only to any squadrons assigned to Army co-operation permanently, but to the whole Air Force available in the theatre."

To a suggestion by Henderson Stewart Fife East Liberal National, that it was essential for the Army to have part of the Air Force clearly under its control, the Prime Minister replied:

"If you will read my statement at leisure you will see that I go farther than that, and say that it is subordinated to the purpose of the commander who says what he wants them to do, but naturally you must not interfere with the characteristic art of the particular arm. How the purpose is carried out is a matter for the Air Officer commanding."

One Organization.

He said also that the whole question of air-borne troops, whether concerned with gliders, parachute troops, or power-driven aircraft towing gliders is under one organization and is being studied, as a whole.

An indication of the extent to which joint training is being carried out was given by the Air Ministry news service, which said in a statement stressing the value of the Army co-operation in Libya and Egypt that "when the big attack comes in Europe there can be little doubt that the hard work now being put into training will prove its value.

"The Army that cried for air support on the sands of Dunkirk will see S.A.F. machines pouring forth to the spot with their artillery. They will see them mowing down the enemy with machine-gun fire. They will see big bombers flying over with hundreds of Army parachute troops. They will see gliders being towed to their destination.

"Seeing these things they will realize that the small Air Force of 1940 has developed into something gigantic."

Bombing Up For An Early Morning Call On The Nips

Something mighty unpleasant is being cooked up here for the little men of Nippon who are spreading themselves over conquered islands to the north of west of Australia and looking greedily toward the British dominion. The ground crew of an Australian bomber squadron is pictured loading death and destruction in the form of heavy bombs on a bomber due to go out for a crack at the Japs' Pacific bases. Australian and U.S. bomber formations have hit hard and often at the invasion forces gathering against the continent.

Two Of Lakefield's School Boards Set Estimates

LAKEFIELD, July 8—(ENS).—It was estimate night, and the village council was taking the rap with both High and Public School Boards calling for more money—$4,800 for the former and $4,500 for for the latter body, current expenses for the balance of the year, as they met Monday evening in the council chambers.

A report that D. L. Minshall, agriculture and science teacher, had received his call to the army was cause of brief discussion and may lead to a search for a second teacher for the High School staff, one having already been secured to replace John. Aymer, who joined earlier.

The matter of a caretaker for the school garden shifted from B. Q. Dench to Chairman Ridpath, who undertook to have it weeded, with a suitable applicant in view.

Secretary Grace Yonge presented her report and the members, B. F. Blake, B. Q. Dench and J. R. Ridpath had little objection to figures as presented, and the following were approved:

E. J. Millage acted as chairman for the Public School Board in the absence of F. L. Erskine; Roy Bullock, Mel. O. Kingdon and G. D. Scriver being the other trustees present. Miss Yonge read a letter of appreciation for the raises and co-operation given by the board, from the teachers of the entire staff, Caretaker Bickle and Music Instructor Renaud.

Care taker Bickle reported trouble with starlings getting into the drain pipes, and screen was ordered to cover all openings. Chairman Millage suggested the basketball goal posts and basket rings be painted, a move that was approved. Members taking heed of the warning to get coal and wood in early, reported action, with 15 cords of body maple already delivered and a 40-ton carload of pocohontas coal on the way.

Recent raises handed the staff necessitated adding the sum needed for instruction figures calling for $6,600 as finally revised. Other estimates were kept down with the repair and redecorating bill held to the minimum.

Beef Situation Improves Very Slowly

OTTAWA, July 7. — (CP.) — Foods Administrator J. G. Taggart of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said to-day that a shortage of beef still exists in Canada but that the situation is 'slowly improving' as bigger supplies become available.

Monday night in Toronto Controller Robert Saunders said the beef situation here had 'grown worse instead of better' and that he would telephone Board officials to urge immeditae steps to relieve the Toronto situation.

Mr Taggart said no call had come to him up to 1.30 p.m. E.D.T. and that he did not know who else might have received it. He acknowledged the shortage of recent weeks still exists but said supplies now are increasing.

Mr. Saunders said he would ask if large quantities of beef had been diverted recently to the United States' market. The food administrator said this was not the case—that 'negligible quantities' of livestock had been exported but that the Board recently had been buying up most of the beef offered for export and diverting it to the domestic market.

"We can't bring about an overnight increase in the number of cattle in Canada," he added, "and we can't force the farmers to sell if they don't want to."

"War conditions, with more people working, mean that the demand in Canada is higher than it was a year ago," he said. "And in addition Canadians now are eating less ersting bacon contract with Britain pork than they used to so that the can be filled.

"Canadians used to eat between 50,000 and 55,000 hogs a week and now the number is only about 38,000. The tendency has been to replace pork with beef on Canadian tables."

Noted Railroader Dies

BALTIMORE, July 8 — (AP). — Death has ended the 62-year railroading career of Daniel Willard, 81, who began as a track laborer and climbed to the presidency and board chairmanship of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

"Uncle Dan," as he was familiarly known throughout the B & O system, had been seriously ill of heart trouble since May 21, when he was taken to the Union Memorial Hospital.

From a report of an early Commando raid in Libya led by the son of Admiral Sir Roger Keyes. Keyes was killed in the action.

MEN'S lives depend on the speed of Canadian plants in putting grenades in their hands. These plants in turn depend on the managers and engineers and sub-contractors who direct production of the tens of thousands of hand and rifle grenades which Canada makes each month.

To keep in touch with each other . . . with suppliers . . . with officials . . . these men turn to the telephone a hundred times a day. Your unselfish use of the telephone will help them to get things done in a hurry. By observing "Wartime Telephone Tactics" and by reducing the number and length of social but unessential personal calls, you clear other interlocking lines for these messages that must get through.

WARTIME TELEPHONE TACTICS

- BE SURE you have the right number, consult the directory.
- SPEAK distinctly, directly into the mouthpiece.
- ANSWER promptly when the bell rings.
- BE BRIEF. Clear your line for the next call.
- USE OFF-PEAK hours for Long Distance calls: before 9.30 a.m., 1-2 p.m., 5-7 p.m., after 9 p.m.

These things may look trifling, but on 6,500,000 daily telephone calls, they are very important.

Not Hard To Be a Whiz at Repartee

Bright Phrases Win Friends

Gay friend-winning repartee! A girl needs it these days, for chances to make friends are brief—a casual meeting, a few minutes between dances, that's about all.

So, if you get stuck on "yes . . . no . . . I don't know" at such times learn a few bright phrases.

Then, meeting Jack on the street, you slip easily into talk with a smiling "This is nice . . . what are you doing in this part of town?" And what to say next is no problem!

Eavesdrop on any "clever" couple; they'd use jaunty but really everyday phrases like these. "Who WASN'T there! The world and his wife!" . . . "She's a refreshing person!" . . . "Who's going to break the ice—me or you?". Not hard, is it?

As you get the trick you sail smoothly into a party with a "So nice of you to ask me" to your hostess; you get your dance partners to beaming with a deft compliment, "How well you rumba!" In letters too you sound sincere with a warm 'all my love and sympathy" instead of a chilly "sorry to hear."

Our 32-page booklet lists dozens and dozens of vivid phrases to make your conversation and your letters sparkle. Gives pleasing remarks appropriate for many social, business occasions.

For your copy of "Effective Phrases for all Occasions" send 15 borough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

MANIPULATING A MISFIT

WITH YOUR partner bidding two suits and you bidding the other two, you have one of the most delicate situations which can confront you. Instead of reckoning then that, since he has the two in which you are weak, No Trumps would make a good declaration, it will pay you, if your hand is pretty strong, to feel out every possibility by giving the greatest possible amount of information about your distribution. This is especially so if you have a six-card suit, as even two cards ... it in his hand may fix you up.

North: ♠ J 10 ♥ A Q 8 7 6 ♦ Q J ♣ A 7 6 2

West: ♠ 9 6 ♥ 9 2 ♦ A 4 3 2 ♣ J 9 8 5 4

East: ♠ K 7 5 ♥ K 10 5 4 3 ♦ 7 6 ♣ K 10 3

South: ♠ A Q 8 4 3 2 ♥ J ♦ K 10 9 8 5 ♣ Q

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1. Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Paso	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT
2. Pass	Pass	1 ♥	Pass
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 ♠	Pass	3 NT	Pass

How much better that hand was bid at Table 2, even though the final call by South was a bit strong, and the slam depended on finding the trump K where it could be caught. The No Trump contract at the first table was beaten by West leading his club 5, not even a game being made. South ducked in dummy, the club K winning, and also let the club 10 covered by the J ride, winning the third club. Whether South, with eight sure tricks in sight, after the spades worked, tried for the ninth with the heart finesse or a diamond lead, he had no chance.

Playing at 6-Spades, South lost nothing except one diamond trick, giving him a just reward for good bidding.

Notice how at Table 2 North made it clear he had five hearts and four clubs, by rebidding his hearts after showing the clubs, and then not rebidding clubs, but calling No Trumps on his fourth turn. Better still, notice how South's rebid of spades showed they were a card longer than diamonds, and that the diamond rebid showed they were of at least five cards, consequently the spades at least six cards. That told North he could support spades with two cards, which he had.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ K J 6 ♥ 10 8 6 ♦ 9 7 4 2 ♣ K 5 4

West: ♠ Q 5 4 3 ♥ A K 7 5 ♦ A K 5 ♣ Q 10

East: ♠ 8 7 ♥ J 4 3 ♦ Q 3 ♣ A 9 8 6 3 2

South: ♠ A 10 9 2 ♥ Q 9 2 ♦ J 10 8 6 ♣ J 7

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

What is the correct way to play this deal for 3-No Trumps, if North leads the diamond 2?

A.F. of L. Refuses To Accept Russian Labor

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP). — The American Federataion of Labor has "refused to recognize the Russian labor movement as a free labor movement" whereas the C.I.O. has considered it "on equal terms," a member of the A.F.L. executive council said to-day.

A British effort to obtain British-American-Soviet Labor collaboration to promote the war effort has been fruitless thus far, with the A.F.L. failing to accept the proposal.

Sir Walter Citrine, secretary of the British Trades Union Congress, presented the proposal to the A.F. L. executive council last May.

Daniel Tobin, general president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and member of the A.F. L. Council, disclosed the A.F.L.'s answer, in part at least in an article in the July issue of his union's organ, the International Teamster.

Tobin's article contended that the gulf between the C.I.O. and the A.F.L. was widening and that the attitude toward the British proposal demonstrated the difference in viewpoint between the two organizations.

"The C.I.O. leaders," said the article, "say that there is considerable progress being made toward unity. This is nonsense. Both sides have agreed to talk to each other, and that is about all.

"The A.F.L. has refused to recognize the Russian labor movement as a free labor movement, claiming that the government of Russia controlled and appointed the trade union leaders and laid down the rules for them to work under."

Lynch Family Honored By Seymour Friends

CAMPBELLFORD, July 8. — (ENS)—Friends of the David Lynch family, residents of Seymour West for the past twenty-five years, joined in honouring them when it became known that they were soon to remove from the district. The affair took place at the Lynch home where close to 100 gathered for the evening and joined in expressing their regret at the news of their departure. As a tangible expression of their feelings those present presented Mr. and Mrs. David Lynch with a floor lamp, toaster and electric iron. To Miss Frances Lynch, who for a number of years has been teaching at St. Josephs school, the pupils gave a pair of table lamps while to Miss Verna Lynch, who teaches in Toronto, the neighbors gave a lovely compact. The address which accompanied the presentations was read by Mrs. Edward O'Connor.

Wage Stabilizing

WASHINGTON, July 8—(AP). — President Roosevelt was reported today to be considering anew some form of wage stabilizing and subsidies in order to maintain price ceilings in the United States near their present level. Informed Congressional sources said he had advised some of his Congressional leaders that both problems should be attacked as soon as pssible, but that it was not apparent whether specific legislation would be required.

Beirut Evacuee Lectures On Home Nursing

MILLBROOK, July 8—ENS). — Attendance at the Home Reserve Nursing classes continues excellent, and interest fully sustained, from week to week, the lectures and demonstrations for the past two weeks having been taken by Mrs. (Dr.) Greico of New York sister of the leader, Mrs. L. J. Byam, Reg.N.

Mrs. Greico returned some months ago from Syria, where she was in charge of public health nursing in the Beirut hospital. Four hours' notice of evacuation compelled the workers to leave because British planes were shelling French airdromes nearby, the reason being that they housed German bombers. The trip home had to be made by way of South Africa and rounding the tip of South America, and so up the coast to New York.

Following her return, Viola Cardwell, as she was then, took up study for her Master's degree in public health nursing at Columbia University, N.Y., graduating in June, and shortly afterward her marriage to Dr. Grieco who had been the pathologist at the Beirut Hospital, took place in the college chapel. At present, Mrs. Greico is paying a visit to her mother, Mrs. R. W. Cardwell at Wallace Point, Otonabee River, her husband's professional duties compelling his return to New York a short while since.

Dr. and Mrs. Greico intend continuing their professional career together in New York, though they may, when conditions are more settled, return to Beirut, where the hospital has already asked for their presence on the staff, and would like them to go back this Fall.

Members of the nursing class were delighted with the charm of manner, the wealth of lecture material present in concise terms, and the clarity with which demonstrations were made by Mrs. Greico. Miss B. M. Turner moved the unanimous vote of thanks to the visiting lecturer.

Birthday Surprise

An unexpected gathering of friends, members of her bridge club and intimate relatives, the presentation of tokens of esteem, and a picnic tea on the lawn, provided a pleasant surprise for Mrs. Kathleen Ball on Friday at 6 p.m., the occasion having been planned in honor of her bithday anniversary.

Tables were laid, and other details of the birthday party prepared, while the guest of honor was absent attending the Home Reserve Nursing class, in which she is enrolled; incoming guests being welcomed by Mrs. Ball's three daughters, Misses Muriel, Ruth and Norma; and by her brother, Mr. T. W. McCamus.

The picnic supper out of doors was one of the most enjoyable events of the party, the highlight following the service of the abundant meal being reached when an informal address was made by Mrs. F. J. Smith, one of the committee in charge; the other member, Mrs. J. McKnight, presenting Mrs. Ball with a handsome crystal sandwich plate in "cornflower" pattern, a silver tray for cream and sugar in Sheffield reproduction design, and enough tomato juice cocktail glasses to round out the full dozen, part of which had been the gift to her mother of little Miss Norma Ball.

The surprise element for the recipient of the gifts was very evident as she voiced her gracefully-worded thanks.

City Asks Police Dept. Probed Over Escape Case

NORTH BAY, Ont., July 8—(CP) —City Council meeting last night passed a resolution asking Attorney-General Gordon Conant of Ontario to investigate the handling by the police department of a tip that a German prisoner of war had escaped in this district.

Council's action followed the police department's dismissal of a complaint laid against the department after Miss Margaret Smyth said she telephoned police the night of June 16 that the prisoner, who identified himself as Egbert Brosig, had escaped, visited her home and was en route to the Canadian National Railways station to board a train for Montreal.

Miss Smyth's call went to Sgt. Frank Michaud, but he said the call was anonymous and he turned it over to military authorities. The police commission at a subsequent meeting exonerated him. Brosig was recaptured in New York State.

The resolution said:

"Whereas an escaped German prisoner of war spent several hours in the city of North Bay on June 16, 1942; whereas, immediately upon his self-admitted identification of his nationality the information was conveyed by telephone of his presence, method and time of department to an officer of the North Bay Police Department, who was on duty and the said officer upon receipt of their information failed to take any immediate action, resulting in the escape of the prisoner from the city;

"It is hereby resolved that this council does strongly protest the manner in which this case was handled by an officer of the North Bay Police Department and we, further, condemn the finding of the North Bay Police Commisison in the investigation of this incident, and we recommend that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Attorney-General of the Province of Ontario and that he be requested to conduct an inquiry through his department."

Council also instructed the city clerk to "write a letter of appreciation to Miss Smyth for the prompt and patriotic part which she played in notifying the police immediately she found that an escaped German prisoner was in the city."

In Toronto, Attorney-General Gordon Conant of Ontario, commenting today on a request from North Bay Council that his department investigate the police handling of a tip that a German prisoner escaped, said: "If there's anything we can properly do, we'll do it for them.

REDS TORPEDO TIRPITZ SAVE BIG ALLIED CONVOY

Great Hun Push Held At Don

By HENRY CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 9 — (AP). — Germany's mightiest offensive of 1942 has failed thus far to gain any broad foothold east of the great Don River barrier, and Red Army counter-attacks from the flanks have endangered the Nazi wedge west of the river, battlefront despatches reported today.

With massed tanks and an infantry force padded heavily with Rumanians, Hungarians and Slovaks for numerical superiority, the Germans were reported still forcing crossing in small groups in an effort to regain footholds where their earlier bridgeheads were smashed.

Some of these, the Russians said, were wiped out, but others were holding on grimly in the face of intense artillery and machine-gun fire.

Russian despatches said that as a result of tank-led Russian counter blows which recaptured several communities on the flanks of the Nazi wedge west of the river, the Germans were forced to divert large forces from their drive toward Voronezh.

Oskol Widens Salient.

Earlier a Russian withdrawal from Staryi Oskol, 65 miles southwest of Voronezh, had widened the German salient 65 miles southwest of Voronezh.

The struggle for the Don developed into a pitched battle after the Germans failed in their original plan to slip swiftly across the stream and take the Russians by surprise.

Dispatches said that in repulsing the first German efforts to cross the Red Army gained time to occupy vantage points on the east bank and organize a strong defence.

The Russians also struck at the flanks of the German salient on the west bank, where roads and ravines were jammed with hundreds of vehicles blocked by the failure of the vanguard to break through. Russian airmen said the accumulation offered easy targets.

Many trucks as well as 60 tanks were reported destroyed in a single day's bombing of the west bank Tuesday.

Screening their thrusts with heavy artillery and aerial bombardments, the Germans nearly succeeded in organizing a crossing west of Voronezh, dispatches said, but the few units which reached the east bank achieved no important gains.

A Hun Trick That Failed

A light tank detachment which crossed by night hung out red banners and fired its guns westward in a vain effort to trick Red Army troops into believing it was part of the defence forces, it was declared.

The tanks were reported destroyed.

A similar fate was said to have befallen Nazi automatic riflemen who crossed by pontoon bridges, barges or boats.

The German high command claimed to-day that a German breach in the southern sector of the Rusian front has "shaken" the Soviet defence west of the Don River for a breadth of more than 300 miles and sent the Red Army into disorderly retreat, closely pursued by Nazi mechanized and air formations.

(The communique dealt in broad generalizations, implying a great German victory is in the making, but giving no supporting details or specific locations and leaving the situation open to speculation by use of the unusual word "shaken" in reference to Russian defences.

(These defences were placed "west of the Don,' and again there was no reference to the German claim in Tuesday's communique to the capture of Voronezh, 10 miles east of the Don.)

Fail to Cross River.

A huge force was accumulated for the Nazi command's greatest offensive so far in the 1942 campaign, aimed to surge across the Don and cut communications between Central and Southern Russia.

Dispatches said the situation was serious on the west bank, where some Red Army detachments were forced to retreat anew. The Germans occupied a number of points. But in the relatively narrow sector where the invaders had reached the river they appeared so far to have failed to cross in force.

Nazi numerical superiority was conceded. The Russians estimated earlier that about 200,000 Germans were massed for the offensive.

Garrisons of two settlements west of Voronezh were declared to have repelled nine attacks in a row, wiping out two companies in the final engagement.

A communique said a rifle battalion disabled 13 tanks and killed more than 500 Germans in a sector to the south-yest (apparently the Staryi Oskol area) in fighting off four attacks and then retired to new positions to avoid encirclement.

Five days of combat on the Kalinin Front, north-west of Moscow, were reported to have cost the Germans 2,00 killed.

British Grab Mozambique Channel Isle

Controls Strategic Waterway West Of Madagascar

LONDON, July 9 — (CP). — British forces occupied the French island of Mayotte in the Mozambique Channel on July 2 without resistance or casualties, the War Office announced to-day.

Mayotte with a population of less than 18,000 and an area of 140 square miles, is an island producing principally rum and perfume.

It is the most strategically situated of the Comoros for control of the Mozambique Channel, being about 200 miles west of Madagascar, the northern part of which British forces occupied in May, and about 300 miles east of Portuguese East Africa.

(Dispatches from Portuguese East Africa on Tuesday reported sinking of three neutral or Allied merchant ships in the Mozambique Channel and an attack on a fourth by submarines.)

Under Vichy rule, the Comoros all have been attached to the Madagascar Government.

To be known as the air evacuation group (medical), the new organization will use transport planes equipped as flying hospitals for surgery, blood transfusions and other treatment. The planes will be able to carry as many as 40 patients.

Pay Deductions Include Third Of Refund Levy

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 9—(CP)—Methods of collecting income tax imposed in the new budget from salaried persons and wage earners were agreed upon at conferences just completed between income tax officials and representatives of larger employers just concluded, it was officially stated today.

Some of the main points are:

1. Deductions from the pay envelopes of the employees at the source will start was the first payday in September;

2. Deductions over the year until Aug. 31, 1943, will cover the entire portion of the income tax of the employee that is kept by the government and approximately one-third of the portion which is refundable after the war;

3. The employee must file his tax return by Sept. 30.

4. The employer must file a statement of salaries and wages of his employees by Oct. 15.

5. The employer must tell his employee what return he is making concerning that particular employee early in September, so that the employer and employee returns will conform;

6. An employer must make a return on each employee whose salary or wage is three-quarters of such employee's total income.

Just a Third Deducted

The most important feature of today's announcement is that deductions from pay envelopes include approximately one-third of the refundable portion of the tax, and not the full amount.

The budget provides that taxpayers may offset the refundable or compulsory savings portion of the tax by deducting payments on life insurance premiums, superannuation fund payments and payments on principal of mortgages.

The fear among taxpayers across Canada, as shown by letters flowing in to C. Fraser Elliott, commissioner of income tax, has been that the full amount of the refundable portion of the income tax would be deducted at the source at the taxpayer would not get a rebate until adjustments were made a year or so later. Meantime the insurance premiums and payments on the mortgages would have to be met.

Such a procedure would have placed many taxpayers in great difficulty to provide the ready money until they got the rebate.

Extra Special Loads Blast Wilhelmsh'n

2 Canuck Squadrons Help Lambaste Big Naval Depot

By ALLAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 9.—(CP Cable.)—R.C.A.F. squadrons, including some Wellingtons carrying 'extra special' bomb loads, aided the R.A.F. in last nights pounding of muchbombed Wilhelmshaven naval base.

Returning crews reported they were able to see growing circles of incandescent flames and dazzling flashes of high explosives after dropping their bomb loads.

The R.C.A.F. said at least two Canadian squadrons participated in the night's operations and it was believed another also took part. Halifaxes and Wellingtons made up the all-Canadian formations, while numerous other Canucks flew with R.A.F. units.

There was no specific mention of the total number of planes involved but the raid was described as 'heavy.' Only four planes were lost in this first attack on Germany since July 2.

The R.C.A.F. report on the operations termed the bomb loads as 'extra special.' There was no explanation of this phase but it is believed to indicate that some bombs of the same super size as some of those which the R.A.F. previously carried into Germany.

The Canadian Halifax squadron reached the target early and saw no fires on its arrival. When it left the crews saw their fires reflected in the skies 55 miles away.

The two R.C.A.F. squadrons reported mighty bomb bursts and said all their aircraft returned despite severe flak over the target area.

"The nicest feeling I've had in a long time was when that big baby dropped," said Flt. Lt. J. P. Pattison of Toronto, who carried one of the extra special bombs for the first time.

Right On The Button

Making his maiden trip as a bomber captain, Flt. Sgt. W. A. Gasco of Montreal swooped low over the port and the crew reported that great fires shot up.

Flt. Sgt. W. J. Kaufman of Kitchener, Ont., flying a Hampden in Wing Cmdr. D. A. R. Bradshow's squadron, said "we seemed to be right on the objective."

The Germans attempted to confuse the attackers with dummy flare paths to draw the fire away from the objective, but it didn't work,

Railways Carry 4,500,000 Troops in 5 Months With Freight Greatest In American History

CHICAGO, July 9—(AP).—In the first five months of 1942 the railroads of the United States moved approximately as many troops as they did in the first 13 months of American participation in the First Great War and freight traffic in the same period was the highest on record for any five months.

This report was given today by Ralph E. Clark, Washington, an official of the Association of American Railroads. Clark said that through the end of May approximately 4,500,000 troops, not including those travelling on furlough, were carried by rail within the continental United States. This figure includes more than one ride a man.

Passenger business in the first four months of 1942 was 88 per cent. greater than in the corresponding period of 1939 and 44 per cent. above the same period of 1941. He said the railroads are doing "the greatest freight transportation job in their entire history."

39 RAF Day, Night Raids During June Leave Mass Debris, Cost 271 Plane

LONDON, July 9—(CP).—Weather conditions throughout June were more favorable for continuing the bombing offensive of the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. than during May. The bomber command operated against German and occupied territory on 13 days and 20 nights, while the air forces as a whole operated 20 days and 23 nights.

Bombers carried out 16 attacks against five military and industrial targets in Germany; five of them against the Rhur, four against Bremen, two against Essen and one on Osnabruck.

The 1,000-bomber attack which took place against Cologne May 30-31 was followed by a 1,000-bomber raid against the Rhur June 1-2, while another 1,000-bomber raid on Bremen was arried out June 25-26. The force dispatched for these two principal attacks included Lancasters, Manchesters, Stirlings and Halifaxes, while aircraft fighter and army co-operation commands in conjunction with bombers carried out diversionary attacks on German airdromes.

The attack on the Ruhr on the night of June 1-2 was hampered by cloud and industrial haze, but was so severe the fires reflected on the sheet of cloud over the Ruhr were visible from the coast. Essen was the chief target, but damage was inflicted throughout the Ruhr on densely - populated manufacturing towns, coal mines and iron and steel works.

The attack on Bremen on the night of June 25-26 was also hindered by adverse weather. In spite of this, the damage already caused by previous attacks was considerably increased. Bremen is the second largest port in Germany and an industrial centre. Emden suffered severe damage in raids on its port. The Nordseewereke shipbuilding yards were damaged, as were the dock area and the main railway centres.

33 Raids Into France, Belgium

In occupied territory 33 attacks were carried out against 17 targets. Among the objectives were docks and harbor installations, power stations and railway communications. Five were against Dieppe, four against Le Havre, three each against Lannion, Maupertuis and Dunkirk, two against Bruges, while Abbeville, Berck, Boulogne, Calais, Cherbourg, Flushing, Hazelbrouck, Le Treport, Morlaix and Ostend also were attacked. Twelve of these attacks were during the day by Boston aircraft of the bomber command, with fighter escorts, chiefly on coastal areas stretching from Flushing in the east to Cherbourg, Morlaix and Lannion in the west. Numerous large scale sweeps also have been carried out by fighter aircraft and bomb-carrying Hurricanes of the fighter command.

Objectives have included docks, railways, gas works, coastal craft and industrial targets. Several loco-

Says Free Speech Of French Canada On Trial

MONTREAL, July 9—(CP).—Defence Counsel Fernand Choquette asked for acquittal today in the case of Rene Chaloult, saying that "the case is bigger than Rene Chaloult for the privilege of free speech for French-Canadians is on trial."

Mr. Choquette said that Mr. Chaloult, charged under Defence of Canada Regulations, had only tried to fight for the rights of his fellow-countrymen, "like Laurier (the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier) and Lapointe (the late Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe) had fought during the First Great War for the rights of the French-Canadian minority in Ontario." He did not elaborate on this point.

Mr. Chouquette said the trial showed in what measure the right of free speech could be restricted in wartime and if free speech regulations were more strict in Canada than in England and in Quebec than in other province of the Dominion.

A request by the defence that Crown Prosecutor Gerald Fauteux speak first was denied by Judge Edouard Archambault, as the morning session opened. The ruling was given with Mr. Choquette protesting that in summary conviction trials the Crown "is supposed to argue first."

Claim Warnings Allowed.

Mr. Choquette said that news papers reports of Mr. Chaloult's May 19 speech had been incomplete and submitted that they did not establish that Article 39 of the Defence of Canada Regulations had been violated. He added that "freedom of speech does not mean that one is allowed to preach uprising and assassination, but allowed one to warn the government of the inevitable aftermath of a measure one is combating."

He claimed for his client the

3 Cruisers, 8 Destroyers Race To Norway As Battleship Hit

MOSCOW July 8 — (AP).—Two well-aimed torpedoes from a Russian submarine, which seriously damaged the battleship Admiral Von Tirpitz, Germany's newest and mightiest warship, saved an Allied convoy from her attack and let the merchantmen throwh to Russia intact, Soviet dispatches said to-day.

These reports said a German naval squadron in which three heavy cruisers and eight destroyers accompanied the Admiral Von Tirpitz, put out from shelter in Norwegian fjords several days ago aiming to intercept a large convoy carrying arms to Russia from Britain and the United States.

But the crippling attack on the Nazi battleship, made by a submarine commanded by Capt. N. Lunin, a hero of the Soviet Union, was said to have disrupted operations and permitted all ships in the convoy to reach the safety of a Russian port.

(The Berlin high command's daily communique said:

"The Soviet assertion that the German battleship Tirpitz had been hit by a torpedo is purely invented. The batleship has neither been hit nor damaged.")

Only the barest official information has been issued so far, but it is indicated the warship, a potent threat to the Allies' sea lanes, again has sought refuge in an inaccessible fjord along the Norwegian coast.

Planes After Her Now.

There the warship and the vessels that accompanied her now are believed exposed to British aerial attacks.

The exact extent of the damage inflicted on the Admiral Von Tirpitz was not disclosed, but she was said to have been seriously crippled and was expected to require extensive repairs.

The Soviet press to-day hailed the damaging of the vessel as a great victory for the Red Fleet.

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—Extensive trapping operations against the Japanese beetle, one of the most destructive of insects among fruit and plant life generally, will be made in Ontario during the next three months, it was announced today by the plant protection division of the Department of Agriculture.

Object of the campaign is to find initial outbreaks of the insect, in addition to those already known in areas at Niagara Falls and Windsor, so that control measures may be applied before infestations reach serious proportions.

Approximately 7,000 traps are being placed in selected locations in the Windsor, Niagara Falls, London, Hamilton and Toronto districts, and at several places along the north shore of Lake Ontario and the St. Lawrence river. Additional traps have also been provided

Hitler Taking Advantage Of 2nd Front Delay To Press On Oil, Grain 'Basket'

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Hitler is taking advantage of the absence of a second front in Europe to press his assault against the Russian front, says the communist organ Pravda in Moscow, but the paper squares its shoulders and adds stoutly that "every month we are receiving more material and rams from Britain and the United States."

There we have on thumb-nail the elements of the Allied problem in this white-hot crisis upon which hangs our fate. A second front would represent military might in action. Undelivered war material represents military might in the potential—in convoys on submarine infested seas, or struggling over bomb-torn roads to try to reach the battle-front.

Can we hold the enemy until we can turn our potential striking-power into actual force? That's the crux of our problem, and it isn't new.

It strikes me that if the pressure on the Russians become greater than they can withstand—and it already is very serious—the Allies may be impelled to take a chance and attempt invasion of the continent to establish a second front. Hitler must be stopped.

Pending the translation of resources into this sort of offensive action, the movemest of supplies to hard-pressed Russia is vital.

If the Russians had all the equipment they need they would be wiping their boots on Hitler's flying coat-tails right now. But they haven't got it, and the Nazis chief is capitalizing on this weakness.

Herr Hitler is employing a double-barrelled strategy, one barrel being aimed at severance of the Soviet's essential sources of supplies, and the other at getting fresh supplies for hmiself. That's a shrewd scheme, for it's calculated to hamstring the Russian's even if the invaders don't succeed in breaking through to the Caucasus and Middle East. This would relieve the pressure on Hitler's eastern front and enable him to get set for the opening of that second Allied front which must come sooner or later.

Offhand you'd think anyone crazy who figured that he thus could cripple the largest country in the world, occupying one-sixth of the earth's land surface, having a population of over 190,000,000, and containing almost every resource needed by man. However, mighty Russia is vulnerable, as witness the fact that already the Nazi world-conqueror has the Soviet pinched for supplies.

When the Germans attacked Russia a year ago a large part of the latter's developed resources were in the European zone. Hitler quickly overran an estimated 40 to 50 per cent, of the Russian indus-

Maj. Morrison Sees It Sign All Behind Premier

SALISBURY, England, July 9 — (CP Cable).—Maj. J. G. Morrison, Conservative, was returned to the House of Commons in the Salisbury by-election today. Te defeated easily two Independent opponents.

Maj. Morrison declared his victory is "evidence of the united feelings of all parties that we should stand solidly behind Prime Minister Churchill in these graves times."

He received 12,076 votes against 3,218 for W. R. Hipwell and 2,519 for J. D. Munro, both Independents. In the 1935 general election the late Maj. James Despencer-Robertson, Conservative, polled 20,707 to 8,259 for E. J. Plaisted, Labor.

Maj. Morrison was supported in his by-election campaign by the leaders of all four parties participating in the Churchill Government, who in a joint letter declared that the British people are united in "unflinching determination to organize our total resources for victory."

No Need U.S. To Call Married Men, Boys Under 20

WASHINGTON, July 9 (AP) — Predicting the war will end "probably in 1942 and unquestionably in 1943," Chairman Andrew May of the House of Representatives Military Affairs Committee said today there will be no need for the United States army to induct married men or youths in the 18 and 19-year group.

The information on which he based the prediction, he told reporters, was "a military secret," obtained since the recent Russian reverses.

Best estimates based on the recent registration of 18 and 19-year-old boys, May said, shows there are approximately 3,125,000 in this group.

"With that many men yet to be utilized, and figuring 1,000,000 of them will become 20 years of age each year and subject to induction, it will not be necessary to provide for the induction under 20," he said, adding:—

"It is a safe estimate to say this group will net the service, after rejections for all purposes, approximately 2,000,000 fighting men in the next two years, which is more than the army needs."

May expressed the view an army of 5,000,000 is all the country needs.

Rommel Digging In As Auchinleck Stabs At His Flanks

CAIRO, July 9 (AP) — British fighter-bombers, in day-long assaults despite dust storms, smashed at Axis vehicles and landing grounds in the western desert, following a sharp night raid by ground troops who destroyed a number of German cannon and killed and captured some of the enemy, a communique announced today.

The British planes concentrated particularly in the southern sector some 70-odd miles west of Alexandria, where Field Marshall Erwin Rommel has folded back his line to avoid being outfanked.

An unstated number of Axis planes, refuelling on the landing ground at El Daba, were attacked and eight were shot out of the air during the day's operations.

Like the land raid Tuesday night, the aim was to keep the Axis invaders shaken up and deprived of sorely needed rest and reinforcements.

Six planes were lost.

For the last 24 hours no material change has been reported on the 50-mile front curving south and west from the El Alamein area some 70 miles west of Alexandria.

In 1939, Turkey signed a 15year treaty with the Allies which freed her of any obligation to enter a war against the U.S.S.R. but bound her to aid the Alies against any aggression upon them in the Mediterranean area.

On the other hand, a 10-year German-Turkish pact of amity was signed on June 18, 1941 four days before the Nazi invasion of Russia. This secured Germany's southern flank against any threat through Turkey, but Saracoglu contended that it saved the British alliance and insisted that Turkey would stand by her treaty obligations to the Alies.

has decided on requiring the employers to deduct approximately one-third of the refundable portion of the tax and the balance will be adjusted between the taxpayer and the income tax office after deduction of the insurance premiums, superannuation and mortgage principal payments.

For example, if the refundable portion of income tax is $300, the employer will deduct over the year $100 of this portion and the employee will look after the remaining portion.

Entitled to Refund

If the taxpayer pays more than $200 in life insurance premiums, superannuation and principal payments on mortgage he will be entitled to a refund from the income tax office but if it is less he will have to pay the difference.

As the refundable feature of the income tax is really compulsory saving, the one-third deduction was arrived at in the belief that the average wage earner already is saving in his insurance and mortgage payments two-thirds of what the budget expects him to save.

At the conferences with Mr. Elliott and his staff were representatives of the railway companies, Canadian Manufacturers' Association, Chambers of Commerce and a considerable list of larger employers.

Mr. Choquette said that were Article 39 strictly enforced, it would be impossible to teach the history of Canada in Canadian schools, as recounting the victories of Montcalm would irk the English students, and the description of Wolfe's feats would create among the French students."

Determined To Win War

"However paradoxical as it may seem," Mr. Choquette said, "French Canadians are just as determined at winning the war as they are irreductible in their fight against conscription for overseas." He added they were opposed to compulsory military participation.

"French Canadians," he said, "see an attempt at domination in the imposition of conscription by a majority."

Mr. Choquette held that the accused had a right to make a speech opposing conscription at a meeting "organized by an anti-conscription group and attended by two members of Parliament—(Maxime Raymond and Jean-Francois Pouliot)."

The defence counsel said the court had to consider that a full text of the accused's speech was not available. He quoted a French author as saying: "Give me two words of a person and I'll have him hanged."

Philippe Monette, associate defence counsel, rose to speak a few minutes before luncheon recess. He said that Canada was no longer a "colony" and that "nothing in the Statutes of Westminster prevented a Canadian citizen from claiming his rights."

Mr. Monette will continue his argument at the afternoon session.

U.S. Federals Strike Fast, Arresting Another 84 Bundists In Roundup

NEW YORK, July 9—(AP).—Fast-moving Federal Bureau of Investigation agents bent on wiping out the German-American Bund rounded up 84 additional members of the metropolitan area last night for a total of 113 Bundist arrests throughout the United State: in two days.

The new prisoners were seized as dangerous enemy aliens and were removed to Ellis Island to await hearings by alien enemy boards that could result in internment for the war's duration.

Meanwhile some of the original 29 indicted Tuesday on charges ranging from espionage to evasion of the selected service and alien registration acts were arraigned and held in bail as high as $50,000. Pleas of not guilty were entered by all but one of those heard yesterday.

Among those pleading not guilty is Gerhard Wilheim Kunze, former National Bund leader, captured in Mexico and now held at Hartford, Conn., under $50,000 bail on a charge of espionage. Also held at Hartford in $7,500 bail is Wilbur V. Keegan, former Bund counsel, who had offices at Teaneck, N.J.

The indictments against Keegan and 25 of the 28 others arrested on Tuesday charge conspiracy to evade the Selective Service Act, conspiracy to counsel Bund members to resist service in the United States armed forces on conspiracy to conceal Bund membership in registering as aliens. In the case of Kunze, espionage also is charged.

In New York, seven of those under indictment, including Gustav Elmer, Bund national treasurer, pleaded not guilty before Federal Judge George Sweeney and were held in bonds totalling $85,000.

An eighth, John August Grill, pleaded guilty and Judge Sweeney postponed sentence until after the trial of the seven others.

5 Years and $10,000 Fine.

Grill is liable to a sentence of five years and a fine of $10,000 for conspiracy to interfere with the carrying out of the draft laws and two years and $10,00 fine for conspiracy to obstruct the registration of aliens affiliated with the Bund.

Fifteen women were among the 84 taken in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Long Island commnuities and in New Jersey.

Armed with Presidential warrants issued through the Attorney-General's Office in Washington, F.B.I. agents reported 12 arrests throughout New Jersey and seizure of firearms, ammunition, radios, photographic equipment field glasses and Nazi propaganda.

P. E. Foxworth, local F.B.I. chief, said one of the 72 persons seized in and around New York City by his men possessed a complete United States Army uniform.

Foxworth indicated more arrests are expected in the widespread drive.

Green with Copper Wings

The adult Japanese beetle is a bright, metallic green, except for its coppery colored wing covers, and is about one-half inch long. It may be readily identified by five characteristic white spots on each side of the abdomen, and two slightly larger white spots at the end of the abdomen.

"The co-operation of the public in connection with this trapping project is solicited," the Agriculture Department said.

"All beetles found resembling the description given of the Japanese beetle should be collected and placed in a tight container and given to a trap attendant at the first opportunity, or forwarded to the Plant Protection Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or to the Department of Entomology, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph.

"A note should be enclosed in the container giving the date and place of discovery and the name and address of the sender.

"It is especially requested that the traps be not disturbed in any way and that no insects or other material be dropped into them."

The trip was a farewell operation for some time for several Canadians, who will leave before joining the new French-Canadian squadron. Among them was Flt. Lt. Wilhelmshaven, besides being a naval base,, is a centre of German submarine building activity.

Fighter Command aircraft at the same time attacked enemy airdromes and other objectives in occupied France. The Air Ministry said they intercepted and destroyed two German bombers.

The raid on Germany followed five nights of bad weather. The only other raid there this month was the July 2 attack on Bremen.

motives have been destroyed by day and night and freight trains set on fire. This will increase the enemy's transport difficulties. The sweeps have been on an increased scale, including a number of 300-fighter sweeps. In addition airdromes in occupied territory were attacked 34 times by night; and sea mining was carried out on five occasions on nights when other operations were impracticable.

One noteworthy feature was the flight of a Beaufighter coastal command plane over Paris, June 12. At midday this aircraft flew at rooftop height up and down the Champs Elysees. As a tribute to Free France, a tricolor was dropped as near as possible to the tomb of the unknown soldier which lies under the Arc de Triomphe.

Huns Over U.K. 22 Nights

German aircraft flew over Britain 22 nights during June, seldom penetrating far inland. There was slight daylight activity on 16 occasions, chiefly in coastal districts. Norwich Southampton and Weston-Super-Mare each sustained short attacks, but the German effort against this country was in no way comparable with the heavy attacks carried out by the R.A.F. and R.C.A.F.

In all offensive operations against the enemy, 100 enemy aircraft were destroyed, of which 35 were destroyed over Britain and 65 over Europe.

In carrying out offensive operations against Germany and the occupied territory the R.A.F. and the R.C.A.F. lost a total of 271 aircraft, of which none was lost over Britin

GETTING THEIR CALL

It was unofficially reported today that at least 360 men from Peterborough City alone had received their notice to report for their medical under the National Resources Mobilization Act since the first of June. Reports are still coming through the mail, but quite a number are beating the gun, by joining the active forces rather than enter the Military Training Centres.

Hunt 2 Men, Boy Feared Drowned

BARRIE, Ont., Julq 9—(CP)—Police and tourists continued their seach today for the bodies of two men and a boy, believed drowned late Tuesday in Lake Simcoe, 10 miles north of here when a storm and high winds capsized their motor-driven rowboat.

Those missing are: Arthur Buttress, 49, of (177 Gowan avenue) East York: his father-in-law, Henry Ward, 72, of Hamilton, Ont., and 14-year-old Charles Ellis of Hamilton, believed to be a relative of the two men.

On a holiday at Leonard's Beach, the trio set out on a fishing trip Tuesday afternoon in a gasoline-powered boat. The boat—overturned and with one oar missing — was found last night by provincial police after an all-day search, seven miles from the place the trio started from. There was no trace of the men or the boy.

When the party failed to return Tuesday night, other members of their family became worried but provincial police at Barrie said they were not notified until yesterday. Airplanes from nearby Camp Borden joined in the search but the boat was not found until dusk last night.

Cowboy Autry Air Corps Bound

HOLLYWOOD, July 9 — (AP). —Gene Autry is swapping the expensive cowboy outfit he's worn exclusively for seven years for an Air Corps uniform.

The singing star of Western movies said to-night that he had been accepted as a private and instructed to report to Bolling Field, Washington, D.C., on August 1. Since he's 32, he cannot fly, so he's not certain what his duties will be.

Autry has worn nothing but cowboy garb since he entered movies seven years ago. He says he does not even own a business suit.

The actor, married but childless, is completing his 54th picture.

MISS GERALDINE KENNEDY

The funeral of the late Geraldine Kennedy was held from the Bert Duffus Funeral Home Tuesday morning, to St. Martin's Church, Ennismore, where Requiem Mass was celebrated by the Rev. V. J. Gillogly.

The vast number of floral and spiritual tokens and the many friends who called to extend their sympathy to Mr. Kennedy and the family, gave testimony of the friendship and the esteem in which the late Miss Kennedy was held in the township where she was born and educated. Although her teaching was done in Toronto and Fort William Miss Kennedy took a keen interest in her old community where she spent her holidays.

Interment was made in St. Martin's cemetery, with the Rev. V. J. Gillogly conducting the graveside services.

Pallbearers were John Kennedy, Max Kennedy, Daniel K. Crough, Joseph Kennedy, Ray Crough and Morgan Crough. Relatives and friends were present from Toronto, St. Catharines, Fort William and Peterboorugh and other centres.

Ilsley Urges Speeding War Risk Act

Chance To Be Given For Debating Hong Kong Probe

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 0.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley, sponsor of a government measure providing insurance for Canadian property owners against damage by enemy action, yesterday urged members of the House of Commons to let the Government get on with the bill, which has been before the House since March 27.

The War Risk Insurance Bill, which has been the subject of lengthy debate in the House and in a standing committee, occupied the Commons in committee at yesterday's short sitting with some progress made on one of its main clauses. Debate on the measure continues today.

At the start of yesterday's sitting, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said an opportunity would be provided for the House to debate the report of Chief Justice Lyman P. Duff, who investigated as commissioner the dispatch of Canadian troops to Kong Kong.

After debate between east and west coast members who claimed there was not sufficient coverage for fishermen, and members from the same aras who were satisfied with what was provided, Mr. Ilsley declared that if he had it to do over again he would proceed by order-in-council instead of legislation.

No Dropping It Now

During the present session the opposition often has complained that the government's war measures are almost entirely enacted by order-in-council without reference to parliament.

In spite of those arguments, Mr. Ilsley said, he would proceed by order-in-council if he had the opportunity to start over again, and if he had done so he would have had a war risk insurance plan in operation now.

The Minister's protest was made when George Cruickshank (Lib. Fraser Valley) read a Vancouver Board of Trade communication urging the government to instruct insurance companies to start writing policies at once pending passage of the measure.

Mr. Ilsley said that since he had proceeded this far with legislation he was not going to drop it and use the device of an order-in-council at this stage. But he could not comply with the Vancouver request until

Drome Haunters Keep It Hot For The Germans

OTTAWA, July 9.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Air Force headquarters told something of the harrassing operatoins carried out against the Germans by an R.C.A.F. squqadron in England which flies in United States-built Douglas Boston-Bomber-Fighters.

This night squadron operates over Northern France, Belgium and the Netherlands.

"Recent bombing of a German airdrome at Soesterberg by this squadron left a fire visible for 45 miles," the headquarters report said. "Wing Cmdr. A. E. Saunders, Royal Air Force, commander of the squadron, tells in his operational report that one plane bombed the airdrome from east to west and saw numerous bursts in one section followed by a large fire.

"Saunders leads these flights and they make jitterbugs out of the Germans. Weary Luftwafe bombers settle down towards their home airdrome. Landing lights go on cautoiusly. Then the Canadians swoop in, guns ablaze and bombs falling. Craters appear in front of the German planes landing at 80 miles an hour. Ground crews stumble. Hangars leap into flames. Then the Canadian are gone.

"Haunting airdromes is not the only sport of this squadron. Ammunition dumps are left blazing. Night after night the planes go to occupied Europe to find signs of any unusual enemy preparations or activity. They find targets too—often not the specified ones. One plane sent to Leeuwarden could not accurately bomb its target because of ground fog, but it found the harbor at Harlingen and started two fires on the quayside. They were visible for 15 miles."

Kinsmen Pledge Is Exceeded By Two Million

Executives representing 96 Kinsmen Clubs of Canada and Newfoundland will meet in Vancouver on August 6, 7 and 8 for the annual convention of the Kinsmen Association. The Kinsmen Milk-for-Britain war service effort will be the main purpose and theme of the conference which will be convened under the chairmanship of National President W. Howard DeCew of Vancouver. It is expected that a report of the Milk-for-Britain discussions and an announcement of a new objective for the fund will be broadcast over a nation-wide network of the CBC on Saturday evening, August 8th.

Many representatives of Kinette Groups, wives of the Kinsmen, who have shared largely in the success of the first year of the Milk-for-Britain Fund will attend the conference. A Kinette business session will be held in conjunction with the Kinsmen sessions.

H. A. Rogers, chairman, and J. M. Houston, treasurer of the Milk-for-Britain Fund, and the Kinsmen National War Services Committee will report the Kinsmen pledge to Britain to deliver 1,500,000 quarts of milk to children "over there" by July 1st, was exceeded by more than two million quarts. Kinsmen shipments as of July 1st totalled 3,504,160 quarts. Further huge shipments are continuing at regular intervals.

The Dowager Marchioness of Reading, D.B.E., chairman of the Women's Voluntary Services of Great Britain, who distribute the milk, has sent greetings to the Kinsmen Milk-for-Britain Conference and her "very real thanks and deep gratitude for al their (kinsmen) generosity and kindness in sending over here the welcome and useful supplies of dried milk." Lady Reading's long letter of thanks refers to the safe arrival of every shipment to date and the perils of the convoy. She writes: "Every inch of space is precious. Frivolous cargoes won't be accepted. But the dried milk which the Kinsmen's Club sends is vital and no one grudges the valuable space it takes."

Continuing her letter to Kinsmen and Canadians, Lady Reading writes: "Hospitals and sick bays have their share, and here again the appreciation is the same as in the war nurseries. The extra milk. The milk without stint. The milk to build up again the little frames racked by sickness or pain. The milk to accelerate convalescence. The milk to bring color back to pale cheeks, to fill out matchstick legs, to strengthen little bodies—this is what the dried milk of the Kinsmen's Clubs does for the people of Britain. Across the ocean your dried milk came to Britain's children. Back across the ocean go invisible chains of gratitude and appreciation linking the British Empire as has never been done before. The future generation of Britain salute and thank the Kinsmen Clubs of Canada and Newfoundland."

Rotary Carnival Attracts Record Turnout

PORT HOPE July 9 — (ENS).— The annual street fair of the Port Hope Rotary Club in aid of the child welfare work, was opened in Rotary Park at 8 o'clock on Wednesday evening by the commanding officer of H.M.C.S. Port Hope, Lieut. Turner.

At 7:45 the Port Hope Band paraded to the park and helped to draw one of the largest crowds in the history of the fair. Lieut. Turner, in opening the fair, said: "I feel more at home on the bridge of a ship than standing on this platform. When I was invited by your committee some few weeks ago to take part in this pleasant event, I was rather reluctant about accepting. Not because I did not want to be here, but because I felt it was a littile beyond my depth. But on being informed of the interest that Port Hope citizens have taken in my ship's company, I feel it is a real privilege to participate in a small way on this occasion. While this is my first inland visit to Canada your face for hospitality and generosity is well known in the Old Country, particularly of organizations such as that of the Rotary Club who sponsor many gatherings as the one we will participate in to-night. The international activities of the Rotary Club are too well known for me to attempt to enlarge on, but I would like to say that your support and help in to-night's fair will be lasting credit to your own community and many others not appreciated at the moment.

"Before opening the fair, may I thank all of you on behalf of the ship's company, H.M.C.S. Port Hope, for the interest so splendidly shown in our welfare, which will be more suitably expressed when your ship comes into port later this month. It is my pleasure to declare this Rotary street fair now open — the evening is yours."

Garden Party Guests Contribute Freely

PORT HOPE, July 9 (ENS) — Mrs. W. H. Roper opened her beautiful gardens on Augusta street, Wednesday afternoon for a garden party under the auspices of the Service Club of St. John's church.

The many guests were received by the president, Mrs. E. E. Snider, and the hostess, Mrs. Roper. Tea was served on the veranda and in the sun room at small tables artistically decorated with roses and baby's breath by a committee convened by Mrs. W. E. Scultharpe and Mrs. F. W. Diamond. Tea was poured by Mrs Bush, Mrs. Arthur, Mrs. Crosall and Mrs. Black.

The white elephant table under the capable direction of Miss K. Brayley, was a most successful feature of the afternoon.

In spite of sugar rationing members had been most generous in using their quota for donations to the home cooking table which, as always, was a most popular spot. Also for sale at this table, which was under the supervision of Mrs. Briden and Mrs. Chisholm, were bouquets of roses, delphinium and iris.

In charge of the work table, at which many useful and beautiful articles were displayed, was Mrs. Passey.

Many of the guests enjoyed a game of clock golf, where Miss Patricia Chisholm and Miss Joyce Crisall were in charge. Those who wished to have a peep into the future patronized the palm reading booth where Mrs. Bryant extendetd a welcome.

Mrs. Wotherspoon took charge of the proceeds which totalled about $95.00 and will go far in promoting the good work done by the club.

Peterborough Rural Schools

No. 2 Chandos Was Built in 1876; No. 3 is a Union School For An Area Comprising Parts of Chandos and Wollaston Townships.

UNION SCHOOL, No. 3, CHANDOS

Union School Section No. 3, Chandos and Wollaston, comprises an area on both sides of the county boundary, including part of Chandos and Wollaston townships. Early settlers from the British Isles are recalled as follows: John and William Tinney, Christopher Jones, Nicholas Long, Frank Hogan, Robt. Storey, David Campbell, George Campbell, William Campbell, James Donald, Frank Mindell, James Scott, George Smith, Albert Cadwell, Thomas Cadwell, Robert Cadwell, Phillip Eddy, Louis Ament, John McKee, Stanton Irish, Isaac Remigan, Charles Irish, Durall White, Samuel Massey, Abel Helps, Henry Wilson, Tobias Sexsmith, George Unger, Charles Waite, Thomas Scott, Thomas Hogan and Mr. Gibbard.

The first school was built of logs in 1902 by John Jones and Adam Hilker at a cost of about $800. It is a frame building 34 feet by 20 feet, with accommodation for forty pupils. The original trustees were Christopher Jones, chairman; George Campbell and John McKee. The first teacher in the new school was Jessie Allan at a salary of $225.

The teachers since the new school was built were: 1903, Jessie Allan; 1904-6, Maude Hall; 1907, Blanche Humphries; 1908-9, Nettie Metcalfe; 1910, Miss Littledale; 1911-12, Annie Bullied; 1912, Ella Lindsay; 1913, Edna Graham ($400); 1913-14, Lillian Leveridge; 1914, Amy Warren; 1915-16, Elsie Ogilvie; 1916-17, Sadie Moore; 1917-18, Virginia Pigden; 1918, Ethel Hawkins; 1919, Pearl Walker, $550; 1920-21, Nellie Wright; 1921, Irene Clancy; 1922, J. F. Whitmore and Ruby Gardner; 1923, Dora Danford and Grace Carr, now Mrs. Russell Campbell; 1927, Ida McDonald; 1928-9, Christine Hibble; 1930-31, Betty Green and Mrs. M. N. Johnston; 1932-36, Mabel Arbuckle, now Mrs. Jerome Campbell; Rose Island; 1937, Eleanor Trousdale; 1938, Blanche M. Allen; 1939, Anna M. Quinlan; 1940, Hazel M. Taylor.

When the school was built the number of scholars was large enough to occupy all the seats, but the attendance latterly has dwindled to twelve or thereabouts. The reason for this decline is simply that when the timber was taken off, men could not make a living, and so moved away.

S.S. No. 2, CHANDOS

Establishment of this school followed pioneer plans and means. A log building was erected in 1876 on the site of the present school. The first teacher was Mrs. William McIlmoyl. During the next two summers J. W. Ratcliff carried on classes.

From 1879 the following teachers were engaged until 1886: Misses Mary Walker, Baptie, Wood, MacDonald, Lightbody, Hale, Dafoe and Mr. J. W. Bingham. In 1886, J. R. Stratton, then owner and publisher of the Examiner, had a survey made of the school lot. It was made into a school section, No. 2 Chandos, and was known as Hales School.

Teachers for the next 17 years were A. W. Allingham, Miss Gamon, William Conner, Archie Reed, L. Trickey, B. J. Hales, Julia Hales (four years), Margaret Jordan, A. B. Wilson, Misses Lane, Larmer, Murray, Staunton and Josie Stephenson. In 1904 the school was destroyed by fire, and a new frame building was construtced that year. Men of the section joined in a building "bee."

Teachers from 1905 to 1922 were: Miss Mattie Bullied, Annie Bates, L. Howson, Ada Richardson, Bruce Brooks, Charles Dingman, Annie Bullied, Mildred Hales, Laura Wyndover, V. Prouty, Zella Hales, Edna M. Graham, R. A. Braley, Mildred McIlvena, J. G. Reynolds, Ella Brown, A. E. Sanborn, Mary Northcott and Misses D. M. Church and Mackenzie.

For some time residents considered a consolidated school in Apsley, and the books were in the hands of Roy Brown for three years.

Teachers since 1924 included: E. Brown, Madeline Burns, Jessie Ballard.

1928-30, Bessie Anderson; 1930-31, Dorothy Hooey; 1931-32, Eric Evans; 1932-34, Margaret Whittaker; 1934-36, Georgina Beavis; 1937, Marvel Shaver; Nelson Carnegie; 1937-9, Mary E. Kydd; 1939-40, Roger W. Davis.

Nine pupils registered at the beginning of the 1940-41 term. The board for 1941 was composed of Norman James, Elwood Nesbitt and Martin Reddick, with Albert Hall, secretary-treasurer.

Tank Shooting Means Triple Co-ordination

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 9.—(CP)—Eyes, hands and feet are all employed at rapid speed by a tank gunner. The big job in training a man to shoot from a tank and hit something consists in developing perfect co-ordination between all three.

In their little steel compartments the men of the tank crews are as busy as the traditional one-armed paper hanger. The busiest of all is probably the loader and wireless operator who is usually the tank commander as well but the gunner comes next.

I was given a chance to fire the guns on one of the "ram" tanks of a Canadian Armored Division and find out just how they work.

The gunner sits on a stool and looks out through his sights. With one hand he operates a switch which controls the elevation of his guns, with the other a simliar switch which makes the gun turret revolve and so brings his guns on line with the target. With his foot he fires.

He controls a formidale mass of fire power with his foot pedal for it fires both the powerful tank gun and the machine-gun. The pedal works like the gear shift in a motor car. Push it to the left and down and the big gun goes off with a bang which is ear-shattering outside but scarcely more than the crack of a revolver shot to the men in the heavy steel turret. Push the pedal to the right and down and off goes the machine-gun spattering bullets with a noisy rattle.

Some Fast Work.

When the tank is moving the gunner must be quick and precise to get his gun off at the moment he has the target in his sights.

The ideal situation in tank shooting is to fire from a standstill and get the enemy tank to move but that is not alwas possible and the gunners spend hours practicing shooting from moving tanks.

Their range is on a bluff overlooking the waters of an arm of the sea and they fire at targets placed in the water. I was lucky enough to kick up a splash within a few feet from the target with one of several bursts from the machine-gun.

The gun juts into the middle of the turret and occupies a lot of space. The gun loader sits behind the gunner and right up against the breach His ammunition hangs on racks around the turret. He has earphones on his ears and a telephone transmitter at his mouth.

He gets orders from his troop commander over his wireless and gives his own orders to the driver and gunner over the inter-tank phone system, watches the enemy through his periscope and loads shells into the gun as fast as they are fired.

Every time the gun goes off the weapon smashes back with the recoil within a few feet of his face but his job is so arranged that he never has occasion to get behind the gun.

Sometimes the loader is relieved of part of his duties by the addition of a crew commander of the crew. The crew commander does the periscope watching and gives the orders but he takes up room in the turret.

In addition to those in the turret are the driver, lower down in a cubby-hole of his own and a spare driver in another cubby-hole nearby.

Tre spare driver is the only man whose job is simple. He has a machine gun to operate but nothing else while the tank is in action.

Conscription If Necessary

The debate on conscription in the House is now over, and the majority of Canadians will be heartily glad of it. It was obvious from the beginning what the decision would be but it has taken many days and much indifferent oratory to reach that decision. Now, by a vote of 158 to 54 we are to have "not necessarily conscription but conscription if necessary." This will, we think, be satisfactory to most Canadians, but during the next few days there will undoubtedly be some violent outbursts from those who will not entertain the idea of conscription at any cost and their opposite numbers, those for whom conscription in Canada is the be-all and end-all of the war.

On this whole matter of conscription the Prime Minister and the majority of his followers have pursued an elaborately cautious policy and there have been times when their appearance has been anything but heroic. Their opponents, on the contrary, have given some remarkable exhibitions of heroism. The difference between the two attitudes is simple, but it appears to have escaped many people. The Government is in power with a large majority, and very properly considers itself responsible to all the people of Canada in consequence. The Opposition parties, on the other hand, represent minorities and have the boldness of those who bear light responsibilities. Their cries for immediate conscription were loud—perhaps louder than they would have been had there been any likelihood of getting such a measure.

In the final speech of the debate the Prime Minister answered those of his opponents who had accused him of "playing politics" in the matter of conscription. He explained what was already clear to all but those opponents; it was his duty to please, not them and the people whom they represented, but his own followers and the people whom they represented, that is to say, the majority of Canadians. In time of war there is no group of Parliamentarians so few in numbers that they do not feel anxious to have a finger in the governmental pie, and for this reason there has been an attempt in Canada to induce Mr. King to resign and to substitute a national government for the present one. This is advocated with total disregard for the fact that the majority of Canadians do not want a national government, and that the last national government which we had in this country was not a success. It is advocated with full knowledge that there is no man accetpable to the people of Canada who could be induced to head a national government. Canada has had a wartime election already and the people have chosen their Government; demands for a national government merely show a wish to overthrow that government without running the risk of another election.

"Not necessarily conscription but conscription if necessary" is the policy, because the Prime Minister does not believe that anything better can be suggested. Neither do we. It is not a policy to rouse enthusiasm but it is a policy which will keep this faction-ridden country in a single piece, and that is vastly important. A flat refusal to conscript would have outraged large sections of the country; a policy of immediate conscription would have been a death-blow to Canadian unity. The compromise which we have is the only thing which both sides can be induced to swallow.

Let no one try to give the impression that Canada is a whit less protected or loyal to the cause of the United Nations because of this decision. We have a large army in Britain now, and when it needs reinforcements they can be conscripted and sent within a few days. The men are trained ;only the assent of Parliament is needed to ship them off. We can be sure that when it is necessary to make that decision Parliament will not hesitate.

Thus, in the second Great War, Canada has made her decision on the subject of conscription. Twice in her 75 years this Dominion has been shaken by this problem. Surely it would be wise, when peace comes again, for us to decide, once for all, on a policy which we shall have ready for the future? It is impossible to conduct reasonable debates on such a subject when a war is actually in progress; both sides are abnormally excited and sensitive and things are said which are remembered with bitterness for years afterward. Let us resolve never to debate the subject of conscription in wartime again.

Healthier Britons

The chief medical officer of the British Ministry of Health, Sir William Jameson, has made some information available which shows a marked increase in health in the British Isles since the outbreak of war. On the face of it this is astonishing. The privations of war, and the destruction of the blitz would appear more likely to cause disease than a rise in general health. Many people have been forced out of their accustomed homes; there is overcrowding in industrial districts; sanitary arrangements have been disorganized by falling bombs; air-raid shelters are anything but health-resorts. And yet the British people are healthier than they have been in years. Why?

For one thing, Sir William thinks that the British diet has been improved. There is less food, but it is all nourishing, and some of the heavy puddings of which the English are so fond are impossible to make with wartime rations. Of course, doctors like to tell us that we should all eat less, though they rarely show any desire to take a lead in the matter; the British now eat less for the best of reasons — there is less to eat. British women, says this authority, have shown especial improvement; they are slimmer, better-looking, and more vivacious. This is understandable enough; English cooking as it used to be was conducive to comfort, but cetrainly not to vivacity. And we are whole-heartedly in favor of anything which makes women better-looking. Sir William also thinks that the shorter skirts and shorter hair of recent years has helped women to be healthier; without wishing to question the judgment of an eminent medical authority we think that fewer skirts, rather than shorter skirts has done the trick. In our search for health let us not return to the brief skirts of the twenties, which were probably the ugliest garments ever decreed by fashion. And as for hair—do you recall the days when girls boasted of being able to sit on their hair, and sometimes had it cut because it was "sapping their strength?"

Is it possible also that British health has improved because British life has been simplified by the war? There are few people in Britain now who have not some sort of necessary work to do; they are all working for a cause, but they do not have to struggle to make money. There is greater national solidarity than there has been in generations. There is, oddly enough, freedom from worry; there is an element of adventure in daily life. In fact, the British are deprived, for the time being, of some of the most ennervating aspects of civilized life and most of them are living happily from day to day, doing their best and not worrying too much about the future because they cannot control it. We who still have full scope may shortly have cause to envy them their robust health.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Birds have a temperature of about 108 degrees. Some of them hardly notice it when they are roasted.

It isn't wise these days to tell a lady that she has wrinkled stockings. She may not be wearing any.

In some parts of Europe, we hear, bread is being made from chestnuts. Here we use them to make radio programs.

Donald Henderson, U.S. Price Administrator, says, "It's not smart to chisel." And how is a man to make a niche for himself, we should like to know?

We hear that the London War Office now refers to the 1914-18 war as "The Four Years' War." So epehemeral a thing is "greatness."

An insurance company says that 90 per cent. of marriages are contracted between people who live in the same neighborhood. Which sows that, though Cupid may not be blind he is certainly nearsighted.

Says the Chatham Daily News: "An Indiana barber was only slightly injured when run over by his own car. The only thing remaining is for him to be convinced by his own talk that he needs a shampoo, a haircut and a face massage in addition to the close shave."

The Path of The Conqueror

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

WHENEVER possible a conqueror likes to have his path strewn with roses, both literally and metaphorically. In some of his triumphal processions in the Reich Hitler's car has been preceded by German maidens scattering flowers; but neither he nor his representatives have been able to arrange anything quite so effective in the Occupied Countries; the people there are recalcitrant, uncommunicative and frequently hostile. The path of the conqueror there is strewn not with roses, but with thorns.

The best and most complete account of the reception of the New Order by the people of Europe is contained in Rene Kraus' new book, "Europe In Revolt", which has recently been published by the Macmillan Company. Kraus, of Austrian and French parentage, is a journalist of wide exprelence both in Europe and America. He has written some good books and some which were far from good; his "The Men Around Churchill", for instance, was secondrate. But "Europe In Revolt" is a carefully considered work, and it has an air of veracity about it which cannot be dismissed merely as an effect of clever writing. He makes no extravagant claims, and pretends to no unusual knowledge. But he has prepared his book with the help of many governments in exile, embassies, legations and consulates and he gives us a remarkably detailed picture of the conquered countries of Europe and their valiant, costly resistance to Germony.

HE divides his book into three sections—The Squeeze, Stroke and Counterstroke, and Revolt. The first section describes in detail the elaborate apparatus which the Germans use in the occupied countries to cripple them spiritually and economically. The economic squeeze is a complete success. The countries are pillaged systematically, public and private wealth being requisitioned, extracted in gigantic fines and levies for misconduct, and simply stolen on one pretext or another. This is the traditional method of the conqueror; nothing lowers the morale of a country or an individual so quickly as poverty. But in the realm of the spirit Germany has been markedly less successful. There is not a man, woman or child in the occupied countries, possibly excepting a few quislings, who does not consider the Germans as inferiors, mere bullies who have won their battles by a magnificent co-operation which conceals their shortcomings as individuals. Now it is folly to imagine that this moral strength in the occupied countries will have any serious effect on the Germans. John Steinbeck, in his recent novel, "The Moon Is Down", has tried to make a case for this sort of moral warfare and a poor case it is. But it makes the Germans uncomfortable, and although that is little enough, it is better than nothing. No roses have been strown in the conqueror's path anywhere in Europe. And this solidarity of feeling, this deep contempt and hatred for the Germans, sustains the people of Europe in many sore trials and preserves their spirit whole for the day when they can strike for freedom. That is its chief importance.

THE second section of the book—Stroke and Counterstroke—is about this spiritual struggle. It is not a struggle in which the spirit is all on one side. Nazism is one of the most powerful religions upon earth at this moment if we consider religion as a system of beliefs, part definable and part mystical, to which men devote themselves in spirit. A religion, it must be remembered, is not necessarily a good thing. This strong religion of Nazism finds itself opposed by Christianity, which most of the peoples of Europe believe to be the best of all religions. But before the war Christianity was old and creaking, while Nazism was young and vigorous. Since the tragedy of Europe Christianity has been forced to revivify itself and the process has not always been easy. Fortunately the Christian churches have had such men as the Archbishop of Zagreb, the Metropolitan of the Greek Church in Athens, and Bishop Berggrav of Oslo to fight its battles, and in Belgium it has Cardinal van Roey, a great and worthy successor of Cardinal Mercier, one of the greatest heroes of the First World War.

The heading of the final section explains itself. It is Revolt, necessarily on a small scale but determined and harmful to the Nazi cause. If the Nazis are prepared to die in driven herds for their leader and their dream of conquest the people of the occupied countries are prepared to die as hostages and as guerrillas in any numbers which may be necessary, with little hope of achieving anything other than a violent assertion of their hatred for the conqueror. The lot of the quislings and the Nazi governors is a hard one, for they understand nothing but brutality, and brutality has failed them. Kraus wrote his book before Heidrich met his richly deserved death, and he gives many details of that despicable creature's tyranny as Protector of Bohemia and Moravia. If such men as Heidrich were able to die a thousand lingering deaths it would still be too little to atone for their vileness in life.

THIS is an interesting and valuable book. It is impossible to say whether or not it is strictly accurate, but there seems little reason to doubt that its general picture of Europe in revolt is a just one. The book has one great fault; it has no index. By this ommission its usefulness to writers and editors is halved. Has Mr. Kraus no wife? Authors' wives usually make up an index for them, expecting no better return than a brief mention in the preface.

Unconsidered Trifles

The conductor was rehearsing a new musical play.

"That's far too loud," interrupted the producer.

"I can't help it," returned the conductor. "It calls for forte."

"Never mind that," answered the producer. "Make it thirty-five."

"Any complaints?" asked the orderly officer, entering the mess-room.

"Yes, sir!" replied Private Smith. "They've all got bigger dinners than me."

"Well," said the orderly officer, smiling, "they're all bigger lads than you, aren't they?"

"Yes, sir," Smithy agreed; "an' allus will be at this rate."

Red Push Looms from North

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

NAZI exploitation of the Don Basin breach in Russian lines is taking an expected course, by German accounts, although Moscow still ignores and seems to refute Berlin claims to have captured Voronezh.

A double effort to widen the German triangular wedge driven from the Kursk sector to or beyond the Don is discernable. Russian reports admit Staryi Oskol, at the base of the triangle, is lost. Berlin claims gains also made southward to expand the gap at its Voronezh apex, presumably along the Don. A fifty-mile Nazi advance southward on the east bank of the Don to Liski junction would add immeasurably to the seriousness of the situation for the Russian southern army.

RUSSIAN ATTACKS DEVELOP

German reports also disclose, however, Russian attacks developing on the north flank of the triangle, where the Russians may be probing for a weak spot.

Desperate as the situation of Marshal Timoshenko's southern army appears, there can be no doubt that every advantage of fast and direct communications lies with Rusian armies north of the Kursk-Voronezh bulge. Sixty miles north of the Kurk-Voronezh railroad, to which the German lunge to the Don was groove, is the paralleling Orel-Yelets east-west rail lateral. There are no less than nine north-south rail connections between these two east-west transportation systems as well as many fair roads following the same river valleys.

Two of these nine lines join Orel and Kursk. The Russian offensive northwest of German-held Orel probably is an effort to by-pass that city for a drive down the Western Orel-Kursk railroad on Kursk itself, vital pivot of the German offensive.

Unquestionably the major strength of Russian armies is deployed in the vast, circular Moscow defense perimeter. It reaches around the city from the Upper Volga in the northwest to the Don in the Voronezh sector in the southeast. The whole network of railroads and highways of which Moscow is the hub is available for quick Red troop shuttling.

NAZIS TRY TO HOLD

There is every reason, by the map, to expect Russian counter-attack reaction from the north, supported by this inter-woven communications system. The Nazi attack on the Upper Volga still seems primarily a holding operation, designed to prevent or limit the massing of Russian armies of the centre southward for relief of Timoshenko's hard-pressed troops. Similar Nazi blows elsewhere on the Moscow perimeter are to be expected at the same end.

It seems certain that Red counter-attacks at many points, or a general counter-offensive along that whole 175-mile front, must come soon. The threat of it alone is probably compelling the Germans to mass forces from Kursk to the Don facing northward, limiting the weight of men and metal available to widen the Don wedge or convert it into an entrapment sweep southward behind Timoshenko's right-centre wing.

Wide marshy lands between the Don and its tributaries east of Voronezh tend to impede swift tank action. There seems little doubt that it is upon this Timoshenko is counting to contain the deepest German thrust while he awaits counter-action by Red armies to the north.

Whitehall Notebook

By DOUGLAS AMARON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 9.—(CP).—Chequers, "place of rest and recreation" for Britain's Prime Ministers, would tell many interesting stories if its historic walls could talk.

It was at this country home, away from the din and bustle of 10 Downing Street, that the British and French Prime Minister in 1917 agreed on unity of command on the eastern front; here, seven years later, Ramsay MacDonald met Edouard Herriot, the French Premier.

Here, too, Stanley Baldwin spent long evenings playing patience and Mrs. Baldwin seized the antique fire-irons of the great hall and brandished them to illustrate some point of cricket. And here Winston Churchill and Vyacheslav Molotov first discussed the Anglo-Soviet 20-year alliance.

One of Chequers stories concerns a week-end when Viscount Halifax, then Edward Wood, was invited there so Baldwin could tell him he had been chosen to go to India as Viceroy. Friday and Saturday passed and India was not mentioned.

On Sunday, Baldwin and Lord Halifax went for a long walk together. That evening, an embarrassed Baldwin admitted to his private secretary, Sir Ronald Waterhouse, that he hadn't told Lord Halifax about India. "You tell him," he aded, and Sir Ronald had to do the job.

POST-MORTEM

The "no confidence" debate which brought Prime Minister Churchill such an overwhelming majority just won't pass into history. Almost every day someone pops up with another fact about, or refers to it in a speech.

For instance, it has been discovered there was a mistake in the official division list and that Mr. Churchill received 476 votes instead of 475 as originally announced. The opposition count remains 25. Also, though many critics blamed Mr. Churchill for the army's setbacks, not a single M.P. serving with the forces voted against the Government.

A surprise visitor to the Air Ministry on the eve of the debate was Wing Cmdr. Charles Bray. He made a 23-hour flight from Libya as Air Marshal Tedder's special representative to ensure that all facts regarding the R.A.F. were put in the proper light. A former Essex cricketer, Bray has been one of the chief public relations officers in North Africa for the last year.

As a result of the 15-hour session on the opening day of the debate two members have tabled motions to restrict late sittings of the Commons to fixed hours. At present, if the 11 o'clock closing rule is suspended or a certain type of business is being discussed, the House can sit all night provided there is a quorum. Lack of quorum ended last Tuesday's debate.

P. Cornelius, Hansard editor, received many congratulations for his organization in overcoming difficulties of the long session. Hansard was not delivered with the morning mail as usual, but it was in the Votes Office when it opened at 10 a.m. The whole of the overnight proceedings were covered—the first time in history a debate which extended after midnight had been fully reported in the next morning's Hansard.

This isn't generally known, but the Minister of Agriculture, as well as the First Lord of the Admiralty, is entitled to fly a flag when he puts to sea. Reason is, his full title is Minister of Agriculture and Fisheries and in peacetime there is a fishery cruiser at his disposal.

The flag of the cruiser carried the device of a Dolphin. So far, R. S. Hudson, the Minister, hasn't had an opportunity to fly it and he's not likely to get one while the war lasts.

John Parker, Labor M.P. from Romford, largest constituency in the country, has worked out a plan which he hopes may solve one of the biggest problems of over-worked members—their "fan-mail."

He has more than 170,000 electors in his constituency and his plan is to have eight people scattered through the division with whom the electors can get in touch if they have any matter they want to take up with him.

This is not the first time Parker has tried to tackle the problem. In 1937 he made efforts to get his constituency split up into four divisions, but was unsuccessful. Some time later he had to send out an appeal to electors to include a stamped envelope if they wanted a reply. The postage problem was becoming serious.

Parker's predecessor in Romford, W. D. G. Hutchinson, who joined the navy a year ago, is a candidate for a commission. He is serving on a destroyer.

Hutchinson, 38, left the stage to contest the Romford seat in 1931 and returned to the theatre when he was defeated in 1935. Chairman of a motion picture corporation, he is one of the youngest executives in British films.

A Bible Message For Today

(From The Authorized Version)

FINALLY, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rules of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righ[illegible]eousness: and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.—Eph. vi., 10-17.

FOR the word of God is quick, and powerful and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.—Heb. iv., 12.

Music Hath Brahms

THE sublime and the ridiculous, as Napoleon, Lord Oxford and Thomas Paine agree, are never far apart. So those who consider Brahms' music sublime are rarely permitted to forget the suggestion made by one critic that a [illegible] be placed over a concert-hall doorway to m[illegible] it as an "Exit in Case of Brahms." Somewhat kinder to Brahms, but hardly a sublime tribute, was the review of a concert which said: "An amateur string quartet played Brahms in the Town Hall last evening. Brahms lost."

These were deliberate efforts at humor, and offer no criterion by which to judge the critique which appeared in an Aberdeen journal recently: "The work of the evening was Brahms Second Symphony. . . . Mr. Barbirolli at times seemed to give the symphony its head, but, when it was his time, he brought the orchestra to heel, and we had a performance that brought a Scots audience to its feet. Could Brahms ask more?"

Our guess is that Brahms might have asked a little less—of the reviewer. But Brahms fans will doubtless gleefully applaud this latest crescendo in rhetoric. It is not every composer who can be listened to in solemnity and read about in rapture.—Christian Science Monitor.

Lodges To Parade In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, July 9—(ENS).—The East Durham L.O.L. met in Millbrook on Saturday evening and decided to hold their celebration of The Twelfth in the village on Monday, July 13, with a parade at 2:30 p.m., followed by speeches, and a picnic at John Rowland's grove, King Street East.

The West Durham Orange Lodges are to be invited to join with those of the eastern side of the county for the afternoon's activities, and the general public will be welcomed at the picnic and to hear the addresses, ex-Warden Percy Stinson being chairman of the committee to secure speakers. Brither Stephen Morton is the Worshipful Master of the district L.O.L.

Geoffrey Whyte, only son of Dr. B. C. and Mrs. Whyte, of Battle Creek, Michigan, and a nephew of Miss Margaret and the late ex-Warden W. T. Wood of Millbrook, who has spent many of his holidays here where his father and mother were born and brought up met with an alarming experience, according to despatches, when with the R.A.F. in one of the recent air raids over Germany. Geoffrey was the rear gunner in the plane, which by the way was entirely manned by Canadians, and when at an altitude of over 16,000 feet, the oxygen pipe line in his compartment became grozen and the gunner in consequence was rendered unconscious; thus he was not aware when they were attacked by an enemy bomber and a portion of the lower part of the plane either set on fire or shot away. A return to normal air conditions restored Rear Gunner Whyte to consciousness, and he stepped downward, only to find his feet went through into space, leaving him holding on by both arms outspread on either side, until the plane was brought to earth. The crew thought they were landing in the Netherlands, but to their happy surprise they were in England. Two of the men were badly injured, the plane itself was badly riddled with bullets and apparently only skilful piloting had brought it safely down without complete disaster.

Canadian Smoke-Eaters Visit Houses Of Parliament

In England to study blitz fire-fighting methods, this party of Canadian firemen is shown outside the House of Parliament in London during a tour arranged by Sir Jocelyn Lucas, who is a part-time fire-fighter himself. With the firemen in the group are two United States army nurses; a New Zealand airman; a Canadian airman, and a Dutch sailor.

Canadian Infantrymen Far More Than Footsloggers

Possibly the most under-rated man in Canada's 1942 Army is the man who in the long run will win the war for us. He is the hard-working, hard-fighting, hard-hitting and highly-trained so-called footslogger—yesterday's "P.B.I." today's infantryman.

No matter how irresistable our armoured shock divisions and our powerful tank brigades prove in future battle, no major operation ever will be marked down as a victory without the infantryman. No matter how terrible the devastation visited upon the enemy by the bomber of our air squadrons, it is to the infantryman that will fall the final task. No offensive can be a conclusive success without him.

All Have Special Task

Every arm and service in the Canadian Army will have its claim—and a just claim—to glory when the story of the Army finally is told. All have their special task to perform, their special role to play and victory will depend upon the successful completion of their combined tasks. But the greatest task of all, probably, is that of the infantryman and to be able to meet it he has been trained more highly than ever before. The private of today's Army is better trained and a far more specialized soldier than the officer of the last war.

Today the infantryman is no longer a foot-soldier armed with a rifle and bayonet, plus a mills bomb or two and with one man in ten or more trained in the use of the machine gun. The infantryman of today is practically a machinegunner—every man jack of them—and not just one type of machine gun either.

He can turn his hand to — or actually carries—many weapons. He can handle the Bren, Lewis, Vickers, Colt and Tommy guns, anti-tank rifles and at least two types of mortars. The rifleman is a sniper and an ammunition carrier and an all round fighter at long or short range. The infantry platoon is so well armed that it hardly could pack more armament without losing its new speed.

It isn't just in the use of rifle, bayonet, machine gun, mortar or grenade that an infantryman must be proficient. His training doesn't stop there. A good "footslogger's" education includes map reading, stalking, tank-hunting, cooking, construction of anti-tank traps, personal camouflage and camouflage of arms and equipment and vehicles, defence against aircraft and defence against gas.

Able to Read Maps

His map-reading enables him successfully to get around without getting lost; to reach his destination by the shortest and best route. He can tell at a glance whether this road or that road affords the most cover; whether this hill or that ridge will give him the most advantageous position.

Stalking enables him to creep up on an enemy post without being observed and drawing fire. Tank hunting gives him the tricks that will personally enable him to destroy that nuisance to all good infantrymen—the tank. He stalks it at night, creeping up on the mechanical monster when approach is easier. If he's successful, there's one less tank.

Give the trained infantryman an issue of rations in the field and he will turn out a meal that many a housewife couldn't equal under the same conditions. Give him a few odds and ends and he'll disguise himself and his position so successfully that the Six Nations would have trouble discovering his whereabouts.

Not Panic-stricken

He knows what to do if enemy airplanes decide on a little ground strafing. He isn't panic-stricken if a gas alarm is given because he has been trained in gas protection. He is used to wearing his respirator and has complete confidence in it.

It is quite true that men of the other arms and services also are trained in many of these aspects. But the infantryman knows them—has to know them—to a better degree than anyone else. The moral is plain. There is less opportunity for the effective use of men of relatively low intellectual and moral calibre in the infantry than in any other Army or Service.

Further, the 1942 infantryman is taught to be an independent resourceful shock-trooper from the start of his collective training. That is, after he has completed basic training in his formidable array of weapons and the fundamentals of soldiering, he starts training as a member of the smallest fighting unit, the platoon. Early in his tuition he is out on all-night manoeuvres, or perhaps three-day field practices, which are designed to teach him how to fight and carry on, independent of his flanks and supporting troops. But the time he has advanced to company, battalion or more ambitious operations, he is fitting perfectly into place and has acquired an instinctive knowledge of both blitz weapons and tactics.

The opinion has even been expressed that the infantryman has a "cushy" job in this war in the belief that he no longer slogs it on foot. That is as unfounded as the impression that he has been relegated to a secondary and even minor and insignificant part in the new warfare.

Master At Footslogging

It is true that on urgent orders he travels to distant battle-sites by motor transport held in reserve and specially detailed for that purpose. They rush him into the fight with a speed that was not even imagined in the last war. But that is no reason to withhold sympathy for the amount of footwork he does. It should be enhanced. He is still a master in foot-slogging. He has less pick-and-shovel work, but even while training for today's fast, open campaigns, he is always moving with speed and agility under full battle-kit. He is eternally "at the double" on manoeuvres. He is not only a far more active soldier this time, but his physical stamina is greater, it is more harshly tried, and for more prolonged periods.

This is a tougher war and the whole progress of creating soldiers in Canada is designed to build up strength against the greater exhaustion and battle-shock as other things are taught. Even while the rookie marches he is not permitted the old, steady pace for long. He is constantly breaking column and scattering under mock air-assault, or to set up a defence against mythical surprise attack. Physical fitness combined with altertness and an intelligent mind are as necessary to the infantryman today as knowledge of weapons and tactics.

It is true that our armoured units will lead the way in future Canadian offensive, but final victory or disaster will rest on the skill, spirit and fighting qualities of the infantry rolling up behind them. That is simply because no battle is won until ground gained has been consolidated and until all counter-attacks are beaten off—by the infantry. In defensive operations, the issue will be also decided by the infantry. And contrary to the usual opinion, and to the arguments of many arm-chair tacticians, the modern Canadian "ordinary" division, as armed and equipped, is perfectly capable of defeating German tank attack.

That assertion will not find its proof is requfired for the statement that it is the infantryman who will take the brunt of the fighting, the toil and the casualties—the blood, sweat and tears—in the battles of decision. He should also have the honour.

No Counsel Bill Sent In By Drew

OTTAWA, July 9 (CP)—Lieutenant-Colonel George A. Drek of Toronto, Ontario Conservative Leader, has not submitted an account for his services as counsel at the Royal Commission enquiry into the sending of a Canadian expedition to Hong Kong, it was reported in a reply tabled in the House of Commons today for Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con., Toronto-Parkdale).

(Colonel Drew was nominated by Conservative House Leader Hanson as a counsel at the inquiry. He has since been charged under the Defense of Canada Regulations for comments made on the report of Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff, who was the Royal Commissioner.)

Dr. Bruce in his question asked what fees were charged by counsel. The reply said George A. Campbell of Montreal received $9,568, R. L. Kellock of Toronto $7,298, and Robert M. Fowler of Toronto $4,084.

MRS. J. ARNOLD'S RINK WINS DUFFUS TROPHY FOR SECOND TIME

Cubs Welcoming Warneke As A Steadier

CHICAGO, July 9 — (AP). — There is a regular starting role awaiting lean Lon Warneke, 33-year-old National League pitching veteran, whose return to Chicago's Cubs after 5½ years comes as much of a surprise as did his trade to the St. Louis Cards in 1936.

"I'll use him right away and I'll use him regularly," Manager Wilson said to-day. "We've needed another starting pitcher all along."

To which General Manager James Gallagher added:

"He has an arm that still has some pitching skill left in it. He is a steady workman and our pitching staff needs steadying."

Warneke himself in his 12th year as a major leaguer and with a record of 183 victories against 108 defeats, had this to say:

"Sure, I'm glad to be coming back to my old stomping grounds. Although that old fireball is gone, I still think I'm a pretty fair chucker."

Warneke was to arrive to-day.

Announcement yesterday by St. Louis officials that Warneke had been claimed at the paiver price of $7,500 surprised even the Cubs. Gallagher said he had put in a claim several days ago, but had heard nothing since.

Typical of the tall philosophical Arkansan and his sense of humor was his reply recently to a question whether he still could throw hard.

"I throw just as hard as I ever did," Lon drawled. "Only the ball doesn't get there as fast."

Allan Marshall Seeking To Regain Title

Four Peterborough swimmers plan to enter the Canadian Swimming Championship events at a Dominion swim meet scheduled for St. Adele, Quebec, on July 17 and 18.

Allan Marshall, holder of the Canadian record for 200-yard breast stroke, will endeavor to regain the title which he lost last year, and better his own record time in the event. He will also compete in the 100 yards free style. Len Smith, who placed fourth in the 100 yards backstroke last year, will make another kid this year, competing in the 150 yards backstroke. The other two swimmers are Andrew Brown and Gordon Blackwell.

It is Brown's first taste of Dominion competition, but Blackwell tried last year and failed to place. Marshall, Smith and Brown will take part as a Peterborough team in the 300 yards medley relay. Marshall will swim the 100 yards breast-stroke, Smith 100 yards backstroke and Brown the 100 yards free style.

The boys leave here on Tuesday with their coach, Gordon Minty, and will travel to Ottawa, where Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., has offered to show them the sights. They will then proceed leisurely to St. Adele to give them plenty of time to rest up.

Siwmmers from Vancouver, New York, Edmonton, Winnipeg, Hamilton, Toronto, Montreal and Peterborough will take part in the meet.

Soldiers Take 7 to 6 Win From Juveniles

Soldiers barely managed to squeeze a 7 to 6 victory over the fast stepping, smooth working Juveniles in a scheduled Senior City Softball league game at Riverside Park on Wedesday evening before one of the largest crowds of the season. It was a neat game to watch and while both teams made more miscues than usually mark as close a game it was nevertheless a nip and tuck tussle to the last innings when the Juveniles made a strong bid for victory but were nipped.

The Juveniles despite their loss were impressive and are fast shaping into a smooth softball machine that should be capable af carving a noticeable niche in the Ontario playdowns. They were a little outhit by their heavier rivals, who bingled nine against the Juveniles' seven. Gray was the heavy slugger for the losers crashing two triples into deep left field and Jones was next in line with two singles.

The Soldiers were minus three of their regulars, and were handed a lot of assistance in the form of free passes to first. Gray started on the mound for the Juveniles but gave way to Crowe in the third after the boys in khaki had chased three runs across and loaded the bases. Crowe handled the bad situation nicely fanning Barnes and Jackson, the first two batters to face him. In his two and one third innings, Gray was nicked for six hits and walked four. Crowe handed out five free trips, allowed three hits and struck out four.

Ken Fleming pitched throughout for the winners and kept the hits well scattered but bunched errors by his teammates cost him runs. He struck out three and walked three others. Doug Mortimer was the top batter with a homer and a single in five trips and Thompson, first baseman cracked out a triple and single in five tries.

Mortimer in centre field for the winners played a smart fielding game, while Anderson at short, and Jackson at third both turned in nice plays. Anderson playing short for the Juveniles was right on the bit, handling a flock of chances, and Leether behind the bat did a nice piece of work.

The teams:

EXETER, July 9 — (CP). — Thrills, spills and close finishes all helped to create more than the average amount of interest in the afternoon's race card here. The thrills came in the first heat of the first race on the program when Sir Admiral fell on the back stretch and then as the field was turning into the home lane Pearl Direct took a tumble and the trotter Joe Harevst piled into the mixup with the result Pearl Direct ran away through the centre field and Joe Harvester was led to the finish line.

Keen Bowling Features Open Tourney

By HERB MARTIN

With weather as if it had been made to order, the ladies of the Peterborough Lawn Bowning Club staged their annual open tournament Wednesday afternoon and evening. True, the entry from the outside clubs was somewhat disappointing, but then the extra support from our own club more than made up for it.

To Mrs. J. Arnold and her rink, from our own club, goes the honor of winning the J. J. Duffus Cup and incidently her rink was the only local rink to repeat from last year. All the remaining prizes were won by local rinks.

Tea Is Served

The games started around two o'clock and save for the tea hour play was continuous. During the interval between the first and second games, tea was served by the ladies of the club.

And as the final scores were handed in around ten o'clock, the prizes were presented and the ladies' open tournament for 1942 passed into history.

We understand that it was "no dice" for our boys who motored down to Cobourg yesterday. It was Cobourg's annual tournament for men's rinks.

Tomorrow night it will be men's rinks. Draw from the board at 7.30 o'clock.

Knights Secure Second Straight Win

Last night at the Memorial Park diamond the Cubs took in on the chin from the K. of C. by a score of 13 to 8. This is the second win in a row for the Knights and they made it known that they are threatening Cubs third slot in the league standing.

K. of C. got off to a flying start by pushing four sprinters over the rubber in the first inning. They counted two more in the fourth and Cubs followed right back with three in the same frame. When the winners chalked up six more in the fifth the losers changed pitchers and were almost ready for the towel. In the sixth the Knights scored one more, making it 13 to 3. Cubs in their section of the same frame scored one and gave cause for concern by a rally in the last half of the seventh, but it only netted them four runs.

Tracey led the race for batting laurels with a homer and a pair of singles. Galvin followed with a pair of deuces. Wolff, Masterson and Flint were right behind with a double and single apiece. Baldwin bounced through with two one-baggers. Brady carried away honors for his squad by singling three times. Sullivan pressed him with a full circuit clout and a single. Heffernan doubled and singled safely once, with Caccavella singling twice.

Garvey started on the slab for the vanquished crew, allowing fourteen safe drives and walking four. Leonard then took over and he was slugged only twice, giving no free passes. Mongraw did the hill duties all the way for the victors, being nicked for eleven safeties and passing out tickets to three.

Sullivan helped his team's rally in the last of the seventh by driving a homer into right field with the bases loaded. Caccavella at short for the Cubs also contributed a spectacular catch, going back behind third for a fly ball and almost doubled a man off second. Leonard at right field pulled off one of the finest catches of the present season by sailing to deep centre after a fly snaring it on the dead run with one hand.

The teams:

Farley Favored At Brantford

BRANTFORD, Ont., July 9—(CP).—Phil Farley, Toronto Scarboro's ambassador-at-large among the golfers, embarked today upon the task of making a twin killing in Ontario golfing circles when he set out in a small but nonetheless strongly competitive field in search of the Provincial Amateur title.

Winner of this year's Ontario Open tournament, Farley is a strong favorite among the 30-odd players who are seeking to dethrone Bruce Bradley of Oshawa.

Bradley was in the early draw when the firing started shortly after noon along the fairways and on the greens of the Brantford Golf and Country Club.

Farley was not slated to tee off until the final draw which gets underway at 3:30 p.m. For company he will have two former titleholders, John S. Lewis of the host Brantford club, and Jack Nash of the London Hunt and C.C.

First test of the three-day tourney is an 18-hole medal play qualifying round to determine the 16 golfers who will participate in match play starting tomorrow.

Semi-finals are scheduled for Saturday morning, with the final that afternoon. All match play rounds are 18 holes.

Among the topflight amateurs competing are George Boeckh of Toronto; L. B. Bissell, London; Jim Twiss, Toronto; Nick Wianock, Burlington, and Bill Kozak of Fonthills' Lookout Point Club. Leading Aircraftman Don Varley, who won the Brant County title last Saturday is a doubtful starter.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SCOTT YOUNG Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, July 9.—(CP)—Wartime conditions have slapped Canadian golf professionals where it hurts—in the pocketbook—by decimating the ranks of cash-nonchalant pupils and equipment-purchasers. But along the glamor front everything is serene. There is more Canadian tournament money kicking around than in peacetime, boosting hungry pros in the department worth least in steady income and most in publicity.

Three Canadian money tournaments, one for Canadians only, are coming up within the next six weeks: The Canadian Open (Toronto Mississauga, Aug. 6-7-8, $3500), Lions Gate Open (Vancouver Shaughnessy) Aug. 21-22-23, $2500, and Millar Trophy (Toronto Islington, July 23-24-25, $1000). The Lions Gate Open is new. With gate receipts destined for the R.C.A.F. Benevolent Fund and prize money to be donated by three Vancouver sportsmen, George Norgan, Al McLennan and W. A. Charlton.

Most Canadian professionals are lucky to get carfare out of the Canadian Open, because the big drive and putt men from the United States take all the gravy. The Lions Gate open likely will shape up along similar lines, because a Vancouver delegation will attend the Canadian Open to line up imported talent. The Millar Trophy even is strictly for Canadian pros and likely will have an entry of about 50.

We should have more of these all-Canadian affairs in which one of our boys is bound to pick up the change. The catch is that the public won't pay as much to see Bob Gray or Ken Black as it will to watch Ben Hogan or Paul Runyan. The difference is not so much in playing ability as in publicity and until we have enough well-publicized Canadian affairs to keep Canadian pros frequently in the public eye, the situation will not change.

Incidentally:

There was a rumor around Winnipeg last weekend that Ten to Ace had died.... As in the old joke, the report was grossly exaggerated.... Sid Trough, pitcher for St. Regis in the Burrard Baseball League in Vancouver, broke his arm in three places when his delivery got mixed up... Reg (Winnipeg Blue Bombers) Threlfall told Herb (Winnipeg Tribune) Manning the report he would be willing to take a Montreal coaching job has no foundation...Bill (Kingston Whig-Standard) Walshe reporte that Al Sutphin, boss of Cleveland Barons in the American Hockey League, knows as little about hockey possibilities for next season as anyone else.... Apparently it all depends on what the Canadian Government rules on passports for athletes...Johnny Lifford had four seconds in his corner during a bout in Halifax the other night...You'd had to buy a program to tell it from a bridge tournament...And you guessed right, Lifford lost.

Batters Go To Town In Softball Game

HASTINGS, July 9.—(ENS).—In what is believed to have been the greatest barrage of hitting ever loosed on the local diamond, the local power houses defeated Roseneath 24 to 15 here Wednesday. Advertised as a softball contest the game resembled a heavy batting practice.

A total of 56 hits rattled off the bats of the two squads, 36 of them by the homesters. Neither starting pitcher, Radford for Hastings or Radley for the visitors could do anything to stem the tide, but the local hurler aided his own cause with a perfect night at the plate. He garnered seven hits, five of them for extra bases, driving in five tallies. Mike Smith was the big gun for the visitors with three safeties and two passes in six trips to the plate.

Each team committed five bobbles.

Benefit Game Fans To Get Prizes

Plans are complete for the benefit game between the Plazas and the St. Peter's team, league leaders in the Men's City Softball Loop and the Catholic Softball League respectively, which will be staged at seven o'clock on Thursday evening in Riverside Park. A bumper crowd is expected to see these two teams tangle, and the Saints will have a full turnout, to face the doughty Plazas.

Another prize has been donated by Neill's Shoe Store, a pair of tennis shoes, and these with $6 from the Sacred Heart team, $2 merchandising order from the C.D.S., a shirt from Vern Selkirk and a tie from Max Board makes it much more interesting for the fans. Every person purchasing a ten-cent admission ticket will be eligible for the prize draw, whcih is being conducted by Fred Scates.

Proceeds from the game will go to defray hospital and doctor bills, incurerd by two players on Catholic League teams, who have suffered fractures while playing ball this year.

Corp. Bud Ward Cards 4 Under To Cop Laurels

SPOKANE, July 9—(AP)—Corporal Marvin (Bud) Ward, in the army now but still the "Mr. Big" of amateur golf in the United States, fired his latest challenge to the field yesterday by winning medal honors in the Western Amateur Championship, of which he is the two-time and defending title holder.

When the chips were down and real action was necessary he whipped in with a 68, four under par, to post a 36-hole total of 141. It gave him medal laurels by two strokes in the tournament he has dominated the last two years.

Ward, stationed with the air force at nearby Fort Wright, had carded a 73 on opening day.

He was one of the last to finish but when he dropped an eight-foot putt on the final green he had battered the par 36-36—72 Manito course into complete submission. Ward put together a pair of 34s and could just as well have lopped half a dozen strikes off those figures if his tee shots had behaved.

The National as well as Western kingpin hit three drives into the woods, had two bogies on the first nine and a double bogey six on the par-four, 428-yard 12th.

Marsh Hammond, a local crackshot, ran second to Ward in the qualifying race with rounds of 72-71—143.

Two topnotchers were bracketed at 145—Bruce McCormick of Los Angeles and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis. The former is former national public links champion, and Wehrle has held the Western amateur title, and last year won the Mexican championship from a field that included Ward.

Among the other big timers who qualified for today's match-play rounds were Corporal Pat Abbott of Los Angeles, and Bill Welch of Houston, Texas, past and present national public links champion respectively. Each had 76-73—149.

Harry Givan of Seattle, leader at the halway mark with a 69, soared to an 80 today, but qualified nevertheless.

SOUTHERNERS BELT NORTH FOR 6 TO 1 SCORE IN ALL-STAR TILT

Major Leagues Entering Back Stretch

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The major leagues enter the back stretch of their pennant race today without much to run for except the fun of running.

The double all-star show, which raised $100,000 for the Baseball Equipment Fund for Servicemen, $70,000 for Army and Navy relief, and sold $60,000 in War Savings Stamps, marked the approximate half-way point in the schedule.

At the intermission the Brooklyn Dodgers were eight games in front of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National League and the world champion New York Yankees had a four-game advantage over the Boston Red Sox in the American.

This makes it apparent to all the parties concerned that there no longer is any argument about the eventual pennant winners in either major league and none of the baseball celebrities who gathered in New York and Cleveland for the all-star contests cared even to intimate that the Dodgers and Yankees could be headed.

Whatever chance there was of waylaying the Yanks vanished last week when the champions stumbled into Boston and vanquished the Red Sox in the first two games of a three-game series. This showed that even though Joe DiMaggio, Joe Gordon, and Charley Keller have been in batting slumps of greater or lesser duration, and the Yankees catching crew is depleted, they still are able to suppress all insurgents.

Dodgers in Limelight.

The Dodgers have had their own virtually from the start of the season.

This situation leaves the other clubs in the Big Top to find whatever satisfaction they can in scrambling for places in the first division and the fans to turn their attention to the competition for individual honors.

Joe Gordon of the New York Yankees, who successfully beat down the challenge of Boston's Bobby Doerr for the American League batting lead, now has a tougher scrap on his hands against Red Socker Ted Williams and in the National League Pete Reiser and Joe Medwick are keeping a good batting contest to themselves in Brooklyn.

Clubs of the National League moved into the West and concentrated the American League firing in the East. Four of today's contests are night games.

Baseball Cores Now Made Of Scrap Rubber

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP). — While denying that baseballs used by the two major leagues this season had lost any of their resiliency the Spalding Company admitted in a statement released here Wednesday that it had been necessary to use scrap rubber in the cores since last January instead of the pure crude ruber formerly employed.

Playes of both leagues have been protesting vehemently ever since the campaign began that the official ball was much less lively than in other years. The manufacturers' statement was in reply to their complaints.

"The core still features the cushion centre of cork and rubber," said Spalding. "The only difference here is that crude rubber is no longer used in the centre, having been replaced by high grade reclaimed rubber. Driving machine tests conclusively show that no distance has been lost by this change."

Meets The King

LONDON, July 9 — (CP). — Gen. Dwight Eisenhower Commander of the United States Army in the Eourpean theatre, had an audience with the King at Buckingham Palace yesterday. It was announced only that it lasted "for some time."

As American Leaguers Won All-Star Game 3-1

Home runs by Lou Boudreau, manager of the Cleveland Indians, and Rudy York, Detroit first sacker, both in the first inning, were enough to give the American League All-Stars a 3-1 victory over the National League All-Stars in the 10th renewal of the inter-league game, played before a crowd of 33,694 in New York's Polo grounds. By winning, the American All-Star team won the right to play the Service Club in a second all-star game in Cleveland's stadium the following night. Action ABOVE shows Rudy York crossing the plate on his homer. Joe Gordon of the Yanks congratulates him. Walker Cooper is the catcher.

Junior Davis Cup Series Set For Quebec Club

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP). — While many sports are curtailing their programs because of the war, the United States' Lawn Tennis Association is offering something new—an invitation junior Davis Cup series with Canada on Aug. 22-23.

Five United States' juniors will compete against a like number of Canadian youths at the swank Seigniory Club, some 50 miles from Ottawa.

Because the U.S.L.T.A. has no machinery set up to determine the nation's five best juniors, and there is hardly time to sponsor a deciding tourney, a committee of which Dr. S. Ellsworth Davenport, Jr., of New York, is chairman, will make the selections from recommendations by the various districts.

One U.S.L.T.A. official, who said he liked to do his speculating in anonymity, wonders if Francisco Segura, the 21 year old Ecudorean, isn't about the best amateur racquet wielder in the country right now and a definite threat for the U.S. title.

Segura, who is studying at Miami University to be a diplomat, is a master of the two-handed grip. Because he is not a citizen he was not ranked by the U.S.L.T.A. last year although this is is his seconr consecutive year at the Florida school.

He started the 1942 season by whipping Bitsy Grant in the sugar bowl tourney, recently licked William Talbert of Cincinnati, No. 10 nationally, on the latter's home courts in the Tri-Statt meet, and last week downed Ladislav Hecht, former Czecho-Slovakain Davis Cupper and No. 2 in the east to Sidney Wood, for the Brooklyn title.

The U.S. singles crown will be decided at Forest Hills late in August.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, July 9 — (AP). — One story hereabouts is that Clark Griffith isn't worrying about being turned down in his bid for all night games because there's nothing to keep him from starting them by "twilight" and turning on the lights after a couple of innings....Looks like the opposite from the way the Army and Navy have been grabbing off skeet stars to teach their fliers how to get 'em on the wing.... Clockers at Arlington Park report a rabbit appears on the track during early morning workouts and there's at least one horse he can beat.... Chicago racing must be going to the dogs.

A pitch, a putt, and a prayer.

Rev. Willis H. Germany of Oklahoma City tells this one about a golfing minister (not himself).... When the preacher, who too often committed the golfing sin of looking up, started a round he suggested that his caddy should pray for him....As he addressed his ball, the caddy watched carefully...."Are you praying for me?" the minister asked before he swung...."Yes, suh," came the reply. "I'se praying, but you're gonna have to keep your head down."

One-minute sports page.

Worst errors reported from the two all-star games were committed by a peanut vendor who tried to make a one-hand stab of a quarter on one of those catwalks leading to the upper deck at the Polo Grounds and by the N.Y. World Telegram sports desk, which sent Tim Cohane to Cleveland for the game then ran his story "By Tim Cochrane."

No Jap Girls

COOKSVILLE, Ont., July 9 — (CP).—Toronto Township Council has decided that no Canadian-born Japanese girls will be allowed to come here.

Informed yesterday that a resident inquired whether some could be brought in for domestic service because of labor shortage, Councillor Cunningham declared: "We should take no chances. They should not be allowed in, as this is a very serious war and any such move might prove dangerous."

Council backed him up.

(17) TEN-TON STORES TRANSPORT

This is one of the big fellows used by the Canadian Army in its important business of transportation.

The vehicle depicted above is a 10-ton Stores Transport. It's described by the Royal Canadian Army Service Corps as a cab-over-engine semi-tractor-trailor.

Combines Lace Owen Sound To Tune Of 13-9

Flashing back with a flurry of goals in the last quarter, Mimico-Bramtpon Combines crashed to the top of the Ontario boxla standing last night when they beat the visiting Owen Sound Georgians 13-9.

The win climaxed a drive for the top, in which the surging Combines fashioned five wins and one tie in their last six O.L.A. outings. They now sit gingerly atop, a slim point in front of the erstwhile leaders, Etobicoke Indians.

Up to the three-quarter mark, the Georgians kept strides with the hurry, hurry Combines boys, even holding a 4-3 advantage at the half-way mark.

Opening the third quarter, Combines started out as if they were going to romp home, counting four times in a row. But the Georgians had other ideas, flicking the red light for three goals only minutes apart to fashion a 7-7 tie and high hopes for the final set-to. Georgian's road to the goal was cleared some in their tying bid. Bergin teamed with Jordan when Combines had two penalty servers and Jordan scored again with the winners still a man short.

The fourth quarter was simply a case of too many Combines parked on the doorstep of goalie Mortimer. They welcomed their former buddie back home with a flock of six goals before Owen Sound broke through with counters, to settle the issue.

The ace flicker of the evening was Hayes. The Combine comet collected three goals and four assists.

A bit of fistic action occurred in the fourth quarter when Bill Mullis and Yorky Jordan tangled. Both were banished for the remaining three minutes.

Nip Strincevich For 4 in 4; Game Nets $6450

BUFFALO, N.Y., July 9.—(AP). —The Southern All-Stars of the International League, laden with power and near-flawless pitching, have proved their superiority over the northern contenders.

Burtsing forth with three runs in the first inning, the South shelled four North hurlers for 11 hits to win the league's first annual all-star benefit game 6-1 last night in Offermann Stadium before 6,352 fans.

The $6,450.10 gate receipts will go to tht bat and ball funds for the armed forces of Canada and the United States, decided on a ratio of 25 and 75 per cent., respectively.

Manager Al Vincent's Northern crew was held to six scattered hits.

The main offensive power of Bill Meyer's victors came from the bats of Baltimore's Hank Edwards and George Stirnweiss of Newark. Edwards drove in three runs on a home run and a double, while Stirnweiss, with a triple and two singles, led in quantity. The South's second home run was hit by Ed Majeski.

Bobby Coombs of Jersey City, starting South pitcher, gained the victory, holding the North scoreless for his three-inning trick and allowing only three hits. Nick Strincevich, Toronto sinkerball artist who started for the North, was the loser, after giving up four runs in the same frames.

The lone North tally came in the fourth with Red Barrett of Syracuse on the mound. Dutch Meyer of Buffalo singled, reached third when Barrett issued a walk and gave up another single, then scored on a force-out.

the Act is passed.

Yesterday's debate was almost entirely devoted to an order-in-council passed at the instance of Fishieries Minister Michaud, providing compassionate grants for fishermen losing their equipment. This is not a part of the war risk insurance bill but was passed in response to complaints that the bill did not provide any insurance for small fishing boats.

It provides that a fisherman who owns only one boat and has no insurance on it, may be given a grant up to $2,000 if it is damaged by enemy action, and $400 for his net.

If he has insurance on his one boat, or if he owns two or more boats, the grant is not payable. Its purpose, Mr. Michaud said, was to restore the source of earning power of the small operator who could obtain protection in no other way.

Conservative House Leader Hanson protested against the use of an order-in-council to supplement the insurance bill and charged further that it might be used for obtaining votes. He described it as a 'dole' which could be paid out at the whim of the minister.

Mr. Hanson charged that 25 per cent. of the money provided by the people for war purposes went for expenditures for other than war needs, but he did not go into detail.

Mr Hanson objected to the use of an order-in-council to provide compensation for fishing boat owsers because an order-in-council could be repealed at any time "at the whim and pleasure of the minister."

It was the "most temporary kind of legislation" which could be wiped out at the stroke of a pen," Mr Hanson said.

All Vessels

She was surrounded by a protecting ring of destroyers when the two torpedoes were slammed into her hull, Russian dispatches said.

The submarine which made the attack was a veteran of actions against German patrol ships and convoys in the Barents Sea. Once she sank a large transport in an enemy convoy and escaped safely despite a two-hour pursuit with depth charges.

The Bismarck's Twin.

The Admiral Von Tirpitz is the 35,000-ton twin of the Bismarck, the German battleship which sank Britain's battle cruiser Hood, and, in turn, was cornered and sunk herself by the massed might of British air and sea power.

Until a Soviet information bureau bulletin disclosed to-day the Admiral Von Tirpitz had been hit twice in the Barents sea, around the north cape of Norway, there had been no word she was loose to prey on merchantmen bearing Russia vital war supplies from Britain and the United States.

She was last located at Trondheim in March, in a deep fjord on the Norewgian west coast, after British torpedo planes spotted her, evidently heading for an attack on a Russian-bound convoy, and chased her into hiding.

To-day's brief communique said: "In the Barents sea one of our submarines attacked the new German ship Admiral Von Tirpitz. Two torpedos hit the vessel and caused serious damage. x

"In the Barents sea German transport also was sunk and another damaged."

Tass, Soviet news agency, said the Admiral Von Tirpitz and three German heavy cruisers and eight destroyers, were attacking a convoy bound for Murmansk when she was picked off by the Red navy submarine.

The general area of the encounter in the Barents sea placed the action almost at the convoy's destination.

Other despatches said the German warships left Norwegian fjords several days ago aiming at intercepting a large convoy bringing arms from Britain and the United States.

Their operations were disrupted by the torpedoing of the Admiral von Tirpitz, these advices said, and all ships of the convoy were declared to have arrived safely in a Soviet port.

Harbor Haven Not Named.

Russian announcements did not contain the specific damage inflicted on the Nazi battleship or the harbor where she sought refuge.

Thus, there is no intimation whether the Admiral von Tirpitz has been eliminoted for any considerable time as a menace to the Allies' bridge of ships or whether she can be restored to battle trim without attempting the long, perilous dash to a home port.

The Russian announcement followed Nazi claims that German sea and air forces had sunk 34 or 38 merchant ships bound in a convoy for Russia as well as a United States cruiser, part of a formidable escort including an Allied battleship.

There was no hint in the German communiques, however, that the convoy had been assaulted by a surface raider. These reported sinkings, all unconfirmed by any source, were ascribed to air and U-boat attacks.

Mention in the Russian communique that a German transport had been sunk in the Barents Sea and that another merchantman had been damaged along with the battleship suggest the Nazis might have been trying to push throug' a convoy of their own to northern Norway or Finland.

WOULDN'T CROSS STREET FOR $100

You know those people—maybe you are one yourself—who come home after work so tired out they can't be lured out of their easy chairs—who wouldn't even go across the street for $100 to see the greatest show on earth. It's not over-work that always makes a man or woman feel this way—although they often fool themselves that it is. A tired, listless condition like this is oftentimes the result of low blood count due to simple anemia. A low blood count oft times may mean you haven't enough red blood corpuscles. Try Dr. Williams Pink Pills. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles when they have been weakened by simple anemia. Besides, Dr. Williams Pink Pills are fortified with Vitamin B1, an important aid in promoting appetite and keeping nerves and intestinal system normal when you feel jittery and "off" because of a deficiency of this vital element. Don't wait. Be sure—try Dr. Williams Pink Pills today.

west of Voronezh," the Soviet Information Bureau announced. After stubborn fighting, our troops evacuated the town of Staryi Oskol."

Staryi Oskol lies on the Oskol River 65 miles southwest of Voronezh, a major communications centre on the Moscow-Rostov Railway. With the occupation of Staryi Oskol the Germans expanded southward their triangular corridor toward the Don, based on a 160-mile line through Belgorod, Kursk and Orel.

Air Squadrons Stop Reserves

Bombardments Monday night by Russian air squadrons—flying despite heavy thunderstorms which mark the area's July weather—apparently shattered bridgeheads and blocked the movement of German reinforcements to give the Russians an edge in the battle of the Don, Soviet dispatches said.

Red Army tanks and cavalry, artillery and infantry were declared to have wiped out the landing parties and held firm against further Nazi efforts to establish a foothold on the east bank of the water barrier.

Soviet soldiers and officers were officially lauded for heroism in meeting "superior enemy forces."

"In one of the sectors west of Voronezh the Germans hurled more than 100 tanks into an attack," the communique said. "A tank battle ensued in which 40 German tanks were destroyed."

A Russian platoon repulsed six attacks upon its entrenchments. "The gallant fighters did not retreat a single step," the communique said. "The Germans left almost 200 bodies of officers and men at the approaches to the trenches."

Weather Cooling In Nile Valley

CAIRO, July 9. — (AP) — The weather is getting seasonably cooler in the Nile Valley and on the Western Desert battlefront, with daytime temperatures now ranging from 90 to 110 Fahrenheit.

Oddly, July is cooler usually than May and June, when the temperature sometims hits a maximum of 130.

From the daytime high of 110, the temperature drops as low as 70 in the July nights, and it is chilly in the desert dawn.

Personal comfort depends largely on the wind, which usually blows for fifty straight days at a time, blowing enervating and extremely irritating dust clouds across the wastes of the desert.

Under tribal laws, if the hot, dusty "khamseen" blows longer than fifty days, as it occasionally does, the Bedouins are permitted to kill one of their wives.

As for the Egyptian weather generally, it hasn't changed much since Herodotus complained about it 2,500 years ago.

effort to burst through the desert corridor toward the Nile Valley.

A trail of burned-out German trucks on Rommel's land supply route is testimony of British air efforts to prevent reinforcements from reaching him.

The R.A.F. disclosed, meanwhile, that the allied air force are in a stronger position now than at the start of the campaign six weeks ago.

Against the loss of 110 Allied pilots, some of whose planes have been repaired and put back into the fight, it said, the Axis definitely has lost more than 284 planes aloft and on the ground and hundreds more are listed as probably shot down.

Larry Allen, Associated Press correspondent with Britain's Mediterranean Fleet, reported last night that naval forces are keeping ceaseless vigil over a wide area with ships and planes to guard the Allies' supply line and to attack if Axis attempts at sea-borne reinforcements for their desert fighters were discovered.

Skipper Honored For Saving Big Oil Tanker

LONDON, July 9.—(CP Cable)—Acting Lt.-Cmdr. E. F. Briggs, R.C.N.R., whose seamanship resulted in saving the torpedoed tanker Tachee, received the Distinguished Service Cross from the King at a recent investiture at Buckingham Palace, it was announced yesterday.

He won the award while in command of H.M.C.S. Orillia last winter when the Canadian Corvette helped the disable tanker into a British port, saving a $1,000,000 cargo of oil.

The tanker was 600 miles from Britain when the torpedo struck and fire broke out. The crew abandoned ship, but the craft remained afloat and the captain and three officers returned, soon quelling the blaze. Then three ratings from the Orillia and 27 members of the Tachee's crew returned aboard. The corvette took the tanker in tow until the disable vessel was able to raise steam. When the Orillia ran out of steam it refilled its bunkers from the tanker, which completed a limping, five-day trip to Port under its own power.

A BAD CORNER.

Bruce Menzies, North Monaghan constable who does point duty at Monaghan Road and Chamberlain street during the rush hours, claims he is having trouble with bicyclists. The bicyclists persist in riding two abreast at this point, which is not consistent with safety because of he heavy traffic.

POLICE CRACK DOWN.

Dog owners in North Monaghan township are due for a jolt during the next ten days, if the constable, Bruce Menzies, finds they have not purchased their dog licenses or if they are permitting dogs to run at large. It was reported to-day that only one-third of the dog owners had complied with the dog by-law and prosecutions will follow soon.

UNKNOWN AUDIENCE

The Citizens Band, under the direction of Walter Hughes, didn't know it but they had a small and unustaly interested audience outside the building on the corner of Water and Brock streets, when they were practising Wednesday night. Two lads had propped open the letter slot and were kneeling patiently before it and watching inside intently, with apparent enjoyment.

OUT OF BOUNDS

"Water, water everywhere" . . . down through the centre of the city; miles of banks that invite swimming! And yet military orders have placed out of bounds—(1) the Otonabee River from Inverlea Park to two miles below the sewage disposal plant; (2) the Trent Canal from the Lift Lock to Little Lake. Local municipal authorities generally sidestep any reference to this condition, beyond a whisper, and in the precaution hinted in the phrase "glass houses" and their occupation.

ONLY THREE CASES

Queen Mary Hospital has only three patients, two ill of scarlet fever and one of mumps, Dr. Avison, M.O.H., reported today.

SALVAGE COLLECTIONS.

Collection of salvage is continuing during the summer months and June has proved to be the bumper month of the year. During last month $842.65 was realized through the sale of assorted salvage.

BANK CLEARINGS

During the past week ending today the sum of $885,434 passed through the Peterborough Clearing House a decided increase over the same week one year ago when the total was $689,507.

CAR IS SMASHED.

David Lamb Bloor Street, Toronto, had extensive damage done to his car late on Wednesday afternoon, when it was struck boardside by a truck driven by Ivan Clements of Lakefield. The Toronto car was travelling west on Perry Street and was crossing the Aylmer Street intersection when the mishap took place. No one was injured.

THEY GET ALLOWANCE

An Examiner reader has asked what provision is made for the wife and child of a man who married after July 15, 1940, and is now called up for compulsory military training. This man's dependents get the same allowance as if the man had enlisted for active service.

JUST A RUMOR

The Alparka grape-vine intimates that a certain big job in the neighborhood is really beginning to pick up volume, that better time on original units has been made there than even in the Mother Country's comparable plants, and that a tall, imperturable young gentleman, for whom the community is hoping much, is likely to show substantial results and performance in output when the new shop is fully geared.

Placing Parks Under Management Of Commission In Many Cities

The administrative accent was placed on the commission form of management of municipal parks at the recent convention of the Ontario Parks Association which he attended in Niagara Falls, Alderman Curtis reported to the council the other night.

"I am not advocating the commission plan," the chairman of Peterborough's parks committee said. "I remember that Brantford is spending around $28,000 a year for its parks, rinks and cemetery care."

Peterborough spent last year $5,568 on parks, $1,937 on rinks, $337 on the tourist camp and $360.88 on bathing beaches, the total $7,969.18, and the general opinion of the council was that fine results were obtained from this comparatively small outlay in a community virtually in the same population brackets as Brantford.

"One of the main ideas of this convention stressed greater use of the parks for the public," Alderman Curtis said. "It was felt that they should be fixed up to attract the people and get them to make greater use of them."

Alderman Cotton commented that this proposal was directly in line with suggestions he had advocated for this city and its parks. War conditions have restricted the movement of a great many people, and more of them are remaining at home this year, instead of going elsewhere on trips and vacations.

The people of Peterborough are well supplied with attractive public parks, Alderman Cotton continued, and did not need to leave the boundaries of the city to obtain splendid open air places. He said he would like to see certain changes made at the Nicholls Oval, changes that would not affect the general appearance of the park but would alter it for more convenience to picnic crowds.

"A city that sets up a parks commission has the authority to apply one mill on the tax rate yearly for parks purposes," Alderman Curtis. "That's a whole lot more money than we are spending. I think it was Brantford that reported they bought trees by the car load."

This conversation led indirectly to the perennial problem of care of the city's trees.

"I took five men up to the Oval Tuesday before Dominion Day, and we spent the day there removing limbs from trees," Alderman Cotton said. "These were mostly limbs that had caught in the crotches of the trees or in some other way loose and likely to fall at any time. They were just hanging there and we were afraid they might fall on some of the children."

This tree conversation perambulated along and around its well worn course, and Alderman Dutton finally suggested that some evening be assigned to a general discussion in an effort to evolve some definite and permanent program.

Veteran Orangeman Will Be Missing

With the approach of the Glorious 12th Orangemen throughout the district are making plans to attend another walk, and to renew their allegiance to the ideals and aims of the Orange Order.

Orangemen in general and members of L.O.L. 321 Colonel Sanderson at Downer's Corners in particular, will have their celebration tinged with sadness, because one of the veterans of the lodge has passed away. This veteran of more than 33 years active association with the Orange Order was the late Edwin Wicker, who died about a month ago.

The late Mr. Wicker was initiated into the Colonel Sanderson Lodge on July 6, 1909, and was Worshipful Master of the Lodge from December 2, 1913 through 1914 and also 1915. For 33 years he was a faithful member of the lodge and in 1933 at the age of 80 he completed the entire walk. He was 89 years of age at the time of his death. Besides being a member of L.O.L. 321 he was also a member of Weir R.B.P. No. 261.

Few men in the entire Peterborough district took such a keen and sustained interest in the Orange Order, and the passing of this venerable member has brought forth many statements of tribute from his associates ,who had known him for so many years.

Mill Employees Give $50 To War Victims

In the Bonner-Worth plant of the Dominion Woollens and Worsteds Ltd. a canteen selling milk and chocolate bars is operated for the benefit of the employees, and from time to time certain profits accrue from this, all of which is given to worthy charitable objects.

The Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund has in the past received donations from this source, and once more there has come forward a nice contribution to the fund in an amount of $50, per D. G. H. Melton and G. T. Reader, who act as trustees for the fund, and the fund management expresses its appreciation for this continued support.

Neill's office girls are a very small group who have consistently given assistance to the people of Britain through this fund for which purpose they keep a box on the go, and their latest contribution in the usual amount of $5.00 today marks the 8th one to appear to their credit in these lists.

Readers will recall the splendid effort of last summer when W. A. Atkinson and Harry Rush of Buckhorn fame worked like trojans to raise almost $500 from a regatta which they staged on behalf of the fund at that place, something which will always redound to their credit. While conditions are such that it will not be possible to hold a similar event on such a scale this year, they are still just as interested in helping the fund along, as witness a personal donation from W. A. Atkinson, who is styled the Mayor of Buckhorn, and this came spontaneously when the secretary of the fund was enquiring as to prospects for some Buckhorn feature on behalf of the fund this summer. This group may yet be heard from with some effort for the fund later on.

A Real Radio Treat

Tune in to Radio Station CHEX on Wednesday next, June 15, when Ernest Nickel, famed Concert Whistler, will give a program from 9.05 to 9.45 on behalf of the fund. Mr. Nickel has an international reputation as being of top rank in his own sphere as an entertainer, having appeared with symphony orchestra's in Vienna, Berlin, London, New York and many other large centres.

He has very kindly offered his services and talents to help the fund along,, having on a number of occasions given in a similar manner for various other causes of a like nature, having appeared on top-ranking program's in association with world famed artists, and been the means of giving considerable help in raising money for such worthy causes. At the present time, Mr. Nickel is holidaying at Buckhorn, and further information in regard to the program he will render will be featured in this column in the course of the next few days.

Yanks Join U.K. Canuck Units In Irish 'Battle'

By RICE YAHNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WITH ALLIED FORCES IN NORTHERN IRELAND, July 9 — (AP)—British, United States and Canadian troops in Northern Ireland completed today eight cruelling days of battle practice, the first in which the great Allied forces in Ulster have joined.

British soldiers who have been in the field for almost three years and Americans with about 18 months training in the United States and Ulster "fought" together and against each other in the first such manoeuvres in the European theatre of operations.

An attack by United States armored formations halted the big push of the opposing force.

Maj. Gen Russel Hartle, commander of United States forces in Northern Ireland directed all the British troops which opposed joint British-United States forces headed by Maj. Gen. V. H. B. Majendie, chief of the northern defence zone.

As a climax of the battle practice United States armored formations joined Gen. Hartle's force and wound up the "fight" with a roaring tank attack witnessed by senior British and Polish military leaders.

High officers on both side commended the co-operation of the men from privates to the top command.

Gen. Franklyn said the Americans displayed "initiative—loads of it."

"Both British and United States men and officers put on a maximum effort smoothly," said Gen. Hartle, who began the exercise by leading British troops to the attack, then was pushed back about 50 miles when an overwhelming number of American troops joined the action on the opposing side.

New Cigarette Tax Hits Smokers Hard

The cigarette smoker who will say one of these days when the new and higher prices come into effect: "An enemy hath done this", will be entirely correct except in number. The new lists show that the Axis enemies have boosted the price of the small package of eight cigarettes from 10 to 12 cents. Originally ten for ten cents they are now eight for 12. Figure out the percentage of increase for yourself.

The packages of 20 that have been selling at 25c will be 29c; and the 22's are up from 25c to 30c; the flat 50's which have been costing 60 cents will take 70 cents out of the smoker's dollar bill.

Some brands that sold at 10 for 15c will now be 10 for 17c. Another line at 20 for 30c is shrinking to 20 for 34c, and those 50's that sold at 75c will be 85c. Retailers report the first arrival of a few of the new-content packages still in the wholesale houses, but the general effect of the recently announced tax will be felt before long across all the tobacco counters.

Cigars have escaped the present clip; cigarette papers will be up a cent, and package tobacco will be a cent or two more than at present.

Mess-Room Chatter From Britain

By LOUIS HUNTER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, July 9—(CP).—Sqdn. Ldr. Ralph H. Christie, North Bay, Ont., pilot who won the D.S.O. for leading an attack that sent at least three German ships to the bottom, is leaving the famous Canadian "Demon Squadron" of Coastal Command. He is going back to his first aviation love—flying boats. Christie, 23 now, learned to fly at 16 and much of his early flying in the bushlands of Ontario was in pontoon-equipped aircraft. He is being posted to a conversion course on flying boats, after which he will join an R.C.A.F. squadron flying this type of aircraft.

One of a group of Canadians with an R.A.F. Lancaster squadron, Flt. Sgt. Johnny Chiasson of Glace Bay, N.S., scored a probable on an ME 109F near the Frisian Islands. "I gave him several good bursts and another member of the crew saw him twisting down to the sea but we didn't see him hit the deck so could only claim a probable," he said. The Nazi shot away part of the Lancaster's tail and dusted Chiasson's turrett. Chiasson's pilot was PO. John Speir of Brussels, Ont.

Other Canadians with the squadron are PO.'s Sandy McLean, Welland, Ont.; J. D. LaEalle, Holytyre, Ont., and W. J. A. Shapter Bracebridge, Ont.

Success rests lightly on the shoulders of Sqdn. Ldr. W. B. (Lucky) Cooper, ace pilot of the "Demon Squadron," from St. Petersburg, Fla. Back from a record flight during which he sank two of three German ships off the Netherlands coast early in June, he nonchalantly commented: "Oh, it was just another job and we were lucky." He might have got the third, too, but his bomb-load was exhausted. So he drove the Jerry tars to cover with a shower of bullets. He attacked from a height of less than 100 feet. "It's always okay when you see the ships below you," he volunteered. "The time to worry is when you see them above you". The double victory marked Lucky's second anniversary with the R.C.A.F.

His navigator was PO. Bert Paige, D.F.M., of Bridgeport, Ont. His wireless operator PO. Bill McLeod of Barrie, Ont.

War—25 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

JULY 9, 1917—British battleship Vanguard destroyed by internal explosion; 700 killed. Turkish forces reoccupied Panjwin, Khanikin and Ksar-i-shirin on the Persian border. British naval airmen attacked the Turkish fleet off Constantinople.

64 Children Attend Clinics

Sixty-four children have been treated for immunization at two schools since Dr. D. B. Avison, M. O. H., appealed in a radio address over CHEX Monday evening for the co-operation of parents in this precautionary health program.

"We had 27 children at the Immaculate Conception School on Tuesday and 37 at the Queen Mary School on Wednesday, and we are expecting more," Dr. Avison said.

Most of the children are of pre-school age. They are being inoculated against diphtheria, scarlet fever, whooping cough and smallpox. The immunization program will be continued throughout the summer.

Dr. Avison said today that the health department decided not to enlist the services of the Board of Education's two nurses during the summer months. Some time ago it was suggested in conversation of the two boards, Education and Health, that Miss Jessie Dewell and Miss Mae Jory might devote part of their customary midsummer holidays to general public health work, each contributing one month without remuneration than their salary from the Board of Education.

"We learned that Miss Deyell was enrolled for nursing service in connection with the war, and that she might be called up at any time," Dr. Avison explained. "On account of that uncertainty we decided to engage Miss Hurtubise, who has completed a course in public health nursing and was available for the two midsummer months."

Lt. George Brook Going To Halifax

Lieutenant George Brook is leaving for Halifax July 15 with an A-1 physical rating in spite of five scars of old wounds in that other war. Since his enlistment he was for a time at Windsor as an officer of a Home Guard unit, and latterly has been on training duty at Ottawa. His new assignment will remain undisclosed until he reaches Halifax.

Lieutenant Brook conducted a meat shop on the south side of Charlotte Street. In the last war he was a Captain in the Prince of Wales Regiment of the Imperial Army under Lord Hamilton, and his commanding officer was Sir William Robertson, the rank— who became a famous British General.

Lieut. Brook's son gave up a decidedly attractive position with the Canadian General Electric Company to join the R.C.A.F. and is now a Flight Pilot of a Spitfire in Libya. He will be nineteen next Saturday.

Nine Employees Of Utilities Aid Farmers

Nine employees of the Utilities Commission were helping nearby farmers with their hay crop today.

"They are a real help," said G. A. Gillespie. "I wish we had some more like them. However, I think farmers are getting along fairly well. Some of them will finish haying this week, and it is about time anyway because the wheat will soon be ready to cut."

R. L. Dobbin, manager for the Commission, said that nearly all the men volunteered for emergency farm work. Exceptions were generally men who could not be spared. Some of those who decided to switch to the farm front have been on the job three weeks, and from all accounts they have been giving complete satisfaction. Farmers pay them 40 cents an hour, and the Commission makes up the difference, such as cost of living bonus and unemployment insurance.

Three men of the staff of Silverwood's have been working in the country during afternoons, and that has been another source of help but the manning pool for paying has not been as numerous as should have been to meet the rural labor problem.

J. R. Turnbull, Dominion grader at Canada Packers, acquired a holiday "coat" of tan not at some lake or river, but in two weeks of farm work.

Northumberland Apple Crop Is 'Sizing Well'

Northumberland apples are "sizing well," according to the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Early varieties including McIntosh Reds and Snows, are most promising. Winter varieties are epected to be lighter in most orchards.

Pea-viners are at work in Hastings county. Yields are up to 1½ ton, shelled, to the acre. Tomatoes are making ecellent growth.

Eight Bowmanville Rotarians have been helping farmers "coil" hay. They and others are prepared to spend several evenings a week at this work.

Rye will be cut this week in Prince Edward. The canning pea crop is disappointing, and the labor situation becomes more acute as the canning factories begin operations. Milk production is decreasing in Victoria. Lennox-Addington say some hay will not be harvested on account of the scarcity of help. Fall wheat and rye are nearly ready for harvesting. New potatoes were plentiful on the Napanee market.

Spring grains look promising in Leeds, but considerable lodging is said to be probable.

Grass cattle are in ecellent condition in Waterloo, but Carleton reports under-finished stock is being rushed to market.

The hay crop across the province has been highly satisfactory. Most of the counties desribe it as "excellent." Corn is making good progress, and some of the grain crops are ripening and will soon be ready to cut with the promise of high yields.

City Advised To Advertise

Presumably Alderman Swanston was thinking of the farmer and the "want ad" when he suggested recourse to the columns of the Examiner for men to do city work.

That farmer was enquiring around in a vague and oral way until the inspiration came to him to follow the practice of business. One "ad" brought him 25 replies.

"Why not let it be known, even if we have to advertise, that the city needs men. Put an "ad" in the paper," he said. "We have been hearing of some local men going off to Alaska."

"At 75 cents an hour," Alderman Gordon said. They went off to the northwest to work on the international highway into Alaska.

"Well, any way they were available," Alderman Swanston said. "We are hearing that the Board of Works haven't enough men for this job and that."

He was especially asking about the cutting of weeds on vacant lots. City Engineer Parsons said that some lots were overgrown with grass which certainly was not a "noxious weed" and therefore did not enter the scope of the city's responsibility.

Trade School Work Of Army Told To Club

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9. (ENS)—The broad field of work being done by the Army Trade School and its importance in training technicians for modern warfare are factors well-known to the Department of National Defence but little realized by the average citizen. The contribution to the actual fighting front made by the Trade School was lucidly described for local Rotarians by Major G. A. Ironside at their noon-day luncheon Monday. The Major, who was a veteran of World War 1 and an electrical engineer, has been at the Army Trade School at Hamilton for nearly a year, and is at present home on furlough. He was introduced to the club by Rotarian Alex. MacColl, who characterized him as "a logical patriot."

Reviewing the work being done at the Trade School where an estimated $900,000 worth of machinery (mostly re-built) is used in instructing specially selected men as electricians, wireless and blue-print readers, instrument mechanics, clerks, etc., the speaker explained the chief purpose of the school was to provide training for future instructors. One interesting sidelight on the school which has an enrollment of some 2,000, was on the serving of meals. Originally all food was placed on the table ready to be eaten when the men sat down. They were finished and outside in eight minutes flat according to Major Ironside, and as a consequence many were hungry both at mid-morning and mid-afternoon, resulting in the canteen doing a land office business at these periods. Realizing the men should not have worked up such an appetite in this short time, it was decided to change the routine and an orderly was appointed for each table. He looked after placing food on the table during the day, and as a consequence more time was taken for eating (20 minutes) and the canteen business was cut in half.

Canada's only Army Trade School is, in the opinion of the speaker, "getting a very fine type of young fellow who must not only have a good knowledge of mathematics but is selected from one of the Army Training Centres by a psychatrist following a special aptitude test." At the conclusion of his remarks a vote of thanks was tendered by Rotarian James O. Benor. Guests at the meeting included Messrs. Harry Aman of Belleville, Herbert Barney of Woodstock, and ex-Rotarian George Nicholls of Peterborough.

Handling A Tank Job For Real Man

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

AN EASTERN CANADA ARMY CAMP, July 9.—(CP).—On smooth ground a ram tank rides like a heavily loaded truck, but when going over rough country, deep ditches, trees, rocks it rools and pitcres like a canoe in rough water.

On a visit to a Canadian armored division at its training camp I was given samples of both kinds of riding, for the men in training, to drive rams in battle, spend part of their day rumbling over normal country roads and part in wrat they call the "dust bowl", where they get the bumps.

A tank driver has to be right on the job all the time and use the muscles of both legs and both arms The big levers which steer the rams and change their gears take a man to move them. Trere is no such thing as one-arm or one-finger driving in a tank.

The steering levers are simply brakes which stop the tracks on one side or the other and so bring the tank around. Ddriver sits with the two steering levers between his legs, one foot on the clutch and the other on the accelerator. The gear shift is at hs left.

He drives by order when in action because he can see little through his narrow slit of glass. The tank commander, who is usually also the wirelesso perator, has a periscope through which he can survey the landscape and gives the driver orders over the telephone although he is only a few feet away.

Capt. W. H. A. Sparting of London, Ont., tank training officer for the Elgin Regiment, had his tanks working in the "dust bowl" an area of many acres, most of it ground to a fine dust by the roaring tanks. While the road drivers are limited in their speed to save the roads, on the bowl they open the tanks up and roar around at 30 miles an hour.

They plunge through bushes, over fallen trees, down slopes, across gulleys. When a tank dives down into a gully it hits the bottom with a jolt and then starts moving up the other side.

The drivers on the Elgin tank on which I rode were Lieut. P. C. Stevenson of London, Ont., a former bank clerk, and Tr. A. Hatch of St. Thomas, who worked in a garage.

Flower Garden Aids Red Cross; Trucker Is Hurt

LAKEFIELD, July 9 — (ENS). — Probably the most beautiful flower garden in the village is doing its bit for the Red Cross—Ernie Waldon, the owner, has been disposing of large quantities of regal and calla lily blooms along with a variety of gorgeous cut flowers and bulbs to tourists and passing motorists for several weeks now and the entire proceeds have been donated to the local Red Corss Society.

Mr. Waldon has hundrds of varieties of blooms and makes a specialty of his lilies, which make a grand display along Highway 28, on Queen Street North.

Trucker Badly Hurt.

Norman Coons of the village was badly injured on Wednesday morning whes he slipped in attempting to jump on a passing gravel truck just east of the Johnson Construction Camp near Apsley. About to take a part from his truck to the camp he hailed a friend, and as he was about to get into the cab in some manner fell under the rear wheels, which passed up his leg and along the side of his body.

His brother Nelson who was driving a truck just behind, picked him up and he was taken to Apsley Red Cross Hospital. It is unknown how badly Coons' leg was injured by the heavily-loaded machine until he can be removed to Peterborough for an X-ray. *

Obituary

MRS. SARA ANN HAWTHORNE.

MILLBROOK, July 9—(ENS). — Death came suddenly on Wednesday, July 1, to Sara Ann Seens, beloved wife of the late John Hawthorne, and third daughter of the late Alexander Seens, and Margaret Montgomery at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John R. Thompson.

The late Mrs. Hawthorne was born in Cavan Township, where she had spent practically all her life, with the exception of a few years in her girlhood when the homestead was located in South Monaghan. For the past few years she had not been in good health, but was up and around as usual on the day of her sudden passing, until in the evening she was stricken with a heart attack which resulted fatally.

Mrs. Hawthorne was a faithful member of Grace Presbyterian Church, and a life member of the Women's Missionary Society.

The immediate surviving relatives include an only daughter Mrs. John R. Thompson (Anna), one grandson Donald Thompson, and a number of nieces and nephews; Mr. Hawthorne predeceased his wife by about 30 years; also one brother, Joseph Seens and three sisters, Mrs. Thomas Gray (Mary), Mrs. James Chambers (Margaret), and Mrs. Charles Wicks (Hannah).

The funeral, which was largely attended took place on Saturday at 2:30 p.m., from the residence of her son-in-law, John R. Thompson, with whom she had made her home for the past ten years, a former and much-loved pastor Rev. D. A. McKenzie of Cobourg conducting the service.

The pall-bearers were: Harland Seens, Reginald Elliott, Offa Williamson John Heaslip, T. W. Belch and L. Moore. Interment was in the family burial plot at the Centreville Cemetery.

Trading Shells

LONDON, July 8 — (CP). — German and British guns along the English Channel traded shells for more than an hour early to-day in firing precipitated by the Germans' first bombardment of the south-east coast in many weeks.

(These outbreaks usually mark attacks on shipping moving through the Chanel.)

Dover had its first shellfire warning in some time but there were no reports from the south-east coast of casualties or property damage.

V's On Skunks

OLEAN, N.Y., July 9—(AP). — A mother skunk and eight of her young staged a victory parade by marching across an Olean street in "V for victory" formation. Each bore forehead markings in the shape of V's, residents reported.

It Just Buzzed

SARNIA, Ont., July 9—(CP). — J. D. Mills, a Sarnia market gardner, stepped on what he thought was a bumble bees' nest and prepared for the worst—and it was, because the buzzing noise was made by "blowing adder" snake, two-and-half feet long. But it only buzzed and didn't bite.

Hint Marshall Likely Allied Chief

By IRVING PERLMETER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 9—(AP)—Some high inter-Allied sources here speculated today on the possibility that an American—perhaps Gen. George Marshall, Chief of Staff of the United States Army—might some day become Supreme Commander of all United Nations land, air and sea forces throughout the world.

So far there is no official move toward creating a supreme command, but it can be said for the idea now that some important people, who refuse to permit use of their names, either expect or hope for one.

Assuming the job went to an American—which both British and American sources here do assume—it might not necessarily go to Gen. Marshall. Other possibilities include Admiral William D. Leahy and Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Leahy, while 67, generally is considered one of President Roosevelt's closest military advisers.

Since retiring as Chief of Naval Operations a few years ago he has served as Ambassador to the Vichy French Government. Recently he left the White House with the statement the President had "some kind of employment" for him.

The Libya Case

At present, United Nations strategy calls for area commands in different parts of the world. The fault, if any, with this setup is illustrated by the current German threat to Egypt, in the opinion of another official who likewise declined use of his name. Theoretically, the Nazi forces could have been annihilated long ago if British tanks sent to Russia and American troops sent to Australia had been dispatched instead to Libya.

Perhaps the routing of men and materials was the wisest possible in the circumstances, said this source. But actually the destinations were chosen on the basis of day-to-day needs. He said that in a global war, someone ought to be in charge of a master strategy plan for the world to see that such help went to places where it would fit the world picture.

Another reason advanced for a Supreme Commander was the asserted need of an agency of last resort to decide such questions as standardization of material types and similar issues which, because of democratic procedure, are debated sometimes for long periods without action.

Travelling Bags Presented Teacher

STEWART HALL, July 9—(ENS). —A community party was held recently at Walace Point in honor of Miss Emily Teasdale, who has been teacher at S.S. No. 10, Otonabee, for the past four years.

The presentation of twin travelling bags was an interesting feature, also a silk umbrella, the gift of her Sunday school class. The address was read by Mrs. F. Deyell, while Stewart Whittington and Clare Driscoll pesented the gifts.

Miss Teasdale made a suitable reply.

The presentation of a silver relish dish was also made to Miss Grieco of New York, formerly Miss Viola Cardwell. The address, read by Miss Gertie Thompson and the gift presented by Miss Enitr Thorn. Mrs. Grieco thanked her friends.

The remainder of the evening was spent in dancing. Some of the school children who were present entertained the crowd by tap and folk dancing. Lunch was served midnight.

Miss Teasdale was also given a silver flower basket as a parting gift from the scholars at S.S. No 10.

Fail To Agree

TORONTO, July 9 — (CP). — A meeting of Toronto Retail Meat Dealers' Association, attended by approximately 50 persons, failed last night to come to an agreement regarding the proposed closing of Toronto butcher stores on Mondays. Some dealers had suggested that a Monday closing, when business was slack, would save elctricity and other services.

William J. Martin Passes

LINDSAY, July 9.—Word was received here Wednesday of the death of William J. Martin which occurred in Westminster Hospital, London, Ont., on Tuesday. The deceased was for many years a resident of Lindsay and was one of the most widely experienced soldiers in Canada, having a string of medals and decorations to his credit.

The late William Martin, familiarly known as "Bill," was a pioneer in the East Surrey (England) Regiment, serving in Malta and in India more than half a century ago, after which he became a member of the reserves in England. When the South African War broke out he again entered the ranks and served all through the war, taking part in the relief of Ladysmith.

When the last Great War started he served with the 21st Canadian Battalion in England and in France, having a continuous active record in the war while it lasted.

Following the war he returned to Lindsay and was active in the old 45th Regiment of Victoria County. He was a member of the Canadian Legion, and the funeral on Friday, from the John Anderson Funeral Home, will be under Legion auspices.

British Women's Wartime Doings

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 9.—(CP).— The government's wartime ban on embroidery—part of the whole movement toward austerity clothing— is causing concern amongst women. They say embroidery actually is an ad to morale. The subject may even come up in tre House of Commons.

The Embroidery Association feels the Board of Trade should lift the ban on embroidery on all utility garments and thus allay fears the embroidery industry will collapse entirely.

Further, Chairman Phipps of the Assocation, says, "A little embroidery would stimulate the average working woman in her war effort."

The main concern ir for Buckinghamshire cottage workers. Many elderly women in Buckinghamshire which is famous for its embroidery supplement their old-age pension by doing a few hours' embroidery work each day but they loes this source of income as a result of the government ban.

The post office, looking for girls to train as telgraphists, says girls who play the piano are the best prospects. They rave nimble fingers. Girls now are being trained in Britain in courses in aircraft draughtsmanship. They have to show pomise in their first week of tuition or they are asked to discontinue the course.

More girls in the A.T.S. are being down-graded for foot trouble than for any other cause. Doctors say high heels and ultra-smart tight shoes are the main cause.... The Amalgamated Engineering Union has opened itr doors to women on equal terms with men. The Union held women engineers were absolutely essenial to achieve maximum war production and reported they were doing a great job in the Clydeside shipyards.

Mrs. F. A. Lucy a Guernsey woman who lives in Kent now is responsible for people living in Britain after escaping from the Nazi-occupied channel islands, having their own monthly paper. The paper control board banned the paper, but Mrs. Lucy appealed directly to King George VI and the ban was lifted....In a letter to a London newspaper an Ilford (Essex) woman chides women who complain that since the war started their husbands haven't been home on leave. This woman says her husband has been away and overseas without leave at all from the army for five years and six months and she doesn't expect to see him until the war ends.

Flowers For Romance

Marcia Lucas, above, is a fashion model whose face you often see in the newspapers and magazines. Margery Wilson, the charm expert, calls her "most charming" as well as pretty.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

One of the prettiest feminine dress tricks is that of wearing a fresh flower to set off a costume. In San Francisco a corsage or buttonhole posy is practically never missing from the well-dressed ensemble. In the eastern cities, it's oftener the men than the ladies who relish this good grooming touch. Try to catch Special Prosecutor Johnny Amen without his carnation, or Grover Whalen ditto.

Easiest come by and therefore the most often overlooked corsage material is the rose . . . the rose which is the symbol of romance in any language, and which has a scent which everyone loves. The corsage using roses of differing hues mounted on ribbon photographed above, and which can be worn as a hair ornament as well as on day or evening clothes, is a design which florists all over the country have agreed to whip up on request. It's for young or old, a refreshment to the new or the hackneyed costume.

ENQUIRY COLUMN

QUESTION: Your page is enjoyed very much each week and I have tried several of your recipes. Perhaps you do not answer by mail but I will enclose a stamped envelope as I am in a hurry or a recipe for mounded chicken salad (canned chicken). Would you also give me a simple menu for an afternoon luncheon? Gratefully yours, T.P.

ANSWER: We hope the following recipe and menu are what you are looking for:

Moulded Chicken Salad.

(Using Canned Chicken).

These directions are for a 7-ounce can of chicken.

Remove chicken and jelly from can and warm it barely enough to melt the broth. When melted strain the broth of the chicken meat. Soak 1½ teaspoons granulated gelatine in 3 tablespoons water for 5 minutes. Make the broth fro . the chicken up to 2-3 cup by adding boiling water to it. Add the soaked geraline to the broth and water mixture and stir over low heat until gelatine is dissolved. Then remove from heat and add ¼ teaspoon salt, 1-16th teaspoon white pepper. Arrange the chicken meat in 4 small or 1 large mould and in the crevices place a few green peas and bits of pimento and green pepper for garnish and to increase the volume. One teaspoon finely chopped celery may be added to each individual mould if desired. Pour over just enough of the gelatine broth to come to depth of ½ inch. Neither the meat nor vegetable should float. Keep refrigerator until this level of gelatine sets. Then fill moulds with gelatine broth until chicken is just covered and set away to chill. When ready to serve, turn out on bed of lettuce leaves and garnish with pickled pear and pass mayonnaise.

Afternoon Luncheon Menu.

Moulded chick n salad on lettuce
With radishes, Celery hearts and pickled pears
Mayonnaise
Tiny hot corn muffins
Ice cream with crushed fruit in season (strawberries, raspberries, cherries, peaches, pineapple)
Honey cocoanut macaroons
Mixed grapefruit and grape juice and ginger ale punch

NOTE: This menu has been compiled to observe all rationing restrictions—no tea or coffee or cakes using sugar frosting.

Date Pudding (Steamed).

One pound dates, ½ lb. beef suet, 3 cups breadcrumbs, ¾ cup sugar, 1 egg, ½ cup milk, 4 tablespoons flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder. Chop dates and suet very fine. Mix suet with bread-crumbs. WIFE'S FORMER SWEETHEART WORRIES FAITHFUL HUSBAND
Man Who Would Break Up Smooth-Running Home a Cad

Dear Miss Dix: My wife and I have been married 10 years. We are well mated in every way. We have three lovely children. I have a better than average job and we have been very happy. When I married my wife I rather rushed her off her feet because I knew at the time that she had been in love with another man, but she told me before we were married that this boy meant nothing to her and that all of the old feeling was gone.

Now, after 10 years, this old boyfriend suddenly turns up, and enters into the picture. He has been coming to see my wife and writing her letters. I have seen some of these letters. They are merely friendly, but in between the lines I read that he loves her, but I don't know how she feels towards him. I am afraid that I made a mistake in separating them and that I have spoiled her life, for while I can give her a home and security, I can't give her the thing she wants most.

I have been offered a position that would take me out of the country. Maybe if I accepted it and went away I would get rid of the feeling that my wife is only tolerating me because of the children. Miss Dix, you are a woman, do you think that if she did not love this man that she would continue to carry on this correspondence with him when she knows how unhappy it makes me?

A JEALOUS HUSBAND.

ANSWER: The one perfect man in the world is always the one a woman didn't marry. He is the one who never has any faults or "ways" that a wife has to put up with, and that is why a woman can idealize an old sweetheart into being the passion of her life, even if she said "no" to him when he popped the question to her.

I get hundreds of letters from women who have been married long enough to have grown children who write me that they have suddenly discovered, when they are middle-aged women, that after all they are not in love with their husbands, but are in love with some girlhood sweetheart whom they haven't seen for 20 years, and who ask what must they do about it. I always advise them to go at once and take a look at the ex-boy-friend because there is no experience in the world more disillusioning than to meet again your first sweetheart.

A Possible Cure

I think, perhaps, your idea of going away for a little while and letting your wife get a closeup on her old sweetheart may be the best way to cure her of thinking that she is still in love with him. After all of these years she won't find that she has much in commonw ith him, and when she compares him with you and remembers your kindness and devotion to her, she will realize that she cares more for you than she ever thought she did.

That is one view of the matter. Another is that she may just be having a little flirtation with him to prove to herself that she hasn't lost her allure and can still be attractive to men. But she is playing a dangerous game and one that is likely to lose her her good name a good husband, and end in having her children taken away from her.

As for the man, he is doing an unspeakably caddish thing in trying to break up a marriage that was going along smoothly and comfortably. If he really loved your wife, when he found her happily married and with three children, he would simply have effaced himself. That would have been the point of view of an unselfish lover and a gentleman.

Boy Is No Torch-Bearer

Dear Dorothy Dix: I am a girl of 18 and have been dating a boy of 20 for two years, but I have no way of knowing whether or not he loves me. He has never told me that he loved me except in a roundabout way. He has said that he thinks I am a very nice girl and the kind of a girl that a man would some day want to marry. He does not believe in petting. I realize he is not the romantic type and has curious ideas. But why doesn't he tell me how he feels?

Do you think he is in love with someone else, or is this just his way of carrying on a love affair?

ANSWER: Well, if a boy can go with a girl for two years without ever mentioning the state of his affections, I shouldn't say that he was much of a torch-bearer, and I don't wonder that she doesn't know where she stands with him. As a general thing, when a man tells a woman what a good wife she will make for somebody else, it is his diplomatic way of serving notice on her that his attentions are without intentions.

But, inasmuch as this lad is only 20 years old, it may merely indicate that he is not in a position to marry and that he isn't certain of how he feels about you, anyway. His silence on the subject of his feelings towards you is no sign that he is in love with someone else.

Inasmuch, however, as he has you guessing, I think you are making a mistake to let him monoplize you. The best way to clarify his feelings would be to start going out with another boy.

Real Chance for Happiness

Dear Miss Dix: Is there chance for happiness in a marriage which is founded more upon friendship than upon the grand passion? My fiance is a grand person who is very dear to me and I know that no one else could ever take his place with me. I feel as if God intended us to go through life together, to stand side by side against hardships and to share joy and happiness together, but I do not thrill to every touch of his hand, or get jittery at the sound of his voice. Is the calm sort of love I feel for him enough to marry on?

D.M.

ANSWER: Perhaps you are not of the emotional type and no man would ever be able to sweep you off your feet. After all, the hectic love-making, as it is represented in novels and the cinema, can in the nature of things last but for a little while. We can't go on thrilling and palpitating indefinitely or running a temperature over anyone. We are bound to come down to earth and to dealing with those whom we marry as human beings instead of godlings and romantic heroes and heroines.

So I think you would be perfectly safe in marrying a man for whom you have respect and admiration and a calm affection. After all, every marriage that is a success settles down into a beautiful and lasting friendship.

Happiness Depends Upon Mate Not Date

Dear Miss Dix—Some months are said to be lucky to be married in, while if you marry in other months you are sure to be unhappy. Is this true?

GERALDINE.

ANSWER: Certainly not. The happiness of a marriage depnds upon the kind of a person you marry, not upon the time of years.

For A Summer Dance

By ALICE ALDEN

SIMPLICITY IS the keynote of the most attractive frocks shown lately as witness the choice of Louise and Joanna Leschin, vivid young American duo-pianists. Joanna wears a delightful dress of rose beige marquisette with puffed sleeves and clusters of flowers at the elbows and skirt. Louise wears an off-the-shoulder picture gown of black marquisette with ruffles around the neck and on the shoulders to take the place of sleeves. Appliqued flowers in blue add color to this enchanting frock,

Where Your Salvage Goes — Bones and Fats

Sparky, a bone-saver from way back, sets an example for the housewife. Vegetable oil imports are partly cut off. To ensure sufficient quantities of fats and greases for war use, every home in Canada should save bones, drippings.

This is concentrated glue made from bones which the home owner has placed in a paper bag and set out separately for the garbage collector. Drippings are put in old cans. Glue has a multitude of uses throughout war production.

Ten pounds of processed household fats and bones produce nine pounds of soap and one pound of glycerine. This is high-grade glycerine being poured into a barrel. It will be shipped to an explosive plant to make nitro-glycerine.

Behind the roar of our coastal defence guns is the grim power of cordite, which like practically all propellents contains nitro-glycerine. Every pound of nitro-glycerine requires a half-pound of glycerine from fats and bones.

Cary Grant Weds Barbara Hutton

LAKE ARROWHEAD, Cal., July 9.—(AP)—Handsome, British-born Cary Grant, one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors and Barbara Hutton the slim, blond one-time "poor little rich girl," were married yesterday in a quiet ceremony witnessed by only a few close friends.

The wedding climaxed a romance of several years, which began in Hollywood soon after the heiress sued for divorce from the Danish Count Haugwitz-Reventlow, her second husband.

Rev. H. Paul Romeis, pastor of the English Lutheran Church in near-by San Bernardino, where the license was issued, performed the ceremony shortly after noon. It took place in the home of Frank W. Vincent, Grant's manager, at this mountain resort.

Grant, 38, now a United States citizen, and his bride obtained their license several days ago in utmost secrecy. She signed herself as the Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow and gave her age as 29. It was Grant's second marriage, her third.

The heiress renounced her American citizenship when she married the count, but since had expressed her intention of again seeking status in the United States. Immigration authorities said the mere fact of her marriage would not automatically return her citizenship, but would make possible her application without filing for first papers, thus reducing the number of years necessary for completion of the action from five to three.

The bride wore a navy silk dress with cyclamen blouse and hat, and carried a bouquet of roses. She had blue accessories.

Grant wore a grey-blue business suit and blue necktie.

The newlyweds left immediately after the ceremony without disclosing their destination, but Grant said they would make their home in Brentwood.

He is due back at R.K.O.-Radio studio tomorrow to resume work on his current film, "Once Upon a Honeymoon."

Grant only last week became an American citizen. At the time he said he intended to volunteer for active duty with United States armed forces as soon as he could get his affairs in shape.

His wife's fortune has been variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000. She was born Nov. 14, 1912, in New York the daughter of Franklyn Laws Hutton and the former Edna Woolworth daughter of F. W. Woolworth.

Millbrook Couple Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary

MILLBROOK, July 9 (ENS) — Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson, well known residents of Millbrook and Cavan, quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, King street east, on Sunday, only immediate relatives being present owing to failing health of Mr. Thompson, who has been confined to bed for the past four months, and also because of a recent bereavement within the family circle.

The marriage of Margaret Armstrong and James Thompson took place at Peterborough, on July 3, 1892, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. J. Stewart, but this date falling on Friday this year, owing to the bereavement already mentioned, postponement of the quiet anniversary party until Sunday was made obligatory. The bride and groom of fifty' years standing are both natives of Ireland, and on coming to Canada Mr. Thompson resided for some years in Smith township, coming later to Cavan to make his home. Mrs. Thompson's entire life has been spent in Cavan township.

Following their marriage this fine couple, who have now passed the fiftieth milestone in their journey of life together, continued in the occupation of farming until seven years ago, when they retired from an active career, and have resided the latter part of that time at Millbrook.

To their happy union six children were born: John and Joseph of Cavan; Mrs. Walter McNaughton (Kathleen), of Peterborough; while predeceasing their parents were Lillian, Walter and Mrs. Herb Morton (Hazel); there are six grandchildren.

As a token of their love, and a happy remembrance of their parents' fiftieth wedding anniversary, the family made informal presentation of a clock, encased in ivory and gold, the youngest grandchild, Ross Thompson, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thompson, offering his grandparents the gift.

Cold Meat Cutlets

(Contributed by Mrs. M. Bird)

Six slices cooked leftover meat, one tablespoon olive oil, one teaspoon vinegar, one tablespoon minced parsley, one cup mashed potato, egg and crumb. The meat may be beef, mutton or lamb, and the slices should be ¼" inch thick and approximately 4" by 3". Trim neatly. Marinate by soaking in olive oil and vinegar for one hour. If necessary, add salt and pepper. The mashed potatoes should be seasoned with a little nutmeg, as well as pepper and salt. Spread the potato on a floured board, lay on meat slices which have been drained of the marinade and cover with potato, so that each is entirely coated. Dip in egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat to a golden brown. Garnish with pasley.

Thank you, Mrs. Bird. Come again.

Fewer Girls Enrolling For Nursing Career

The acute shortage of nurses which is becoming widespread across the Dominion is already beginning to be felt a little in Peterborough, where, according to Miss Edith Young, superintendent of nursing at Nicholls Hospital, the enrollment to date for the new fall class has been cut in about half what it was a year ago.

This shortage in Canada is due primarily to the enlistment of the nurses in the armed forces, 884 of which have already been called and to those girls who feel that they are rendering a national service by going into munitions factories and industrial nursing. But authorities emphasize that it is just as important to keep the civilian hospitals well staffed, as those in the actual war fields. For civilian health must be guarded at all costs and with the influx of people into this and every other city, well-equipped medical services are essential.

During the next year it is expected that there will be a large increase in the numbers of nurses needed, and at the present time there are 300 Canadian nurses wanted to serve in civilian hospitals in Great Britain. The whole situation is critical and there has been a definite shortage of private nurses in Peterborough for some time. Many people who have requested private nurses have had to go without them. Nicholls Hospital is well-staffed, but they have had to draw upon their private nurses to fill the posts, and if the number of enrollments continues to droy, in a few months a serious situation may arise.

Nursing has many advantages to offer a girl after graduation and at the bi-annual convention of Canadian Nurses in Montreal recently, it was said that after this war there seemed little possibility of an overcrowding in the market, for so many new fields have opened up for nurses, that are carried on in peace as well as war time. Upon graduation a girl can go in for private duty, hospital or institutional work, public health nursing (an ever-growing field), and industrial nursing.

The shortage of nurses in Peterborough is not, however, on a par with that of a great many other places, and at St. Joseph's Hospital, to date there has been no noticeable decrease in enrollments, but there is still some time before fall, and it is possible they may be affected in the same way.

The use of voluntary nursing auxiliaries and war aids will help meet the shortage, but they cannot take the place of a nucleus of trained nurses. Hospital authorities are pointing out to those interested in studying nursing, that it offers a career of national service which is vital for the maintenance of public health. This is a job that is as much worth doing as being in the front line or helping forge the implements of war, and it is up to the girls of the country to carry on in this field as they have done so nobly in others.

Victory Recipes Planned For Canadians' Health

Salads just about top the list of refreshing summer foods. Finest thing about them from the meal-planer's viewpoint, is that the most attractive ones are simple and depend chiefly on the crisp goodness of their ingredients to tempt appetites grown indifferent under duress of summer heat.

Varieties range from meat or fish salads which may be the main course, to greens, vegetables cooked, raw or canned, or fruits.

Don't be afraid of variety in greens or salads advises Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture. Lettuce, endive, chicory, young leaves of spinach, watercress—all may be used to give color and variety. The greener the leaves the more vitamin A is the general rule. Serve with French dressing, or as a garnish for other salads.

In chopped salads, have the pieces uniform in size, and cut large enough to avoid a mushy appearance. In shredding, fine cut pieces are more appetizing. Shred at the last possible momen to avoid losses of vitamin C. For the same reason use leftover vegetables in salad rather than reheating them.

Try these combinations:

Vegetbale Salads

Cooked or canned asparagus tips with tomato jelly and hard cooked eggs served in lettuce leaves.

One cup chopped raw spinach; ½ cup shredded cabbage; ⅛ cup diced celery and sliced radishes with boiled dressing or mayonnaise.

Cooked beets with chopped celery, boiled salad dressing. Onion if desired.

Carrot and cabbage slaw with green peppers, served on young leaves of spinach.

Fruit Salads

Strawberries with orange slices, garnish of watercress.

Canned peach halves with cream cheese garnished with raspberries.

Bing cherries, melon wedges, cottage cheese flavored with a teaspoon of grated orange rind.

Note—Any fruit salad may have cottage cheese added to increase nutritive value.

Boiled Salad Dressing

1 teaspoon salt; 1 tablespoon mustard; 1 tablespoon flour; 2 tablespoons sugar; speck of cayenne pepper; 1 egg; 2 tablespoons butter; 2-3 cup of milk; 2-3 cup of vinegar.

Heat milk in double boiler. Mix dry ingredients and pour hot milk over. Return to double boiler and stir constantly for five minutes, add beaten egg, stir until thick—add vinegar slowly (if heated it lessens the time of cooking). Add butter, stir until melted.

Vitamin Content In Fresh Fruits

From a health standpoint, fresh fruits are most valuable for their vitamin C content. Because cooking is destructive to this important vitamin is the best reason in the world why, now that fruits are in season, Canadians should eat them raw at every opportunity. The calorie value is chiefly from the sugar content. This is highest when the fruit is fully ripe.

Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, advises housewives to be ready to change menu plans so as to take advantage of heavy marketings of fruit due to weather conditions.

Buy perishable fruits in small quantities so that none is wasted.

Study market terms and grades. If fruits are graded for size, buy those best suited to your particular needs.

Well-directed energies backed up by practical plans and some constructive thinking should help to make this a day of sound achievement and decisive results in the way of success and good fortune. In this personality and social co-operation may play a vital part, and this should be made the most of rather than falling back on individual push or aggressiveness, as these may be moments of perplexity or confusion.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of success and progress, incited by active creative urges of a practical and construtive nature. In this sound abilities and important proposition may benefit by the use of personal popularity, prestige and good nature, in which friendship, social graces or romantic appeal play important parts. There is likely to be celebration and festivity of a romantic advanture or attachment.

Restrictions Not Hard To Take

Blouses and skirts are almost a year-round uniform for the 'teen-age group and although the Wartime Prices and Trade Board clothing administrators have modified the design of these garments, they will still be on clothes racks in the coming months. ABOVE are pictured a striped blouse and skirt ensemble, showing in the one marked "yes" how material has been saved. In the narrow-striped blouse which is not made with bias sleeves, one-quarter of a yard of material is saved and in the skirt marked "yes," patch pockets and double belts have been eliminated, and this, plus a shortening in length, has also resulted in the saving of one-quarter of a yard of goods.

BABY'S
TEETHING UPSETS QUICKLY CHECKED

YOUR BABY must "get a tooth". But he need not get a fever with it—if baby's mother is wise he won't.

Here is what one wise mother, Mrs. Archie Begbie, of Consecon, has to say: "We have not lost one night's rest through teething as I always use my old standby, Baby's Own Tablets. They are worth their weight in gold."

And Mrs. B. A. Sebine, of Galt, Ont., says: "I have given Baby's Own Tablets to my baby girl since she was three weeks old and, although she cut her teeth rapidly (all four molars at once) she has never yet wakened us at night. I would not be without these tablets."

Give these safe, sweet-tasting tablets at the first sign of teething fever. Easy to take, prompt in action, yet safe. Analyst's certificate in every package.

Also effective in Constipation, Simple Fever, Diarrhoea, Upset Stomach, Colic, Simple Croup and Fretfulness. Get a box today. Sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if you are not satisfied.

IN MEMORIAM

WALL.—In loving memory of our daughter and sister, Doreen Wall, who passed away July 9, 1941, at the age of three.

The children of Heaven were robed in white,
And happy at play in the City of Light,
When Jesus came smiling and said to His band:
"Here's another little playmate; give Doreen your hand."
There we'll know his voice in the Lamb's sweet song,
His walk in the streets of gold,
And the lovely smile upon his face
As she wore in the days of old.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father, and Raymond and Ronald.

14 Bass Caught In Afternoon

George Korler, 1446 Gennesee Street, Buffalo, along with Michael Wolodka and Jules Palmer, of the same city, have just concluded the most successful four-day fishing trip in this district, of fourteen years' fishing.

The party stayed at John King's place on Belmont Lake and they had the best luck in Crowe Lake. On Tuesday the bass were hitting so good, that after it was all over, Korler was ready to conclude the trip. The men landed fourteen bass in one afternoon, and lost about nine others, fishing with soft shell crabs.

Four of the bass went over the 4½ pound mark, according to these Americans, and they claim they never got a catch like it before. To add spice to the holiday, they battled two large maskinonge, but were unable to land them, and they gathered in four good-sized pickerel. All of the bass were the smallmouth variety, and they were battlers.

"I'm coming back in two weeks with my wife, to resume hostilities with those black bass; they are the fightinest fish I ever tied into. The other people can have their muskies, I'll stick to the bass; and believe me, you can get all the action you want when a four-pound black bass starts to cut figure eights in the water, on light tackle, Korler stated.

Booklet on How to Earn Money at Home

Latest in Costume Jewelry

A smart way to add to your collection of costume jewelry! Make this clever necklace and bracelet set of gold and silver nuggets—really chick peas in disguise!

All you need for the necklace is a handful of chick peas—75 to be exact.

First soak the peas until they can be pierced with a needle. Then string them, holding the peas as shown in diagram—36 on one thread, 39 on another. Allow them to dry.

Then dip the string of 36 into clear shellac, liquid gold bronze, and shellac again, hanging up to dry between baths.

The other string of 39 you dip in shellac and liquid silver paint. When dry, re-string the peas on stout white thread, doubled. Fasten ends of threads to a clasp.

The bracelet is as easily made and, with the necklace, makes a set you're proud to wear or to give a friend for Christmas.

Fun, too, to make a bracelet of safety pins and sealing wax! Or a peanut boutonniere!

Full instructions for making these and many other beautiful pieces of costume jewelry are given in our 32-page booklet. Shows how to make stunning necklaces, belts, clips, boutonnieres from simple materials you may have on hand.

For your copy of "Costume Jewelry You Can Easily Make" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner, Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER
By SHEPARD BARCLAY
"The Authority on Authorities"

CREDIT FOR BAD WORK

MANY A DECLARER takes credit for playing a hand well, when he really botched the job and would have been set if his opponents had been on their toes. An observant kibitzer can make himself very unwelcome by pointing out at the time how both sides had erred—how the defenders could have beaten the contract by proper play, and how the declarer could have played the hand so they would not have had any chance to beat him. His job is to be silent.

3♣	Pass	3 NT

North led the diamond 2, the declarer taking the trick with the Q in dummy, so he could lead at once toward the club Q. North captured this with the K and repeated diamonds, the K winning. The club 10 was led to the A and the rest of the suit run. Those five club tricks, plus three in diamonds and two in hearts, made an extra trick for the declarer.

Notice what would have happened if North had refused to put his K on the first club trick, and then had let the club 10 go by when it was led to the A. That would have blocked the suit, and the declarer would have had no earthly way to take as many as nine tricks then.

The contract could have been made airtight by winning the first diamond in the West hand, then leading the club Q; if North covered, come up with the A and lead another club; if North ducked, let the Q ride through, then take the A and lead another club. With the diamond Q left in dummy for an entry, there would be no possible way to keep the declarer from making his contract, even if the opponents switched to spades at just the right time, as soon as they won a trick.

Bethel Church's Golden Jubilee

EAST EMILY, July 9. —(ENS)—Record congregations attended the morning and evening services at Bethel United Church where they were celebrating the golden jubilee of th church, with Rev. J. Griggith of Bowmanville, a former pastor of this circuit, conducting the services along with Rev. R. M. Patterson, the present minister. The church was beautiful with a profusion of flowers.

At the morning service Rev. Mr. Patterson showed the original trowel with which the late Charles Miller laid the corner-stone of the church fifty years ago this month.

The music and singing rendered by the choir was exceptional with Rev. Mr. Patterson singing a solo in his usual manner and the Harrison brothers rendered a quartette with guitar accompaniment. A very special feature in the morning was where 16 of the young people of the church were accepted into the memebrship. At the close of the service Communion was taken by the entire audience.

The evening service was again largely attended, and Mrs. Joseph Mann rendered a beautiful solo and the Harrison brothers favored the audience with another of their selections.

They gave him a wrist watch and pen and pencil set after an address had been read to him by Mr. Fred Barnum. In his remarks Mr. Barnum declared the friends of Zion church "are grateful for all your help in concerts, plays and Sunday School work. It is with pride and heaps of good wishes that we ask you to accept these gifts." The address was signed by Mr. Barnum, Thomas Fry, Elwood Irwin, Clarence Wright, Ray Pollock, Watson Murray and John Coggins.

Rev. Donald McKay of Burnbrae church acted as chairman of the short informal program which followed. This included a piano solo by Miss Dorothy Eagleson; a reading by Maurice Brunton; piano solo by Albert Case; vocal solo, John Coggins; piano solo, Esther Meiklejohn.

Had "Nerves"! Couldn't Sleep! Tells How Syntona Helped Her

Grateful Lady Now Goes Downtown and Reports Her Amazing Experiences With Syntona.

Among the many ailments that accompany a general rundown condition of health perhaps none are more distressing than nervousness and inability to sleep. In such cases it is difficult to get any one to understand that there is any real cause for complaint. Often it is suggested that the trouble is "just imagination" but those who have experienced it know that it is very real, indeed. Syntona has been found very effective in such cases as the experience of Mrs. Fanny Ridgewell as reported here in her own words is a typical example:

"For years my nerves troubled me and finally they got so bad I would not go out of the house alone at night. Any time I was alone I would have to have the doors locked for I kept imagining all sorts of frightful things. At night I would wake up with a frightened, depressed feeling. It made me feel miserable all the time.

"I tried lots of medicines, but couldn't get anything to help me until I took Syntona. I have taken, in all, six bottles of this medicine, and I think it is just wonderful. I go anywhere alone now and do not have any fears or startled feelings. I get a good night's sleep now, too. I'm sure any person who suffers as I did will understand why I want to recommend Syntona."

Get yourself a treatment of Syntona to-day at Elliotts Drug Store, Peterborough. See how much better you, too, will be feeling in just a short time.—(Advt.)

6 Oblates Drown As Canoe Upsets

PERKINS MILLS, Que., July 9—(CP)—A search party set out today from this village 23 miles northeast of Ottawa to start dragging operations for bodies of six members of the French-speaking Oblates of Mary Immaculate who drowned last night in the storm-tossed waters of nearby Lake McGregor when their canoe capsized.

The six victims—two priests and four students from the priesthood from St. Joseph's Scholasticate at Ottawa—drowned in 25 feet of water on their way back from a picnic excursion at Grand Lake.

They were thrown into the choppy water fully clothed and their heavy clerical vestments hindered their efforts to reach safety, members of the Order said.

The dead are Rev. Antoine Lesage, 25, Montreal; Rev. Adrien Hamel, 24, Quebec City; Brother Pierre Landreville, 21, St. Paul, Alta.; Brother Rene Leclaire, 21, St. Adolphe, Man.; Brother Origene Chenier, 22, Ottawa and Mainiwaki, Que.; and Brother Herve Ricard, 22, St. Thomas de Caxton, Que.

All were travelling in a big freight canoe used by members of the Order for trips on the Lake. A seventh passenger, Rev. Pierre Francouer of Montreal, managed to cling to the overturned canoe and was assisted to asfety by Rev. Raymon Latraverse.

Some 100 members of the Order are spending summer vacation at the Oblates' summer house, Campagne St. Louis, on the east shore of the lake. Twenty-eight members seven to a canoe, were caught in the lake when the storm arose but only one canoe upset.

Peterborough Bank Lends Staff Aid

CAMPBELLFORD, July 9. —(ENS)—To maintain the same amount of service it has in the past the local branch of the Bank of Montreal has jumped its staff from seven to ten since absorbing the Commerce here. However, according to a spokesman at the bank, it is regarded likely the staff will be maintained at nine once the heavy work of transferring pass books and so forth has been completed. Faith in the bank's ability to look after all local business is apparently a matter that has arisen with some who are not conversant with modern banking methods. It is said that the occasional customer has entered showing distinct signs of nervousness, wondering if the branch would have sufficient funds on hand to meet the obligation. To overcome any possible delay in service a second paying and receiving teller has already been added to the staff in the person of J. McKone, Peterborough. An assistant accountant, Mr. F. W. Bunt, Toronto and Miss Jean Dorris, Peterborough, a second ledger keeper are both here in a temporay capacty until reoganization is complete.

Premier Saydam Dies In Ankara

ANKARA, Turkey, July 9 — (AP)—Premier Refik Saydam died today following a heart attack. He was 61 years old and had been Premier sinoc January, 1939.

A semi-oficial announcement said Dr. Faik Euztrak, Minister of the Interior, would serve as Acting Premier until a new appointment could be made.

Refik Saydam had been Premier of Turkey from before the outbreak of war. He was formerly medical attendant to Kemal Attaturk.

Shortly after assuming office in January, 1939 Saydam stated his government's policy as maintaining "friendly relations with all Powers, great and small."

"No act capable of putting in peril the life and well-being of the Turkish nation will come first from your government unless our goodwill, our sincere and friendly neutrality toward all states should be directly or indirectly the object of an attempt at violation," he told the Turkish people.

At the same time he declared Turkey's army was capable of warding off any danger or aggression.

He was one of the signers of the Turkish mutual assistance pact with France and Great Britain in October, 1939.

Drop Charge Against Col. Drew

Claim Case Blocks House Debate; Bar Accused's Views

TORONTO, July 10 (CP) — The Crown today withdrew a charge of Breach of Canada Regulations against Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, because public discussion of the Hong Kong Royal Commission report could not be caried on while the case was in progress, D. L. McCarthy, K.C., crown counsel, informed the court.

It was Col. Drew's criticism of this report following the Commission investigation of sending the Canadian expedition to Hong Kong last year that precipitated the charge.

Immediately Mr. McCarthy sat down following his brief statement, Col. Drew insisted he have the opportunity of replying to the reasons for withdrawal but Mr. McCarthy argued there was nothing before the court. Magistrate J. D. McNish nodded assent and informed Col. Drew he could not properly express his views.

"I would point out that while it has no bearing on the case it has a very great bearing on myself," Col. Drew said. "I have been haled into this court by the counsel for Mr. St. Laurent (Hon. Louis St. Laurent, Minister of Justice) and I would submit, your worship, that I have a right to be heard in regard to the comments made by the counsel for Mr. St. Laurent, which I look upon as completely evading the real issue

Nimitz In Crash Has Near Call

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—The United States Navy Department reported today that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander in chief of the Pacific fleet, recently "escaped serious injury," in an airplane crash on the west coast which cost the life of the plane's co-pilot.

Nimitz, normally in the Hawaiian area, was on the mainland for a meeting with Admiral Ernest J. King, Commander in Chief of the U.S. Fleet and to receive from King the Distinguished Service Medal for his conduct of naval operations against the Japanese, particularly the Coral Sea and Midway actions.

The plane crash in which his life apparently was gravely endangered occurred, the Navy said, "at an airfield at a west coast port of the United States."

The co-pilot killed was Lieut. Thomas Morton Roscoe, 29, of Oakland, Calif.

The Navy said several passengers were slightly injured and described Nimitz's injuries as minor and insufficient to cause any interruption of his journey.

Nimitz, 57, has been commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet since the relief from that assignment of Admiral Husband E. Kimmel.

Those Cheery Reports

LONDON, July 10 — (CP cable).—Three war correspondents with the 8th Army in the El Alamein battle zone have been recalled to Cairo by the Middle East High Command to attend an inquiry in connection "with serious difficulties caused by their dispatches," it was reported by London evening newspapers today. The correspondents were listed as Ralph Walling, Reuters; Clifford Webb, London Daily Herald, and Aubrey Hammond, London Daily Sketch.

Chinese Ambush 30,000 Japs Slaughter 2,000

By SPENCER MOOSA
Associated Press Staff Writer.

CHUNGKING, China, July 10 — (AP). — A Japanese force of 30,000 has been ambushed and routed with the loss of at least 2,000 killed and wounded in heavy fighting in Kiangsi Province, Chinese Central News dispatches reported.

All told, the Chinese unofficially reported nearly 5,000 Japanese casualties in various fighting sectors in recent engagements.

Meanwhile, the headquarters of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell announced that United States bombers left eight fires raging in Hankow, Japan's main base in the interior of China, in a raid carried out on Monday despite adverse weather.

It was the third raid against that Yangtse River port since July 1. Oil storage points and wharves were attacked.

The Chinese said that the Japanese were in complete control of the 450-mile Chekiang-Kiangsi railway, but reported that Chinese armies counter-attacking in Kiangsi Province have recaptured three cities—Nancheng, Ihwang, and Poyang.

The major action as told by Central News dispatches was a battle of Chinese forces on the eastern Kiangsi-Hunan Railway against a bank of the Kan River south of the force of 30,000 Japanese sent to entrap them and capture Sinkan.

The news dispatches indicated the Chinese trap was sprung somewhere in the 20 miles between Sinkan and Changshu.

Nancheng Retaken

In fighting in eastern Kiangsi province, the Chinese news accounts said, the walled city of Nancheng was recaptured after sustained attacks lasting several days, with the Japanese retreating to the northwest toward Linchwan, 40 miles above Nancheng.

The invaders suffered more than 900 casualties in that fighting, the Chinese said.

At the same time, they declared, Ihwang, 32 miles west of Nancheng and 45 miles southeast of Sinkan, was recaptured, with the Japanese leaving some 500 dead in the city.

The Chinese high command announced that the city of Poyang, across Poyang Lake from Nanchang, was recaptured July 3 after a nightlong battle in which it said the Japanese suffered 500 casual-

R.A.F. Rains 100 Tons On Convoys In Past 46 Days

NEW DELHI, India, July 10 (CP)—The R.A.F., in announcing a new series of destructive raids on the Japanese in Burma, disclosed today that Japanese convoys of troops and supplies are moving steadily toward India under a continual rain of British bombs.

In the past 46 days 200,000 pounds of bombs have been dropped on these Japanese, a communique said.

Today's announcement said many casualties were inflicted on Japanese troops in a low-level bombing of a barracks at Myitkyina and heavy damage was done to locomotives and the right-of-way on the Mandalay-Myitkyina railway in northern Burma on Wednesday.

Barracks and other buildings at Kalemyo also were attacked, as was the river area of Gangaw in the Upper Myittha Valley(while boats and barges on the Chindwin river were machine-gunned.

RCAF To Handle Own Inquests

TORONTO, July 10 — (CP). — Procedure to be followed by Ontario Crown Attorney and coroners in co-operation with R.C.A.F. authorities when R.C.A.F. members are killed while in training was laid today in a memorandum by C. L. Snyder, Deputy Attorney-General.

Mr. Snyder said R.C.A.F. officials had asked the Attorney-General to aid them in determining the cause of death of members killed in training.

Flt. Lt. A. J. Kerwin, M.D., of Toronto has been appointed pathologist to perform post-mortems on men killed in training and will be notified of all such deaths by the senior officer of the flying school to which the man had been attached. Flt. Lt. Kerwin will make the post-mortem examination with consent in writing of the Crown Attorney of the county or district concerned or with consent of Dr. Smirle Lawson, supervising coroner for Ontario.

Unless specifically directed by the Attorney-General or supervising coroner, officials were instructed by Mr. Snyder that inquests are not to be held in connection with R. C. A. F. fatalities, but the investigation is left to R.C.A.F. authorities. The R.C.A.F. will assume the cost of fees for performing a post-mortem.

Watching Belgium

LONDON, July 10 — (CP). — A Belgian Government spokesman said today the Germans, fearful of invasion, have extended their "defence area" along the Belgian coast, forbidding all traffic except by special permit and ordering residents not to travel more than three miles from home. Roads and bridges leading to the coast are being widened to facilitate military movement. The German radio reported yesterday that Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt was on a tour of the Low Countries.

CBC's Monopoly Raked Over By Broadcasters

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP).—Glenn Bannerman of Toronto, president and general manager of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, in a brief presented to the House of Commons Radio committee to-day said members of his association regard Canada's present radio policy as sound but consider that regulations restricting some phases of private broadcasting should be amended.

Mr. Bannerman recalled evidence given before the committee by War Services Minister Thorson in which reference was made to private stations and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation being in competition.

"Under these circumstances the Broadcasting Act of 1936 places the competitor, the CBC, in the position of making the rules and regulations of its competition," Mr. Bannerman continued.

"This situation must be as embarrassing to the CBC as it is a sore point to the privately owned stations and commercial sponsors. No matter how necessary or worthwhile a regulation may be, under this present condition—if it reduces the commercial revenue of the privately owned stations—there is a tendency to wonder if maybe the regulation has been made so that more commercial revenue will flow to the CBC.

"This situation is comparable to the condition that would exist if the Board of Directors of the Canadian National Railways made the rules and regulated the provisions under which the Canadian Pacific Railway must operate."

Mr. Tannerman spoke highly of the CBC's contribution to improved broadcasting in Canada.

Much Better Service.

British Sub Sinks 2 From Convoy Hun Gets No Rest

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

CAIRO, July 10.—(AP).—British mobile columns southwest of El Alamein squeezed Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's armored right flank back toward the sea to-day while United States bombers and British submarines sought to cut his Mediterranean supply line.

(A BBC broadcast quoted reports from Ankara that the Axis were moving reinforcements to North Africa from the Balkans, pulling German troops from Yugoslavia and even crete in an effort to restore Rommel's striking power).

British headquarters announced that long-range United States bombers hunting Axis ships in the Mediterranean shot down two German fighter planes which attempted to intercept them.

(An Admiralty communique in London credited a single British submarine with sinking one merchant ship from a strongly-guarded Axis convoy bound for Libya and sending a naval auxiliary vessel to the bottom).

The change in Rommel's line eliminated a sharp angle where the German front turns back to the west Now the line forms an arc extending from the coast west of El Alamein into the desert some 30 miles south of El Daba.

On the Defensive

Military advices indicated that Rommel's movements have been confined almost entirely to countering threats to his right flank in the week that has elapsed since British forces beat off an assault on their positions at El Alamein, some 65 miles west of Alexandria.

While there was no expectation here that Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck's harassing tactics might compel Rommel to execute a general withdrawal, British headquarters seemed satisfied they are keeping the wily Axis chieftain so busy he can not regroup his forces for a new offensive.

The British patrols have been getting in some of their best work at night, stabbing here and there at the German right flank, which has been bent back toward the west.

From information gleaned from prisoners, these forays are preventing the weary Axis forces from getting the rest they need after their

150 Slot Machines To Assist In War Effort As Police Sledges Wreck Them For Salvage

TORONTO, July 10—(CP).—Destruction of 150 slot machines, seized by Ontario Provincial Police, to provide scrap for Canada's war effort began at Queen's Park today. The machines, valued at $30,000, were seized since May 1 by Inspector E. T. Doyle's anti-gambling squad.

The machines had to be held 31 days after convictions being registered against the person charged with operating them. When seized, they contained from $20 to $100, and this money, under the Dominion gaming law, goes to the Registrar-General of Canada, to be returned to the counties in which the prosecutions arose.

Meantime, Inspector Doyle reported that yesterday his squad raided three restaurants in Crowland township and seized six machines. Three persons will be summoned on a charge of keeping a common gaming house.

Nab Refugee Spy On Exchange Ship With $7,000 For Loosening Tongues

NEWARK, N.J., July 10—(AP).—Swift prosecution of a German-born spy suspect seized in an attempt to slip into the United States by posing as a Jewish refugee was expected today after he is arraigned on charges of espionage.

The prisoner, Herbert Karl Friedrich Bahr, 29, an American citizen through the naturalization of his late father, was seized by the Federal Bureau of Investigation aboard the diplomatic exchange ship Drottningholm.

The arrest of Bahr, who was educated in Buffalo, N.Y., schools and at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, N.Y., resulted from a thorough investigation of the refugee liner, 300 of whose 942 passengers from Europe still are being questioned on Ellis Island

"Bahr admits having been enlisted by the German espionage service during October, 1941, as an espionage agent for the purpose of returning to the United States and securing and transmitting to Germany information pertaining to the war effort of this country." Assistant F.B.I. Director P. E. Foxworth said in New York.

In a simultaneous announcement of the arrest, F.B.I. Chief J. Edgar Hoover said in Washington that the Gestapo had instructed Bahr in the art of spying as well as in writing with secret, invisible inks and had given him various addresses in Spain, Switzerland and South America where he was to send reports of his activities.

Reds Hit Arctic Raiders' Lair

MOSCOW, July 10.— (AP). — Bombing German airdromes in Northern Norway and Finland, the Red Air Force has inflicted heavy new damage on the bases from which German planes have been raiding ports and shipping of the Arctic supply line to Russia, war front dispatches reported to-day.

The raids followed the Russian torpedoing of the powerful battleship Tirpitz as it led the cruiser and destroyer force in an attempted attack on an Allied convoy bringing Russia supplies from Britain and the United States, the Russian accounts said.

A strong German air fleet in Northern Norway and Finland repeatedly has struck at such convoys and at Murmansk and other cities of the Kola Peninsula through which American and British arms are flowing to the Red army.

German airdromes in a number of northern districts were attacked in an effort to cripple such operations, the Russians said.

One force of Russian planes, striking simultaneously at several airports, was saiad to have destroyed 30 German bombers and fighters, damaged 27 others, burned a hangar and damaged a warehouse.

The Russians said none of their own planes was lost.

The Russian Fleet meanwhile raided enemy shipping in the Baltic again, this time carrying its operations to the southern reaches of the sea off the German coast.

A naval dispatch said that the sinking of two transports and a tanker, announced in a communique last night, was the work of fleet units operating there, far from base.

The Baltic Fleet Air Arm also was said to have sunk a patrol boat and set fire to several other vessels.

In a raid on another enemy sea base—not otherwise identified—an enemy transport was reported set afire and a second badly damaged.

Russian dispatches said that at the southern flank of the battlefront a Russian flotilla in the Azov Sea shelled German fortifications.

Locate 20 Bodies In Mine Debris

MORGANTON W. VA., July 10 —(AP).— Rescue workers early today located the bodies of 20 men from the Pursglove Company's No. 2 Mine, where an explosion and fire had trapped two crews of miners 4½ miles inside the workings.

Officials indicated it would be only a matter of hours before the bodies of the men, killed in the blast late yesterday, were taken from the mine. Eighteen of thm have been tentatively identified.

Company officials said 70 of the mine's 300 employees were inside at the time of the blast and that 26 men had been definitely checked off as safe. Many others, however, began aiding the rescue work without reporting their escape.

Hampered in efforts to reach the blasted area because of fire, rescue workers believed the explosion victims had been trapped somewhere under the State of Pennsylvania. They explained the mine one of the newer operations in the rich Scott's Run field in Northern West Virginia, is close to the West Virginia-Pennsylvania line.

Reds Appeal For Stand To The Death

Voronezh And Rossosh Threats Serious, Russ Press Counters

By HENRY C. CASSIDY,
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, uly 10—(AP).—German tank forces which crossed the Upper Don bit into the Soviet lines before Voronezh today, while 100 miles to the south a second furious battle raged full force at the approaches to Rossosh where reinforced German troops had driven a new salient 90 miles into the Russian line.

Red Star, organ of the Soviet Army, said conditions west of Voronezh were becoming "more complicated" and those near Rossosh "very difficult" with combat close to the city.

An important Red Army counter-attack designed to relieve pressure on Voronezh was reported threatening the German flank, however, and Red Star said "stubborn battles there may have a serious influence over the position near Voronezh."

It was not disclosed whether this counterattack was in the Orel sector 165 miles northwest of Voronezh where the Germans have reported Russian troops on the offensive.

Soviets Find Soft Spot.

Russian tanks, leading an attack on one position where the Germans were described as particularly vulnerable, were said to have rolled the Nazi line back and reoccupied several points.

In the battle before Voronezh, key rail link between the Russian central and southern armies, the Germans have established two main bridgeheads across the Don at tremendous sacrifice of men, accounts from that front said.

One column of 100 tanks was reported attacking a Russian settlement on the east bank, still encountering stiff resistance.

However, the Russians said the main force of Field Marshal Ewald von Kleist's 4th Tank Army was massed west of the river, waiting under Russian aerial attack and long-range bombardment to cross for a renewed attack as soon as the Nazi foothold on the east bank could be widened.

The Russians also were reported battling hard on the defensive in the Rossosh region where the Germans drove another deep salient toward the big bend of the Don 100 miles south of Voronezh and 200 miles north of Rostov, north gate to the Caucasus.

The fighting has swelled to an immense scale, Russian dispatches declared Red Star, the army newspaper, saiad "conditions west of Voronezh are becoming more complicated." It appealed for a stand to the death.

The Russians reported they withdrew in good order toward Rossosh, after several days of steadily-increased Nazi pressure, to avoid being flanked. The Germans were said to have poured in strong reserves, increasing their numerical superiority, particularly in tanks.

Pound For Breakthrough.

The front line accounts said the Germans occupied several more communities and penetrated into the Russian defences in depth as they strove fiercely to break on through to the east

Invasion Tactics To Be Real Surprise

Not Coming Way Public Expects, Thinks Expert—Brunt By R.A.F. Commandos

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Public anxiety over the prospects of a second front in Western Europe naturally has increased as the result of the dangerous position created by Hitler's onslaught in the Don River zone against Red troops who are making such a magnificent effort to carry out the admonition to give "not one more step backwards."

Many inquiries have been made as to how an invasion of the continent would be carried out. Well, in the first place all we know about the time is that a front is to be set up at the earliest feasible moment.

As to how it will be achieved, one recalls the remark of a British naval officer recentily that "I can promise you the invasion will not come in the way everyone expects." Anyway it presents a new problem, for no comparable operation has been carried out under conditions of modern warfare. We can say that it will be one of the most dangerous and difficult undertakings in all military history.

We know in advance that the anxious Hun is forearmed. The other day a German high command spokesman said: "We are expecting an invasion at any time. Let them try it. We are ready."

The whole occupied coastal area, from Norway clear down through France, has been heavily fortified. A network of strategic railways has been built. The Nazis have even brought up big guns from France's Maginot Line.

The preliminary to any invasion must be a terrific aerial bombardment of all enemy coastal positions, to destroy defences and force the enemy air fleet further inland from its airdromes. British experts say the Nazis defences wont stand up under the punishment they will get.

Next would come the movement of troops. Where landings would be undertaken certainly is a matter of speculation. They might be made anywhere and the location would depend on circumstances.

The area which the Nazis have most carefully fortified is the Boulogne-Calais sector on the narrowest part of the English Channel, only 20 miles from Dover. Probably numerous landings would be attempted simultaneously along the coastline, perhaps avoiding this strongly held Boulogne-Dover area until it could be outflanked.

Pioneers must go ahead to establish beach-heads, and what force could be better fitted for that work than the Commandos? With them must go technicians and workers who will create facilities for the disembarking of the main invasion forces, prepare landing fields for warplanes, and what not. That will

First Clue To Lost 'Peg Tot

Letter Claims Lad 2 Was Killed, Buried In Swamp

WINNIPEG, July 10—(CP). — An anonymous person, signing "Winnipegger," sent a letter yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. Max Schoenborn of Winnipeg, telling them to forget about their lost son—two-year-old Elmer—because "I killed him instantly on Sunday on the highway and buried him in the swamp in Ontario close to Kenora off the highway."

The boy, missing since he wandered from a farm home at Sneddon's Corner, 40 miles east of Winnipeg, June 28, was believed by his parents to have been abducted after they received reports of a man carrying a large packsack in the vicinity. District residents said the sack was big enough to carry the boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Schoenborn offered a $1,000 reward for the safe return of Elmer when an eight-day search of the bush country failed to uncover any trace of the child.

Royal Canadian Mounted Police now have the letter sent to the parents and are investigating.

Curbs Aiding Small Town

Credit, Overhead Cut—Country Stores Pick Up

TORONTO, July 10—(CP)—Wartime trade restrictions have not seriously affected the small independent grocer. A survey of Ontario centres today showed that business is normal or a bit better than before, although a few grocers said their business had dropped since the start of the war.

Toronto grocers found that increased employment had boosted their sales and at the same time sharply reduced their credit accounts. Curtailment of delivery services also helped to cut down overhead costs.

Increased employment apparently has offset the effects of gasoline rationing so far as the city grocer is concerned. One grocer in Kitchener reported he had lost a number of country customers because of the restriction on travel, but said this had only been equivalent to an earlier increase and that on the whole his business was normal.

A merchant in Waterloo county said "We're getting trade now that we weren't getting before," referring to people who formerly drove to city stores for supplies. Another Waterloo county merchant said his trade was increasing because farmers were getting more money.

HITLER GIVES UP HIS LEADERSHIP OF GERMANY'S ARMED FORCES

Adolf Recalls Strategian Brauchitsch

Dictator Is Reported To Have Bowed To His High Command

LONDON, July 10.—(CP).— The Daily Mail published a report today that Hitler had called back his ousted army commander in chief, Field Marshal Walther Von Brauchitsch, yielding to the insistence of his High Command.

There was no confirmation of this report, which came from the newspapers Stockholm correspondent, who said it was brought by neutrals arriving in the Swedish capital from Berlin.

Von Brauchitsch, who engineered most of the Nazis' conquests, was supplanted by Hitler himself last Dec. 22.

The Daily Mail report said he was back again, directing the general staff work of the new German offensive in Russia

Since announcements last December that Hitler had assumed the military leadership of his armies following the dictates of his "intuition," there have been recurring rumors of drastic shakeups in the Nazis' top military command.

The replacement of Von Brauchitsch, when the Germans were stalled before Moscow and beginning to feel the terrible hardhips of the Russian winter, has been the only major shift officially announced, however.

Rumored Before.

Rumors of Von Brauchitsch's reinstatement to Hiler's good graces, if not to his former high position, have been recurrent.

Reports reaching Switzerland from Germany last March indicated that Hitler, apparently convinced he could not direct his war alone, had summoned Von Brauchitsch and others, at least for consultation.

At that time, Germanys High Command probably was laying plans for the great offensive which her armies now are putting into motion.

Another report in London last May, attributed to "a responsible source with unusually reliable information" on affairs within Germany, said a group of Hitler's generals, headed by Von Braucritsch, had warned him they would try to set up their own plan if his 1942 Russian campaign failed.

Hitler, this source said, calmly accepted the challenge and named Von Brauchitsch as a member of the Supreme Command.

CBC's Monopoly

Broadcasters recognizes and pays tribute to the CBC for a greatly improved broadcasting service to the people of Canada since the year 1936," he said. "The privately-owned stations proudly lay claim to some considerable part in this general improvement."

Private stations had done much of the pioneering in radio and it was "only within the last five years that any member of the privately-owned stations have entered into black figures and begun to recover some of the losses of the first 15 years."

Discount practices used by the CBC to encourage the use of more than one regional network and the French network provided competition which was difficult for the privately-owned non-network stations in Quebec to meet.

The complete control by the CBC of all telegraph companies' lines between broadcasting stations also had a direct bearing on the operation and revenue of private stations.

"No lines can be purchased from any privately-owned station linking it up with another privately-owned station except by buying such lines from the CBC," Mr. Bannerman explained.

"This virtually gives the CBC a complete monopoly over all live talent broadcasts except individual station broadcasts. Whether this is a sound and satisfactory state of affairs is for the committee to decide."

The effect of this condition was to place in the hands of the CBC complete information about potential broadcast advertisers, he said.

Private station operators could not understand why the CBC charges for arranging and re-selling these lies should be considerably higher than for arranging network hookups.

The charges made it so costly that unless an advertitser could get on a regional CBC network or was sufficiently big to disregard the increased cost it was impossible to use 'live talent.'

Some Proposals.

The Association recommended stations be allowed to link up without hindrance at cost for non-profit making sustaining programs and at cost plus 25 per cent. for commercial programs.

"This would greatly encourage the development of Canadian radio talsent pattern of Canadian broadprograme," Mr. Bannerman said.

"To sum up the views of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, it is felt that with adjustments, as suggested in this statement, the present patern of Canadian broadcasting—that is, a government-operated system with privately owned station competition, is sound in principle and that along these lines radio will continue to serve Canadians with increasing usefulness," Mr. Bannerman said.

Mr. Bannerman read to the committee reports from private stations in Vancouver and Kirkland Lake, Ont, outlining their community service. In answer to questions by M. J. Coldwell, C.C F. House leader, he said he could not provide figures on profits of private stations but a survey had shown that on an average a loss of 15 per cent in national advertising would put the stations in the red.

Ernest Bertrand (Lib. Montreal-Laurier) saaid he was in favor of private stations and opposed to a CBC monopoly, but trat he thought private stations sometimes failed to make any effort to raise the standard of broadcasting.

Mr Coldwell said he too, was in favor of private stations, but thought the committee should inquire into an organization which might be designed to replace the CBC.

Chalout Case Decision Due August 3

MONTREAL, July 10. —(CP).— The case of Rene Chaloult, charged under Defence of Canada Regulations, stood adjourned to-day until Aug. 3 when Judge Edouard Archambault will give his decision.

The trial of the Liberal member of the Quebec Legislative Assembly for Lotbiniere ended with the presentation of arguments by counsel yesterday, four days after its opening. The complaint was laid following a speech made by Mr. Chaloult at a public meeting here May 19.

In his sum-up of evidence yesterday, Crown Prosecutor Gerald Fauteux reviewed testimony offered by Montreal newspapermen. He said that Mr. Chaloult, under cross-examination, "wittily and evasively" answered questions, but that the answers showed the thoughts and beliefs which had animated his address.

He wondered what would happen if one were to repeat several times in public places "with fire,' as a Devoir reported had described Mr Chaloults voice, the utterance made he would prepare a written argument to present to Judge Archambault.

by the accused. Mr. Fauteux said

Defence Counsel Fernand Choquette told the court that the case was "bigger than Rene Chaloult for the privilege of freedom of speech for French-Canadians is on trial. He saiad that the evidence had failed to establish that Defence of Canada Regulations had been violated, and added that freedom of speech allowed citizens to warn the government of the inevitable aftermath of a measure they opposed.

With the establishment of beachheads the main invasion forces would be rushed across the Channel. Probably 1,000,000 men, would be moved onto the continent in due course. As a guess 5,000 barges, maybe more, would be employed, each carrying 50 or so fully-equipped soldiers. There also would be barges for tanks and artillery and other mechanical equipment.

The barges with their precious freight would proceed under a vast canopy of air power. They would be escorted by naval strength. These troops must be equipped to take care of themselves for several days, maybe a week, for apart from such material as is carried on the barges, the main supplies are yet to be moved. Only after the troops have established themselves and prepared airdromes for Allied planes, can the armada of supply ships be started for the continent.

Carried $7,000 Cash

Hoover said $7,000 in United States currency found on Bahr was to be used for his transportation, for obtaining military information and for "the loosening of tongues."

Foxworth added that Bahr had been furnished with a resume of history of a Jewish family which no longer could be traced so that if the money was found on Bahr, he could claim the family had given it to him to smuggle out of Germany.

The F.B.I: said Bahr was born in Klosperfelde, Germany, August 27, 1913, and came to the United States with his family in 1926, living in Buffalo. He went to Germany in 1938 as an exchange student and studied at a technical school at Hanover, where he received a degree.

The F.B.I. meanwhile continued its drive to wipe out the German-American Bund by arresting 11 more members in New York City to bring to 124, including 21 women, the number of prisoners taken in three days as dangerous enemy aliens.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Thorn Lord said in Newark he would present the evidence against Bahr to the Federal Grand ury on Tuesday and expected an indictment would be returned the same day.

and the real reason for the withdrawal of this information."

"I know, but that has not anything to do with me, Mr. Drew," said the magistrate. "The charge will be marked withdrawn."

Withdraws Consent.

As the court opened, a couple of minutes behind schedule, Mr. McCarthy told the magistrate:

"In this case, as counsel for the Attorney-General of Canada, I am withdrawing my consent to the prosecution of the accused under the Defence of Canada Regulations and as the court cannot proceed without my consent under these regulations I am at the same time withdrawing the information accordingly.

"This prosecution arises out of a statement made by the accused in regard to and dealing with a report made by the Royal Commission on wrat is commonly known as the 'Hong Kong Inquiry.'

"Since first advising in this case, matters have developed which in my opinion are of paramount importance, and which must be weighed along with the considerations which influenced the prosecution. There has been a widespread demand by members of Parliament, the public and the press for a full and free debate and discussion of the commissioner's report. That these discussions, either in Parliament, by the public or in the press cannot be freely and fairly carried on while these proceedings are in progress is obvious.

Protests By Hanson and Press

"This is well illustrated by a report in yesterday morning's press and today's morning press and in the copy of Hansard I now hold in my hand. While discussing the Prime Minister's promise that facilities for debating this question would be afforded to the House, the Hon. R. B. Hanson, the leader of the Opposition, took the position that 'the Government has taken every means in its power to frustrate debate by withholding evidence and from time to time resorting to an alleged rule that a certain inquiry is sub judice.'

"No doubt the inquiry referred to is the preliminary inquiry that is pending as a result of the information that has been laid in this case. That is true that it is sub judice. It is a well-established and traditional principle of British law that there should be no comment on or discussion of matters relating to judicial proceedings while they are pending. It is plain that if the commissioner's report is to be fully discussed in Parliament and in the press, as it should be, this principle of British law must inevitably be violated. Events that have taken place since the information was laid more than justify this conclusion.

Unfair To the Public

"On the one hand it is unfair to the public, members of Parliament and the press that they should be put in the position at this time either to refrain from discussion of this important public matter or to run the risk of committing a contempt of court, which is in itself a branch of the law. On the other hand, if these judicial proceedings are carried on while the debate in parliament and public discussion is taking place, it is obvious that the prosecution cannot continue in that freedom and independence that is so essential in the administration of justice.

"Therefore, weighting the importance of free parliamentary debate and public discussion as against the continuance of this prosecution, at a time when matters affecting the carying on of the war are of such vital importance, I am bound to come to the conclusion that it is in the public interest that this prosecution should be withdrawn."

The courtroom was comfortably filled but not crowded. Col. Drew was accompanied by his wife. Three of Col. Drew's Conservative colleagues in the legislature had front seats. They were: George Dunbar, Ottawa South; George Doucett, Lanark, and William Duckworth, Toronto Dovercourt.

235 miles of Stalingrad, industrial city of 388,000 on the lower Volga, as they were in their ill-fated thrust along the Aziv Sea coast to Rostov last fall.

Hundreds of thousands of Russian soldiers—veterans and reserves — were marshalled in the defence efforts.

The Soviet Information Bureau announced at midnight that the triangular invasion salient slashed 120 miles eastward to the Don near Voroneah was expanding roughly in the shape of a square with fighting southward in the Rossosh region.

"During July 9,' it said, "our troops continued stubborn battles to the west of Voronesh and in the area of the town of Rossosh."

Volga manufacturing centres and Caucasus oil were described officially as the Nazi goals in an exhortation to Soviet soldiers to hold their ground at any cost.

"Not one more step backward," the army newspaper Red Star urged. 'We cannot afford to yield another yard of Soviet soil."

Calling Units From France

At the same time the Information Bureau said heavy German losses had "compelled the Hitlerite clique to withdraw considerable forces from France and dispatch them to the East."

Russian soldiers on the Kalinin front were declared to have slain 4,000 Germans and destroyed 27 tanks and five armored cars in three days.

More than 500 Germans were killed and seven tanks were destroyed in three futile attacks upon a Red army defence zone west of Voronezh, a communique reported.

The main supply line of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's southern front forces, the Moscow-Voronezh-Rostov Railway, apparently is imminently threatened if not already cut by German bombardments or demolition squads in the Rossosh region.

Rossosh, with a population of 20,000, lies on the railway about 20 miles west of the curve which starts the Don's vast sweep to the southeast. The river, a 1,325-mile waterline of defence, cuts through the Steppes within 40 miles of Stalingrad and the Volga before turning southwestward to empty into the Azov Sea south of Rostov.

Rossosh is 200 miles due north of Rostov and 100 miles south of Voronezh. It is 150 miles directly east of Kharkov, the old steel centre converted by the Germans into a keystone headquarters of the southern front.

(The communique did not announce the jumping-off point for the Rossosh push, but the Germans had won an arc of bases on the Kharkov front curving up from Kuyyansk, 90 miles southwest of Rossosh, to Staryi Oskol, 100 miles northwest.)

While the deadly struggle developed south of Moscow, a motion picture of the 11-month defence of Leningrad, entitled 'Leningrad In Struggle," was exhibited before premiere audiences totalling 120,000 in the largest theatres of the capital. The films was asembled from shots by 23 cameramen.

Red fleet units were reported officially to have sunk two Axis transports and a tanker, totalling 22,000 tons, in the Baltic Sea.

Christus Is Fined $25 And Costs

Andrew Christus, who formerly lived on George street, was fined $25.00 and $2.50 costs for illegal possession of liquor by Magistrate R. B. Baxter, in city police court this morning. The charge was laid by Provincial Constable Price Morris and G. N. Gordon, K.C., appeared for Christus.

The charge followed a raid by provincial and city police on a service station booth on the Warsaw Road some time ago. At the time of the raid, the police seized 102 quarts of beer, and the court ordered this confiscated.

According to Mr. Gordon, Christus had laid in the supply of beer for a party which was to have been staged on July 1. He had been sleeping in the both, and therefore it was his residence.

However Christus pleaded guilty to the charge and Mr. Gordon pointed out it was the accused's first offence. Another charge of having liquor for sale was dismissed when the Crown offered no evidence.

Obituary

MRS. JOSEPH SHEEAN

The impressive tribute which is accorded those who pass on after this life has ended was paid in the fullest measure by the entire community as the funeral of Mrs. Joseph Sheean was held from the residence, lot 4, concession 2, Douro, Wednesday morning, to St. Joseph's Church, where requiem mass was offered by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy.

Also present in the sanctuary were Rev. W. Torpey, Iowa, an uncle of the deceased, and Rev. Joseph Collins of Trout Creek, Rev. James Collins of Parry Sound, Rev. Bernard Collins of Washington and Rev. K. Malone and Rev. James Walsh of Peterborough. After requiem mass, Rev. J. J. McCarthy delivered an appropriate address to the gathering of relatives and friends that almost filled the church. During the course of his address, the pastor spoke of the duties of a good Christian mother in the home, and how very few realize how great is the loss where a family of little children are left without the care of a mother.

The scores of spiritual and floral tokens showed the esteem in which the late Mrs. Sheean was held by the community. Rev. J. J. McCarthy, assisted by Rev. Joseph Collins, conducted the graveside services, and interment was made in St. Joseph's Cemetery.

Pall-bearers were her four brothers, Joseph, James, Gus and William Torpey, and brothers-in-law, Richard and Thomas Sheean. Friends and relatives were present from Toronto, Norwood, Port Hope, Peterborough, Hastings and Warkworth.

War Risk Bill Hears Enactment

Long Debate Draws Comparison With Reds' Desperate Case

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 10.—(CP). — A Government-sponsored plan for war risk damage insurance, introduced by Finance Minister Ilsley March 27, has been put through the committee stages and now stands for third reading.

Long debate on the measure's details yesterday brought from the Minister a comparison between Russia's desperate situation and lengthy discussions in the House over a matter of $50 involved in limitation of war risk claims.

There were several amendments in committee, all of them forecast in previous debates. One, which drew protest from Conservative House Leader Hanson and H. R. Jackman (Con. Toronto-Rosedale) had to do with charging war risk insurance premiums to business operating costs.

The original bill provided that these premiums could be deducted from business operating costs to the extent that total tax payable was diminished by 40 per cent. of the premium.

In the banking and commerce committee this was changed so that the entire premium could be charged to operating costs.

But that was before the budget increased the excess profits tax to 100 per cent. and Mr. Ilsley said that the effect would be that ninetenths of the corporations in Canada could deduct all their premiums from their excess profits tax.

He therefore had an amendment put through which restored the original limitation.

If Occupied by Owner

The bill provides free insurance for all residences up to $3,000 when the houses are occupied by their owners or are rented only because the owner is absent on war services.

Beyond that the Government, through co-operation with existing insurance companies, arranges for war risk insurance on all land properties with a few exceptions at a rate yet to be fixed.

Mr. Ilsley said he believed policies could be written within 30 days after the bill is pased. It now stands for third reading.

The House made some progress in committee late last night with Labor Minister Mitchell's vocational training bill which extends exist-

Radio Committee Questions Expense Accounts Of Murray

OTTAWA July 10.—(CP)—E. A. Pickering of Regina, former assistant to Gladstone Murray, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation general manager said in evidence before the House of Commons radio committee that expense accounts which had been submitted by Mr. Murray and questioned by the CBC treasurer had been paid by making a restored living allowance and increased travelling allowance retroactive.

Mr. Pickering said Mr. Murray also had claimed expenses for five days absence from Ottawa in Western Canada. He said that because of other engagements Mr. Murray had at that time he would have to make two separate flights to the west within a period of a few days to qualify for the five days' absence.

His evidence on expenses accounts was given at the request of M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. House leader. In earlier testimony today Mr. Pickering had outlined circumstances of his resignation from the CBC.

Differences With Murray

Questioned by Mr. Coldwell he said he had earlier differences with Mr. Murray but "preferred" not to discuss them.

Mr. Coldwell said he thought the witness sould be compelled to make a complete statement.

"Either the witness has said too much or too little," Gordon Graydon (Con. Peel) interjected.

Mr. Pickering then said that early in 1939, following a division of authity under which financial control of the CBC was given to Dr. Austin Frigon, assistant general manager, Mr. Murray had asked him to keep in daily touch with Treasurer Harry Baldwin, to maintain familiarity with financial affairs. Mr. Pickering was to report to Mr. Murray.

Mr. Pickering said in performing this duty certain matters were drawn to his attention by Mr. Baldwin and were reported to Mr. Murray.

$1,000 For Intelligence Work

In the year ending March 31, 1939, Mr. Murray put in vouchers for more than $1,000 for intelligence services. This was declared by the general manager to have been used in obtaining informatoin about plans "hostile to public service broadcasting," Mr. Pickering said.

No other details were provided and Mr. Murray was reimbursed directly. This payment was over and above his salary, allowances and travelling expenses. There was no authorization from the Board or budget allowance for the expenditure and Mr. Baldwin had said that attention had been drawn to it by the local representative of the auditor general, Mr. Pickering said.

Mr. Pickering said he advised the general manager of the cirmstances.

"Mr. Murray gave me to understand he recognized the danger of expenditures of this kind," Mr. Pickering said.

A short time later the treasurer informed him Mr. Murray had submitted in the period April to June, 1939, more items of special expenses for services in obtaining statistical and other information on the public reaction to CBC programs. The vouchers were not supported by other details and were submitted directly by the general manager and not through departments concerned.

Allowed To Stand

Mr. Pickering said he suggested to Mr. Murray who was just leaving for England, that these items might invited attention from the auditor-general and Mr. Murray agreed to allow them to stand during his absence.

During the summer of 1939 Mr. Murray's living allowance was restored and made retroactive and while Mr. Murray was still absent the treasurer suggested the claims should be withdrawn in view of the retroactive provision.

A few days after Mr. Murray's return the treasurer said the restored living allowance and an increase from $10 to $20 a day in travelling allowance while absent from base—also retroactive—had wiped out the vouchers.

"If this account was a proper one and the increased per diem allowance was justified, why was the account withdrawn?" Mr. Coldwell asked. "If it was an improper account why did they allow it to be wiped out in this way"

"I did not say these items were not accounted for," Mr. Pickering said. "I do not know the actual nature of the expenditures."

Mr. Pickering said he had suggested to Mr. Murray that vouchers for this type of expenditure should be initialed by the Board chairman but Mr. Murray did not accept the suggestion.

There was another occasion on which Mr. Baldwin discussed the matter of claims made by Mr. Murray for per diem allowance on absence from Ottawa but Mr. Pickering said he did not discuss this matter with Mr. Murray.

Following increase of the daily allowance from $10 to $20, Mr. Murray had submitted a revised statement of absences, some of which went back into the previous fiscal year and which would have had the effect of increasing payments to him under the revised allowance.

No Transportation Paid For

In this list he indicated he was absent from Ottawa for the period March 25 to April 6, 1939. The treasurer raised the point that no transportation had been purchased by the general manager during that period. Mr. Murray said the claim was for a trip to Western Canada and that transportation had been provided by the Transport Department without charge.

Mr. Baldwin had said that during the period Mr. Murray was supposed to be in Western Canada he had appeared before the Parliamentary Radio Committee in Ottawa. Mr. Murray again reviewed his diary and made a revised claim for only five days' absence.

"On examination the treasurer and I found it would have been impossible for the general manager to have been absent for five days in Western Canada during that period unless he made two separate trips by plane," Mr. Pickering said.

Mr. Pickering detailed appointments which he said Mr. Murray had filled in Ottawa in the period March 24 to April 6.

There were five days unaccounted for—March 29 to 31 and April 5 and 6—during which he might have been absent, the witness said.

Mr. Pickering said that at the time the discussion reached this point he felt he had lost the confidence of the general manager. He gave to Alan Plaunt, a member of the Board of Governors, a signed review of the facts concerning Mr. Murray's expenses.

In his earlier evidence Mr. Pickering said his resignation from the CBC followed differences with Mr. Murray.

Mr. Pickering said he had refused to let the general manager make me an agent in misrepresentation of the late Alan Plaunt."

(Mr. Plaunt, of Ottawa, a former CBS governor, had prepared a servey critical of the CBC management.)

Status Reduced

Mr. Murray in earlier evidence had said Mr. Pickering resigned when he was dissatisfied with the status of his position.

The real fact is that my views on certain matters had become unacceptable to the general manager," Mr. Pickering said. My status was reduced, giving me—as I believe he (Mr. Murray) intended—no alternative but to resign."

Mr. Pickering said in the course of his duties with the CBC he had made a study of political broadcasting in elections, which formed the basis of a polcy later announced. There appeared to be no reason why this policy should not be applied to provincial elections, he said.

At the outbreak of war, Mr. Pickering said, he had urged clarification of the position of the Board of Governors in wartime. He said he thought Mr. Murray would have preferred to have the Government take control of the CBC out of the hands of the Board of Governors.

United Counties Disputes Board's Account

Two cheques for the education of county students at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School in 1941 were received by the Board of clerk and treasurer of the County of Peterborough, for $9,452.05 as the balance of the account for last year. Miss Batten wrote that the full amount was paid under protest and conditional to a claim being made for the refund of any amount that might be determined to be an overpayment when the county's audit of the Board's books is completed. The special auditor engaged for this review was prevented from winding up his work by the necessity of reporting for military training at Camp Niagara.

One was from Miss J. A. Batten, Education last night.

The other cheque was from the clerk of the united counties of Northumberland and Durham for $2,993.69, although the account from the Board was for $3,322.09. Apparently Northumberland and Durham were declining to pay an amount presumably allowed by the school statues in a provision, mentioned in the discussion, that when the cost of the education of a pupil in the vocational department exceeded $150 and $125 in the academic a deduction could be made to the extent of one-half the excess amounts.

W. A. Anderson remarked that he considered Miss Batten was ill advised in making the full payment of the outstanding balance for the education of Peterborough County pupils. He said she was entitled to deduct $3,193.

The Board adopted a motion by G. W. Craw, seconded by Dr. C. M. Scott, referring the Northumberland-Durham payment to finance committee.

Salary Requests

A letter from Percy E. Telford, caretaker of the Prince of Wales School, applying for an increase "in the rate of his salary" was referred to the property committee. He mentioned that his duties had increased considerably since he was engaged five years ago.

An adjustment in their salary schedule was sought in a letter from the Women Teachers' Guild asking that the maximum be advanced to $2,000 from its present limit of $1,700. The Guild members of the Public School staffs referred especially to the increased cost of living. Their applicatoin was sent on to the ommittee on appointments.

Eleven of the men of the teaching staffs of the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School, who teach up to the twelfth grade, were signatories of a petition that their salary maximum be raised from the present sum of $2,700 to $3,000. Their letter pointed out that they were married men and heads of families, some with specialists' certificates, that they were facing an increased cost of living and higher income taxes, and that two of them were veterans of the Great War.

They also wrote that the teachers in the category of heads of departments received a maximum of $3,200, and that for the next upper grade included in the work of these teachers there should not be a corresponding difference of $500 in the salary maximum.

In regard to this appeal, it was said that some of these men had earned extra money by working overtime. T. J. Carley, K.C., remarked that there were women teachers in both brackets. On Mr. Melton's motion, seconded by G. H. Thompson, the petition was referred to the committee on appointments.

Health Committee

The report of the health committee, presented by Mrs. W. R. Morris, referred to a clause in a prior report by Dr. D. B. Avison, M.O.H., which she said was incorrect in some of its particulars.

Dr. Avison's reference was as follows: "On my recommendation the school boards of the city have passed complsory regulations for tuberculin skin tests on all teachers to be followed up by a physical and X-ray examination on positive reactors. The skin tests in the Public schools and Collegiate have been completed. Results will be reported later. The Board will be interested to know that in this matter we are just a step ahead of the province which is passing simiar legislation for the whole province. Quebec led the way in passing its legislation in this matter just recently."

The report of the health committee read by Mrs. Morris recommended that Dr. Avison be requested to furnish "this Board with the results of the T.B. tests made on the employees of the Collegiate. Also: "That in view of the evident mis-statement in Dr. Avison's report for May, 1942, pertaining to the skin tests for T.B., your committee feels that the actual motion which was passed recommending this test, and which reads as follows, should be conveyed to the Board of Health:

"That we recommend to the Board, that skin tests for Tuberculosis be a conditions of employment for all future employees, and that we also recommend that the present staff be advised that facilities for such tests are now available, and that their co-operation in availing themselves of this opportunity would be appreciated."

That your committee considers it advisable that those teachers showing a positive reaction in the recent T.B. tests, should avail themselves at an early date of the services of the Provincial Chest Clinic when it visits this city; said teachers being made aware of the fact that this service is free of charge, or if more preferable, to avail themselves of the services of their private medical adviser.

Your committee wishes to report, that the Chairman of this committee has been notified by the Medical Officer of Health, which has been confirmed by the chairman of the Board of Health, that the services of the school nurses will not be needed this summer, and the chairman of this committee has so notified the nurses."

"Money is no object," Mrs. Morris commented on completing her report.

"Then they don't want either of our nurses this summer?" D. V. Canning enquired.

Mrs. Morris said she had read in the press that the health authorities had decided not to make use of the services of the Board's nurses because Miss Deyell, one of them, had volunteered as a war nurse, and it was thought she might be called.

A.R.P. Proposal

The report of the supervision committee, submitted by Mr. Carley, recommended that all made members of our staff, including building supervisor and janitors, meet at an early date with Colonel Sloan and others in charge of local A.R.P. work, with a view to setting up an organization in the schools for A.R.P. purposes.

Your committee respectfully recommends that the secretary be granted one week's leave of absence to attend military camp, in addition to his usual vacation allowance.

Something New—Woman Tank Driver

Women are playing a more important part in the war every day. There are 1,000 women now taking the place of men at the Aberdeen proving grounds in Maryland, doing the hard work of driving tanks, testing guns, handling large cranes and other duties usually done by man. Here we see Ruth Gibson as she pops her smiling face out of a tank at you. Her job is driving tanks around the grounds and she is just as good as the man who drove it before her.

Three New Tigers

CALGARY, July 10—(CP). — A circus performance on the midway of the Calgary Exhibition and Stampede had to be cut short yesterday when a Bengal tiger, performing in the ring, gave girth to three cubs. They were named Red, White and Blue. The mother was brought to the United States by Frank Buck.

Kill 5,000 Jews

LONDON, July 10 — (CP). — Official Polish sources reported yesterday that the Nazis had killed the entire Jewish population of Rubieszow, a town in South-eastern Poland.

They described the town as of 15,000 to 20,00 inhabitants, of whom more than 5,000 were Jewish.

Cobourg Briefs

Customs returns for the Port of Cobourg for June amounted to $120,719.80 it was announced by D. H. Burn, collector of customs. The total for June last year was $93,869.31.

Fire Chief Dick Turpin of Cobourg has been appointed a member of the Credentials Committee for the 34th annual convention of the Dominion Fire Chiefs Association. The convention this year is being held at Kitchener in August.

Port Hope Lawn Bowling Club visited Cobourg last night for a mixed jitney held at the local greens.

Car Gets Decisive Verdict In Tug-of-War With Gas Pump

HASTINGS, July 10—(ENS). — Miss Margaret Lynch of Asphodel won her tug-of-war with a gas pump in front of Fred Stewart's garage.

The freak accident occurred when the bumper of the car Miss Lynch was driving caught the hose of the pump as she was preparing to turn around.

Thinking the car was stalled, she gave the vehicle "the gun," only to find to her amazement an overturned gas pump its delicate mechanism badly smashed, dragging behind.

Fred Stewart, owner of the garage, said the pump was improperly fastened and estimated the damage at $200.

Lavis Property Is Transferrer

COBOURG, July 10—(ENS)—Expropriated by the Parks Board, the Lavis property on the lake front was formally transferred over to the new owners this week by John Lavis. The price set by the judge was $3,500. The move to acquire the property was instituted some years ago but efforts to procure it were not successful until expropriation proceedings were taken. The town council made it clear at a meeting acquiescing to the wishes of the some weeks ago that they were Parks Board in that regard, only because they had no choice but to authorize the payment of the figure set by the expropriation court.

Under the terms of an agreement reached between the new owners and Mr. Lavis, the latter is to rent the property for the balance of the summer at a rental of $24 per month, representing interest at 2¾% of the Board's $3,500 investment in the property. In addition Mr. Lavis is to pay all taxes up to the 30th of September at which time his rental period expires.

Under the terms of the rental agreement, Mr. Lavis is to remove all his chattels and fishing equipment from the property by September 30 of this year. The Board pointed out that as Mr. Lavis has a large supply of ice on hand, and as he might have to stop his fishing for a time if he vacated at the present time, these facts were taken into consideration in renting the land to him for July and August.

The Far East

The importance of events in the Middle East has for some time prevented us from attempting an appraisal of the Far Eastern situation. Now that British and American forces in Libya appear to have at least an even chance of checking the German drive toward Suez it may be well for us in the Western World to turn our attention to the Japanese.

* * *

Because the Japs have had no striking successes for some weeks an idea appears to have grown up that they have been "stopped." Ever since Pearl Harbor there has been a dangerous tendency to underestimate this enemy; because the Japs are small and ugly we need not assume that they are contemptible as planners and fighters. They have, on the contrary, shown themselves clever and courageous, and quite capable of driving us out of positions which we had believed to be impregnable. Although they have not been able to do much damage to the Australian continent they have been busy in China, and have made some important advances there. Far from being "stopped" they are probably waiting for time to show them where it will be most advantageous to strike next. They may attempt an invasion of Australia; they may strike at India; or they may move against the Russians in Siberia. And there is always the chance that they might stage some large aerial attacks upon the western shores of this continent.

The Japs have not been doing well with their air attacks on Australia. Planes of the United Nations have roamed over an air-front of 2,000 miles, seeking out Japanese airdromes and concentrations of troops. During the last three months our bombers and fighters have destroyed or crippled 284 Japanese planes in the course of 125 raids. Air warfare has proved too costly for the Japs to attempt it on any large scale. So far as it is possible to judge from the reports available the Japanese planes are fairly good and their pilots daring and skilful; they are not, however, a match for the American and British flyers when these have a reasonable chance against them. The decrease in Japanese attacks is gratifying, but it is unwise to build any hopes upon it that Japan is weakening.

Japan's strength can best be appreciated when we consider that in five years she has conquered the greater part of the vastnesses of China. In that country she maintains an army which is estimated at more than half a million men and her total army is thought to number more than three millions. She is now in control of almost every useful Chinese port and holds great areas of the coastal provinces; thirteen provinces are in her hands and many of the most important means of communication. At present the Japanese are fighting with a good deal of success to gain complete control of the Chekiang-Kiangsi and Canton-Hankow railways and if they should succeed their task will be simpler in that they will be able to send supplies to Southeastern Asia by rail instead of by the present dangerous sea route.

The Chinese have made one of the great stands of history. Disorganized and hampered by the factionalism of their people, the Chinese have nevertheless held out for five long years, and of these they fought for four years without allies. Theirs has been a losing fight, and they have had to take such consolation as they could from the fact that they were losing slowly and were making the enemy pay heavily for every advance. China has been unable to fight back effectively and will not be able to do so until she has a safe route along which supplies may be shipped to her by the United Nations. Such a route might be established after a re-conquest of Burma, but there is little prospect of that for some time. Meanwhile, more and more of the riches of China are falling into Japanese hands; it is upon the resources of China that Japan builds her hopes of future extensive conquests. The Japs too have their dream of empire in which they, as a Master Race, shall hold all the East in subjection.

The United Nations have not even begun to deal effectively with the Japanese as yet, and it is extremely doubtful if they will be able to deal that enemy blows of more than local value before next year. We have struck the Japanese wherever possible and as hard as we could, and we have taken the offensive in the war of the air. But our strength is not sufficient as yet to warrant any belief that we are doing more than is necessary to hold our own. It is well that we should recognize this fact, and not dismiss the Japanese threat as something which will disappear once Germany is beaten. We shall have to beat the Japs on their own ground, and it will not be easy. Meanwhile they still have a marked advantage over us, and they are pressing our allies, the Chinese, harder every day.

Astounded Agriculturists

If we may judge from its official statements the Ontario Federation of Agriculture is a singularly unrealistic organization. "The Federation was astounded," we read, "by recent statements credited to Donald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, who told a recent delegation that the farmers would be fortunate if, at the end of the war, they found themselves in as good a position economically as they are at the moment. Mr. Gordon also expressed the opinion that agriculture could not become competitive in the labor market with industry."

The Federation, apparently, is easily astounded. Does any man of business expect to find himself in as good an economic position at the end of the war as that which he holds at present? Do we not all see belt-tightening, retrenchment, tooth-gritting and the silent shouldering of many burdens as our inevitable lot and our contribution to eventual victory? Is the Federation astounded because it is not going to make money out of this war?

Apparently the Federation thinks that we are fighting the war of 1914-18 over again. In those days the farmers did extremely well; their produce found a ready market and prices were high. This is quite a different war. Our merchant vessels are opposing a submarine risk far greater than any which existed in the first Great War, and they are not doing it in order that anyone may grow rich. Let the Federation be assured that the restrictions which are placed upon all businesses, including their own, are necessary, and are designed at least in part to prevent inflation, a calamity which would be as bad for agriculture as for other industries.

The complaint made by the Federation about the shortage of labor is understandable and will command the sympathy of other business men who are suffering from precisely the same shortage. Agricultural organizations have been predicting a food shortage, and some of them even appear to regard this calamity with a kind of melancholy pleasure as a judgment upon a wicked country which never appreciated them. Not all, however; the whole country must be grateful to the dairy and cheese industry, which has taken good times and bad in a thoroughly patriotic and co-operative spirit. But we are by no means convinced of the participation of all agriculture in our country's war effort. This impatience with conditions which arise from the times points to a self-interest which is not allied to the interest of the country as a whole. This war has made things hard for everybody, not merely for agriculture, and astonished protests and predictions of food shortages can do no good. We all, not only the farmers, have to make two blades of grass grow where one grew before, and we have to do it with half as much labor as the work demands.

Canada Needs A Theatre

(By G. DICKSON-KENWIN in the Toronto Globe and Mail)

WHILE it is true that Toronto and other important Canadian centres of culture have organized local committees to take care of the entertainment of troops in training on the home front, there is a lamentable lack of any serious and purposeful concerted effort in this direction. There apparently exists no competent and professional leadership in the Canadian theatre, and during the last decade the whole framework of histrionic enterprise throughout the Dominion has been lessened in quantity, value, excellence and strength.

Nearly twenty years ago Toronto started to demolish its legitimate playhouses, one by one, and this was a very shortsighted policy on the part of business authorities, who, because of their lack of foresight into the immense economic possibilities of organized drama for the people, have allowed a great force for good to almost disappear from our midst. There have been many outstanding and unselfish pioneers of the theatre who have given their full time and experience to the building up of the Canadian stage, and one by one their work has been belittled and they have been ridiculed and persecuted by those who regard the theatre merely as a social pastime and a plaything for the wealthy. The consequence of this is that the younger generation of today has lost the theatre-sense and has little respectful regard for the noble traditions of the flesh-and-blood drama. It is quite useless to continue with the parrot cry, "The motion pictures have ruined the theatre." Nothing can ever destroy the potentiality for national advance, of histrionic art! The theatre for generations has been the mainstay of morale and pleasurable education in the life of civilized communists, and has been largely responsible for the economic structure of nations.

It is absurd to suppose that a great tradition can be utterly destroyed by a handful of thoughtless but well-meaning people. The fact that the Dominion Drama Festival ceased its operations at the outset of the war has proved that the organizers of the plan have not understood the true value of the drama as it can be applied nationally to the good of the people. The national or people's theatre should not depend upon the good-will of a few chosen social and financially elite; it should be a sound business structure, controlled by competent people and run by professional artists and those who have had organizing and promotion experience.

Nothing really useful can be done as long as the present "hit-and-run" system of theatre exists. Little Theatre movements and the activities of local dramatic clubs are very necessary, but they cannot lead to any real result which would be of any real value to the people of Canada as a whole—as a nation. The attitude of mind toward the theatre and its possibilities must be changed, and this can only be done by a friendly purge and by the attaining of some measure of moral support, and perhaps some financial support from the Federal Government. The Canadian press could lend its valuable support to a reorganization and reshuffle of the whole histrionic situation.

This is not the time, of course, to give too much attention to the affairs of the theatre, as it should be organized during days of peace. But there exists great and useful opportunities to do something in connection with organized entertainment for the troops. The production of good plays, well acted and well directed by professional men and women, or by those who really appreciate the traditions of the drama and who value the executive and organizing abilities of those great masters of the theatre who have departed from us. The troops in training are clamoring for good plays, and they are willing to pay a reasonable fee to witness them. Stage artists cannot be expected to give their professional services entirely free. The stage is their livelihood and they should not be asked to do so. The military authorities themselves are in favor of having good plays for the soldiers, sailors and airmen, and they are of the opinion that nominal charges should be made. Certain forms of charitable enterprise can insult the intelligence of audiences and do much harm to personal pride and morale. Surely the all-out war effort which Canada is making should include first-class amusement and relaxation for the fighting men. It is true that in Montreal there exists the M.R.T., established by the late Martha Allen, who was always a great pioneer of the British drama. In Toronto we have the Citizens' Committee and hosts of minor clubs and organizations who tumble over each other in their efforts to provide entertainment at the camps. But there is no organization or discipline among these well-meaning and estimable people. Can we point to one person in the control of these organizations who has had real, hard experience of the ups and downs and vicissitudes of the stage?

The nation's theatre should not be based on a foundation of social distinction; if it is the whole edifice will crumble and be absolutely useless as a force for the people. Why are our Canadian business men so short-sighted when it is a question of organizing the Canadian theatre? Cannot they see that thousands of dollars have been taken out of the country by visiting companies? Cannot they realize that Canada has been losing its dramatic talent continually for ten years? Do not they understand that year after year great stage artists have gone back to their homelands thoroughly disgusted and ruined because of lack of support? It is most regrettable that all this has earned for Canada the title of "The graveyard of theatrical hopes." This is what they say in the theatre clubs of London and New York. But, unfortunately, many misguided theatre people find all this out when it is too late.

Something would soon be done if the right Canadian eyes were opened. Something will be done, and the opportunity is right here now, for we have vast audiences in uniform, ready to welcome the theatrical fare which could be offered them. Then when peace is restored the foundation would have been properly laid for an expansion of a true national theatre, for the people, by the people, and with the people.

Grim Job Ahead

General Somervell, of the United States Army, tells a group of Michigan industrialists that "we can't win with boastful headlines, with slogans, alibis, threats or promises. We have taken a terrific shellacking all around the globe, and there is a grim job ahead of us to win."

"UNOFFICIAL SPOKESMEN"

Tough Going Faces Nazis

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON Associated Press War Analyst

GERMAN reports from the critical Don front in Russia have reverted from specific claims to sweeping generalizations, lending color to Red contentions that Hitler's mightiest offensive effort of the year has been slowed down if not halted within less than two weeks of its onset.

It is much too soon, however, to conclude that the crisis in the Battle of the Don has been reached or passed, though Nazi difficulties must be increasing.

The length of front around the Nazi bulge to the Don from Kursk on the north to Kupyansk in the south is about 300 miles so far as it can be determined. The airline distance between Kursk and Kupyansk is about half that mileage. The fighting front, then, has doubled in length, meaning both armies have had to draw heavily on reserves to man the additional mileage.

But for the fact that Russian armies of the Centre or Moscow area, above the Kursk-Voronezh railroad and German break-through point, are still to be reckoned with, Marshal Timoshenko's position would be much worse than that of his Nazi foes. He holds the exterior long-way-round lines, while the Germans hold the interior communications within the Kursk-Don-Kupyansk triangle.

Even so, armies of the size of those Hitler has thrown into the Don bulge require a tremendous daily flow of supplies and equipment. The military weakness of the sector through which the Germans are seeking to drive a wedge between Russian armies of the South and Centre is its lack of east-west railroads or good highways.

There are but two such rail lines, the Kursk-Voronezh Road and the Kupyansk-Liski line, which reaches the Don fifty miles south of Voronezh. There are not even any through highways on available Russian maps, and the farther east and south the Germans progress, the more difficult becomes the terrain.

Moscow announced evacuation of Staryi Oskol before Berlin could claim its capture by assault. Just how deep a Rusian withdrawal was involved is not indicated. It seems probable, however, his lines from the Don breach to Kupyansk and that in order both to shorten and strengthen to take advantage of natural defense positions, Timoshenko has fallen back to the Oskol River Valley.

Like the Don front in the Voronezh-Liski sector, the Oskol River line southwest of it is backed by successive lesser water courses and the Steppes are studded increasingly with small hills rising several hundred feet above the general level of the rough country about them.

Out of this can be deduced the fact that while the Germans have driven to the Don on an apparently narrow front west of Voronezh, they are now facing both to the east and to the south more difficult ground than they have yet traversed in the break-through battle. They are also probably feeling the strain of an utterly inadequate communication system with the rear to sustain so huge a force as is involved.

Unless they can drive Timoshenko from his indicated Oskol River front or turn that position down the Don from the north to get possession and use of the Kupyansk-Liski railroad, the whole Nazi effort could bog down short of any decisive rupture in the Russian front from Moscow to the Sea of Azov and the gateways to the Caucasus.

Washington Spotlight

By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, July 10—(CP).—One of the first publications issued by Elmer Davis, recently-appointed Director of the Office of War Information, is an 11-page pamphlet entitled "Unconquered People," describing, on the basis of secret and underground information, the wide extent of European resistance to the Nazis.

It is calculated to give Americans a deep respect for their oppressed Allies on the Dark Continent, increase the degree of hatred for Nazi methods and stir in Americans a new sense of the importance of Allied offensive action in Europe.

The pamphlet shows how Europe is fighting back and how the original small fires of resistance have grown into such major developments as open warfare in the Yugoslav hills by Gen. Mikhailovitch and his forces; slowdowns in factories making arms for the Nazis, often involving thousands of workers; the publication of hundreds of secret newspapers; the wrecking of trains, the puncturing of oil tanks and other acts of sabotage.

There are stories from every quarter of the Continent.

"Out of the misery of the occupation a new body of humor has arisen—the resistance joke.

"Like the songs sung by the troubadors, these stories spread from the top of Norway to the tip of Greece, varying in content but similar in framework and always reflecting a sense of humor that manages to function under adversity and make a butt of the oppressor.

"For example, there's the one about the Nazi soldiers who got drunk in a Norwegian coastal village, commendeered a car and drove wildly through the streets. Finally they careened down a dark pier and into the sea, promptly sinking. The Gestapo questioned an old fisherwoman at the end of the pier.

"'Did you see the car coming?' they asked her.

"'Yes,' she said.

"'Well, why didn't you stop it,' they demanded.

"'Why should I?' asked the old lady, shrugging her shoulders. 'I though they were on their way to England.'"

ISOLATION AND THE NAVY.

The American people may not understand the historic implications at the moment but sometime between 1944 and 1946 the United States will emerge with the biggest navy in all history, bigger, probably, than any combination of navies. But more than one asute man in Washington, when the recent authorization bill went through Congress and was signed by the President, said quietly to himself, "There goes the end of isolation for all time to come."

For better or for worse, when the navy comes off the ways, the United States, once the most isolationist of big powers, will have the major say in world affairs because it will have the power to open the seas to peaceful commerce, economic and social freedom or close them just as readily to would-be aggressors. That has been the inevitable history of all great naval powers.

HELPING THE AXIS.

Workers in a big Detroit plant engaged on war contracts, when they take a day off, find in their pay envelope a German banknote and this words of explanation:

"The extra pay enclosed is your reward for failing to report for work one day last week.

"This money comes from a country that is glad to pay you not to make supplies for our soldiers.

"When you don't work, you work for the enemy."

It won't be the fault of the United States War Department if American soldiers haven't a sound fundamental knowledge of the underlying character of this war, a war of freedom, a war of the people, a revolution on a world scale against the forces of tyranny, enslavement and impoverishment.

FORUM FOR SOLDIERS.

Three nights a week professors, newspapermen, diplomats, radio commentators and others conversant with world affairs address officers and men in their camps. They describe and interpret current events, the causes of the war and its devious courses.

CAPITAL TRIVIA.

If Prime Minister Churchill wants to reprimand someone for the flood of optimistic reports that came out of Cairo before the defeat of the British 8th Army in Libya, he can select his own son, Randolph, who was press relations officer there...The United States is spending $4,000,000,000 a month on the war and has total war commitments of $200,000,000,000. If you are dazzled by that row of ciphers, it represents more dollars than the United States spent from the days of the 12 colonies to the outbreak of this war...All the talk of State Secretary Cordell Hull, War Secretary Henry Stimson and Navy Secretary Frank Knox resigning to make room for younger men, has died down.

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

JULY 10

1912 Last week is reported the hottest week in a hundred years, six days all running over 92 degrees.

A Bible Message For Today

((From The Authorized Version)

NOW when Jesus had heard that John was cast into prison, he departed into Galilee; and leaving Nazareth, he came and dwelt in Capernaum, which is upon the sea coast, in the borders of Zabulon and Nephthalim: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by Esaias the prophet, saying...The people which sat in darkness saw great light; and to them which sat in the region and shadow of death light is sprung up.—Matt. iv., 12-14, 16.

AND seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him; and he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying...

Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid. Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.—Matt. v., 1, 2, 14-16

The Gay English

MR. LYTTELTON'S recent expression of hope that after the war we should become again a "gay" people would have seemed entirely right to our ancestors and to the critics of their ancestors. It is long perhaps since we thought of ourselves as "gay," but Mr. H. W. C. Davis, in writing of Mediaeval England, pionted out that under the Normans and Angevins the "gaiety of the Englishman was as notorious as that Nature had endowed him with a tail. Foreign critics reproach him with his levity as compared with French gravity." A contemporary record has it that" nowhere are faces more joyous at the board or hosts more eager to please or entertainments more sumptuous. By nature the Englishman is liberal, his hand is always extended to the aged and the bent. He is never weary of giving. In conversation he claps his hands, waves his arms, gesticulates, or, for variety, talks on his fingers. At one moment he struts like a peacock; at another he blusters like a gamecock."

As for the tail, Admiral Darlan's message to Magagascar makes it pretty clear that he, at least, would give us horns as well. For the rest, it appears that the circle will be completed before the end of the 20th century, if Mr. Lyttelton's hopes are realized, and the Briton of 1950 will become again the gay Englishman of 1150.

When Mussolini Decamps

MUSSOLINI continues to prepare for a future in exile. He is buying through an intermediary in Switzerland a house and estate just outside Lucerne. It is known as "Chateau d'Ete," and 20 acres of land go with it.

News of this deal has been publicly announced in Spain but suppressed in Italy, though it is common talk in Rome. Italian Foreign Office is lodging a complaint about the revelation, which is increasing Italian restiveness.

We revealed some time ago that Mussolini had added to his deposit of foreign currency in Switzerland. We learn this now amounts to about £150,000. It has been increased by transfer of deposits brought from South American countries that have broken relations with the Axis.—London Daily Sketch.

105,000 Uniformed Men Treated In Hospitals Of Pensions Dept.

Since the beginning of the war, 105,000 men in uniform have been treated in the hospitals of the Department of Pensions and National Health. These men have been cared for by medical officers of the Department. Hundreds of thousands of men have been examined by X-ray. Hearts and lungs have been tested and all this has been possible because the hospitals of the Department were in operation in strategic points before September, 1939.

All the extra burden of war work has been accepted by the Department while it maintains its duties as in peacetime. The research continues. The hospitalization and health conservation of the nation continue and all the equipment and trained personnel are at the disposal of the Department of National Defence.

Now a new task has been set for the Department. The task of treating men to raise their physical standards to a point where they will be acceptable to the Army.

Assists All Forces.

The naval, military and air authorities have been guided by the Department's Public Health Engineering and Industrial Hygene Divisions. And industries entering war work have been helped as well.

The work of the Department of Pensions and National Health has not all been on the surface. Other contributions have been made by laboratory personnel in the nutrition field, in the manufacture and control of immunizing biologicals, and treatment biologicals. The psychiatrists of the Department have co-operated with the heads of the armed forces. The narcotic division has met special wartime problems, it has continued to control the importation, manufacture, sale and distribution of narcotics. The quarantine division, the immigration, medical and sick mariners' services has been more active than ever because of increased shipping.

The Department's staff of investigators have kept abreast of their peacetime activities, and have collected data on tens of thousands of dependents of men in the armed forces. Data which is required by the Dependents' Allowance Board before a decision may be made on the elegibility of the claim.

Organized A.R.P. Work

Air raid precautions work has been organized by the Department, and provision for supplies made valuing more than $4,000,000. Financial aid has been given by the Department in the purchasing and installation of drying equipment used in processing human blood. Eight thousand bottles of the blood have already been sent to Great Britain, and two thousand bottles have been placed at strategic points in Canada. Approximately 15,000 bottles have been made available to the Canadian Department of National Defence for use in the armed forces, at home and abroad.

In addition to all the work to be of benefit to the soldier and civilian alike, the Department has been actively engaged in providing for the soldier's future. Beneficial legislation has already been passed. Legislation which will make the soldiers' homecoming a more than ever welcome event. The Department of Pensions and National Health is looking after the Canadian fighting men, his family, and his future, and it is helping to build a strong fighting spirit.

Nazi Vengeance

Montreal, July 10 (CP).

INFORMATION received by the Norwegian Press Bureau here said today that all houses on the island of Bulandet in the western coastal region north of Bergen, Norway, have been set on fire and wiped out by the Germans.

The announcement said that the population of the island, a key point for herring fisheries, have been deported and part of the male population arrested. No reason was given for this new act of terror, the Press Bureau said.

TOBACCO BOOSTING

Armenia's tobacco producing area has been expanded by one-quarter this year.

Anti-Nazi Feeling Runs High In Colombia

This picture was made at the height of the anti-Nazi riot that broke out June 27 in Barranquilla, Columbia, outside the business establishments of several German concerns. Here officials are attempting to break up the fist-swinging crowd in front of Quimica Bayer, Colombian branch of a German concern. Window smashing was the principal damage, aside from broken heads.

500 Ships Been Used To Transport Men Overseas

Since the beginning of the war, almost 500 ships carrying varying numbers of troops have been transported safely overseas and nearly 300 ships have carried troops back to Canada. All this, and a lot more, has been accomplished by the Movement Control organization of the army.

The "Movement Control" acts as an intermediary between the army and all non-military transport agencies, in particular the Railways and Sea Transport. In Canada the organization acts directly under the Q.M.G. through the Directorate of Supplies and Transport.

At National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa is a small staff which co-ordinates and arranges for all outward overses movement of personnel, the dis-embarkation of personnel from overseas and their journeys to their destinations in Canada, the overseas movement of stores and equipment and internal movement of personnel and equipment in the Dominion, excepting small miscellaneous movements of a "domestic" nature.

Working directly under the orders of the Directorate of Supplies and Transport at National Defence Headquarters there are Embarkation Staffs at the Ports and there are District Supply and Transport Officers with each command and district.

There is, too, close liaison with the Railway Companies, with Naval Service Headquarters, with the Transport Controller of the Department of Transport of Canada, with the British Ministry of War Transport through their Traffic Controller in Canada, and with the Movement Control organizations of the War office and Canadian Military Headquarters in London.

Secrecy Observed

Secrecy, Safety and Speed are the basic considerations. Every discretion must be exercised by all connected with Movement Control. Names of Ships, names of Ports, names of Units and their locations are never referred to 'in clear'. A code number or some such disguise is invariably used. A casual listener-in to our of our cryptic telephone conversations would imagine he had strayed into a mental hospital.

Actually the telephone is seldom used outside National Defence Headquarters or to well-known callers. There is a teletype intercommunication with the Ports and Atlantic Command which will, no doubt, be developed throughout the Dominion. All messages overseas and Radio messages to distant districts are, of course, despatched in cipher.

Results to Date

Without giving away any military secrets it can be stated that the results since the outbreak of hostilities to date are by no means inconsiderable. Our records show that the organization has handled the following:—

(a) Upwards of 500 ships carrying varying numbers of personnel oversets.

(b) Upwards of 300 ships carrying personnel to Canada from overseas.

(c) Over 600 special troop trains.

(d) Freight shipments on nearly 1,000 cargo stilings.

In this last connection the peak month shows nearly 20,000 tons of freight shipped overseas. This freight is composed of such varied articles as auto parts, gun parts, tools, tanks, carriers, Medical stores, Dental supplies, typewriters, stationery, etc., etc.

With regard to personnel, there again a great deal of co-ordination is required. Personnel dealt with include R.N., R.C.N., Canadian Army going overseas, Invalided Canadian Army and Stretcher Cases returning from overseas, Imperial Army, R.A.F., R.C.A.F., Belgian, Polish and Netherlands forces who have been recruited and trained in Canada, Merchant Seamen, Distress Merchant Seamen from torpedoed vessels, Priority Technicians, Social workers, Lumbermen from Newfoundland, Prisoners of War, Fire Fighters, etc., etc.

When the special trains have completed their run, the ships are berthed, the returning sick are safely back home, and the Prisoners of War are behind barbed wire, even then the work of Movement Control is by no means over. Records have to be kept of every individual embarked or disembarked, accounts are checked and passed for payment for the use of railway equipment and for the transportation incurred by Y.M.C.A., Canadian Red Cross and kindred organizations sending workers overseas.

It is often said that Movement Control will be one of the last organizations to be wound up when the war is over. There will be months of hard work still to do in bringing the men back home and in the utilization of the amassed materials of war. However, there won't be the strain, the need for secrecy, and the urgency of the years of war.

Soon Get Sea Legs.

Soldiers lose little time getting their sea-legs after boarding a convoy ship. It's not altogether a pleasure cruise across the Atlantic for them—they also have work to do

Less than an hour after they have left the trains that brought them from all sections of the Dominion to a coastal port, they have stowed their kitbags in their allotted space aboard ship and are learning the routine that will keep them busy until they are welcomed at a British port and whisked inland to training areas.

Immediately after embarkation, sentries are posted on all gangways with instructions to allow none of the troops to go ashore without orders from the Officer Commanding and no one, other than ship personnel, to go aboard unless in possession of a ship pass isued by the Embarkation Commandant.

The Captain of th eship is supreme at sea in matters relating to the ship and its navigation. The Officer Commanding the troops aboard the ship works in close co-operation with the ship's Master and other officials so that no matter how wild the waves roar there's smooth sailing insofar as duties and responsibilities are concerned. Generally, the Captain of the shtip is responsible for getting his passengers across the Atlantic and the troops do everything in their power to assist him in this job.

Some days prior to the date set for Embarkation, Officers Commanding troops on board vessels have been selected and have reported to the Embarkation Commandant. These Officers art instructed as to their duties aboard ship, select their staffs and generally complete their organization prior to the arrival of the troops.

Army Movement Control, the department of the Quatermaster-General's Branch of the Department of National Defence, which organizes and supervises the movement of troops in Canada, still exercise certain control over the troops, now that they are aboard ship.

Given Sealed Orders.

Sealed orders to the Officer Commanding the troops aboard ship are handed to him at the embarkation port. In them are detailed duties of the troops under his charge, their dalaly routine and the training to be carried out during the voyage.

Fire drills and duties in case of collision are outlined in detail and in this connection the Officer Commandng works in collaboration with the Captain of the ship.

Troops co-operate with the ship's crew to keep their quarters clean and each piece of military equipment is checked to see that is is kept in good working condition and not affected by the salt spray from the ocean.

Reveille is at 6.00 A.M and breakfast at 7 15, then all cleaning fatigues parade and the decks allotted to the troops are cleared. There is a general parade and in physical training are undergone in the afternoon and supper is at 5.00 p.m. A maximum of five hours, including not more than one hour's lectures, is devoted daily to training Organized games and sports such as boxing and tug-of-war are carried out so far as facilities permit.

Military training, lectures and inspection at 10.00 a.m. and dinner at noon.

Maintain Lookouts.

After supper there are training and recreational periods. Day and night the troops aboard the ship maintain guards and lookouts and regulations regarding lights and activities aboard are strict. No chances are taken when men's lives are at stake'

On the administration side, the medical re-examination of all ranks is completed and vaccinations and inoculations checked.

Detailed organization of units down to the smallest sub-unit is completed and every platoon, section or equivalent sub-units commander makes a nominal roll, or list, of the men under his command. Records and documents of the units concerned are checked.

The need for secrecy at all times in connection with the location and movements of troops both in conversation and correspondence is stressed to all ranks. Censorship war is explained to the troops so that they will not put details in their personal correspondence which will require to be deleted by tre censor.

Recreational Facilities

But it's not all work and no play. To keep Private Jack Canuck from being a dull boy the recreational facilities aboard convoy ships are as complete as possible consdering the circumstances. Besides organized sport on deck and below, rooms are set aside for games and books.

And just before 'lights out' is sounded there are usually plenty of old-fashioned 'bull sessions' in various quarters where tall tales are told and future events depicted with the skill of born story tellers. Keeping up the traditions of their fathers who made the same trip a quarter-century ago, men of Canada's new Army, eager for action, find time for both work and fun while sailing towards the enemy.

NEUTRAL'S WAR BOOM

Residential building in 13 of Sweden's largest cities is already double that of 1941.

Portable Police Court Is In Use At Newmarket, Ont.

NEWMARKET, July 10.—Unique in portable Police Courts in a country famed for improvization, is a full-size Magistrate's bench, with dais and lamp standards, a witness box, court reporter's desk and prisoner's rail which is in use here and which may be moved at will.

Wishing to follow the dignity and solemnity for which British courts of justice are famed, Newmarket faced the problem of not having a court house, or permanent quarters, and was forced to move back and forth between the Town Hall and the Council Chamber. It was impossible to construct permanent fixtures.

The idea of a plain table, around which magistrate, clerk, court reporter, counsels prisoners, witnesses and press all sat, had rankled Chief Constable James Sloss for years. Recently, he could stand it no longer and got busy with pen and paper to design a portable court. The results of his work now stand in the Town Hall, although the portable fixtures are not yet quite complete. In the winter time, when the Town Hall is too cold to use, the court will be picked up in its units and transferred to the Council Chamber.

Along with the new portable fixtures came changes in court procedure. Previously, procedure had been more or less informal but now regular court conrtesy is being followed.

Ottawa Cannon Irk St. Thomas

OTTAWA, July 10 — (CP).—If a letter received by Controller C. E. Pickering of Ottawa from J. F. McCallum of St. Thomas, Ont., is any indication, Ottawa's ornamental cannon are not helping to win the present war.

The letter, read yesterday by Mr. Pickering at a meeting of the Ottawa civic war salvage committee of which he is crairman, said St. Thomas town council had decided to give to salvage collectors a German field gun captured in the First Great War.

Then a St. Thomas councillor came to Ottawa and saw the capital "fairly studded with historical cannon." The result was, said the letter, that the St. Thomas town council decided to rescind its motion and keep the cannon as a souvenir.

PLAZAS WHIP ST. PETER'S 17-10

Benefit Game Will Aid Injured Players

In an entertaining slugfest, Plazas, Senior Softball League leaders, downed St. Peter's, Catholic League pacemakers, 17-10 at Riverside Park on Thursday evening before one of the largest softball crowds of the season. The game arranged between the two league leaders was staged to raise funds to pay off doctor and hospital bills incured by two players on Catholic League teams, who had sustained fractures in ball games, and it is confidently expected when all ticket returns are in that the money will make a substantial reduction in the two players' expenses.

The crowd exceeded the usual turnout to a City League fixture, and the fans, who chipped in just ten cents apiece for the game and five draw prizes, got more than full value for their money. Plazas showed more power at bat than their lighter opponents, but were shaded in the fielding by the smooth working Saints, who chalked up just two errors in the nine innings of fast softball.

Parsons pitched the entire game for the winners, and held the Saints scoreless for the first two frames, but from that time on they hit him freely, bingling fourteen safeties into the garden. They had a good chance to go places in the fifth when they sent four runs in and crept up to within one run of the Plazas. The Saints added a couple more in the sixth, when Honey Tompkins blasted out a homer, but they went down in order in the seventh and eighth. In the ninth, the Saints made another bid for victory when Garvey, first batter, cracked out a four-bagger, and Prete and Fr. Wolff both singled. The best they could do, however, was two runs.

Misjudgment of a long fly by Herr in centre gave the Plazas two runs in the first, and the big team added one in the second and two in the third. As the game progressed they took a liking to Cavanagh's slow ball, and pounded some terrific clouts into the outfield. Julian Wade smacked two home runs in succession, Parsons had a double and two singles and Blewett had a couple of triples. Eddie Starr poled out a double and two singles, and Crowe had the same.

Parsons had five strike-outs and walked none, while Cavanagh fanned three and issued six free trips to first base. Most of the hits were clean, well placed hits, and the only double play of the game came in the third when Heal took Cavanagh's fast grounder to throw out Perdue at second and Crowe snapped the ball across to Ellis for the second put-out.

Fred Scates made the draw for the gate prizes, and the winners were as follows: $6.00 in cash, donated by the Sacred Heart ball teams, was won by K. Drury; an end table donated by B. Swartz, was won by Evans Moore; W. J. Gill won the Yardley shaving set, donated by the Canadian Department Stores; Mrs. Kinmond won the running shoes, donated by the Neill Shoe Store; and Gladys Perdue won the shirt and tie, donated by Vern Selkirk and Max Board.

The girls' softball game was postponed at the last minute so as not to interfere with the benefit game, and the majority of the fans who attend the girls' games regularly walked down to Riverside to swell the crowd at that game. The postponed girls' game will be played on Friday evening, and that same evening St. Peter's meet Sacred Heart and the Luckies tangles with the Plazas.

PORT HOPE, July 10—(ENS)—The Beavers practically cinched first place in the Town League by defeating the second place Rascals, 2 to 1 in a well played game. The losers tallied in the second on Blow's single. They loaded the bases in the sixth and seventh but failed to score. A smart double play by Beavers ended the game.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALLAN NICKELSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10.—(CP).—Hard-luck gent of the British boxing appears to be that old Swansea heavyweight, Jim Wilde. Considered past fighting prime, he thought his great opportunity had arrived when he pulled a big upset a couple of months ago in whipping young Al Robinson, a 6-1 favorite. Promoters, however, didn't appear interested until the other day when he was signed to meet Tommy Reddington in a main bout.

Then Wilde injured a toe while working on the docks. Poison set in. Robinson will fight Reddington in Jim's stead.

One of Freddie Mills' sparring partners for his crown-winning fight against Len Harvey was Nat Franks, a middleweight who "died" after a bout 10 years ago. Franks was felled by a heavy blow over the heart. He recovered consciousness 20 minutes later in his dressing room and was told he'd been a corpse for two minutes. The attending physician said his heart had stopped and that only massage by attendants started it ticking again.

Sgt Arthur Danahar of the Irish Guards pranced into line for another shot at Erne Roderick's British welterweight title by outpointing Sgt. Harry Mizler of the R.A.F. in a London bout. Roderick has beaten Danahar and Mizler once each.

Just to get away from the ring for a minute (and who was it said British boxing would suffer because of doubled wartime entertainment tax?) here's something that gladdens the pounding heart of a race-horse trainer. Just before racing opened at Pontefract, Trainer T. Hall was bemoaning his luck. He hadn't had a winner all season. So what happens? You guessed—his horses won four of seven races.

One of Turfdom's several surprises of the years came at Salisbury when last year's Derby king, Owen Tudor, lost handily to R. C. Dawson's four-year-old Mabarin in the 1½-mile Quidhampton Plate. A heavy favorite, Owen Tudor could finish no better than sixth in a field of seven. He's been an easy winner over the same distance last May and one of his victims was Mazarin.

Slivers: The D.F.C. has been awarded Sqdn. Ldr. C. E. Malfroy, New Zealand Davis Cup tennis star and Cambridge Blue who up until a few months ago commanded an R.C.A.F. Spitfire squadron. He was a prominent figure around Wimbledon in pre-war days and still engages in charity exhibitions about London. 15,000 spectators watched the R.A.F. defeat the Army by seven wickets in a cricket match at famed Lords. Seven test players performed for the airmen and five for the Army in the game devoted to war charities. News has reached London of the death at Melbourne of Canon Ernest Selwyn Hughes, 82, president of the Melbourne Cricket Club and of the Victoria Cricket Association.

Whipper Watson The Winnah Dusek Too Rough

TORONTO, July 10 — Whipper William Watson, the pride of the local chapter of The Legion of Decency, retained his British Empire wrestling championship at Maple Leaf Gardens last night under circumstances of violence which incensed the spectators to the extent that they were gnawing avidly on the ring ropes.

When Watson was finally acclaimed as the winner over Rowdy Rudy Dusek there were more people in the ring than you'd see on the stage in the finale of one of the most extravagant editions of the Ziegfield Follies.

Watson won via the disqualification route after 32 minutes of sanguinary scrambling during which Dusek bopped the local gent with everything except the safe in Promoter Frank Tunney's office. Mr. Watson withstood these assaults with nonchalance and aplomb and finally, in an access of disgust, Dusek picked up Watson and dumped him on top of Referee Bunny Dunlop who crashed to the mat as if someone had sloshed him across the chops with a side of beef.

Carried Away

Willing hands carried Dunlop to the dressing-rooms, while approximately thirty of the better-known members of the local wrestling fraternity clambered into the ring to separate the struggling gladiators.

Meanwhile, word was flashed from the dressing-room that, just before he lapsed into unconsciousness, Dunlop had whispered: "Watson win—Dusek is disqualified!" Before passing into complete oblivion, Dunlop had the foresight to croak: "Has anybody got a cool bottle of beer?"

It was quite an evening for the 5,000 fans, with Jean Baptiste Pusie signalizing his return to the wrestling abbatoirs by scuppering Les Ryan. Pusie made several scintillating speeches to the audience and then subdued Ryan with a running broad jump which never has been approached with the exception of the day that Jesse Owens leaped approximately twenty-seven feet at the 1936 Olympic Games.

Here are the results:

Main Bout

Billy Watson, 216, Toronto, defeated Rudy Dusek, Omaha, Neb., 220, on disqualification. Time 31:15.

Semi-final

Jean Pusie, 208, Montreal, defeated Les Ryan, 223, Boston, with a flying leap. Time 17:08.

Preliminaries

John Katan, 230, Drumheller, Alta., and Jan Gotch, 230, Hamilton, wrestled to a 30-minute draw.

Roland Kerchmyer, 251, Oakland, defeated Rudy Patek, 218, Madison, Wis., with a back-breaker. Time 9:42.

Pat Flanagan, 192, Toronto, defeated Archie Smith, 182, Hamilton, with a reverse airplane spin. Time, 14:28.

Lawn Bowling

By HERB MARTIN

According to the boys who were sitting on the side lines, the games played last night were the best exhibition of lawn bowling seen in many a long day. Not any one game in particular, but all games, from one end of the greens to the other—and looking over the scores handed to us we agree with the viewpoint of the spectators.

The only game that we can vouch for is our own played with C. Giroux. It was a hummer from the first end to the 18th.

Notices are out for th men's open doubles tournament of next Wednesday, July 15. Already many entries have been received from outside skips such as E. Goodman of Oshawa, Ben Ward of Whitby, A. Meyers of Campbelford, J. Carruthers of Bowmanville, A. Fulford of Port Hope, J. Watson of Cobourg, and H. Rosevear of Port Hope. As the number of entries has been limited to 32, it might be well for the local boys to name their entries at once. George Gimblett is the chairman.

Here's one for Ripley: It happened at the ladies' tournament on Wednesday. There were three 3-game winners. All the winning skips were from the same club and the first initials of the surname of the three winning skips were A B, C. Figure it out for yourself.

Don't forget the tournament for men's rinks this evening. The draw is made at 7:30 o'clock.

Unnecessary Evil?

Brooklyn, July 10 (AP).

THE Dodgers' "victory" calliope and its neighbor, J. Reid Spencer, who doesn't like it, are in court again. Spencer made his fourth appearance yesterday to complain that the "sour" strands of Ebbet's Field music disturbed his afternoon rest. Magistrate Abner Surpless, finding that the Brooklyn Baseball Club had no permit to present a concert, directed Spencer to make out a formal complaint of violation of the Sanitary Code.

"I go to see the Dodgers play," said the magistrate. "After all, I go there only to see a good ball game. If I want music I go to the philharmonic concerts."

Racing On Again

Alexandria, July 10 (AP).

HORSE racing is to be resumed here this week-end after a temporary interruption caused by the thrust of Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's Axis divisions to within 65 miles of Alexandria. It's a year-around sport of the city.

Steady movement of tanks, armored cars, guns and troops toward the El Alamein front bolstered a feeling among residents of Alexandria — a British naval base—that the Allies would hold the initiative.

Only Norwegian, Belgian, Dutch Gov'ts Pay Way

By J. WES GALLAGHER

LONDON, July 10 (AP)—United States lease-lend agreements signed in the last two weeks have eased the financial burdens of the London Governments of Nazi-occupied nations, only three of which are entirely self-supporting.

The agreement will help equip Polish, Czech, Belgians, Yugoslav, Netherlands and Greek forces fighting on the side of the Allies.

The Norwegians have been offered an agreement, but London headquarters said tonight it had not been signed.

The Free French receive American aid indirectly through the British and United States lease-lend program.

Of the eight such Governments in London, only the Norwegians, Netherlanders and Belgians are self-supporting. The others receive aid from Britain, particularly in equipping their military forces.

Revenue From Shipping

The Norwegians and the Netherlanders have large revenues from shipping, and the Netherlands also have an income from the West Indies and its oil refineries. The Belgians derive an income exceeding their Governmental needs from the rich Belgian Congo. All three have large gold resources in the United States and Britain.

"We not only support ourselves, but from time to time we have placed some of our gold deposits at Britain's disposal," a Belgian spokesman said.

The Norwegians employ the largest administrative force of any Government in London. A Norwegian spokesman estimated that 1,000 were employed at Government headquarters, principally to look after extensive shipping interests.

The Netherlands has between 200 and 300 in administrative posts in London while the Belgians have about 200.

The Free French, Czechs and Poles lean heavily upon British and American support.

An official Free French spokesman said the British Government is paying a major share of the Free French war effort while the remainder is derived from New Caledonia, where United States troops are on guard, and that part of Equatorial Africa which the Free French control. Britain's support concerns itself primarily with financing Free French armed services.

It is understood that some supplies Britain obtains from the United States under lease-lend also are placed at Free French disposal. An administrative force of about 75 comprises the Government in London.

Poles Extended Aid.

The Poles receive financial aid from Britain, the United States and Russia. Just before the Germans invaded Poland, Britain had granted the Polish government a large credit which, together with the Polish-controlled gold in London, has been used to finance the war effort, it was said officially. About a month ago a further credit was granted by Britain. There also is lease-lend aid form the United States The Russian Government has agreed to support and help the Poles in Russia, particularly those being trained to fight wth the Russian Army.

Outside the large military establishment, a force of about 300 civilians is employed by the Government of Poland.

The Czechs have been able to do business on a similar basis, although a Czech spokesman said the Government had large gold reserves in London when the war started. The Czechs in the United States have contributed large sums and a lease-lend agreement recently was signed with the United States. About eighty civilians are employed at Czech headquarters.

The Yugoslav efforts has been financed through gold on deposit in the United States and Britain, together with income from the Yugoslav merchant marine, a Yugoslav spokesman said. Expenses are comparatively small because the Yugoslavs have only a small force fighting outside their own country Only about fifty are employed in the Government itself.

Like the Norwegians the Greeks have derived a large income from their merchant marine, which is operating on all the seas. A British grant of post-war credits has supplemented this aid, an official Greek source said.

About fifty are employed in the tiny Luxembourg representation in London, and the exiled Government was said to be living entirely on gold deposits made with the Belgian bank. Grand Duchess Charlotte had a large personal income outside Luxembourg and has been financing her own establishment, it was said.

Gandhi Ignoring Rest Orders

WARDHA, India, July 9—(CP)—Wizened M. K. Gandhi brushed aside his physicians' advice to rest and went ahead with his Indian Congress colleagues today in a conference seeking independence for India without paving the way for the Japanese to come in.

Concerned about overwork and exhaustion from which the shrivelled little Indian leader has lost much ill-spared weight in the last three months, Gandhi's physicians have urged him to rest for two weeks as soon as possible. A medical bulletin said, however, there is no reason for anxiety.

In consideration for Gandhi's weakened condition, conferees have been meeting in a one-room schoolhouse, part of Gandhi's school colony, at Sevagram, five miles from here.

The resolution which will outline a course of action still is to be written but socme members have expressed hesitancy about too aggressive a policy for the present.

Indians said the meeting may call for general civil disobedience or for some specific demonstration such as the "salt marches" when Gandhi led thousands of his followers to the sea to make salt in violation of the salt monopoly.

It might, also, decide on something relatively harmless in keeping with Gandhi's recent policy of avoiding anything which might assist the Japanese, they reported.

Gandhi, 72 years old, never has been in robust health. His frailty drove him into seclusion in a mud hut in the village of Haripura in 1937 and in the fall of that year he suffered from heart trouble and high blood pressure from which he rallied slowly.

Must Continue Low-Priced Lines Of Goods

OTTAWA, July 10—(CP).—Continued manufacture of low-purice lines of staple goods is compulsory under an order, effective July 13, announced last night by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

The announcement said there was a danger that living costs might be affected by the disappearance of low-price lines of staple goods, even though there was no violation of the price ceiling.

The same policy is applied to sellers, other than manufacturers, and they are required to regulate their purchases so as to continue selling consumer goods in the same price range as during the corresponding seasons last year.

To meet this condition the board has adopted a policy that manufacturers of consumer goods must continue to produce and sell products of the same or substantially similar kind and quality, and in the same or approximately the same price ranges as those produced and sold in the corresponding period of 1941.

There is no objection to their decreasing the proportion of goods in the higher price range but any reduction in volume of goods in the lower price range is approved only if due to unavoidable circumstances.

Evasion of the price ceiling by marketing new or modified products or changing trade descriptions is prohibited. For products substantially different in kind or quality from lines already on the market a maximum price or formula must be established.

This price will be appropriate in relation to the price and relative value of comparable goods, the board's announcement said. The fact that one article costs more to produce than another will not alone justify a higher price.

Where any new or modified product is substituted for or sold in place or any other product the manufacturer is to indicate this to all his customers, giving trade descriptions or both the product displaced and the modified one.

Cleric Explains Bombing Trip

TORONTO, July 10.—(CP).—Rev. Z. T. Ralston of North Bay, explained yesterday how he came to be on a regular bombing practice flight over Lake Erie in a Royal Canadian Air Force plane.

With other air cadet officers he is taking a course in air force procedure, drill, law and other subjects at the No. 1 bombing and gunnery school at Jarvis, Ont They are taking the course so that they can help train the trousands of boys now joining the Cadet League of Canada.

Father Ralston, dressed in civilian clothes, was standing with a group of others, with a parachute harness wrapped around him, close by a group of student observers who were waiting to go on the practice bombing flight. Somebody told him 'all right; you're in that aircraft,' and away he went, mistaken for a student flier.

He had an hour and a half in the air while the others had to be satisfied with a short 'familiarization' flight.

Charge Dismissed

TORONTO, July 9 — (CP). — Magistrate J. L. Prentice to-day dismissed charge preferred against Canada Packers Ltd. by Adam Borak, a former employee.

Borak had contended that he had been dismissed from the firm solely because he was a member of Local 114, Packinghouse Workers' Organizing Committee.

Magistrate Prentice said, "I have examined the evidence very carefully. Testimonial evidence confirmed by documentary and circumstantial proof has demonstrated that the plaintiff, Borak spread false rumors around the employees, agitated in the joint committee and plant council until some of the members threatened to resign."

FARLEY RULES FAVORITE TAKES MEDAL HONORS 2 UNDER AT 70

Ace Is Pressed By Newcomer Lathrop With 71

BRANTFORD, July 10—(CP)—Match play started in the Ontario Amateur Golf championships today but to all appearances it is still a case of Phil Farley against the field.

The slim Toronto Scarboro shotsmith, who beat the province's best pros with a par-shattering display in the Ontario Open a week ago, was up to his usual tricks in the qualifying round of the amateur tourney yesterday.

Farley combed the greens and fairways of the Brantford Golf and Country Club for a two-under-par 70, to take medal honors in the field of approximately 40. Out in 36, he maintained his form on the way in with a 34 for his sub-par total.

Pressing the brilliant Scarboro golfer for the medal honors was a comparative newcomer, Whitey Lathrop of Lookout Point. The 28-year-old blond husky put together 36 and 35 for a 71 to heard his first appearance in the Ontario Amateur.

Right up with the two leaders were two former champions—Jack Nash of London and John Lewis of the host Brantford Club. Both produced par-matching 72's in their late round with Farley.

Black Goes Out in 35

George Black of Windsor showed best on the outgoing nine, carding a 35. He was three under par going into the 15th when he blew to finish with a 75.

Bruce Bradley of Oshawa, last year's champion, squeezed into the championship flight with a 76. He was four over par on the outgoing round with a 41 but improved considerably on the way in by shooting a par 35.

Draw for the championship flight, starting at 10 a.m. follows:

P. Farley, Toronto Scarboro vs. L. B. Bissell, London Highland.

W. Ezincki, Oshawa vs. G. Boeckh, ork Downs.

Nick Wisnock, Burlington vs. J. Twiss, Toronto Mississauga.

Sgt. P. Gauld, R.C.A.F. vs. W. Lathrop, Lookout Point.

John Lewis, Brantford, vs. E. Bennett, unattached.

R. Horvath, Windsor vs. B. Duckworth, Toronto Summit.

George Eluck, Windsor vs. Bruce Bradley, Oshawa.

W. Tozak, Lookout Point vs. Jack Nash, London.

SoxWagnerClips Tigers 2-1 4 Hits, 11 Innings

By AUSTIN DELMEAR
Associated Press Sports Writer

With long rests behind all of them, pennant drives in front of some of them and artificial light around most of them, major league pitchers enjoyed one of their best days of the season yesterday.

As the teams returned to action after the three-day intermission for all-star games, both leagues produced some sparkling mound performances, including a four hitter in 11 innings, four five hitters and a trio of six hit jobs, two of which still weren't good enough to win

Five of the winners had the help of the arc lights last night, but the masterpiece of te day was the 11-inning stint of Charlie Wagner, who held the Detroit Tigers to four blows in pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 2-1 decision in broad daylight

Hal Newhouser, Wagner's opponent, pitched four hit ball for 10 innings but yielded two singles in the 11th and Manager Joe Cronin inserted himself as a pinch hitter, bringing in Boston's winning run with a long fly

The Red Sox needed the victory to stay within four lengths of the American League leading New York Yankees, who dropped the St. Louis Brown, 5-2 Hank Borowy kept his place at the top of the circuit's pitching ranks by holding the Browns to six safeties but had to have help in the eighth inning when a blister appeared on his pitching hand.

Buddy Blair helped Phil Marchildon of the Philadelphia Athletics whip the Cleveland Indians, 5-2, in a night game. Marchildon turned in a five hitter after a shaky first inning and Blair lashed a home run and a triple, driving in two runs and scoring twice himself.

In another night tilt on the American League program, the Chicago White Sox dumped the Washington Senators, 4-2, as Johnny Humphries hurled five hit ball and didn't permit a runner to get past first base after the third inning.

Wyatt Holds Dodgers

Whitlow Wyatt pitched and batted the Brooklyn Dodgers to a 3-2 decision over Johnny Vander Meer and the Cincinnati Reds. Wyatt held the Reds to five blows and collected one of his team's six hits, a single that brought in two runs and helped chase Vander Meer to the showers in the second inning.

While Wyatt was notching his ninth victory against two defeats under the lights at Cincinnati, the St. Louis Cardinals blanked the New York Giants, 9-0, to maintain their pace eight and a half games behind the first-place Dodgers in the National League.

Johnny Beazley shut out the Giants on six hits while his mates pounded three New York pitchers for 10 blows, including two home runs, two triples and a double. Beazley himself sparked a six-run Cardinal uprising in the sixth inning, smacking a three-bagger with the bases loaded.

The Philadelphia Phils met a similar fate at Pittsburgh, where the Pirates whitewashed them, 9-0, in a night game for army-navy relief, which drew 29,488 fans and a gate of $36,308.51.

Rip Sewell handcuffed the Phils on five hits, but had only a one-run advantage over Rube Melton when the later was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Then the roof fell in on three relievers who were tagged for seven hits and eight runs in one frame.

The Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs played the longest game of the day, an afternoon affair that ended when Buddy Gremp smashed a home run in the 13th inning to give the Braves the nod, 4-3.

Sport Snapshots Across Canada

By SCOTT YOUNG

TORONTO, July 10.—(CP). — There has been talk hither and thither about a difference between baseballs used in Canada and those used in the United States. Complaints to hand say the Canadian ball is dead, favoring pitchers and infielders.

The beefs come from the Canadian-American (Canadian Clubs; Quebec, Three Rivers) and Northern (Winnipeg) Leagues. If players using Canadian balls in the International (Montreal, Toronto), Western International (Vancouver) of Pony (Hamilton) Leagues have any complaints they have refrained from bursting into print with them.

Trying to find something definite on this question is not at all like tracking an elephant through a snowdrift, but here are the available facts:

1. Importation of baseballs to Canada is banned, so we must make our own.

2 One high-grade type of ball is made in Brantford, Ont., by Spalding to the same specification as a high grade U.S -made ball.

3. The differnce, if any, has had no appreciable effect.

The Brantford-made ball is used by Toronto Maple Leafs in the International League and Club Secretary Arthur Leman says the Canadian and American products at this grade are identical. He suggests that baseballs used in the Can.-Am and Northern may be a slightly cheaper grade, which might account for the fluctuation.

Another possibility: The services, or war industry, may have taken the expert ball-makers. If so, inexperienced workmanship could cause a difference in quality.

Football Clubs See It Duty "To Carry On"

CHICAGO, July 10.—(AP).—"National League club owners are determined to carry on at all costs with what material is left... They view it as a patriotic duty to contribute whatever they can to the morale and to the psysical well-being of America."

That's Elmer Layden, president of the National Professional Foot ball League, summing up the policy of the league for its first war year

158 In Uniform.

What lies ahead for the professional game, however, is problematical. The squads may be smaller, (and the attendance may show a sharp declines from the banner, big money year of 1941. Replacements must be made because of the terrific loss in personnel.

The league now has 158 men in the armed services. This figure includes 121 of the 346 men who played in league games last year and thirty-seven players who were members of the National League teams at the close of the 1940 season, but who were called last summer before the opening of the training season.

All of that is not disturbing to Layden, who preaches that competitive athletics are necessary elements in American life. He says.

"They promote the essential attributes of teamwork, self-sacrifice and loyalty, around which we rally in times of stress......For generations they have served as the common bond between the young and the old, rich and poor ...... If democracy means anything at all, its dynamic powers and justification must spring from its spirit and not from the political theories laws or constitution in which the system is expressed.

"Nowhere is this spirit more prevalent than in competitive athletics."

Army Should Produce.

Strangely enough, Layden believes the army may develop teams that will be the outstanding aggregations in the country.

"There will be some great football played this year," Layden predicted, "and the best of it most likely will develop in the games between the National League teams and the elevens recruited from the ranks by the War Departmest to help swell the Army Emergency Relief Fund. We have eighty-nine players in the army alone. Of course, not all of them will be available for the service elevens since nearly a dozen already are on the battleline......But with the college men wo are in the service and a nucleus for two championship teams from our league, the army elevens are very likely to be the best in the country."

Within six weeks the league players not yet called for military duty will be on the training fields getting prepared for the 1942 football campaaign.

Sunday Schools Plan Picnic At Oval July 14

KEENE, July 10 — (ENS). — The annal picnic of Keene, Bethel and Zion United church Sunday schools will be held at Nicholls Oval on Tuesday, July 14th. An invitation is extended to all members and adherents of Sunday school and church to come and enjoy this social event. There will be races, games and sports for all. It is intended to meet at the picnic grounds at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Arnold of Zephyr, were visitors at the United church manse last week.

"The need for mutual understanding" was the topic of the sermon at Keene United church on July 5. The text was the words of Ezekiel, "I sat where they sat." "In the world is going to be changed into a civilization of common brotherhood," said the Rev. Mr. Murray, "then we will have to recognize fundamental principles upon which the rights of all parties shall be considered. This applies to all phases of life. Christ's sermon on the Mount is by far the greatest document which if brought into play will establish a new earth wherein dwelleth peace and goodwill." Appropriate music was sung. There was a large congregation and a number of our American friends who are holidaying here were in attendance. You are invited to come and enjoy these services with your friends and neighbors.

Leafs Lambaste Bears Twice, 15,000 See It

By The Associated Press.

Toronto Maple Leafs, who just couldn't do anything right in the past few seasons, finally have broken their lease on the International League's cellar apartment. What's more, by winning 13 of their last 14 games, they've moved into upper-floor society as one of four contenders for the league lead.

It's been all unexpected and pleasant for Toronto fans, 15,000 of whom turned out last night to witness the most remarkable feat of the Leafs' spurt. The home forces won a doubleheader from the mighty Newark Bears, 7-3 and 7-6. The oldest inhabitant Maple Leaf stadium was wandering around in a daze today trying to remember when that had happened before.

Jack Hallett was the whole show in the opener as he held the Bears to five hits and drove in four runs, with a triple, a double and a single. The nightcap was a wild affair with Tommy Byrne, Newark hurler, causing his own downfall by issuing 10 bases on balls. The Leafs won in the ninth when Dewey Williams pinch-hit a single to sco. Burgess Whitehead from third.

The double defeat left Newark's league leaders only one game ahead of Montreal Royals and Jersey City Giants.

Montreal missed a great chance to climb into a first-place tie with the Bears by dropping the second game of a twin bill to the Baltimore Orioles, 5-2, after winning the opener, 2-0.

Moore Lifts Circuit Clout.

The seven-inning first game was one of those story-book affairs. Ed Albosta allowed the Birds only one hit, a single by Del Jones, while Clyde Smoll limited the Royals to three. One of Montreal's swats was a home run by Gene Moore. Pete Center turned in a three-hitter for Baltimore in the second tilt and was in trouble only in the fourth inning when Montreal scored all of its runs.

Jersey City failed to help their cause when they blew a 4-3 decision t. Rochester Red Wings. The game was deadlocked going into the seventh, then errors by Bobby Westfall and Joe Orengo led to two unearned Rochester runs. Ira Hutchinson hung up his ninth victory of the year for the last-place Red Wings.

Buffalo Bisons, finding the range a 7-6 decision over Syracuse Chiefs of the home-park fences, belted out as Johnny Welaj drove in five runs with two circuit smashes. Ewell Blackwell of the Chiefs was coasting along behind a 6-2 lead, aided by homers by Al Lakeman and Hank Sauer, when Welaj went into action. Johnny socked his first four-master with one aboard in the seventh inning, then repeated in the eighth with two on base to win the game.

Urges Canadians Train Selves Ready For Test

HAMILTON, July 10.— (CP). — Confidence that every man of military age who was medicall fit would ultimately find himself in the fighting forces, and that every man, woman and child would be in the war, in one way or another, before it is over, was expressed Thursday by Lieut.-Colonel James Mess, director of recruiting for Canada. He was speaking at a luncheon meeting of various Hamilton service clubs.

"People ask what more can they do—they say they are doing all in their power," Col. Mess said. "Gentlemen, we have not started to do all in our power Among our many shortcomings is our failure to take time off to clear for action as individuals. To analyze our way of living and determine how better to fit ourselves for the long years of war ahead—years of anxiety, sacrafice and heavy labor. Years with the constant threat of invasion and of this need to defend ourselves and those dear to us."

"We must face the possibility of finding ourselves in a position comparable to that of Britain.

"Do not wait any longer to see what the future holds. Don't put off. Get past the stage of looking for the next move by someone else. We have passed through periods of discussion on questions of conscription — of wealth and manpower— of plebiscites and Mobilization Act amendment debates. We unconsciously wait for what comes next. Further wartime legislation will undoubtedly be enacted—further restrictions and controls will be imposed. But in our hearts we know that the maximum of our effort and sacrifice will be demanded so—why wait for orders—let's clear for action."

Asking his listeners to ask themselves if they knew how to shoot, combat paratroops, erect tank traps, face raiding parties, perform first aid, Colonel Mess urged them to 'train themselves to be trained,' and while training think over their present attitude toward the war effort.

Chalout Case

Chaloult was not making destructive criticism, but rather constructive criticism when he said in his address that French Canadian soldiers were not being instructed in their own language.

"Our soldiers would make a tremendously better showing if they received orders in their own language from French Canadian officers," he added before he slumped into his seat, sobbing audibly, and buried his hands in his hair.

Mr. Choquette said that much of Mr. Chaloult's speech was opposing conscription for overseas service, and added that French Canadians saw in conscription an attempt at domination by a majority.

"However," he said, "French Canadians are just as determined to win the war as they are irreducible in their fight against conscription and forced military participation."

rapid 350-mile drive across the desert. The Germans, they say, have shown an aversion to night fighting and have tried to plan their operations so that the troops can get a reasonable amount of sleep.

Observers believed that Rommel would like to avoid a general engagement for two or three weeks in order to rebuild his striking power.

Military circles declared it is a question merely of time until either Rommel or Gen. Auchinleck felt his forces were sufficiently rested and reinforced to strike a blow on a scale to force the issue.

Axis warplanes, meanwhile, were reported continuing their attacks on the British Mediterranean stronghold of Malta by day and night. A communique said five enemy planes were shot down over Malta on July 8-9 and three British fighters were lost.

War Risk Bill

ing facilities for trade nstruction over a wide field for both war and peacetime operations.

At the start of yesterday's sitting Dr. H. A. Bruce (Con. Toronto-Parkdale) moved adjournment of the House to discuss "prosecution of Lt.-Col. George A. Drew under the Defence of Canada Regulations." Speaker Glen ruled the motion out of order.

(Col. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, has been charged under the regulations in connection with a statement he issued dealing with the Royal Commission report on the Canadian Expedition to Hong Kong.)

New Democracy Leader John Blackmore made a determined effort to have removed from the War Risk Insurance Bill the provision that no claims for damage of less than $50 could be accepted.

Wants Complete Coverage.

He declared there were many homes which could be rendered uninhabitable with damage of $40 and the coverage should be complete. Otherwise it was legislation for the well-to-do.

Mr. Ilsley said the restriction had to remain in the Bill since it would prevent frivolous claims which, without the restriction, could cause the adjusters great work and expense.

Mr. Blackmore also sought to have the Bill provide that damage claims could be based upon cost of replacement rather than market value of the property concerned.

Rev. E. G. Hansell (N.D. Maclead) supported his Leader and Robert Fair (N.D. Battle River) urged a further provision to provide protection for farm crops.

Mr. Ilsley said it did not seem unreasonable to him to ask people to bear their losses up to $50 in time of war.

"All kinds of losses are going to be sustained and sacrifices accepted which cannot be made good, and I do not know why we should go so far in connection with property when people are suffering terribly, losing their lives, and they cannot have those things made up to them,"' he said.

He pictured the reaction of the hard-pressed Russians if they could have witnessed the long discussion in the house over the question of $50 compensation in the event of an enemy attack.

To lower the $50 deduction clause would be to invite innumerable frivolous claims and add heavily to the cost of administration.

Some Real Saving.

I have a feeling that the period when it is popular to get ever-increasing expenditure out of the Treasury is ended and that the Minister who stands up for some cheese-paring is going to be, for the first time in many years, on the popular side of the argument....

"I am asking the people of Canada to do a lot of cheese-paring themselves this year and I do not aim to have it said that they are going to do all the cheese-paring. I aim to have it said that the Government is also going to do some cheese-paring....

"I am going to stand by the nation and stand by the taxpayer and standing by this section is standing by the taxpayer."

Apprehension was expressed by Howard Green (Con., Vancouver South) and others that a section of the bill empowered the Government to refuse to issue policies might be used against a coastal area which had come under bombing attack.

Mr. Ilsley said the clause was to safeguard the insurance administration against being forced to issue policies as a matter of right of the applicant in certain cases where it might not be deemed advisable. This did not apply to the $3,000 free insurance.

It was "certainly" not the intention of the Government to refuse insurance in certain districts because they were vulnerable to or had been subject of enemy attacks, he assured the committee.

Not All Under Insurance.

Mr. Green suggested that it should be well-advertised that all homes do not come under the $3,000 free insurance but only those occupied by the owners except in the case of those forced to leave and rent their homes since the outbreak of war, because of war service in the uniformed branches or other branches of Government war activity.

Mr. Ilsley agreed that such information should be widely distributed

2,899 Cheese Divided By 8 Buyers

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 (ENS) —Eight buyers divided the offerings of 33 factories which boarded 2,899 cheese on the Campbellford Board Thursday, when the largest amount of the season was sold at the ceiling price of 19⅝c f.o.b. Montreal. It was pointed out that buyers would automatically get the weeks' output of the same factory they selected last night as their purchase for the following week. In the case of factories not having a sufficient number of boxes to make complete the shipment of all cheese made during the week, it was asked that they make out a separate invoice when it was ready for shipment so that the buyer rightfully entitled to it would get it.

District Dairy Instructor J. A. Murray addressed the meeting and on behalf of the Seymour Agriculture Society asked the Board to give its annual grant for special cheese prizes at the fall fair. On motion, the board authorized a grant of $15.00 as was done last year.

Selections of cheese were taken as follows: A. J. Meyers for Flavelles Ltd. 390; Vernon Spencer, for Belleville Cheddar Cheese, 367; W. S. Styles for P. W. McLagan, Ltd. 327; H. B. Wood for Oliver and Dorion, 360; W. D. Bedell for A. A. Ayer Co., Ltd., 363; P. J. Murphy and Son, for Hodgson and Roson, 372; W. H. Bailey, for Lovell and Christmas, 371; H. Tremaine, for Swift Canadian Co., 349.

INTO THE DISCARD

The old frame house on the south side of Douro street, next to the railway tracks is fast disappearing under the blows of the wreckers. This house has been an eye-sore since it was condemned a few years ago, and residents in the vicinity will be mighty glad to see it cleaned up.

HOUSE IS ENTERED

Police are investigating theft of between three and four dollars from the farm home of Norman Preston, about a mile and a half north of Selwyn, in Smith Township. While the family was away on Wednesday evening, some person entered the house and ransacked cupboards and chests of drawers, but so far as can be determined nothing was taken except the money.

ROUGH DIET

Spectators on George street at 11 o'clock Thursday night had to chuckle as a reddish colored cat battled to dispose of an adult gallanipper. The cat batted the huge flying insect around quite a bit, but every time she tried to take a bite, the gallanipper would go into action and nip the cat. The final decision however went to the pussy.

MORE BIG FISH

Art Nicholls up at Briarcliffe Lodge on Baptiste Lake, has sent down word that fishing is super excellent in the Bancroft district. During the past week, Americans have caught a six-pound speckled trout, a nine-pound lake trout, and plenty of pickerel and small mouth black bass. The pickerel that holds the Canadian record of 13 pounds two ounces was caught in this lake.

TRAFFIC FINES

Frank Brown of Toronto, paid a fine of $10 and costs in city court this morning for allowing a person to drive his car without proper permit. Morton Fields, also of Toronto, paid a fine of $25 and $2.50 costs for speeding, and Leo H. Ryan of Ottawa, also paid a fine of $15 and $2.50 costs for breach of the new speed law, of 40 miles per hour on a provincial highway. A charge of reckless driving against Jack E. Risling was adjourned for a week.

THROWING STONES

One irate driver has been saying unkind things about some boys who scrambled up on the roof of Murray's store on Charlotte street, and started denuding it of its gravel covering. While sitting in his parked car in front of the store, the driver heard a hail of stones hit the machine. When he popped out to investigate, another one landed and struck him fairly on the head. The boys realizing that perhaps they had gone too far, disappeared in a hurry.

A LITTLE SARCASM

Officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers reported with a chuckle today that one of the letter sent to a member of the regiment asking him why he was not reporting for training, was as follows: "I have been a member of the Active Canadian Army for the past five months, and I trust this is sufficient reason for not turning out for Reserve training." The letter came from a city many miles from Peterborough, where it had been forwarded to the young soldier.

NEARLY $10,000 IN STAMPS.

One of the minor notes that rang like a golden blast in the report of Inspector Wightman at Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Education was this accomplishment by the children of the Public Schools of the city: Sale of War Savings Stamps during June, $896.75; sale of War Savings Stamps for the school year, September - June, $9,965.75. The Board received that splendid news just as a matter of fact, and without comment as if they were accustomed to such achievements by the boys and girls of the five primary schools.

THEY ARE VALUABLE NOW

A sign in one of the local dry-cleaning plants says "Save the wire hangers, we pay one cent each for them." This is going to make a lot of people feel bad, for hundreds have been thrown away, and others have been given to the local salvage campaign.

BOARD REMEMBERS

Mrs. W. R. Morris expressed the good wishes and other felicity of the Board of Education Thursday night to D. G. H. Melton on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of his parents. On behalf of his associates Mrs. Morris requested Mr. Melton to convey to his father and mother the congratulations of the members.

ABSENTEES

An off-key note in Inspector Wightman's report for June carried the information that six children were absent from school during June because they lacked clothing. "Necessary clothing was supplied and the children were able to finish the term." Six other children missed some time through "parental neglect." Parents were cautioned and the children attended regularly to the end of the term. Twenty-eight were absent for illness, 22 for home help, and four boys were truants.

BUSINESS PHENOMEN

An advertising anomaly, something no Canadian ever dreamed of reading, was the recent announcement of the British Columbia canning industry that their new pack of sockeye salmon was about to 'bypass' the domestic tables. It is all going overseas because it is a highly nutritious food. Oscar Matchett of National Grocers says there may be a few cases still in stock, but it won't be long until the ultimate cupboard is bare of the top quality canned salmon.

Bailieboro Institute Plans Garden Tea

BAILIEBORO, July 10.—(ENS).—The Women's Institute held their monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Gainer Thursday evening. A good number were present, with the president, Mrs. Howson, occupying the chair.

The first item dealt with was the donations toward the jam making project for overseas, and it was decided to send a donation in money to headquarters in Toronto where the jam making is in progress, rather than have an instructor make it locally, for a suitable place was not available. Plans were made in preparation for the garden tea on the Anglican church grounds to be held on Wednesday, July 15 when Mrs. (Dr) Grecio (nee Viola Cardwell), public health nurse home from the bombed area in Syria, will be the guest speaker.

A tea cup reader will add to the afternoon's entertainment and at a talent table all kinds of home-made baking, roast chicken, produce, will be sold. Proceeds will be used to buy quilt linings for the much needed quilts ready to be made up for overseas. Everybody is welcome.

The program consisted of a splendid paper on 'My Garden' given by Mrs. Armstrong. Winnifred Gainer sang a beautiful solo, My Lord and I'; and Ferne Gainer played an instrumental.

Mrs. Roy Greer kindly invited the Institute to meet at her home for August. Roll call for next month will be sugar conservation. A dainty lunch was served by the three daughters of the house and a social half hour enjoyed.

Small Boy Wanders 4 Miles From Home

Jim Brewett, 6-year-old youngster from the Lakefield Road, got bitten by the wanderlust on Thursday afternoon and set out on the open road. He disappeared at 12.30 from his home, north of Nassau and was not found until four in the afternoon when Mrs. Stalker, who lives on the middle line of Smith took the young lad in.

The boy walked from his home east to the Lakefield highway, then south to the Filtration plant, and west up the Centre Line of Smith. He travelled in all about four miles. In the meantime his mother was conducting an intensive search for him, and had even sought assistance from the Peterborough City Police.

How Rumors Go

KIRKLAND LAKE, Ont., July 10—Police here wish they had been present at the birth of the rumor. A motorist saw a deer cross a highway and told a friend. The friend told so many other friends and they told so many someone finally reported the town of Swastika was being invaded by black bears. Police deny it.

SCALLOP SHELL-OUT

Belmont School Gives Aid To War Victims

Previous to the closing of the city and district schools, through the collaboration of Inspectors R. F. Downey and Leo Copp, the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund addressed a letter to the teachers suggesting that the children under their inspiration might be able throughout the summer vacation period to carry on some effort on behalf of the fund, which in so doing they would gain an invaluable lesson of moral worth themselves besides the satisfaction of giving assistance to those who have suffered from air raids over Britain, and thus assist in the war effort.

In today's list of receipts for the fund appears a donation of $10 from the pupils of Preneveau School, S.S. No. 4, Belmont, which they raised from holding a draw on a quilt. The teacher at this school is Harold H. Hunter of R.R. No. 4, Havelock, and to him goes the credit of leadership in this effort of the children to help others.

For the 22nd time, a personal donation for $10 appears under the name of "In As Much," which fully demonstrates this lady's desire to keep up the good work for the objects which the fund seeks your help and serves as a shining example for others to emulate.

On Wednesday the secretary of the fund was in Millbrook to see the representative of the fund there, Ivan L. H Gray, and from the penny box located in his drug store, brought back a collection of $1.40 which is listed in this day's receipts for the fund.

Market Staff.

After a lapse of some time, two girls are this Saturday holding a sale on the farmers' market, and will be located in the upstairs portion at the stall so kindly made available for such efforts on behalf of the fund by the City Council. These girls, Shirley Garner and Shirley Ball, have both done previous work to help the fund, and they will have a variety of wares such as canned goods, dishes, cereals, novelties and home-made cooking for sale.

Another effort of a similar nature, on behalf of the fund is also being held this Saturday by Dorothy McGee and Theresa Stewart on the lawn at the former's residence, 526 Water Street. Both these girls have more than once previously raised money to help the fund, and once again they are making good use of their freedom from school studies to do a good turn for others in need. They will have quite a variety of articles for sale, and are also selling tickets at 5 cents each for a small draw on prizes which will be suitable for either lady or gentleman.

Citizens Are Urged To Fill Coal Bins

The executive of the Chamber of Commerce gave its support to the Government's appeal to citizens to fill their coal bins now in anticipation of the domestic requirements for next winter, J. J. Dorris, secretary, told The Examiner today in reference to a meeting of the directors yesterday.

Their resolution "urgently counsels all Peterborough civilian consumers to heed the urgings of the Government to fill their coal bins now and keep them filled in order to protect themselves against suffering next winter, and at the same time assist Canada's 'all-out war effort'."

The executive intends to request the C.P.R. to restore their buffet chair car to the local train between here and Toronto as an accommodation for many citizens who are travelling by train on frequent business trips and find the time schedule, 7.15 a.m. leaving Peterborough and 6.20 p.m. out of Toronto, conflicting with breakfast and supper convenience.

He Fell Out

CHICKASHA, Okla., July 10 — (AP).—Robert Boyd won't forget his flying lesson in a hurry. After a series of aerial acrobatics the instructor spied, far below, a parachute settling gently to earth. Yep, it was Boyd, who explained later that his safety belt must have come unbuckled while the plane was upside down.

Relief Costs Total $5,422

Relief for the first half of the year has cost the city $5,422.70, leaving $6,577.50 of the 1942 budget of $12,000 for the remaining six months, the relief committee reported yesterday. Alderman Glover presided.

The cost of relief last month was $1,154.89, as compared with $1,673.51 in June last year, and the total number of persons receiving assistance has declined from 238 to 159.

Details for June were: heads of families, 33; their dependents, 82; single men, 10; single women, 34; and in the same month last year the corresponding figures were: heads of families, 44; dependents, 130; single men, 17; single women, 47.

The per capita cost has increased from $7.03 to $7.26.

Farmers' Barns Filled With Hay

Some folks along the street have mentioned gratefully that this weather "is grand for sleeping." In the country they say it has been "grand for working," no Libyan heat as sweltering atmosphere for the labor of pitching hay. It is also conducive to the filling of grain, but farmers also indicate some deficiencies. They say that the last few weeks have not been hot enough for the corn crop, and Sudan grass, suggestive of hot climate, has not done quite as well as expected.

Barns are just about bulging with the hay crop, F. C. Paterson said today. Some farmers have more hay stored away already than they gathered all season a year ago. A few of them will soon have a second crop of alfalfa to cut as increment to the first harvesting.

Alec Young Joins Mercantile Marine

ALEC YOUNG

Alec Young, son of Dr. E. W. Young of St. Andrew's Church, a student at Victoria College, Toronto, has passed his second year examinations in the Economics and Political Economy course with second class honors.

Alec, who was formerly a student at Peterborough Collegiate, sought to enlist in the Canadian Navy and Air Force but was rejected in both on account of color blindness. He has now entered the Canadian Mercantile Marine, and has joined the C.P. steamer Athabasca at Port McNicoll for preliminary training in seamanship on the Great Lakes before being transferred to an ocean going steamer of the Canadian merchant service. Alec was president of the Collegiate Students Council for a year.

Soldiers Get Two Days Leave From Camp So They Offer To Help Farmer Save His Hay

George Mullen of Smith Township, convalescent from a recent illness at Nicholls Hospital, received unexpected but timely help this morning from two soldiers from the military camp at Morrow Park.

These two young men telephoned F. C. Paterson about 8 o'clock this morning suggesting a couple of days' farm work. They had a leave today and Saturday, and they decided to put in the time helping some farmer instead of roaming about or playing golf or something else equally idle.

When Mr. Paterson recovered from the surprise of this volunteering of labor, he arranged to meet the two young men, and at nine o'clock they were greeting Mr. Mullen, who is unable to do any work, and before long several girls were directing the uniformed youths to a hay field.

Two Barns Are Burned In Smith Twp.

Two small barns belonging to W. C. McKim, 98 Bennett street, and A. White, 109 Bennett street, are a heap of smouldering ruins after an all-night fire, Thursday, in which there is a strong suspicion of incendiarism.

The first fire broke out at McKim's. According to Mr. McKim, he and his wife were testing eggs about 10:30 in the evening, when they heard a number of their baby chicks making quite a noise. When they investigated, the chicks were scattered all the way from the barn to the back steps. Thinking they had been frightened by a dog, the McKims put them in their boxes in the barn. Two of the birds were found near one corner of the garage, which was separated only by a wooden partition from the barn.

About 11:20, while they were still working in the kitchen he looked out and saw a bright light from the garage, and when he went out he saw the flames around the corner of the garage where they had found the two chickens. By the time the fire was noticed, it had already started to go through the wall into where the chickens were stored.

Neighbors rushed to the rescue and helped to remove the chickens from the barn, and some soldiers and officers going by stopped to lend their assistance. Two girls, one seven and one four, were carried out of the house and put in a car, while some 200 spectators armed with everything from a cup to a pail carried water to try and save the house. Being outside the city limits, the Fire Department could not come without an order from the Mayor, who was out of town. One man stayed on the pump at the well, and kept the water supply going, and Mr. McKim said that this is the first year that this small well hasn't run dry.

When the flames started to lick at the wooden fence near the house, willing hands helped to tear it down, and the heat was so intense that the leaves on the trees beside the house were scorched. Even the roof was steaming. Besides the loss of the barn, there was about $300 worth of equipment and furniture stored there, and a car lost two of the tires. Probably the total loss would be about $800.

After all the excitement died down and everyone had gone home, Mr. McKim and four other men were talking out in the back yard around 1.30 a.m. when they say a bright light and some smoke from the barn belonging to A. White, two houses down. The alarm was turned in immediately and the five men hurried to open the barn. When they got inside, the flames were running up the back wall. It was only due to the presence of these men that the house and everything didn't go. Lumber was piled along side of the barn and fence that runs by the house. The men carried the lumber out of the way and attempted to rouse the sleepers. Mr. White was away, and it took all of 20 minutes to rouse the family.

With the outbreak of the second fire, peole gathered once more and formed a bucket brigade. The only animal around was a horse which was not in the barn when the fire broke. The Fire Department arrived on the second call, but both barns had been burned to the ground when they got there. Not only that, but there were so many cars around, that the firemen couldn't get through.

The second barn was smaller than that belonging to McKims and the probable damage is about $600. It is not believed that there was any possibility of the second fire starting from sparks, because a large field separated the two lots and the time intervening between the fires was too long to have been the result of sparks.

Girl Helping On Farm Is Hurt While Working

BAILIEBORO, July 10.—Barbara Wood, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wood, was raking hay on Thursday when the young horse of the team which she was driving kicked, breaking the tongue, causing the horses to run away. She held on to the lines as long as she could, and doing so received several bad bruises and cuts. Medical aid was summoned and no bones were reported broken.

Barbara had a miraculous escape from being badly injured.

71.4 Per Cent Of School Children Found To Require Dental Work

Dr. S. J. Graham, dental officer for the Board of Education, presented to the Board Thursday night a summary of his work for the school year recently ended, a synopsis of accomplishment on the side of community health that would have warmed the hearts of all its advocates

Briefly this statement showed that 71.4 per cent. of the children in Peterborough's public schools needed dental treatment, and that 2,690 children were examined by Dr. Graham during the year from last September until June. The public may remember that the Board of Education established this service on the basis of equipping an office for its dental officer in the administration building on Rubidge Street, the old South Central School.

This office was completed in time for the opening of the scholastic year last September. In that respect Dr. Graham's report may be considered the first, full-time review of his work.

It is a detailed statement, taken in the ordinary stride of routine business by the members of the Board, to whom it is now an accomplished fact, and probably has lost most of its novelty for them.

Parents may be interested in these totals:

Total number of children examined—2,690.

Deciduous cavities—2,465.

Permanent cavities—3,416.

Permanent extraction—1,581; deciduous extractions—1,069.

"O.K."—772.

Percetnage needed treatment — 71.4.

Percentage, according to individual schools, needing treatment: Prince of Wales 77.1, Central 63.2, Queen Alexandra 61.1; Queen Mary 61.9, King George 80.1, King Edward 73.2.

Report For June.

Dr. Graham's report for the Prince of Wales in June was briefly as follows: Pupils examined 567, treatment at school clinic 121, treatment by family dentists 129, pupils "O.K." 129. Left this school 12. Still needing treatment 177

Details of work—Amalagams 247, temporary 10, porcelain 24, miscellaneous 9, treatment 8 Total 298. Grade eight pupils are included in this month's report.

The Year's Work.

Dr Graham's annual report included the following details of what was done: Total number of amalgams 2,023, temporary 40, treatment 105, porcelain 166, miscellaneous prophylaxis 43 per cent.

Deciduous extractions 745, permanent 93. The word deciduous presumably applies to primary or temporary teeth.

M.O.H. Report.

Dr. R. H. Nott, M.O.H. gor the Board, reported for June: Complete physical examinations 135, with parents present in all instances, special examinations 86, children showing defects 3, children for observations 14.

Defects: Abnormal tonsils 2, heria 1, heart 1.

The nursing report for the month: Classroom inspections 781, excluded for various causes 45, minor accidents, etc, 76, home visits 411, visual tests 98. Dick tests were done on 527 children, who were given the five inoculations for scarlet fever. Only seven were still positive.

Attendance Reports.

Attendance at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School for June was reported by Dr. Kenner as follows:

Academic department: 575 enrolled, daily average 560, percentage of attendance 97.39.

Commercial department: 93 enrolled, daily average 91, percentage of attendance 97.84.

Total enrollment 7668, total daily average 747, percentage 97.28.

June attendance at the public schools were:

Central: Enrolled 491, average daily 461, percentage 93.6.

King Edward: Enrolled 379, average daily 358, percentage 94.2.

King George: Enrolled 452, average daily 426, percentage 94.4.

Total: On roll 2,734, average 2,574, percetnage 94.17.

Five children received home visits during the month.

Some other facts quoted in Inspector Wightman's report:

Enrolled in June, 1941—2,640.

Admitted to the public schools from September, 1941, to June—938.

Withdrawals during that school year—844.

Enrolled at the end of June, 1942—2,734.

In other words, the school population was higher at the end of the year than at the beginning, and it was expected that there might not be much change in number when the new term opens in September.

Mr. Wightman pointed out, among many other observations, that of the children withdrawing for local schools during the year, 328 went to other communities.

Those admitted during the year from other places was 350, and the number of beginners last September was 357.

Ten-Minute Bus Service In City By Fall May Be Expected Heads Of Industries Told

Acceleration of the local bus service to a ten-minute schedule in October was mentioned as a probability by Frank Mitchell, of Windsor, head of Peterborough's local transportation services at a dinner at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club Thursday night.

Mr Mitchell was host to a group of the managers of the larger industries of the city, chiefly as a cordial occasion of discussing means of facilitating bus-transport here next fall and winter.

Staggering of factory shifts and payrolls, neighborhood pooling of private automobiles for the benefit of an increasing number of citizens who may be "grounded" by then, appeal to the public and especially to the women of the city for their practical co-operation, these were some of the suggestions mentioned. Aid of the City Council and Police Commission in altering traffic regulations, especially to avoid temporary and unnecessary blocking of the central streets, was also proposed.

Alderman Sands, chairman of the transport committee of the Council, and City Clerk Outram were included in Mr. Mitchell's guests.

TIPS ON THE NEW RAYONS

The new rayons are grand—but you must handle them gently.

1. Buy wisely—be sure of your size.
2. Put them on carefully—as you did your sheerest silk ones.
3. Don't rub or twist them. Avoid cake soap rubbing. This weakens threads, encourages runs.
4. Dip them in lukewarm Lux the minute you take them off. Lux saves elasticity, helps stockings to keep their fit.
5. When drying—gently squeeze out moisture, then roll stockings in a turkish towel.
6. Don't use clothespins, but do hang them over a smooth rod, away from heat and sun.
7. Dry thoroughly for a full day at least, before you wear them again. Rayons are strongest when perfectly dry.

YOUR glamorous new rayons and bembergs will wear beautifully if you give them gentle care. Be sure you dip them in LUX every night. Lux is gentle — saves elasticity — whisks away harmful perspiration — cuts down embarrassing, costly runs.

A SOLDIER PLEADS FOR JOLLY LETTERS FROM HOME.

Wives, Mothers, and Sweethearts Should Not Add to Service Men's Trials.

A soldier writes me asking if I will not beg the people at home to write the boys at the front cheerful letters. "No outsider can imagine what these mournful epistles that we get from our mothers and wives and sweethearts do to us," he says. "They shoot our morale all to pieces far more than the enemy's bullets do. They take the last bit of pep out of us."

"It isn't any fun being far away from all you love and having at the back of your mind always a little cold fear about what may be happening to them and realizing that perhaps you will never see them again. Then when the letter from home that you have looked for and prayed for so long comes, sodden with tears and filled with all the bad news that could be crammed into it it is simply the last knockout blow.

"Of course, we want our dear ones to miss us, but it doesn't cheer us up any to be told that they lie awake nights and cry about being separated from us until they have gone into a decline. Nor do we enjoy reading about how she dreamed about seeing us lying stark and stiff on a battlefield, and they feel that it must be an omen. Nor does it raise our spiirts to learn that father's hair has turned white with the worries of trying to do business under Government restrictions and that Mother is breaking, or that the baby is sick, or that our best girl is stepping out with some slacker.

"Yet that is the gist of about nine-tenths of the letters that we get from home, and sometimes we carry them for hours in our pockets before we get up enough courage to read them. And when we do, we wonder why our families do not realize that what those of us who are doing a hard and dangerous job need is to be bucked up, instead of being depressed. What we want is a cheer-leader instead of a crepe-hanger.

Cheering Letters, Please.

"So won't you please ask the people back home not to write us anything but jolly, funny letters that we can chuckle over and that will make us feel that this is a pretty good old world that is worth fighting for, instead of making us think that there is no use in defending a world that has gone to hell, both at home and on the battle-front."

I gladly add my plea for cheerful letters to that of this young soldier. I have made it many times before and shall make it many times again in the hope that it will stay the hand of some mother, or wife, or sweetheart who is about to dip into the ink and write to her darling boy and keep her from drowning him in her tears. For ninety per cent of these letters that so depress the recipients are not the overflow of a heart bowed down by woe. They are the result of ignorance, of inexperience and lack of vision.

The writers do not realize how much more serious and final the written word always is than the spoken word. We modify what is told us by a hundred extenuating circumstances by what we personally know and see, so when Mother tells us that she is dying of a broken heart and we see her eating a hearty dinner and going on to the movies we don't worry over her condition. But when she writes us that she is dying of a broken heart we take is as final and break our own hearts worrying over it.

Nor do these runners-up for the lamentations of Jeremiah stop to reflect that it adds another twist to the screws to be told of the sufferings of one we love when we are so far away that we are impotent to help. The soldier at the front has plenty of troubles of his own, so why burden him with yours when there is not a thing on earth he can do about it? If he were a miracle-worker who could cure your rheumatism; if he could wave a magic wand and conjure money out of the air; if he could project his astral body through thousands of miles of space and take you out to night clubs, there would be some sense in writing him mournful letters about your aches and pains, and what a struggle you have to get along on your allowance, and how lonesome and bored you are. But what good end is achieved by upsetting him and making him miserable when he is only a buck private, with no occult powers and only his Government pay?

So mothers and wives and sweethearts and sisters, censor your letters and cut out the blues. Don't write Johnny anything that will not bring a smile to his lips and put cheer in his heart. Tell him how you love him and how proud you are of him and how you are fattening up the calf for his return. Tell him only the good news you know the funny little gossip you have heard. Forget all the unpleasantness and the sad and sorrowful things that have happened. There will be plenty of time to hear them when he gets back.

So shall you keep him pepped up and fit to do the hard job to which he has set his hand.

Home Team Sports Hat

Teresa Wright, who will play the role of Mrs. Lou Gehrig in the film being made about the Yankees, models her first baseman's hat, created by a top flight milliner. Blue fabric has a brim and an open crown which is laced with white ribbon. Stitching details the entire model.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

Americana is in the air for designers of fashions. Practically everything from a blue plate lunch to a dandelion has been used for print patterns, and believe it or not, your reporter has a very snappy hat and glove set made almost entirely from round lace doilies.

The hat photographed above was inspired by another head covering . . . but who'd have thought that the familiar baseball player's cap was the covering in question? A far and fashionable cry from the beanie, isn't it? . . . and with its sheltering, small brim a most useful as well as pretty summer chapeau.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, July 11

Although this day may be notable for much activity and swift developments it will take more than ordinary good sense, restraints and sound programs in order to sidestep adverse and conflicting situations. These are all sorts of intrigues, duplicities, pitfalls and subtle dangers to be alert to and fortified against. It may be necessary to mistrust friends as well as foe.

Those whose birthday it is may have to marshal all their sound sense, reason, good judgment and fortitude to offset certain menacing conditions arising from subtle, intriguing, reacherous and sinister forces, in which not only enemies but alleged friends are suspect. Be cautious in change, travel, with agents and in all writings and agreement.

A child born on this day while versatile, talented and original, may be easily victimized and imposed upon by subtle and sinister machinations.

VICTORY GARDENS

Millions of Soviet citizens are planting their own "kitchen gardens" this year ;trade unions choose suitable plots, seeds and advisors.

Is YOUR JOB the "sit-down" kind?

KEEP FIT WITH KELLOGG'S
every day in the year!

No need to put up with that "heavy-as-lead" feeling!

Don't let depressed, tired-out days slow you down, just because your job gives you no chance for healthful exercise. Follow these two rules of health: (1) To get well, see your doctor; (2) To keep well, watch your habits. Make sure elimination is complete. But don't resort to harsh cathartics. Instead get plenty of "bulk" in your diet. And get it in a form so delicious you'll want to take it every day! That means Kellogg's Bran Flakes With Other Parts Of Wheat. Mildly laxative, they help supply valuable minerals and proteins, too. And they're so crisp and crunchy, so downright delicious you'll want a big bowlful of them every morning! Ask your grocer for the golden-yellow package of Kellogg's Bran Flakes tomorrow. It comes in two convenient sizes. And in restaurants, order the individual package with the inner, WAXTITE, sealed bag. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

mittee by G. W. Craw was confined to a statement of estimates of the cost of alterations necessary for fitting one room in the administration building, Rubidge street, for A.R.P. purposes.

Lowering the ceiling for economy in heating and the installation of radiators would cost approximately $590, the report announced. The balance of the work of decorating and wiring would be done by the Civilian Defence Committee.

Mr. Craw explained that the committee was not recommending the alteration to the Board because of the expenditure involved, and it was decided to ask A.R.P. officers as to what accommodation would actually be required, and also whether adequate provision could be made at less expense.

Another recommendation by the committee that the heating arrangements in the auto mechanics' classroom be changed at an approximate cost of $110, was adopted on Mr. Craw's motion, seconded by Mr. Thompson.

Smart "Gold" Necklace You Can Make Yourself

Woman Turns Skill Into Profit

You've made the big decision. Your needlework or your baking, your typing or your just plain ingenuity must help bring home the family bacon!

Fine! Other women have earned tidy sums at home and you can, too. But guide yourself by business-like rules if you don't want to fail at the start.

"It must be outstanding!" is the rule one determined woman went by when she began knitting mittens. Her "Stop and Go" mittens had one red thumb and one green thumb—and they sold!

Another lady, with no special skill, established a "Call Mrs. Smith" service to do all sorts of things for other people—mind babies, read to grandma, select birthday presents. Her rule was "Know your market and go after it!" and she got it!

A most important rule is, Be hard-headed about money! Figure out your expenses and your profits to the last copper cent.

Our new 32-page booklet explains the five main rules for successfully making money at home. Tells exactly how several prosperous home-earners got their start and made their money. Suggests numerous wares and services you might sell.

For your copy of "21 Ways to Earn Money at Home." Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

TOO BIG A SACRIFICE

NO SACRIFICE is too big to make, to help your country win this war. But that is so only because what we stand to win or lose is so tremendous. In every case, the sacrifice or hazard of sacrifice should be comparable to the proposition which is at stake. In bridge this may be applied logically by pointing out that a very considerable sacrifice is worth while to prevent a slam, but a much smaller one to prevent a mere game. Being beaten deliberately for an amount of points which is more than the game is worth—that is too big a sacrifice.

North: ♠ A Q 3 2 ♥ 9 4 ♦ A 10 9 4 ♣ K 3 2

West: ♠ 4 ♥ K Q J 8 7 5 3 2 ♦ Q 8 ♣ Q J

East: ♠ K 10 9 8 6 ♥ 10 ♦ 7 6 5 2 ♣ 9 8 7

South: ♠ J 7 5 ♥ A 6 ♦ K J 3 ♣ A 10 6 5 4

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	1 ♥	1 ♠	Pass
1 NT	2 ♥	3 ♦	Pass
3 NT	4 ♥	Dbl

Up to and including the call of 3-No Trumps, there was nothing particularly wrong about that bidding, except perhaps that South was a little venturesome in risking the bid with only one stopper in hearts. As it turned out, if South took the second heart trick, he then could have run five clubs, four diamonds and a spade, for a total of 11 tricks or his contract plus two extras.

West went away overboard, however, when he sacrificed at 4-Hearts. With only seven tricks in sight in his own hand, he was overbidding three, hoping to take a trick or two in his partner's hand, which was very unwise in view of the opponents' strong bidding. He actually took no tricks in his partner's hand, but only seven in his own. He was therefore down three, giving the opponents a score of 800, instead of a plain game plus a couple of extra tricks, which would have been worth about 660. If he had been not vulnerable, the sacrifice would have paid, as entailing a loss of only 500 points, less than the value of a game.

5,000 Factories Find Music Speeds Output

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, July 10—(CP).—It is two years now since Britain's factory workers started doing their work to music and it looks as though music-while-you-work has come to stay, just like government control of this and that in wartime. Anyway, that is the view of the people who run the music-while-you-work programs, organized by Wynford Reynolds of the B.B.C.

More than 5,000 factories are giving music for 2¼ hours a day to their workers. And just for the record, it is "straight" music and not heigh-dee-ho that brings the best results.

Reports from the factory front are that when workers whistle or sing to the tune of a well-known dance number or perhaps a piece of light opera, the rhythm of their production goes up. When the music stops the rhythm is still in the fingers of the workers.

Back in the early days of the music--while-you-work programs, shirt-sleeved bandsmen moved into factories and boomed out martial tunes, but it was found for every worker who was inspired, two were thrown completely off stride. Scientific study of work with music in parenthesis followed with the result crooners and vocalists were eliminated.

Some Copied The Words

There were reasons for this including work stoppages because some of the new tunes were so catchy workers dropped their tools to write down the words.

Next bands were found which would stick to the tune ordered and not whip out some off-beat rhythm of their own arranging because the theory back of the factory-music system is that each worker must hear the tune, sifting through the cacophony of raucous machinery, so that the rhythm is transmitted to the workers' fingers.

Labor Minister Bevin has spoken in favor of music-while-you-work and factories report health and spirits have improved since the system started and production is up.

There is one other thing about this music-while-you-work program. They don't play any music for night workers because it would probably disturb day workers who are asleep in dwellings near their factories. And the night workers, who have to sleep days and snuggle into the pillows to avoid hearing their neighbors' radios, feel they have a legitimate grouse.

Laud Pole Aces As Grim Fighters

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., July 10 (AP).—The Polish fliers with the Royal Air Force are the "outstanding fighters of the war," declared Hully Stirling of Davie, Fla., who has just returned from England after 14 months' service with the R. A. F. ferry command.

Polish aviators with the bomber command never waste time on target practice, Stirling asserted.

"Nothing satisfies them for a target but a live German. There are certain areas designated for bombing practice, but the Poles always fly right over them and head for Nazi bases on the coast of occupied Europe."

The Polish pilots in the ferry command are as warlike as their compatriots with the fighter squadrons, he said.

"When a Polish ferry pilot is assigned to fly a fighter plane to an operational centre he generally gets there only after all his fuel and ammunition have been spent in a solo sweep over the channel looking for a fight. Those fellows go out of their way to hunt down Nazis," Stirling added.

"I have never heard of any Polish pilot being captrued after his plane was put out of action. These boys go down fighting, ramming their disabled ships into any German craft that is handy."

F.D.R. Shying Off Political Feuds

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—President Roosevelt, while reserving the right to dabble in politics in his own state, was reported today to have resisted firmly efforts of numerous politicians to get him to take sides in feuds elsewhere in the United States.

One source with access to accurate information said the president has had many bids for political assistance from Members of Congress who feel uneasy over their chances for re-election in November.

The present intention of the President apparently is to take no active part in any campaign to unseat pre-war isolationists — again with a possible exception in New York state, where he maintains his permanent voting residence.

The one critic of foreign policy before the United States entered the war appears most likely to encounter presidential opposition is Representative Hamilton Fish (Rep. N.Y.), who represents Mr. Roosevelt's own Congressional district.

How Beef Ring In Grey Works

(Belleville Intelligencer.)

Farmers up around Proton Station way up in Grey County, seem to have solved the beef shortage problem. In fact they solved it 35 years ago. It's an old Proton custom.

In the hot summer months from June to September the agricultural lads in this section of the province care not what happens to beef prices. Fluctuation worries them not. Shortage is a thing they have yet to suffer.

The answer is simple. It is called the Swamp College Beef Ring. This is composed of farmers of the district, each of whom contributes a beef "critter" to the ring when his turn comes. The members of the ring hold varying shares according to their needs. A full share demands one beef steer, usually a fat two-year-old animal, each year. A halfshare owner contributes a beef every two years, a quarter share holder every four years, etc.

The beef is killed and cut up by a central farmer who delivers so many pounds of beef according to shares, every Wednesday morning, to each member. The cuts are staggered so that repetition is eliminated until the normal turn rolls around. The steak is cut up each week into as many parts as there are members and these portions are delivered with the weekly cuts.

The farmer-butcher keeps the hide, and is paid weekly by the farmer contributing the beef.

If a farmer eats more beef during his allotted time than is contained in the beef steer contributed to the ring, he is "fined" the difference in money. If the steer he contributes is more than his share over the allotted period, he is paid a financial bonus.

The organization is perfect. And that is the reason why the Proton Station rural population has no worries when newspaper headlines sound warnings of beef shortage, or price fluctuations. It is a further proof of what organizations can do. The proof of the organized pudding is seen in the eating for the past thirty-five years.

Noted Welshman Dies

BEAUMARIS, Wales, July 9 —(CP)—Sir Richard Williams-Bulkeley, 79, Welsh landowner and Lord Lieutenant of Anglesey for 46 years, died yesterday.

He was the owner of the land embracing Snowden, highest mountain in England and Wales. He served with the navy in the First Great War and was the first officer of the Naval Reserve to reach the rank of Commodore.

A yachting enthusiast, Sir Richard was a friend of King Edward VII. In 1926 he presented historic Beaumaris Castle to the nation.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)

Deserter Gives Police Long Chase

BANCROFT, July 10 — (ENS).—Stanley Vallier of Princess Lake was arrested Friday night, charged with army desertion and also on several criminal charges, by Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer and County Constable R. F. Delyea of Bancroft. Following his being lodged in the Bancroft jail he later made his escape the same evening and although hunted the balance of Friday night and Saturday the police were unable at that time to make a re-arrest. Early Tuesday morning Palmateer and Delyea assisted by several members from "A" Company H.P.E. (RF) Bancroft proceeded to a designated rendezvous some 45 miles north of Bancroft and after searching several homes and walking through dense bush for over eight miles finally surrounded the home of George Vallier, early Wednesday morning. With the home ringed and every avenue of escape thoroughly guarded, Provincial Officer entered the house and on going upstairs was just in time to grab Stanley Vallier as he sprung to the window. Vallier was arrested, charged with breaking jail and lodged in Bancroft jail. He was a member of the Algonquin Regiment and was on draft over three months ago for overseas at which time he made his break away. He gave his age as thirty-two.

"A" Company, 2nd Bn. H.P.E. Regt. (RF) Bancroft, under commanding officer D. F. Bleecker travelled in convoy to Batawa Sunday morning uniting with the other companies of the regiment to take part in the celebration of United Nations Day held at Batawa. The morning parade was to the main grounds where the drumhead service was conducted by the Rev. Captain E. N. Grant of the Regiment. Following lunch which was served by the Batawans an afternoon parade was staged with a "March Past" and then on the grounds for the afternoon agenda. Following the evening meal "A" Company returned to Bancroft for dismissal.

Rev. W. L. Simmons, formerly of Pittsburg Parish north of Kingston recently assigned to Bancroft Mission, held his inaugural service in St. John's Anglican Church, Bancroft Sunday, July 5th. The Right Rev. John Lyons, M.A., D.D., of Kingston Diocese was present for the occasion. Sacrimental Rights of Confirmation was administered by His Lordship to a class of three presented by the Rev. A. Reading of Bannockburn from the Coe Hill Mission. A splendid attendance was present for the service and the choir assisted at the organ by Steddie Lumb provided special music.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Maxwell, accompanied by Miss Noreen McAllister motored to Belleville Monday Mr. Maxwell entraining for Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Milford Tryon and family of Cobourg are holidaying at their cottage at Baptiste Lake.

Rev. L. J. Delaney, curate of St. Michael's and All Angel's Church, Toronto, accompanied by Mrs. Carr and Miss Helen Carr are spending their vacation in the Bracken cottage at Trout Lake near Bancroft.

Rev. J. L. Kennedy, parish priest, Bancroft, has made quite an improvement in the outward appearance of his parish home by glassing in his whole veranda.

Among those attending United Nations Day at Batawa were: Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Bailey and family, Mrs. R. Maxwell and family, Mrs. Earl Hawley, Miss Rhoda Wilson, all of Bancroft.

24 Ladies At Campbellford W.M.S.

CAMPBELLFORD, July 10 (ENS)—Twenty-four ladies answered the roll call at the July meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. which was held on Tuesday afternoon, when members expressed the pleasure at having the president, Mrs. Robert McCulloch, with them again following a serious illness. Mrs. A. C. Connor, the 1st vice-president, had charge of the meeting and after the call to worship gave a few thoughts on conditions of the mind as given in Phillipians.

Main feature of the program was a reading by Mrs. Albert Hazell on "the 2nd birthday of the founding of the Church of Scotland's Canteens for the Soldiers." She also presented some interesting highlights from an address delivered by Rev. Cockburn in Toronto. The balance of the program, for which Mrs. Charles Milne presided, included the Scripture lesson; prayer by Mrs. John Storie; offertory taken by Miss Alice Neill and the offertory prayer by Mrs. C. Milne; the report of the Presbyterial held in Brighton by Mrs. E. Wynn; an address by Miss Celton; a vocal solo by Ann Hay of the Mission Band.

Red Shield Auxiliary

A report by the secretary of the Salvation Army Red Shield Women's Auxiliary shows that four meetings were held during the month of June and a large amount of work done by the members. In addition to forty-two knitted articles a number of quilts were completed, while those in charge expressed their thanks to the following for donations of money and materials—The Seymour West Women's Institute, Miss Dorothy Reynolds, Mrs. E. Outwater, Mrs. M. Lloyd, Stanwood Sewing Circle, Miss E. Innis.

Battlefield Tour

NEW YORK July 10 — (AP). — Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican Presidential candidate, said yesterday that he would seek official consent to visit the battlefields of Australia, China, Russia and other United Nations.

He did not indicate in what capacity he would make such a trip—as a civilian or an official observer—but it was understood he wanted to see at first hand conditions in the war areas.

US Chiefs To See F. French Heads

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—The State Department announced to-day that the designation of Admiral Harold R. Stark and Brig. Gen. Charles L. Bolte as representatives of the United States to consult with the Free French National committee in London

The announcement made clear that the move involved no basic change in American policy toward the Free French, by emphasizing the military purpose of the decision.

In a memorandum handed to Gen. Charles De Gaulle in London the military character of Stark's and Bolte's assignment was stressed and the status of the Free French National committee headed by De Gaulle was clarified as 'a symbol of French resistance' against Axis aggression.

Saboteur Trial May Be Opened

WASHINGTON, July 10—(AP)—The gun-bristling caravan guarding eight German-born men accused of plotting against the United States swept back into the Justice Department to-day, and there were indications that part of what is going on at their secret trial might be made public.

A representative of the office of War Information, which has been attempting to arrange disclosure of non-dangerous parts of the proceedings, arrived at the Department and said he had been told to "sit tight." Elmer Davis head of the office, and War Secretary Henry Stimson had an appointment with President Roosevelt, and there was speculation among White House attaches it had to do with the trial.

Traitor Shifted, Sheriff, Inmates Happy

DETROIT, July 10—(AP).—Max Stephan now is confined to the Federal Prison Farm at Milan, Mich., and Sheriff Andrew Baird of Wayne (Detroit) county, in whose jail the prisoner previously was lodged, expresses relief.

The middle aged German-American cafe operator, who is pleading for a new trial from his conviction of treason, was transferred to the penal farm yesterday after having been in the county jail for two months while other prisoners resented his presence.

Sheriff Baird said he 'drew a breath of relief' when Stephan was taken away.

"This is an American jail," Baird said, "and the inmates here don't like traitors or draft evaders."

A Federal Court jury convicted Stephan of treason last Thursday in connection with the escape of Lieut. Hans Peter Krug, Nazi flier, from Bowmanville, Ont., prison camp. Krug escaped April 18 and came to Detroit where Stephan, the government charged gave him aid and helped him continue his flight. Krug later was captured in San Antonio, Texas.

The extreme penalty is death by hanging.

Judge Arthur Tuttle Monday will hear a motion for a new trial. The defence contends the jurys verdict was not supported by the evidence.

Off The English Coast

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), July 10—(A). — The German high command claimed to-day that a German motor torpedo boat flotilla has sunk six merchant ships totalling 19,000 tons, including tankers from a convoy off the English coast.

The German craft were said to have "circled out their attack in the face of the British escort."

(The enemy claims lack confirmation of any sort from British quarters.)

24-Hour Day In Arctic Hits Convoys

Heavy German Raids May Upset Supplies To Reds

LONDON, July 11—(CP).—Recent German naval and air attacks on Allied convoys bound for Russian Arctic ports may necessitate a re-examination of the whole Russian supply problem, in the opinion of available British sources.

These quarters described as 'grossly exaggerated' Nazi claims that 35 Allied vessels were destroyed last week in assaults on a convoy in the Barents Sea, but they did not minimize the gravity of the outlook.

The difficulty of getting supplies safely through to Russia over the northern route, it is pointed out, is complicated by the fact that daylight now prevails around the clock in the Arctic—a condition that will last for four or five weeks more.

Nazi planes, operating from Norwegian bases, thus are able to keep the Allied supply lanes under surveillance for 24 hours a day and direct the operations of naval vessels waiting in hidden fjords to sally forth for hit-and-run attacks.

It is expected the Admiralty will issue a statement soon on the latest assault, during which, the Russians say, counter-attacking Soviet submarines scored torpedo hits on the Nazi battleship Tirpitz.

Conscript All Is Orange Plea

TORONTO, July 11—(CP).—National government and conscription of men, wealth and resources were demanded in a resolution passed at the annual Orange celebration held under the auspices of the county Orange Lodge of Toronto at High Park today.

In reiterating the demands made a year ago for the establishment of national government and the conscription of men for overseas service, it was claimed the recent plebiscite had proven that the Orange Order "voiced the wish of the great mass of English-speaking Canadians.

The resolution said:

"Orange men and Orange women demand that the will of the people, made evident in the plebiscite, be carried out and that the government of Canada, through the Prime Minister, assure the people that overseas service shall be made obligatory for the armed forces of Canada, regardless of province or race."

"Quebec opposes conscription for service outside of Canada, notwithstanding the fact that all the other provinces support and want it," it was claimed in the resolution.

"The action of Quebec is dividing Canada," it was charged, "and courage at Ottawa is required to face the crisis, and in plain, unequivocal language the French-Canadian leaders may be told that necessary measures will be taken to assure the United Nations that we are doing our part towards a speedy victory."

Battle Of Egypt Hinging Upon Race For Reserves

By DE WITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The battle for Egypt patently has developed into a play for position and a race against time by both belligerents to bring up reinforcements and material, and the outcome of this conflict, which is a part of Hitler's win the war this year offensive, may easily depend on which side is the quicker with the reserves.

There is a fair amount of mystery regarding this extraordinary combat of the sands, which has been relatively quiet for 10 days until yesterday's pre-dawn flareup because both armies were too fagged out and weakened in equipment to carry on without repairs. However, the way things are going the fight seems likely to blow up in our faces in the near future. Certainly the present position is a package of dynamite.

If the fate of the Allied cause didnt depend so heavily on this battle, it would be fascinating to watch the contest of wits between Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck, the shrewd and capable Scotsman, and Field Marshal Erwin Romel, who perhaps is the greatest tactician of his day. The Scot is manouevring cannily to trap the crafty Nazi against the Mediterranean coast and hold him there in a pocket while American bombers and British submarines try to cut the Axis supply lines. Rommel is moving his chessmen to keep his line of retreat open and hang on to his position until fresh equipment arrives.

Rommel's armored right wing originally had rested some 35 miles almost due south in the desert, while his left wing lay on the coast. He kept swinging at Auchinleck with that fast-moving armored force, like a prize fighter chopping with his right, hoping to swing the Scotsman back and outflank him—that is, put Auchinleck in the same kind of sack that the latter now is holding open as he punches at Rommel.

But Auchinleck wasn't having any, and then he began to show a retaliatory strength which indicated he was beginning to receive the badly-needed reinforcements, both in men and equipment. At the same time Rommel's striking power apparently deteriorated because of lack of supplies due to the over-extension of his lines of communication.

Thus we see Auchinleck become the aggressor in a cautious sort of way—just enough to keep the initiative, making things uncomfortable for Rommel and be ready to take advantage of any opening without actually precipitating a renewla of the battle for which the British forces weren't ready. Yesterday, for instance British columns pushed that right flank of Rommel's back still further, but Rommel rebounded there and the British Army struck his left for a five-mile advance.

Everybody realized Rommel hadn't lost his cunning and that he was still the dangerous foe who more than once had turned almost certain defeat into victory. Whether he or Auchinleck is ready for full scale resumption of the battle is not known.

Income Returns Not Due Till 1943

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP). — Income taxpayers do not have to file their next returns with the Inspector of Income Tax until September 30, 1943, it was stated at the Income Tax Division yesterday.

(Yesterday The Canadian Press reported erroneously that the next return had to be in by September 30, 1942.)

Deductions from the pay of employees begin in September this year, however and continue until August 31 next year, covering the tax on 1942 income at the increased tax rates provided by the new budget.

In previous years the taxpayer had to have his returns in, with at least part payment of taxes, on April 30, but this year the date was moved back to March 31. Now it is delayed to September 30, 1943, for the tax return on 1942 income.

It is not now so important to get the returns in early because the instalment paying of taxes will have become compulsory and deductions will be made from pay envelopes, regardless of when the returns have to be made.

The deductions will be based on salaries and wages in effect when the deductions begin, and any adjustments will be based on the employees' returns made on September 30 of next year and the employers' returns on the deduction he has made. Employers probably will have to file this report by October 15, 1943.

Rossosh Goes, Voronezh Hard Pressed

Reds Struggle Hard To Close Breaches As Nazis Turn South

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, July 11.—(AP).—German divisions having captured Rossosh, pressed a three-pronged offensive toward the Don river with such vigor that the Russian army newspaper Red Star announced their "developing success" today.

Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Soviet field forces battled on against spearheads jabbed across the Don at Voronezh, and in the direction of the strategic river at Kantemirovka, 145 miles to the south; and near Lisichansk, 200 miles south of Voronezh.

Red Star said the Germans fighting to expand their roldings on the east bank of the Don were finding rough going because of tank traps and heavy Russian artillery fire, but said "the area of fighting west of Voronezh is spreading."

The Soviet defenders of Kantemirovka, 45 miles south of Rossosh, were reported by the army publication to be operating under "very unprofitable and difficult conditions."

Battle Every Yard.

Red Army men counter-attacked tenaciously on the flanks and fought to close breaches in their river positions before Voronezh, the administrative centre of Russia's black earth area.

Military observers said the stubborn defence of Voronezh had forced the Germans to swing south the main weight of their greatest campaign of 1942.

Nazi troops, however, have cut the principal railway linking central and southern Russian armies—the trunk line between Moscow and Rostov—by the capture of Rossosh, a communique disclosed.

Rossosh, a way-station and factory-farm town of 20,000 which lies 100 miles south of Voronebh, was abandoned by Soviet troops in favor of new positions after 48 hours' fierce fighting against tanks and motorized infantry.

Another 100 miles to the south, German detachments striking from the Izyum sector along the Donets River, the chief western tributary of the Don, engaged Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's men in the region of Lisicransk, a town of 15,000.

BBC Gives Coastal Dwellers Their Third Tip To Clear Coastal Areas Belgium To Pyrenees

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP).—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation listening post last night picked up a warning from the British Broadcasting Corporation, directed to the coastal areas opposite Britain, warning the civilian population to leave the districts between Belgium and the Pyrenees because these areas would soon become a theatre of war.

"For reasons impossible to divulge now, we cannot tell you the time or the exact place where the attack will come," the B.B.C. announcement said.

The civilian population of the areas was warned that the danger is serious.

Similar warnings have been given by the B.B.C. twice in recent broadcasts.

All Far From Well In East Indies Oil, Food Short—Japs Blanket It

By G. A. VAN BOVENE
Aneta Staff Correspondent

MELBOURNE, July 11—(Aneta to CP).—The Japanese in the Netherlands East Indies are attempting to maintain both a literal and an information blackout over the Archipelago.

Not only are the Indies' chief cities — Batavia, Bandung, Surabaya, Macassar, Palembang and the rest—shrouded every night in darkness for fear of visits from United Nations' bombers, but the Japanese authorities are making every effort to prevent news of the Indies from reaching the outside world, and news of the outside world from reaching the people of the Indies.

Nevertheless, the Japanese themselves, through the broadcasts of the Japanese-controlled Batavia radio, unwittingly betray the truth about Indies conditions.

Tokyo broadcasts have boasted that oil production in the Indies has, despite the Netherlands' "scorched earth" policy, been restored almost to normal levels.

Broadcasts of the Batavia radio, however, reeval that the Indies are faced with a critical oil shortage, one so great that in the heart of one of the world's foremost oil countries gasoline for private automobiles is almost unobtainable.

More important, however, than the lack of fuel, is the growing danger of serious food shortages, a danger revealed not only by persons escaping to Australia from the Indies but also, if indirectly, by the Batavia radio.

Recently the Batavia radio announced that the Japanese authorities were pressing into service native sailboats—all small, slow and relatively unseaworthy, and thus unfitted for the transportation of staples—to carry food to the outer islands, where, the broadcast admitted, there were fears of a food shortage. Later broadcasts implied there might be a similar shortage in the main islands as well.

The first broadcast, incidentally, was a tacit admission that the Netherlands Indies merchant fleet had successfully eluded Japanese seizure.

The occupation authorities have ordered, on penalty of death, that all radio receivers be set so that they can receive only Japanese-controlled stations.

Nevertheless many persons, by hiding their sets, have evaded obeying this order and listen to broadcasts from Australia, the United States and Great Britain, passing on the news thus received to friends and acquaintances. Two persons, it is known, have recently been executed by the Japanese for this "crime"

More RAF Fliers Here For Wings

By the Canadian Press.

OTTAWA July 11 — (CP). — A new batch of Royal Air Force men are in Canada to earn their wings in the Commonwealth Air Training Schools.

Mixed in with the British trainees are a few Australian and New Zealand airmen here for the same purpose and a small group of Norwegians on their way to the Little Norway School at Toronto.

A few Canadian fliers, returning as instructors, a small group of Canadian soldiers, home on leave after more than two years in Britain, more than two-score Atlantic ferry fliers, and about a dozen wives of R.A.F. instructors in Canada, some of them with their children, came to the Dominion with the novices.

A number of Canadian flying officers most of whom served in operational control at airports in England since last December, formed a group. They were uncertain why they were returned here. One of them was FO. Ronald Ralston of Saint John, N.B., formerly of Halifax, a nephew of Defence Minister Ralston.

A few English naval ratings, their navy blue uniforms standing out in the mass of Air Force blue, said they thought they had come to Canada for some training although they were not sure. Most of them had been training only a few months in England.

RAF Thunder In Greatest Desert Blow

Savage Action Rages Along Rail Line; Malta Downs 24

By EDWARD KENNEDY

CAIRO, Egypt, July 11.—(AP).—Allied airmen trundered into action to-day with the mightiest air assault ever witnessed in the desert in support of British ground forces which advanced five miles on the northern sector of the El Alamein front yesterday.

A greatly strengthened enemy air force rose to challenge the violent Allied assault and dogfights raged above a huge expanse of desert.

The Axis forces appeared to be drawing mainly on the Italians for air reinforcements, losing many of them.

Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck reopened the savage desert fighting yesterday, with the drive that bent back the Axis lines on the north.

A number of prisoners were captured in the thrust, which began before dawn and casualties were inflicted on the enemy, the communique said. It also spoke of damage wrought, referring presumably to Axis motorized equipment.

The thrust was accompanied by an Axis advance eastward in the southern sector of the front and British mobile columns engaged this force.

The five-mile advance was made along the railroad line leading westward from El Alamein.

While British and German forces clashed in both the northern and southern sectors of the El Alamein front, R.A.F. fighter planes moved overhead to attack Axis gun emplacements.

Large forces of enemy bombers escorted by fighters were engaged in battle by these R.A.F. planes and at least eight Axis fighters were shot down, the communique said. Many others were damaged.

Malta on the Spot Again

Axis aircraft were very active over Malta again yesterday, the joint R.A.F.-general headquarters communique said, and R.A.F. fighters shot down 17 enemy planes. Seven were shot down by anti-aircraft fire.

King Peter Visits Petawawa

Sets History—1st Ruler In Speaker's Gallery

OTTAWA, July 11—(CP).—Youthful King Peter of Yugoslavia visits the Canadian army training centre at Petawawa, Ont., today as one of the highlights of his brief visit to the Dominion.

The 18-year-old King arrived here yesterday and promptly made history by becoming the first reigning monarch to sit in the Speaker's Gallery of the Canadian House of Commons.

The crowded first day of his visit included a tour of the Parliament Buildings with Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Speaker J. A. Glen, a press conference and a dinner at the County Club here given in His Honor by Mr. King.

Speaking fluent English he gave his press conference a picture of the ragged Yugoslav army under Gen. Draja Mihailovich fighting no-quarter guerilla warfare, and he promised that the army will keep on fighting "as long as it can—as long as it has something to fight for."

"We get quite a lot of news from them," the King said. "You probably have read that we recently made an attack on Italy. But first you have to understand that kind of warfare, our men can go anywhere they like. They come up and attack the enemy and then simply disappear. Then they turn up behind the enemy."

2nd Front May Take China-billed Planes

Need Elsewhere Likely To Delay Aid When Crippling Blow Could Be Hit Japan

WASHINGTON July 11.—(CP)—The fifth anniversary of the outbreak of war between China and Japan was marked this week by statements by various Chinese leaders of China's precarious military position.

In Washington, London and Chungking, diplomatic and military leaders of China have emphasized China's need of immediate help, particularly in the air, and of China's inflexible determination to fight on, despite Japan's present campaign to knock her out of the war.

It is admitted on all sides in Washington that China is in dire straits. She has fought for five years, been bled white in a campaign that is one of the great epics of all history. She has lost 3,000,000 soldiers and civilians, vast territories, including all contact with the outside world with the exception of an air route to India and a long, torturous wagon road to Asiatic Russia, vast sections of her transport system and some of her richest mineral and agricultural lands.

China today is pressing for air support and her military officials here claim that is all she will require with the exception of heavy artillery to drive the Japanese, ultimately, from her soil. She has the air bases ready for the planes, hundreds of young Chinese pilots have been trained in the United States—but the planes are not there to be flown from the bases.

One of the greatest dangers at the moment, as outlined by Gen. Hsiung, Chief of the Chinese Military Mission to the United States, is that the Japanese will overrun the Southeastern Provinces and eliminate the air bases before they can be used.

The Japanese hold most of China's ports and large areas of the coastal provinces. They have fanned deep into the interior by using Chinese railroads, rivers and roads. In many areas, Japanese control is nominal but without air strength and without heavy weapons or mechanical units, the Chinese have been forced to fight defensive battles.

If the Japanese are successful in gaining control of the Chekiang-Kiangsi and the Canton-Hankow rail lines, they will be able to consolidate their supply lines into Southeastern Asia.

It is believed here to be unlikely that the Japanese have more than 500,000 to 800,000 men in China. Because the Chinese lack air strength—on most fronts there are no Chinese planes at all—the Japanese are able to concentrate strength at key points, knowing they will not be bombed from the air.

Chinese Army Of 10 Million

General Sees War With Japan For 2 More Years

CHUNGKING, July 11.—(AP)—Allied bombers sank a Japanese transport in the river at Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, and destroyed 10 Japanese planes on the ground while Chinese forces pushed the invaders back in other areas of the province, Chinese dispatches said yesterday.

All the Allied planes returned safely from the raid—the second attack on that important Japanese base in eight days. On July 4, Japanese hangars were hit and three Japanese planes on a runway destroyed.

The Chinese high command announced the recapture of Changshu, 45 miles southwest of Nanchang, and Tsungjen, 70 miles south of the capital and confirmed earlier reports that 30,000 Japanese had been ambushed and pushed back in heavy fighting in the pfovince.

Gen. Chang Chihsiung, high official in the natoinal military council, urged expansion of the Chinese army to 10,000,000 men in a radio broadcast last night, predicting the war would last another two or three years.

He said Japan's military strength "is far from exhausted" and "China needs more and better soldiers."

LONG SESSION IS FRAYING NERVES OF MEMBERS OF COMMONS

House To Sit All Day Next Week

G. K. Fraser Assured Politics Out In Vocational Board

By C. B. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, July 11.—(CP).— All-day sittings of the House of Commons are in prospect for next week with the budget resolutions imposing record high taxation and the conscription bill the outstanding subjects of discussion.

Conservative House Leader Hanson told the House yesterday that he was getting "a little frayed" by the long and wearying session.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King replied that he would do anything possible to expedite the session and said he would arrange a conference with Mr. Hanson, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. House Leader, and John Blackmore, Leader of the New Democracy, looking toward that end.

If it was the general desire to hold morning sittings they could agree on that and make an announcement to the House, Mr. King said.

Finance Minister Ilsley said he would be ready at any moment to go on with his budget resolutions and later it was announced that they would be the first order of business Monday.

When Mr Mitchel was asked by G. K. Fraser (Con. (Peterborough West) what assurance the House had that the Advisory Board to be set up in connection with the Vocational Training Bill would not be a political set-up, the Minister replied:

"I will tell my honorable friend what assurance he has—Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor. Perhaps I should not put it personally but I may say that as regards appointments to these boards, politics has played no part."

More Torpedoings

. S. Roy (Ind., Gaspe) told the House there was a report from his constituency that three ships in a convoy were torpedoed in the St. Lawrence River last Sunday night.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said Mr. Roy should have consulted Navy Minister Macdonald before making the statement, and added that if any statement was forthcoming it would be made by the Navy Minister at a time Mr. Macdonald thought would "best serve the public interest."

Withdrawal of the proceedings against Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, for an alleged breach of the Defence of Canada Regulations, was formally announced to the House by

Buchanan Tells WhyHeResigned

OTTAWA, July 11 — (CP). — Donald Buchanan of Ottawa, Supervisor of Public Affairs Broadcasts for the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation from January, 1937 to November, 1940, said before the House of Comomns Radio Committee yesterday that he resigned from the corporation because of "certain untenable conditions."

He said the general manager, Gladstone Murray, had declined to obtain from the Board of Governors any revised definition of policy under war conditions and as a result he was forced to operate "without any clear-cut direction from above."

A series of talks given by George McCullagh of Toronto was arranged by Mr. Murray without consultation with the board, and, being the first detailed statement on war aims, was accepted as being semi-official and resulted in numerous protests. This condition could have been avoided by a well-defined policy, he said.

Broadcasts were given by a number of different Government departments and advice accepted by the CBC from various sources, leading to confusion and eventually to a period of almost complete inaction in talks.

The corporation, Mr. Buchanan said, adopted a policy of "let George do it, we might get into trouble."

Mr. Buchanan had not completed his statement to the committee when adjournment was made until late afternoon.

Norwood W.I. To Hold Picnic

NORWOOD, July 11—(ENS)—The July meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Clifford Davey with the President Miss Maysie Buck in the chair.

It was decided to hold the August meeting in the form of a picnic to be held at Stewart's cottage.

The program included a recitation by Mrs. Frank Parker, and a talk by Mrs. Wm. Golloher stressing that more letters should be written to the boys away from home, and should always be of a cheerful nature.

Mrs. C. Price of Havelock gave a very interesting address in which she discussed "Public Speaking for Children".

Closing Meeting

The Willing Workers held their closing meeting this week for the summer months in the park, with a good number of the members present. The children have been very busy during the winter months, and since November 1941, the following articles have been made:

35 shelter aprons, 18 pairs of child's pyjamas, 2 child's knitted sweaters, 4 pair bootees, 3 baby's bonnet, 2 pair mitts, 10 pair knitted panties, 2 child's dresses, 2 scarfs, 2 children's slips, 7 quilts and 7 knitted afghans, 2 sock afghans and 3 crib quilts. These have been divided between the I.O.D.E. and Red Cross local branches, and the Salvation Army of Peterborough.

Donated to the Willing Workers was one knitted afghan, one child's dress, two child's coats and two hats and one pair mitts.

Besides all this the children have sent letters and parcels to the soldier boys in the district who are overseas. When one considers the age range of these children is from five to 15, this is indeed a very creditable showing.

Sunday School Picnic

The members of Christ Church (Anglican) Sunday School with their parents and friends enjoyed a very happy picnic in the beautiful grounds of the "Grover" estate on Wednesday afternoon. Tennis, lawn crochet and other games were enjoyed, besides swimming in the nearby pond.

At supper all sat down to a well landeded table situated under the shady trees on the lawn. After full justice had been done to all things, including the "treat" of ice cream, races of all kinds were run. Everyone voted the afternoon a great success.

Traps Set Out For Beetles

COBOURG, July 11—Department of Agriculture inspectors from Ottawa, placed 100 traps for Japanese beetles in Cobourg yesterday afternoon. The traps are being placed in the farming areas also, east of Cobourg. It is felt that the local car ferry might be a means of the beetles getting over from the United States and the Department of Agriculture is taking no chances on the insects getting a foothold locally. The trap consists of a metal container with a bottle of oil-saturated wick, the purpose of the oil being to permeate an attractive odour to the Japanese beetles, each trap serving an area of several hundred feet. When the beetle reaches the source of the seductive odour he makes his way into a metal receptacle out of which he cannot emerge.

Drew Prepared With Evidence

TORONTO, July 11 — (CP). — Lt.-Col. George A. Drew, Ontario Conservative Leader, yesterday issued the following statement after the Crown dropped a charge against him of breach of Defence of Canada Regulations:

I am sure that the people of Canada will not accept the reasons given by counsel for the Minister of Justice, acting on behalf of the Government of Canada for withdrawing this charge. There was only one reason for starting these iniquitous proceedings. It was a desperate attempt to use the courts to hide the truth.

I was prepared to support by my evidence in court the accuracy of the criticism I had made of the Commisisoner's report which formed the basis of this prosecution. By the Government's withdrawol of the charge, I have been denied that privilege.

There can be no doubt that the members of Parliament will now insist upon the full disclosure of all the facts. I am prepared to assist them by furnishing information which will support in every detail the admittedly strong criticism I made of the Hong Kong report.

Lakefield Flier Tells Of Life In Middle East

LAKEFIELD, July 11 —(ENS)— Sgt. Pilot J. Art Kingdon of the R.C.A.F. now in the Middle East writes some very interesting letters home to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Kingdon of the village in which he describes life in that part of the world.

In a message dated April 1, aboard ship, Art expresses the wish he could have stayed in England a little longer as despite the fact he had gotten around to visit all the relatives he had a great many more places he would like to have seen.

"We're really getting into a hot climate now," says Art "and have tropical outfits of shorts and brown stockings to the knee, open-necked shirts and pith helmets. The trip so far has been marvellous. Our accommodation isn't so good but the food is fine. The days are hot with very little cloud but the nights are cool enough. I have a good sunburn that is turning to tan now.

Today we arrive in harbor and it was fun watching the black boys diving for coins. They would be sitting in their little dugouts, right on the bottom with their legs stretched out and when a coin would be tossed they could dive in after it all in one movement without upsetting the boat.

Real Boatmen

"These little craft aren't more than a foot wide and six to eight inches deep, about six feet long coming to a long tapered point. They can climb right back into them without any trouble. When travelling they paddle first on one side and then the other and really move, looking like a bird flitting over the water.

"The blacks bring bananas, oranges, mangoes (something like a pear) coconuts and pineapples out to us. The bananas are 10 cents a dozen, but small, they look green but are really ripe. Here coconuts are four cents each but they say upcountry you can get them for for two cents. The natives are funny to watch though very slovely. Most talk English fairly well.

"We are taking quinine to prevent malaria and I sure hate it," Art continues. "When we came into harbor this morning the shore looked marvellous with the colored tropical foliage and tall palms along quiet little lagoons. They made me think of stories I had read.

He closes by saying the heat is terrible but thinks it gets just as hot at times in Canada.

Pays Cairo A Visit

An airgraph dated May 7 continues the airman's story of life in the desert land and he mentions a certain dislike for the sand and flies, but goes on to say he has seen everything out here one is supposed to see including the pyramids, sand (heavily underscored) camels and donkeys.

Cairo is very interesting. The natives wear nightgowns and one sees all sorts of people ranging in color from white to brown and black. Donkeys are everywhere and the little animals sure carry immense loads.

All sorts of languages are spoken. English talking pictures are shown with the words in French and Egyptian cast on the screen. If you want to buy anything you have to bargain for it and usually get it for half the original price and sometimes less.

At that date Art was still waiting a posting, but since then the big drive for Egypt has taken place.

Move To Divert Apsley Road Worries Elliott

Concern about the progress of the work on No. 28 Highway in the Apsley district is expressed in a letter received by Alderman Swanston from Lieut. A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., to whom some word had evidently crossed the country to the effect that original intention of completing a northern ection towards Bancroft is not being followed.

The letter is dated June 28 from a military camp on the British Columbia coast and is urging some action here to insist on completion of a 14-mile stretch north of the village to linkup with the remaining 13 miles to Bancroft already finished.

In compliance with the request from Lieut. Elliott, Alderman Swanston said today that he intends to ascertain what is being done by the contractors, Johnston Brothers, and if there is any divergence from the plans explained by Lieut. Elliott, to interview the Hon. Mr. McQuesten at once.

The letter from Lieut. Elliott follows:—

"The highway is constructed for a distance of 13 miles south of Bancroft. There is a stretch 14 miles uncompleted. This runs to a point near Apsley. The Department of Northern Development, however, built the road (with a rock base, and ditched) to a point one-half a mile north of Apsley. Johnston Brothers have the south ten miles to do (when I left).

Mr. David wanted to start at the south end. I got him to start about one mile north of Apsley and work north. My idea was that the part uncompleted should be finished the first in case the job was stopped because of the war. Last February since nothing but rock work could be done, I consented to have him start south, but not to go beyond the part finished by the Department of Northern Development. Then when the frost was out of the ground they could move back north.

Four Miles Completed

I am told now he had completed four miles of highway to the point one-half a mile north of Apsley, and has left the right of way north of that badly torn up. They are now commencing to move south to travel west of and miss Apsley village. No one ever expected this to happen. Bill Clarke, the divisional engineer at Bancroft, recommended that the cheapest and best route was to come south into the village. This would make a very small diversion and there would be much saved this way. Also it would save the construction of a bridge.

In any event there is no need to consider any work south of the point one-half a mile north of Apsley until the rest of the road is completed. Therefore, Johnston should be made to stop at once and move his equipment to complete the north part of the stretch.

So far as the south part is concerned, from a point half a mile north of the village, it is good enough to serve the needs of the route if it is never reconstructed. You should insist on the south part coming through the village. There would be only a service station to move. It is a direct route and cheaper, and it is what the people want. The only individual who would reroute the highway would be some one advancing the contractor's interest.

They knew in the Department that the unconstructed part should have been completed first; also that twice the request of the contractor to go south was refused. Mr. Clarke made the only logical recommendation as to the route of the south part, and I discussed that route with Pete Nelson of the Department. There can be no argument about this any way.

With a war on the money should be spent to open that part of the road for traffic making a completed route, 50 miles shorter, from Pembroke to Toronto. Any consideration of diverting the present well constructed highway in the south can be left until after the war. The public can be well served if the uncompleted link is completed. Beyond that it would seem that any money spent now is not justified in wartime."

Veteran Cricketer Observes Birthday

To-day, R. N. Stuart, veteran local cricketer, celebrates his 80th birthday and the cricketers and his many friends extend their sincere congratulations and hopes for his continued good health.

Known as Canada's oldest active cricketer he has not felt able to play, but he did last year and his record really stands.

He was born in Hampstead, London, on July 11, 1862; came to Canada in 1884, and to Peterborough, 1903; since which he has been closely associated with the game locally, and as club treasurer.

He has one unique sports record in that, as a boy, he played against one, Charles Absalon, who was born in 1819. And we have the result that tho men, one born in 1819 and the other now living played against each other over sixty years ago, and the time elapsed since Charles Absalon was born is 123 years.

R. N. Stuart is a devoted churchman and has been for many years a licensed lay reader in the English Church; is a past president of the local branch of the British and Foreign Bible Society and still reads the lesson on Sundays at St. John's Church.

MORE ABOUT—

Second Front

Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese Foreign Minister, has made direct appeals to the United Nations, particularly when Prime Minister Churchill was here, for air strength. There have been various indications that China will be moved up on the priority list and that planes and pilots, but particularly the planes, will be sent to China as soon as possible.

The difficulty is that China's desperate hour coincides with other developments throughout the world that also require planes and still more planes. If China is to receive air reinforcements, the planes will have to come from American or perhaps Canadian plants and her needs will have to be balanced against those of other fronts until the time comes when factories in the United States reach peak production and all top-priority quotas can be met without depleting one or more of them.

Fenella WI Plans Red Cross Pyjama Drive

FENELLA, July 11—(ENS).—Mrs. Delbert Adams was hostess to the Fenella Women's Institute meeting held in the hall on Thursday, with an attendance of 19.

The president, Mrs. Eric Sandercock presided, and various monthly reports were given. Mrs. Ray Eagleson offered her home to cut the bolt of flannelette into pyjamas for the Red Cross, and a number of ladies volunteered to assist in cutting and to sew them.

Anyone having old coats, etc., fit for making quilts for the Red Cross are asked to bring them to the next meeting.

By motion it was decided to ask the community to assist the Institute in packing overseas boxes.

Tickets are to be sold on the quilt which has been displayed in the local store window until next monthly meeting when plans will be made for the draw.

Mrs. Ambrose Fanning kindly offered her home for the August meeting, Mrs. T. Bates and Mrs. G. Isaac being the program committee. Mrs. C. Grigg, the district president, will be invited.

The program coducted by Mrs. McFiggin was as follows: readings by Mrs. Fanning and Mrs. McFiggin; contests by Mrs. G. Sandercock and Mrs. E. Sherwin, and community singing. Lunch was served by the hostess.

Claims 3 Ships Sunk Off Gaspe

OTTAWA, July 11.—(CP).— A report from his constituency that three ships of a 14-ship convoy were torpedoed in the St. Lawrence river last Sunday was brought up in the House of Commons yesterday by J. S. Roy (Ind. Gaspe).

Prime Minister Mackenzie King said immediately that he thougrt Mr. Roy should have consulted Navy Minister Macdonald before making his statement, and added:

"The Minister does not happen to be in the House at the moment, but I may say to my honorable friend that any statement that has to be made in this matter will be made by the Minister at a time which he thinks will best serve the public interest."

In some quarters the wording of Mr. King's reply—his reference to 'any stattment that has to be made' and his reference to 'this matter'—was takes as a confirmation that there has been a new incident affectng St. Lawrence shipping.

Mr. Roy in his brief remarks to the House said he had heard from his constituency that the reported attack of last Sunday night occurred opposite Cap Chat in the St. Lawrence.

At the middle of May, Navy Minister Macdonald announced the sinking of two ships in the river. One day he reported the loss of a single ship May 11, with 41 survivors. A day later he announced that a second ship had been sunk about the same time, and about the same place, by submarine attack.

Padres of All Faiths Minister to Canadians

The Canadian army believes in the soldier having religion. It does not oblige him to have one. It has no quarrel with the atheist or agnostic. But it goes out of its way to encourage and assist spiritually those who wish to practise their religion.

Provision for the religious needs of the soldier is made through the Canadian Chaplains' Service. This is made up of two sections operating as an integral part of the army under the jurisdiction of the adjutant-General; the Protestant section, including all denominations except Roman Catholic, and the Roman Catholic section.

At the head of each of these sections is a principal chaplain, responsible for the spiritual welfare of the troops and for advising the adjutant-general on all ecclesiastical matters concerning his section. The principal Protestant chaplain is Col. G. A. Wells, formerly Bishop of Cariboo, and the principal Roman Catholic chaplain is Col. C. L. Nelligan, Bishop of Pembroke.

All army chaplains carry honorary commissions, are governed by the same reguations as other officers and receive the pay of their rank.

Many Chaplains Overseas

As of June 1, there are 400 full-time chaplains serving in the Canadian army.

Of the 245 full-time chaplins serving in the Protestant section, 130 are overseas and 115 in Canada. Those overseas comprised 57 Church of England, 33 United Church, 24 Presbyterian, 13 Babtist, one Standard Church of America, 1 Salvation Army, 1 Lutheran. With the army in Canada are 51 Church of England, 31 United Church, 17 Presbyterian, 11 Baptist, 1 Ukranian Greek Orthodox, 1 Jewish, 2 Lutheran, 1 other denominations.

There are 70 Roman Catholic chaplains in Great Britain, 7 in Newfoundland and Labrador, one a prisoner in Hong-Kong, while 77 are serving in Canada.

Appointments to the service are made on the recommendation of the principal chaplains. No clergyman is appointed without the approval and recommendation of the branch of the church to which he belongs. He must bear the credentials of his own communion, and he must have served in the active ministry of that branch of the church for at least three years. Chaplains for overseas service must be between the ages of 30 and 50 years and every applicant is required, before appointment, to be passed by a medical board as medically fit for general military service.

The Chaplan's Work

The work of the chaplain is primarily spiritual; hence he holds regular services on Sundays and other days of the week, officiates at marriages, burials, and is always available to the men when they need spiritul ministration.

He takes advantage of every opportunity to preach clear, terse sermons to them. He insists in season and out of season on the necessity of observing the precepts of morality, and denounces vice. In a word, he strives at all times to make the soldier not only a loyal and courageous man but also a good man.

But the chaplain's work is not confined to the spiritual. He also seeks an opportunity to be of service in promoting educational programs, in providing wholesome entertainment for the men and in directing their energies into channels of competitive sport, where different units vie with one another in tests of speed, strength and endurance.

He is sometimes the camp librarian, sometimes the educational officer, sometimes even the director of sport, but always the good friend and counsellor to whom both officers and men may go with their troubles and their differences.

The Canadian Chaplain Service (Protestant) in Britain has been led by the Assistant Principal Chaplain, Lieut. Col. Rev. W. T. R. Flemington, and a high degre of enthusiasm has characterized the work accomplished.

Two Protestant Chaplains were despatched with "C" Force to Hong Kong in October. They were Captains J. Barnett (Church of England) and U. Laite (United Church). One report was received from Captain Laite after the Force landed at its destination. He has since been reported a prisoner of war at Hong Kong. No word has been received of Captain Barnett.

A Protestant chaplain accompanied the Winnipeg Grenadiers to the West Indies and returned with them to Canada in September, 1941. Another chaplain went with the Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders when this unit went to relieve the Winnipeg Grenadiers.

Canadian troops in Newfoundland were provided with a Protestant chaplain, together with four assistants, has now been appointed to look after the Protestant troops in this area.

A chaplain accompanied the famous expedition to Spitzbergen, he held services on board ship and also on land during the stay of the troops at that far northern point.

Work Applauded

Both principal chaplains have kept in close touch with the work being done by their chaplains. In 1940, they paid a visit to the troops in Britain and they are now on their second visit to the Canadian forces overseas.

Among other accomplishments, the chaplains have been responsible for the provision of hymn books, prayerbooks and other articles of a religious nature to the soldiers.

Strenuous nature of the work of a chaplain overseas is shown by the following excerpt from a recent monthly report by a Roman Catholic chaplain: "I manage to hitch rides with the doctor, paymaster, "Y" man, rations truck, etc. Last week I spent saying mass at a different gun-site every morning."

Major-General Odlum's tribute to his chaplains on relinquishing command of the Second Division may be applied to all army padres. "The chaplains of this division have been splendid, manly men; and that is what appeals to and wins soldiers. . . . This reflects great credit on those who selected the chaplains and on the chaplains themselves. I am proud of everyone of you and thank you all for the great contribution you have made to the Division."

Jewish Eyes Were Blinded By Own Spiritual Sins

By REV. E. R. JAMES

The Unclean Spirit said: I will return unto my house.

—St. Matthew 14:44.

The Pure One utters this parable. Can you not hear the note of horror and disgust in His voice as He takes upon His lips the words: "The unclean spirit." There is truly a gulf between the Pure One and the unclean.

This is one of the least known of the parables, yet most modern in its psychological truth. The Lord describes in startling language the progressive, gradual ruin of a human personality. He knows what is in man and "needed not that any should testify of man." He tells us that the evil habit had left the man, how we know not. He is now a respectable person. There are hopes for him. But the door is open; the house is empty. One day the evil spirit returns with seven spirits more wicked than himself and they enter in and the last state of that man is worse than the first.

Very probably Our Lord was speaking of the Jewish nation primarily. They had been carried into exile in Babylon because of their idolatry. The fires of exile had burned it out. The material idol was hateful to the Jew. Every devout Jew believed in the One Living God, Jehovah. This was God's special gift to the Jews. God intended that they should pass it on to the Gentile peoples. They kept it to themselves. Instead of idolatry they cultivated the more terrible spiritual sins of hatred, hyprocracy, pride. They were sure they were God's people and would inherit the Kingdom of God. These spiritual sins blinded their eyes. Naturally when the Only Begotten Son came unto them they received Him not. They hated Him. They could not see any beauty in Him. They crucified Him.

Let us remember that evil is a parasite. It comes from without a man. It has the strange faculty of entering into the human soul and heart. Every man knows that in some mysterious way evil will grip his mind and in time become his master, if allowed to continue. His will, his very personality becomes evil. Evil looks through his face.

"He findeth it empty, swept and garnished." Nature abhors a vacuum. The spiritual world hates it also. A man cannot remain neutral. He must either get better or worse. Our Lord teaches a fundamental truth. The importance of man in God's sight. God made man in His own image that man may become like God. Man is not intended to become a beast.

"I will return unto my house," cries the evil spirit. It is his house. He does not ask permission to enter. The Lord Jesus—the God-Man—also stands at the door and awaits your permission to enter. He will not enter without your invitation. Here are His own words:—"Behold, I stand at the door and knock; if any man hear My voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with Me." This is the outstanding glory of the Christian religion that God respects human personality. He will not force Himself into your heart. When you open the door, The Incarnate One—born of human mother—enters. He knows everything. He only asks that you desire to be like Him. Then slowly, gradually He will transform your character. Men will see how lovely and beautiful God is. The most tremendous power in this world is pure, unadulterated goodness.

There is a beautiful statute of the Christ in a Spanish Church. When you stand before it you are not attracted. The verger whispers: "You cannot see its beauty till you kneel and look upwards." A parable for the thoughtful man. When you kneel in humble repentance before the Christ, the risen, glorified Son of God, something of His beauty will pass into you. Not to glorify yourself. He wishes that your soul may be filled through and through with His beauty that others may see something of His loveliness through you. Thanks be unto Thee, O Lord.

Thine yes shall see the King in His beauty.

The Golden Text

Expulsion of Adam and Eve from the garden

"The soul that sinneth, it shall die."—Ezekiel 18:4.

Upper Canada Founded As Province 150 Years Ago

The 150th anniversary of the founding of Upper Canada as a province by Coloney John Graves Simcoe is being observed at present time. The official record was issued on Sunday, July 8, 1792. The mere announcement is a challenge to the imaginations. What were conditions like in Upper Canada from 1792 until Confederation? Is there any message in the Christian Church from these early times? The Old Testament is the record of a nation and its history. If God spoke to the world through the history of Israel, surely He speaks now through the history of Canada.

What kind of people lived in Upper Canada in these early times? Were they saints or sinners? The answer is that there were some of both kinds. There were United Empire Loyalists who were the very salt of the earth. They build churches, and established religious institutions. There were however a considerable proportion of people in Upper Canada of a different stamp. There were adventurers from many lands, who came here to make a fortune by any means. Few of them made fortunes, instead they had to face extreme privations, and hardships. It is not well to forget them, however. They speak to us down through the century and have much to say that it will do all good to hear.

Upper Canada, Saints and Sinners, will be the subject of the address in Trinity Church on next Sunday night.

Certain Laws Must Be Obeyed If Man, Woman Wish to Live

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for July 12 is Genesis 3, the Golden Text being Ezekiel 18:4, "The soul that sinneth, it shall die.")

THE STORY of man's disobedience to the first command laid upon him is the subject of the lesson today.

The Lord God had placed Adam and Eve in this beautiful garden where they had everything that heart could wish. There was plenty to eat without working for it; all the beasts had been named and were subservient to Adam, and life was very beautiful to Adam and Eve. Of the fruit of all the trees in the garden were they permitted to eat, save one—the tree of the knowledge of good and evil.

But "the serpent was more subtil than any beast of the field which the Lord God had made." Of course serpents in our day do not speak,, so it must have been an evil spirit which spoke to Eve out of the serpent's body.

"Yea, hath God said, Ye shall not eat of every tree of the garden?" he asked her.

We may eat of the fruit of every tree in the garden except one, Eve answered — the tree of knowledge of good and evil. "God hath said, Ye shall not eat it, neither shall ye touch it, lest ye die."

Now God had not said just that. He had said if they ate of it they would die, not if they touched it, so you see Eve was exaggerating, if not lying. She knew very well that she should not have been standing talking to the serpent about such a thing, but have gone right away and avoided temptation.

The serpent answered her, "Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then shall your eyes be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil."

Yielding to Temptation

That was indeed subtle, for the fruit of the tree looked particularly tempting, and added to that it would make her wise, the serpent said; so she ate of it, and offered some to Adam, and he too ate. Now they had been created wearing no clothes. They were perfectly unselfconscious about it, as the primitive peoples are today. There was no reason why they should cover themselves. They were beautiful, just as God had made them. But now they began to feel naked and they made themselves aprons of fig leaves to cover them.

"In the cool of the day," they heard God calling them. They were accustomed to meet and talk with Him then, but now they were ashamed and hid. "Where art thou?" asked the Lord, and Adam answered, "I heard Thy voice in the garden, and I was afraid, because I was naked; and I hid myself."

"And He said, Who told thee thou wast naked? Hast thou eaten of the tree, whereof I commanded thee that thou shouldst not eat?"

"The woman whom Thou gavest to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I did eat," Adam answered. It was a contemptible answer, was it not? Not a manly admission that he was wrong, but throwing the blame on "the woman Thou gavest to be with me," seeming to imply that God was to blame for giving him the woman.

And Eve, too, when she was asked about it said, "The serpent beguiled me, and I did eat."

Then the Lord God cursed the serpent, saying that he should crawl on his belly all his days, and that there should be enmity between man and serpents forever.

And to Adam and Eve the punishment was that they would no longer be allowed to live in the garden of Eden, but outside, where Adam must work for his bread by the sweat of his brow. Not only fruitful plants and trees would flourish there, but also thorns and thistles. He must till the ground and labor hard for the rest of his life, and his children after him.

Eve must accompany him, and her children should be born with pain and suffering. But the merciful God provided them with garments of skins to cover them.

They were driven forth, and a cherubim with a flaming sword guarded the tree of life, lest these two who had disobeyed the good God's command, should eat also of the tree of life and live forever. Thus death, too, came by the disobedience of these two whom God had made and provided for so abundantly.

No man, woman or child can live without obeying certain rules. Unhappiness and suffering, even death, come to those who disobey even earthly laws. Resist temptation. Strive to live blamelessly, doing what is right in the eyes of man, but even more, by the laws of God the Father, if you would really live. For "The soul that sinneth, it shall die."

Barred To Jews

VICHY, July 10—(AP)—Jews in Paris no longer will be permitted to appear on such boulevards as the Champs D'Elysees, the German-language Pariser Zeitung reported today.

Jews also were reported barried from cafes, restaurants and places of amusement except a few set aside for their use exclusively.

TOO REALISTIC

NOTTINGHAM, England—(CP). Complaint of Rev. R. Deaville is that when the Home Guard goes on exercises it is much to realistic. They "capture his church during a service, punctuated his sermon with gun and bomb explosions and he had to cut it short.

Gospel Artists

Paul and Ruth Johnson of Springfield, Ill., outstanding radio and recording Gospel artists, are appearing nightly in the big tent on Aylmer at Brock. The new instrument called the Solo-Vox is a special feature. They play unusual arrangements of favorite Gospel hymns.
